Travel Requests
1. South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services community meetings, June 22-23, 2012, Milwaukee, WI
Sponsor: Vince DelaRosa
Motion by Patty Hoeft that we defer all tribally funded travel requests until the Business Committee can figure out an alternative solution by the next meeting, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one opposition:
Ayes: Melinda J. Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, Greg Matson, Patty Hoeft, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
Opposed: Tina Danforth
For the record: Tina Danforth stated she opposed because our consolidated travel budget has not been fully expended. I opposed because I don't think the business of the Tribe, should be halted based on something that is less significant than the overall need to travel and the need to do the business of the Tribe. Thank you.
2. LEAD program at Duke University, June 25, 2012, Durham, NC
Sponsor: Tina Danforth
Motion by Paul Ninham to approve the travel request and note that all expenses are paid for by Native American Finance Officers Association (NAFOA), seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried with one opposition and one abstention:
Ayes: Melinda J. Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, Patty Hoeft, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
Opposed: Greg Matson
Abstained: Tina Danforth
For the record: Greg Matson stated the reason I opposed is because June 25th is a day that we've scheduled, as possibly a day that OBC needs to get to get together and clarify some of the restructuring.
For the record: Tina Danforth stated the Business Committee had a meeting in executive yesterday, we talked about scheduling. In that discussion, I informed the Business Committee that I would not be in on Friday the 22nd and Monday the 25th, so that was already a known factor. I'm fully aware of that schedule was a potential time that we could all get together, but I guess when I'm not available it doesn't matter. Thank you.

Public Hearing Notice
11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

August 9, 2012
Purpose: Oneida Child Support Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Child Support Law (the Law) is to establish the legal responsibility of parents to provide financially for their children's well-being based on the real earning capability of parents. The Law establishes a standard of support for those children whose paternity has been established or acknowledged and encourages the use of voluntary agreements to resolve any disputes over child support obligations. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Overtime Pay. Specifically include overtime pay in the definition of Gross Income for the purposes of paying child support.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Notice. Amend notice of hearings, thereby requiring that only the notice of the initial action be served via certified mail and all subsequent notices by first-class mail.
- Publication. Amend the provision regarding notice via publication. Due to the Kalihwisaks changing the frequency of their publication, the law now requires publication three consecutive times in either the Kalihwisaks or other newspaper in the county where the respondent resides.
- Past-due Obligations. Update the section on arrears to now include past-due obligations.
- Review. Require the Agency to review the child support order every two years. If a substantial change in circumstances exists, then the agency is required to file a motion with the Appeals Commission to have the order amended if the parties cannot agree to the amendment.
- Motion to Amend. Authorize any party to file a motion to modify the child support order, and sets the timing for scheduling a hearing to no sooner than ten calendar days after the date of service on the opposing party.

August 9, 2012
Purpose: Oneida Paternity Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Paternity Law (the Law) is to establish paternity of Oneida children and other Indian children in order to protect the best interests of these children regarding such matters as enrollment, customs and traditions of the Tribe, survivorship and inheritance, health, support, and social security benefits. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Timing of Filing. Allow a petition to determine paternity to be filed at any time after the child is born.
- Notice. Amend the provision regarding mail delivery to allow for regular first-class mail rather than registered or certified mail.
- Update of Address. Require the alleged fathers' who appear and participate in an action to inform and keep updated their current address at all time with the Agency and the Appeals Commission.
- Administrative Subpoenas. Authorize the Agency to issue administrative subpoenas to require the mother, child and alleged father(s) to appear and take a paternity test.
- Reopening of Judgment. Clarify that either the adjudicated father or the Agency can reopen a default judgment of paternity.
- Stipulations. Allow for the alleged father to stipulate to paternity and then to custody, placement and child support matters.

Public Hearing Process
I. Testimony:
A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.
B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. Ayes: Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, Greg Matson, Patty Hoeft
Abstained: Melinda J. Danforth, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
For the record: Melinda J. Danforth stated this is another situation where the programs goals and objectives are definitely what the Tribe should endorse, there's no question about that. However my abstention because of the e-poll, because of the process it took, my very large concern is that we're making obligation of $150,000 cash match, plus $50,000 in kind match for PTAC in fiscal year 13, which the General Tribal Council has not even seen the budget, or the budget has not been approved. So we're obligating ourselves to go ahead and spend that money, regardless if General Tribal Council approves the budget. Second, I find that the process that was used to obtained this grant, we usually go through our grant process and there's no indication that the grant process was followed at this time. So I abstained basically because the e-poll situation was a mess and I know we are going to look at an SOP, but I don't want the organization to suffer because of our lack of e-poll policies.
Motion by Tina Danforth to recess at 3:03 pm, seconded by David Jordan. Motion carried with two oppositions:
Ayes: Melinda J. Danforth, Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, Patty Hoeft, David Jordan, Brandon Stevens

The issuance of the EIS by the Bureau of Indian Affairs is the final step under National Environmental Policy Act regulations and is the culmination of over eight years of work by the BIA analyzing all aspects of the proposed Casino Project, including impacts on air quality, water quality, cultural resources, governmental services, and social and economic structures of the surrounding communities, etc.

In accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act regulations, the notice published by the BIA in Friday's Federal Register initiates a 30-day public review period after which the Secretary of Interior can make and issue a final decision on the acquisition.

Upon completion of the proposed Menominee Kenosha Casino-Hotel the proposed facility will provide hundreds of millions of dollars to the State of Wisconsin and City and County of Kenosha and will provide the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin revenue to help address the many poverty related problems faced by the Tribe and it's over 8700 members.

To view the publication of the Notice of Availability on the Final EIS, please see documents listed under the Interior Department at the following: http://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/search/getfrtoc.action

Summer Program: First of two sessions complete

Kali photos/Yvonne Kaquatosh

Children enjoy Carnival day

The theme for this summer program is CAMP CHARACTER - focusing on implementing the six pillars (characters) in all our activities.

Activities offered at the carnival included a bounce house/obstacle course, balloon pop game, three-point shooting contest, speedball, face painting and a bubble game.

Session one of the summer program wrapped up last week (June 29) and consisted of 5 & 6 and 7 & 8 year olds. After a small break, session two will begin on Monday, July 9, 2012 and will be for the 9 & 10 year old age group. Both sessions are completely filled with 81 youth participating in the summer program, according to information received from John Powless III, Oneida Recreation Assistant Director.

It is estimated that approximately 220 youth will have participated in a program activity this summer at the rec center, added Powless.

Powless indicated that does not include, "our own baseball programs which we do ourselves, (such as) t-ball, pee-wee, and little league".

Work continues on the interior of the ORCCC

Kraus Anderson Project Superintendent

Currently the work at the Oneida Resident Centered Care Community (ORCCC) is full steam ahead. As of the end of June the current progress is as follows:

The structure is complete. All roofing is installed and the building is dry, with the exception of the sky lights that are scheduled to be installed the week of July 9. If you have been by the new facility you may have noticed the spray applied insulation on the building. This is the complete exterior insulation assembly; no batt insulation is installed in the wall cavities. Currently the exterior siding is being installed and is roughly 40% complete. The stone work is also now complete with some very attractive engraved granite Oneida medallions at the canopy at the main entry. All of the stone you see on the building was purchased several years ago in preparation of the original expansion, now the great majority of it has finally been used for its intended purpose.

Inside the building the drywall has been under way for a few weeks and by the time you read this three of the five resident wings will be complete, along with the main kitchen and many of the offices and back of house areas. Currently I would place the drywall installations at roughly 50% complete.

Mechanically the facility is moving nicely. You may have noticed the solar array on the roof, this system is not for electricity, it supplies the building with hot water for both domestic and for heating uses. All of the air handling systems are in place and the duct work is going well. The plumbing in the entire facility is complete; it is now down to running the main lines to tie it all together.

To the south hopefully you have seen the parking areas installed. This is only the first of a two layer system that will be completed later this summer. The areas along S. Overland Rd. and Howard Rd. have been landscaped and are complete other than the walking/bike path that goes around the facility.

Currently the project has 58 workers on site daily. Of these workers 31 are tribal affiliated, 22 Oneida, 2 documented descendents and 7 from other tribes. All of the employees here are proving themselves to be some of the best in the business and are working hard to put out the best product possible.

I would like to take the time on behalf of Kraus-Anderson construction to thank you all for the opportunity to bring this facility to life for you. It is our honor and pleasure to be here.

EHSD receives grant from First Nations

By Sylvia Cornelius
Project Manager

The Oneida Environmental Health & Safety Division recently received a grant of $13,284 from the First Nations Development Institute of Longmont, Colorado. This award will support the efforts of the Environmental Division's Teyunkwahwʌtsyawyanhástu Program by launching a high school youth group. We are partnering with the Oneida Nation High School to host the group, but the group is open to any Oneida high school student in any of the local school districts. Classes will occur once per month beginning in July. The goal of this program is to foster environmental stewardship of the Oneida reservation. Traditional teachings center on the natural world and give a holistic understanding of caring for Yukhinulha Ohw^tsya (Mother Earth). We will enhance our environmental education through the use of these Oneida cultural teachings and language. Objectives are to introduce environmental principles, Oneida language nature vocabulary, traditional stories and field trips to encourage youth to become familiar with our natural resources. The cultural foundation will promote identity, unity and pride in our youth.

If you know of a high school student interested in participating please contact us! We are very excited to have this opportunity from First Nations and look forward to working with our youth. Watch for information on a community kickoff and the first class in July. For more information please contact Sylvia Cornelius at scornel2@onedianation.org or 920-869-1600.

KODU GAME LAB

Coming This Summer to the CEC – Microsoft Kodu Game Design Workshop

If you like to play video games, you might already be thinking about creating your own games someday. Maybe you have an idea for a great storyline, great characters, or maybe ideas for how things should work. Don't wait until "someday" to create your own game – take the Microsoft Kodu Game Design Workshop at the CEC and learn to create video games right now!

Microsoft Kodu is easy to use game design software that already has built-in characters and actions and the ability to create complex landscapes for the action to take place in. No computer programming skills are necessary, because the games are created using graphical "building block" commands instead of code. You won't be ready to design the next Halo or Zelda game when we're done, but you will have a good idea of the elements that go into a video game, and how to make them work for you!

The 2-day Microsoft Kodu Game Design Workshop for Youth and Adults will be held at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center on Monday and Tuesday, July 9 – 10, from 1:00 – 4:00 PM.

Then use your newly developed programming skills some more by taking the Lego Logo Robotics Workshop and learning to create and program robots made from Legos!

LEGO

Coming This Summer to the CEC – Lego Logo Robotics Workshop

The Lego Logo Robotics Workshop will let participants build with Legos, and then show them how to use the Logo easy-to-learn computer programming language to make their creations to come to life! It's Alive! Bwa-ha-ha-ha! Schools and colleges have been using Lego Logo Robotics for years to introduce beginners to computer programming, and now it's coming to this easy and fun workshop at the CEC! This workshop is also a good follow-up to the Microsoft Kodu Game Design Workshop. The Lego Logo Robotics Workshop will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, July 11 – 12, from 1:00 – 4:00 pm at the Oneida Nation Community Education Center.

Story Sticks used to help individuals find balance

What is your story? Your life story is as unique to you as your fingerprint. Now, those persons working to overcome substance abuse at Oneida Behavioral Health are making progress with the help of a culturally traditional lesson called Story Sticks.

Scott LaLonde, a Certified Substance Abuse Counselor, who has been working at Oneida Behavioral Health for over 11 years, has found that the lessons of the Story Sticks have proven quite helpful. Often times the men and women seeking to overcome addiction and balance in their lives are unaware of their strengths, talents and those who have touched them in a positive way during their lives.

So, as part of their work to seek balance in their lives, Scott asks them to take a walk in the woods near the Behavioral Health Building and choose a stick. He said that, at first, some are resistant to the task but when they walk into the woods their eyes start to search and their ears are listening so they can soon choose their own part of a tree of learning, their very own stick. Once they have chosen their stick, they learn about the traditional meanings associated with the story sticks, which represent their lives. They can choose items to add to their story sticks that represent personal strengths, those who have positively affected them and experiences that have taught them important lessons.

After they spend a couple of weeks creating their story sticks, they share with their group that their story sticks represent and what went into creating them. The people can then look upon their story sticks to help them stay on a good life journey or on the Red Road. They can keep adding strengths and lessons to their story sticks. Their story stick is a symbol of their strengths and those who have given them strength.

Scott has seen how the lessons of the story sticks have helped him become a better counselor. The experiences have helped him appreciate through the stories of others how the hurts experienced by past generations have affected those who come to seek balance even today. He has seen how such a cultural and traditional lesson such as the Story Sticks can reach out to indigenous people in a manner that improves more conventional substance abuse treatment approaches.

So, what are the origins of the Story Stick within the cultures of Indigenous Peoples? Sandy Dennett, an Oneida Tribal Elder, completed her Doctorate in 2007 with her thesis focusing on the valuable lessons of Native women creating story sticks as symbols of strength in their lives. Additionally, Sandy was looking at how the creation of personal story sticks could improve the quality of counseling for Indigenous people. Many may remember Sandy Dennett as the Health Promotion Coordinator for the Oneida Tribe for 5 years when all Tribal employees received a weekly wellness message as one of her duties.

A sampling of the Story Sticks made by people in the recovery program. The Story Sticks help tell the tale of its maker's life.

In her thesis, Sandy offered an example of how a teacher explained story sticks to her class by saying, "Traditionally, American Indians would gather together to discuss concerns within their tribe. The individual speaking held a stick that contained objects symbolizing his personal history or a specific event. As long as the stick was held, he (or she) was not interrupted by anyone, out of respect."

In the fall of 2006, Sandy brought together 23 Indigenous women, ages 13 to 88; to create their own story sticks. They met in small groups over a period of 5 dates with each group meeting for 3 to 4 hours to complete their own story sticks using an assortment of tree branches, a large assortment of items to symbolize sources of strength. Questions posed to the participants evoked sources of strength from formal recognition, family, friends, employment, personal skills, one's own creativity or constant learning their traditional beliefs to name a few.

With this preparation, everyone began by choosing a tree branch and adding symbols that represented personal sources of strength. Once completed, each spoke about the choices they made to create their story sticks and what their story stick said about them. Their sources of strength came from family members, nature, Tribal sources, spirituality, creativity, freedom, happiness, grounding and belief in self. In response to questions to participants months after the creation of their story sticks, they shared how the experience helped them to become more self-aware, accepted, insightful and complete. They expressed how their story stick continued to bring them calm, a peaceful feeling and helped them recall beautiful memories. Their Story Stick continued to remind them of good sources of strength.

Scott's use of the Story Stick process is to be commended. He teaches with enthusiasm and a belief in using various techniques to remind us that we all have many sources of strength.

We see the continued value of the Story Stick, as researched and experienced through Sandy's group of Indigenous women. Clearly, this valued ceremony and the symbol of the Story Stick representing the many strengths within one's life story can assist healing and personal growth within the Recovery programs at Oneida Behavioral Health.

Breaking the Chain of infection

By Karen L. Beke, RN,
Infection Control Team

Breaking the chain of infection? What does that mean? Well, when we talk about infection control, it means stopping a microorganism or germ (infection) from spreading any further. By breaking any link in the chain you can stop the infection from spreading.

Below are the links in the chain.

- Infections agent –These are the germs that travel around, and visit lots of different people and places.
- Reservoir - These are the places the germs like to hang around until they can make it to the next link in the chain. These germs can be found in our water, foods, human waste or secretions that happen when we talk, sneeze or cough.
- Portal of Exit – This is how the germs get from the reservoir to their next destination. The portal of exit can be your nose, mouth, open sore, cuts, etc., or any other opening in your body.
- Method of transmission – How the germs move from one person or object to another. Sometimes the germs just infect another person right away and sometimes they hitch a ride on an object or wait around for their next victim. For example, the act of sneezing is one way that germs are spread. When you sneeze the germs leave your body and can contaminate another person or object like a table, desk, computer or telephone.
- Portal of Entry – How the germs get in your body. For example if you touch a contaminated object you may become infected by touching your face. Or the germs can enter your body through any opening in your skin like a cut or sore. Remember these germs are very small and can enter through the tiniest opening in your skin.
- Susceptible host- That means that the person being exposed to the germ has an immune system that is not functioning properly and they can become infected more easily.

So what is the good news? You have a pretty awesome body that comes fully equipped with a state of the art defense system which includes your "intact" skin and your immune system.

To better serve you in the future please complete a short survey at: http://www.zoomerang.com/Survey/WEB22G2XK9TXUH

It seems like it was yesterday when we learned to ride our bikes together, discovered that we both liked to dance and speak our language. It seems like we were never apart and everyone knew we were best friends.
When we decided to go to school, we made sure we were going to be roommates.
When you finally landed that first job after all your hard work, I was the first to say "congratulations."
When you said you wanted to help the youth on the reservation, I said, "Let's do it together."
Then came a time when you told me that you have a mental health problem, like depression and anxiety.
Now I know that anyone can experience mental health problems, even Native People. We thought we knew everything, yet I really didn't understand what a difference my support can make in your recovery.
Well, I am here for you. I will be here for you.
And—as always—we will recover together.

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

Buying Local! Buying Oneida!

It is important to know where your food comes from and the Oneida Nation Farm uses sustainable and best management practices, new plant varieties, and fertilizers that can double the yields of major crops. That is why education is of extreme importance to the folks at the Oneida Nation Farm who are concerned for the Tribal members to understand what is at stake.

Cash Crop Sales is the largest revenue source for the Farm, but also known for the high quality crops that are produced, sold to local grain markets and local dairies. Oneida Nation Farms is proud to be a team player with Oneida Tribe of Indians to be known as one of the largest Agriculture Cash Crop Farms in North East Wisconsin.

The Oneida Nation Farm features are that our livestock are fed with our grown safe crops, free of antibiotic's, steroids, hormones and animal byproducts but also continues to implement a growing herd of "Point-of-Origin" cow-calf pasture, a beef feedlot, and mix forage pastured and feed supplemented Bison herd.

The Farm has approximately 450 - 500 head of Black Angus cattle, with about 200 plus cow/calf pairs which is used to stock their beef feedlots. Selecting livestock genetics increases the amount of meat that animals produce. The cow/calf operation works like this: about 6-7 months of the year, the beef cows will be grazing in a 237.4 acre pasture to feed along with a couple of excellent breeding bulls. These cows/bulls are supplemented with mineral, vitamins and a total mix ration of hay and some corn.

When a beef cow is at about 2 years of age, she will give birth, nurses her calf until 6-8 months of age. To make sure we have a healthy beef calf, it also receives a free choice of a grain mix supplement, vitamins and minerals.

When it is time to sort off the calves from the mom, the male and some female go to the comfortable feedlot area and are raised for finished beef sales for our valuable beef customers.

The other selected female calves are then raised as cows for reproduction of the herd and should around the age of two give birth, which is increasing the point of origin beef herd.

Normally a beef cow can give birth up to 8-10 calves in her lifetime. But to keep our herd growing, at times the Farm will need to purchase some replacement beef cows to give birth at Oneida Nation Farms.

The Farm can tell you exactly where that meat came from, which is now being called 'Point of Origin' and ads much value to your products.

Thank you to all our customers for Buying Local, Buying Oneida!

SEOTS welcomes Skenandore

Jenna Skenandore is the Child Support Case Manager at SEOTS.

Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services is welcoming a new staff member to their team as well as a new service. Jenna Skenandore, Child Support Case Manager, is now working at SEOTS. The Oneida Nation Child Support Enforcement Agency (ONCSEA) began offering services to the membership in Oneida in April of 2008. The Agency is focused on reaching out to the tribal membership and being able to assist and serve the need which makes the partnership between SEOTS and ONCSEA such an exciting collaboration. During the past four years the Agency has been working with the surrounding reservation counties to transfer cases to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. Recently the process of transferring cases from Outagamie County to the Tribe has begun. Once the Outagamie cases have been transferred, the Agency's goal is to begin transferring child support cases from Milwaukee County to the Tribe. Based on the number of cases expected to transfer from Milwaukee County, the Agency had decided to hire on a permanent staff member to better serve the Oneida population in the Milwaukee area. Although Milwaukee County cases have yet to begin the transfer process, it was important to get the office in Milwaukee up and running and ensure the staff has advanced training. While the training is ongoing for Jenna, she possesses an excellent foundation and is now accessible at the SEOTS location. She is available to answer questions by telephone or appointment to discuss child support related issues and the transfer of cases from Milwaukee County to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System.

Jenna Skenandore is originally from Green Bay, Wisc. She received her Bachelor's degree in Social Work from the University of Milwaukee-Wisconsin and has resided in Milwaukee for the past six years. Jenna is excited to be working for the Oneida Tribe while continuing to live in Milwaukee. She is thrilled to be a part of the partnership between SEOTS and ONCSEA and is looking forward to connecting with and being able to offer a new service to Oneida members in the Milwaukee area.

Conference tackles issue of elder abuse

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

In the Oneida culture, elders are respected for their knowledge and life experience. To help revitalize that mindset, Oneida Elder Services hosted We Love Our Elders – Elder Abuse Prevention Education Conference July 9-10 at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center.

According to Oneida Elder Services Program Director Florence Petri the conference was held to get more information out into Oneida about elder abuse which is underreported in the community.

"A lot of times the elders don't like to say anything, and those are the kind we would like to take care of," said Petri.

According to keynote speaker Devon Christianson of the Aging and Disability Resource Center of Brown County, one in 10 elders seniors report being abused, neglected or exploited.

"For every one case reported, it's estimated that 23 cases go unreported," she said. "What is it that we can do to call attention to that, get our hands around it and begin to reduce the stereotypes and the fears that prevent people from reporting?"

Christianson noted that more attention is being paid to elder abuse as the baby boom generation grows older. She shared a chart that showed the age group of 45 to 64 ballooning past other populations. Along with the aging baby boomers, there is a rise in populations vulnerable to abuse such as poor, minority women.

Christianson stated that the older an individual got, the greater the risk for abuse.

"The age group from 80 to 89 is the demographic where the highest percentage of abuse is occurring," she said.

Christianson shared her vision for the elderly in Brown County.

"Elders live in an inclusive, respectful community where they are valued, safe and treated with dignity," she said. "Why is that not what our community is like right now, and what are the challenges to creating that?"

Nearly 100 people attended the conference which was funded by a grant from the US Department of Justice.

In Loving Memory

To our loving son, Brother, Uncle, Nephew, Cousin & Friend

on July 14th

A heart of gold stopped Beating,
Two shining eyes at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the Best!

Little did we know that morning,
The sorrow the day would bring.
The end was sudden, the shock severe.
We never knew that death was near.

When days are sad and lonely, and evening shadows fall…
We hear your voice and see your face.
Your sweet memory lingers on.

God knew you had to leave us,
But you didn't go alone.
For part of us went with you…
The day God called you home.

My Dearest "Kane"

Since the day you left never to be seen.

I pray to the Creator every minute of my day
In hopes that He hears my every word I say.

To know if you made it to the land of free
Where you suffer no pain or suffer with no worries
Where your able to see what a wonderful world
He Has waiting for thee.

Yes my son still a part of me is the mothering that I think you will always need.

I can only imagine now how your world is to be
And truly hoping your spirit is now free.

Oneida Longhouse needs help from the community for Kalihwiyo

Shekoli Swakweku
(Greetings to all of you)

Many of you may not know, but here in Oneida, Wisc., we were given wampum by the Fire keepers and Delegates within the Confederacy. Symbolically, this means that our community has its own "fire," or place within the Chiefs Council. In August we will "bundle up our words" and send a delegation out East to inform the Kalihwiyo Delegation Tonawanda that we would like to host the Kalihwiyo (the Good Message) this fall. There is a lot of responsibility to carry this message and to recite these words. WE are very fortunate to have Wolf Clan Faith Keeper, Leander Danforth – Shalihokt "Come to the End of the Words" and his helper Bear Clan Faith Keeper, Ron Hill – Lanuhsunihe "He Builds a House," carry on with these traditions in our language.

Our Faith Keepers met on Sunday, June 11, 2012 after Strawberry Ceremony to discuss if, financially, we can host Kalihwiyo this year. We are in need of restroom facilities and a new floor in the longhouse as well as money for expenses such as: gas, hotel and stipend for speakers who will recite Kalihwiyo, food for guests and community for five days. Considering all of this we have collectively decided to go forward with hosting Kalihwiyo because of the importance for the community.

Here are our financial needs:

1. $8,000.00 to host the Kalihwiyo
2. $14,500.00 to build rest rooms and run water to the kitchen
3. For supplies only, labor is covered

STRATEGY:
Pulling Together/Wrapping Our Minds as One

At this time, we are asking people to do an automatic payroll deduction if you work for the Oneida Tribe or donate to the Longhouse Account at Chase Bank, Green Bay WI. If you are interested in supporting our efforts, please contact: Gail Danforth, 920-869-2052 or 920-869-1676 or Ron Hill 920-490-5385 or 920-606-2183 to get a form if you want to do payroll deduction.

There are two Longhouse Accounts established: Please be specific as to which fund you would like to make your donation;

1. Our existing account Oneida Long House taxpayer ID no. 45-5500611. This account will be used specifically for Kalihwiyo, paying gas electric, porta potties etc.
2. Oneida Longhouse Building Fund taxpayer ID no. 45-5500178

This fund will be used specifically for new bathrooms, kitchen upgrade, re-do hardwood floors in long house and other renovations specific to the buildings.

All our contributions are tax deductible and can be specific to either account.

Donations can be made to either account at any Chase Bank name of account is bolded above; contributors should print their names on deposits so they can be properly identified for tax purposes and acknowledgments.

If we had just 100 people donate only $10.00 per week, we could potentially reach our goal in time for the Kalihwiyo. We are mindful that we all have responsibilities and limited financial resources. Even if someone is able to donate $5 or $2 per week, this would be beneficial and greatly appreciated. We will also have some upcoming raffles or bake sales and we encourage people to sign up to work, cook, or volunteer with some of these events. Contact Michelle King-Hill at 920-569-9439.

We think it is important to mention that we cannot do this with a small handful of people. There are hundreds of people that have come to the Longhouse to get names, have funerals, birthday socials, and many other things. These are all the good things that are encouraging us to continue to go on with what we need to do in our traditional ways. We hope we can look to them for support. Every little bit helps.

We send you our prayers and ask that you be mindful and come support your Longhouse.

Oneida One Stop and Oneida Market Updates

Westwind

Re-Opening set for 6AM on July 18th

Oneida One-Stop Westwind has been under construction and closed since April 25, 2012. The closure has been necessary in order to make some necessary changes that are required to meet state regulations. Those regulations like many other state mandated changes have occurred since the stores opening 22 years ago. Oneida Retail looks forward to reopening the store July 18 at 6:00am. It is #1 in sales and revenues for the Retail Enterprise which is owned and operated by the Oneida Tribe. Additionally, this location will operate 24 hours a day, 7 days a week when it opens.

Some of the new changes inside the store includes walk-in coolers, updated and new counters, an even better open floor plan, and an exciting front entrance that will improve pump-to-register visuals. Outside the store big changes are happening, too. The added green space will improve our carbon footprint as an organization, the new pumps and underground storage tanks have improved our environmental friendliness, and it is believed that the new canopy will be a positive visual improvement to the area.

Although Oneida One-Stop Westwind is closed today, Oneida Retail continues to be available to serve the consumer at:

- Oneida One-Stop on Packerland, 3120 S. Packerland Dr., open 24 hrs
- One Stop on Hwy 54, open at 5am

Or to meet any tobacco needs please visit any of the following sites:

- Oneida Smokeshops located in the Oneida Casinos
- Oneida One-Stops,
- Oneida Smokeshop-Mason conveniently located at the Festival plaza

Larsen Road Project Status

Kali photos/Yvonne Kaquatosh & Marissa Hunt

Signs of activity have begun this week as workers prepare for the construction of the latest Oneida One Stop. The structure will be located on the corner of Larson and Packerland and will offer a variety of Oneida-produced products for its' customers.

Wayne Skenandore
ORE Marketing Director

As the Oneida One Stop - Westwind remodel project winds down to reopen at 6:00am on July 18, the Oneida One Stop – Larsen and Oneida Market project is starting the construction phase.

If you drive past the Packerland and Larsen site you will see a construction trailer and various construction machines completing site work. Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE) is the general contractor, with Smet constructing the building. The CIP project is being managed through the Oneida Engineering area. The site work has begun with tree removal, surveying, earth moving to prepare the site to begin foundation work.

The building will be primarily split face concrete block matching the same materials and colors of the Packerland store. A bronze plaque, matching the ones at Packerland and Westwind, is a signature element that will be included in future One Stops. The plaque is of the Oneida Seal, marking the store as a business of the Oneida Tribe.

The Oneida Market is a re-imagining of the previous Tsyunhéhkwʌ store on Hwy 54. The goal is to re-invent the store concept, keeping the Oneida traditional remedies and Oneida-produced products. The new Oneida Market location is a vast improvement for the business unit and will provide improved access to the larger Green Bay market, increased density of tribal member residence, and tourism traffic from Highway I-41.

The Oneida Market product mix will evolve based on sales and profit trends. This is an important guiding principle for retail profitability and success. The market will sell local, natural, and organic products, Oneida-produced products, and Oneida traditional remedies. Oneida-produced products include Black Angus beef, Buffalo meat, free-range chicken and eggs, white corn products, orchard products, and cannery products. Oneida traditional remedies include tea blends, herbs, tinctures, salves and essential oils.

The target construction completion date is late November, at which time ORE will need a couple weeks to stock and prepare the store to open. The target open date is mid-December for the Oneida One Stop and the Oneida Market. This prime location will be an anchor for the ORE for many years to come.

Many people have been confusing two recent Business Committee actions concerning the contracting process. First, the Business Committee amended the Independent Contractor Policy on April 25, 2012, to extend an existing prohibition on entering contracts with employees to also prohibit entering into contracts with employee owned businesses. Prior to these amendments, the Policy stated the Tribe could not enter into contracts with current tribal employees. The Policy also originally included an exception that allowed the Tribe to contract with an employee if the purpose of the contract was related to construction activities. The recent amendments removed that exception. Now, the Tribe cannot enter into any contracts with tribal employees or tribal employee owned businesses. We passed these amendments based on advice from the Law Office concerning potential federal income tax withholding and overtime requirements that could potentially result in significant liabilities for the Tribe.

Second, the other recent action concerned the Business Committee's decision on May 23, 2012 to repeal the Sole Source Resolution. Many people were confused as to the impacts this Resolution had on the requirements of the Indian Preference Law. My office in particular felt this Resolution had been misapplied and created inconsistencies and uncertainty in the contracting process. The Resolution was never meant to force the Tribe to contract with a tribal vendor just because such a vendor was available. The Resolution was also never meant to force the Tribe to pay above market costs to tribal vendors. This is especially the case if the tribal vendor was unable to submit competitive bids during the bidding process. To force the Tribe to contract with tribal member vendors without considering other factors does a disservice to the Tribe and to the tribal member. During these tough economic times, the Tribe should not have to pay above market costs for goods and services. The Tribe should also not create a system that places tribal vendors at a disadvantage because it does not encourage our members to become competitive in the open market. We want our tribal members to succeed no matter where they are located and no matter whom they do business with. We do not want them to solely rely on the Tribe to support their businesses. As a result, I supported repealing the Sole Source Resolution.

As an elected official, I am committed to exploring ways to fairly balance the needs of the Tribe to protect our liabilities while encouraging tribal member entrepreneurs. We also need to find a way to help our tribal members to develop their businesses in a way that allows them to be competitive in the open market.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 920-869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Forgetting about Tradition

For weeks I was getting ready for the Oneida Powwow making sure nothing would fall off my outfit as I know I would possibly lose it. At any powwow everyone knows veterans have a job to do as well as the drums, dancers and MC. The head veteran dancer has a special job. He has the power and authority to do what he feels right. He is the judge of what to do if an eagle feather falls – which represents a fallen warrior. An arena director doesn't have the authority to tell a head veteran or the veterans what to do!

I have been head veteran at Oneida for 10 years and one year at the Menominee powwow. I have been instructed by elders and elder veterans here and around the United States of what my duties are!

This is a first that an arena director tells me what to do with a feather. The grand entries, the two that I was in, went wrong. Once again the arena directors should know protocol. There was no invocation, no posting of the staffs and colors or recognizing the veterans. Women who were going to have babies were dancing. People were carrying young kids and more likely there were women who were on their moon. All these things should be said on the loudspeakers, which were working poorly to say the least. And an elder was wearing a kasto'we with horns, was told not to wear it, but still did. An eagle staff fell on the ground, was told not to bring it in the powwow, but still did.

Until these embarrassing thing stop, count me out.

Head Veteran,
Tom Webster, Oneida

Looking to Help

My Name is John Skenandore Sr. I and writing this letter for the younger generation in the community. I am an inmate at Jackson Correctional Institution. I feel that I have a duty to fulfill to you guys. I've been in prison for 2 ½ years for a high-speed chase. I will get out soon.

I forgot my responsibilities to my people. As soon as I left the longhouse and forgot who my priorities were to, I kept falling down. I dug deeper, went back and got my diploma. Did Mixed Martial Arts with Josh Kasee. I was not living to my full potential. I was a state wrestler three times over, boxing, tae Kwan do, Jo-jitsu.

My son needs me and my other kids, too. Every time I went out there and took that drink and used I was telling my kids I love you. I was really saying I love myself. I have always worked two jobs several times, but that bottle put me back.

I know now that a real man will not hinder his relationship with the Creator by developing friendships with people who have bad intentions or philosophies, to not walk in ways that are wise. We should strive to do goodness. I am not to get side tracked in my own selfish principles which could place me at odds with the Creator.

Many times we learn lessons of life more by living than we do by studies we may pursue. I will not isolate anybody from reality of life.

I now know that I have a divine love for the Creator and total commitment. I will give to all, both friends and enemy, I will do things for others without the slightest thought of self-gain. It is not for us to choose what the Creators purpose is. He chooses the end from the beginning. In His love He gives us what we need more, nothing less.

It is for us I know now to bring aid to the Native American people. Help your fellow brother and sisters. We are all the Creator's children spiritually speaking. Would you try to hurt your brother because he's not the same color or he's wearing the same colors of an opposition? We were meant to be peaceful beings and I believe paradox to our salvations is love.

Love cures all sadness, hate, worry, ect. Don't come (to jail) unless you know how much we are psychologically tormented here. I was made to urinate in a wastebasket, asked to fight with another inmate. I didn't, I was thrown in the hold a week later. Don't come here, it's not always the inmates you have to worry about.

I would like to say thank your for everything. I apologize for letting everybody down. I cannot take back the past but I can pave the future. Most and foremost I love my Potawatomi Princess Aimee. Also, I love you Grandpa and Grandma Madyln and Henry.

Sincerely,
John H. Skenandore

Oneida Airport Hotel Corp. has new members

Submitted by OAHC

The Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation (OAHC) has new membership. On Friday, June 29th, the Oneida Business Committee appointed three new members. The newly appointed board is charged with moving the business of the hotel to a higher level within the hospitality industry and to improve business results.

The new members will be working with present OAHC board member Janice Hirth to improve business by working cooperatively with the Tribes gaming operation, business entities, and other stakeholders to strengthen the brand and enhance marketing initiatives. Hirth's experience includes having served in the capacities of both the President of OAHC and General Manager of Radisson. Her experience and expertise is essential to provide the necessary continuity and stability of hotel operations.

Newly appointed OAHC Board members are, Ralinda Ninham-Lambries who has an excellent grasp of financial expertise and currently serves the Tribe as the Assistant CFO. Ninham-Lambries brings 20 years of experience in Accounting to the board. Steve Ninham is currently in the hospitality industry and has been General Manager at various properties for Aimbridge Hospitality and is currently at the Hyatt Lisle near Naperville, IL. Ninham brings more than 20 years of successful experience to the board. Liz Somers will contribute her expertise and experience in strategic planning and revenue enhancement development. Together we believe the OAHC will provide refreshing new leadership with new ideas.

The OAHC was initially established by the Oneida Business Committee over 25 years ago to oversee the management of the first hotel built by the Oneida Tribe. The Radisson was first under the flagship of Rodeway Inn and operated as a 200 room premier hospitality facility with state of the art amenities. Eventually the OAHC transitioned into a Radisson facility and with two major expansions, doubled the accommodations to nearly 400 rooms. The Radisson has been one of the leading hotels in the Green Bay area for the entire 25 years. Radisson remains to be one of the top hotels and usually generates more room revenue than any other hotel in the area.

Hirth hopes to see a resurgence of business as the economy begins to turn around. Hirth said, "In my entire career as a representative of the Tribe in the hospitality industry I had the honor to experience tremendous growth and success. I truly believe we will come out of this recession and continue as strong leaders in the hospitality industry. We have some changes to implement and must take a serious approach to restructure our business to increase our revenues."

OAHC is re-assessing the recent closure of the Standing Stone Buffet. In response to customer demand, a food service venue will re-open by this weekend to provide food and beverage amenities for guests and casino patrons. The board has an aggressive 30 day plan to assess business strategies and identify new strategies to increase business and strengthen relationships with all stakeholders of the corporation. This is a new phase of growth for our hospitality industry and we expect this board to launch a plan to bring the Radisson Hotel and Conference center to a higher level of prominence and excellence of customer satisfaction and market visibility.

Public Hearing Notice

11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Child Support Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Child Support Law (the Law) is to establish the legal responsibility of parents to provide financially for their children's well-being based on the real earning capability of parents. The Law establishes a standard of support for those children whose paternity has been established or acknowledged and encourages the use of voluntary agreements to resolve any disputes over child support obligations. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Overtime Pay. Specifically include overtime pay in the definition of Gross Income for the purposes of paying child support.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Notice. Amend notice of hearings, thereby requiring that only the notice of the initial action be served via certified mail and all subsequent notices by first-class mail.
- Publication. Amend the provision regarding notice via publication. Due to the Kalihwisaks changing the frequency of their publication, the law now requires publication three consecutive times in either the Kalihwisaks or other newspaper in the county where the respondent resides.
- Past-due Obligations. Update the section on arrears to now include past-due obligations.
- Review. Require the Agency to review the child support order every two years. If a substantial change in circumstances exists, then the agency is required to file a motion with the Appeals Commission to have the order amended if the parties cannot agree to the amendment.
- Motion to Amend. Authorize any party to file a motion to modify the child support order, and sets the timing for scheduling a hearing to no sooner than ten calendar days after the date of service on the opposing party.

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Paternity Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Paternity Law (the Law) is to establish paternity of Oneida children and other Indian children in order to protect the best interests of these children regarding such matters as enrollment, customs and traditions of the Tribe, survivorship and inheritance, health, support, and social security benefits. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Timing of Filing. Allow a petition to determine paternity to be filed at any time after the child is born.
- Notice. Amend the provision regarding mail delivery to allow for regular first-class mail rather than registered or certified mail.
- Update of Address. Require the alleged fathers' who appear and participate in an action to inform and keep updated their current address at all time with the Agency and the Appeals Commission.
- Administrative Subpoenas. Authorize the Agency to issue administrative subpoenas to require the mother, child and alleged father(s) to appear and take a paternity test.
- Reopening of Judgment. Clarify that either the adjudicated father or the Agency can reopen a default judgment of paternity.
- Stipulations. Allow for the alleged father to stipulate to paternity and then to custody, placement and child support matters.

Public Hearing Process

I. Testimony:

A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. # Report: WI DNR should drop deer goals

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. ~ Wisconsin wildlife officials should scrap local deer population goals, let landowners hold mini-hunts on their property and establish better connections with the public, Gov. Scott Walker's deer trustee wrote in a report released Tuesday.

Texas researcher James Kroll's 136-page study focuses largely on the Department of Natural Resources' shortcomings but takes hunters to task too, saying they expect the agency to maintain a herd so large the landscape can't support it. His plan offers the two sides a chance to compromise and save Wisconsin's hunting traditions from disappearing, he said.

"This is a reset button," Kroll said of his recommendations. "If we're going to continue to have the hunting heritage in Wisconsin, we're going to have to do this."

DNR Lands Division Administrator Kurt Thiede issued a statement saying agency officials haven't reviewed the report yet.

"We are not afraid to face recommendations and critiques that are contained in the report and adjust accordingly," Thiede said.

Deer hunters have been feuding with the DNR over the last decade or so, contending the agency's herd control tactics have become so ham-handed and rigid they're leading to anemic hunts.

Walker, a Republican, tapped into the rancor on the campaign trail two years ago, promising to respond to hunters' complaints. The governor's administration hired Kroll in October for $125,000 to undertake an extensive review of the DNR's policies. Kroll and two other researchers have spent the last nine months studying DNR documents and data and meeting with DNR employees, stakeholder groups, Wisconsin's American Indian tribes and the general public.

Kroll issued preliminary findings in March that were highly critical of the DNR. He picks up where he left off in his final report, picking apart everything from the DNR's population estimates to a lack of easily accessible, computerized maps.

The report says the department's population estimates aren't precise enough to serve as the basis for population goals in individual management zones. Zone goals are crucial to hunters because the numbers determine what herd control strategies, such as antlerless hunts, the DNR might impose on that area.

The agency should do away with zone population estimates and goals, saying most hunters have little faith in them, the numbers are indefensible statistically and the constant argument over the figures erodes the DNR's credibility. The DNR instead should adopt simple goal statements such as increase, stabilize or decrease population density and establish criteria to measure success based on local trends, such as crop damage, forest degradation or car-deer crashes.

The report recommends the DNR start a program that allows landowners and hunting clubs to run hunts on their property after consulting with DNR biologists. At least 20 states already allow such hunts, according to the report.

The hunts would help manage the local herd, build trust between hunters, landowners and the state and provide the DNR with valuable scientific data from the dead deer. The program could yield up to 25,000 deer and cost about $100,000 annually. The money would come from enrollment fees and antlerless permit fees.

Wisconsin Democrats have accused Kroll of favoring private hunting clubs over public lands, pointing to remarks he made to "Texas Monthly" magazine in 2002 calling people who want more public land "cocktail conservationists who are really pining for socialism." They feared Kroll might recommend privatizing public lands.

Kroll dismissed that criticism as politically motivated - it came during the height of Democrats' attempt to recall Walker this past spring - and he insisted his mini-hunt idea could apply across swaths of public land too.

The study also recommends the DNR step up its attempts to connect with the public and stakeholders. Agency biologists should spend more time working with forestry and agricultural specialists and develop local management teams that would include tribal representatives, the agency should involve volunteers in projects as much as possible and involve members of the Conservation Congress, a group of influential sportsmen who advise the DNR, in local deer management decisions.

"You guys almost overnight can go from heels to heroes just by working with people," Kroll said he told agency officials.

Still, Kroll praised DNR employees as competent professionals trying to do the right thing for Wisconsin wildlife. He ended the report by admonishing hunters, saying they want to see more deer than the land can sustain. They want government officials to maintain a herd so large the state's forests would suffer and more motorists will crash into the deer.

"Ironically, by attempting to raise more deer than the land can sustain, they wind up with fewer deer," the report said.

Kroll warned that if the DNR and hunters can't agree on his recommendations the state's rich hunting tradition could vanish. Legislators will step in and start mandating heavy-handed changes, he said. Hunter numbers will decline and the DNR will have to rely on predators to control the herd, he said.

"Everybody's sick and tired of this and they're ready to do something," Kroll said. "The ball's in your court, pure and simple."

Upstate NY historic site marks bloody 1758 battle

TICONDEROGA, N.Y. (AP) ~ The bloodiest battle fought on American soil before the Civil War is being remembered at Fort Ticonderoga.

The reconstructed 18th-century fortification on Lake Champlain's southern end is hosting events this weekend marking the 254th anniversary of the Battle of Carillon (kehr-ih-LAHN'), the French name for the fort built in the 1750s.

On July 8, 1758, a British-led force attacked French positions outside the fort during a daylong battle that claimed the lives of hundreds of soldiers. The French repulsed multiple frontal assaults in what was considered their greatest victory of the French and Indian War. It was one of the largest battles in North America until the Civil War.

Special tours, musket demonstrations and battlefield programs are being held Saturday and Sunday as part of the fort's living history weekend.

Youth enjoy third year of VBS

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Three area churches have worked three years in a row to host the Oneida Community Vacation Bible School (VBS) the week of July 2. According to Eddie Cornelius-Grosskoff, 35 volunteers from the Oneida Methodist Church, Holy Apostles Episcopal Church and Assembly of God have worked together to fund and put on the four day school.

"They're from the three churches which is really a heartwarming thing to see," she said.

Cornelius-Grosskoff stated it's been shown statistically that introducing religion to a child between the ages of 4 to 14 will make the strongest impact that he/she will carry throughout life.

"We really like to work in that young group," she said.

The school focuses on four activities; Bible encounter, crafts, recreation and Oneida Hymn Singing. On the last day, parents are invited to join the fun and see and hear what their children have learned.

Youth minister Alison Grosskoff leads the youth in a children's hymn at the Vacation Bible Study held the first week of July at Parish Hall. The event was hosted by three Oneida area churches.

Olivia Webster, age 16, has attended the Vacation Bible School every year and volunteered to help with the 32 children attending the event.

"I've just had a whole bunch of fun playing with the kids," said Webster.

Honor Flight Comedy Show Coming to Green Bay

Green Bay, WI ~ On July 22 there will be a benefit comedy show to be held to raise money for the Old Glory Honor Flights of Northeastern Wisconsin. The event will be held at Radisson Convention Center in the Oneida Casino. The show will start at 7:30pm and costs $10.

The mission of the Honor Flight Network is to offer World War II Veterans a memorable, safe and rewarding tour our Nation's Capital, each of the flights leaves the Outagamie Airport in Appleton and returns the same day after visiting several sites around Washington DC. Most importantly, the veterans are able to visit the memorials dedicated in their honor including the World War II Memorial, the Iwo Jima Memorial, and the Vietnam War Memorial, as well as Arlington National Cemetery. The World War II Memorial was recently dedicated in 2004, and far too many of our Nations Heroes never had the chance to visit their memorial.

We hope to change that by helping to raise the money needed to sponsor a flight to Washington DC. So come join us for a fun filled evening with the comedic antics of Nate Ford, Joel Kunz, Alan Gregory, James Thorn, "Uncle Mikey" O'Neil, and hosted by Tommy V.

To purchase tickets for the show please go to www.HeartlandComedyExpress.com.

2012 Oneida Spring Turkey Season a Success

The 2012 Spring Turkey season had a considerable increase in the number of permits issued to Oneida Sportsman and the total number of turkeys harvested. There was an increase of over 12% in the total number of Spring Turkey permits issued, compared to the 2011 Spring Turkey Season. You may recall, the 2011 season opened with much colder weather and had considerable snow cover on the ground. The warmer weather this year may have been a strong contributing factor to the increase of permits issued by the Oneida Conservation Department (OCD).

In all, the OCD had issued 323 Spring Turkey permits to Oneida Sportsmen for the 2012 Spring Turkey season. This Spring Turkey season Oneida Sportsman had the option of harvesting a total of four (4) turkeys. Each Oneida Sportsman had been issued a set of tags, which included one tag for a bearded bird (Tom/Jake) and an additional tag for a hen. Oneida Sportsmen were given the option to purchase an additional set of permits after successfully filling their first set of issued tags. All Oneida Sportsman were required to register harvested turkeys with the Oneida Conservation Department staff or designated staff of Oneida Retail at the One Stop on Highway 54 in Oneida.

For the 2012 Spring Turkey season Oneida Sportsmen had an extended season, consisting of seven (7) consecutive weeks (4/7 – 5/27) to successfully fill their tags. This was one week longer than the traditional six (6) week season of years past. The legal hunting hours had remained the same and allowed Oneida Sportsman to hunt from a ½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour past sunset.

With the extended season and the 323 Sportsmen that had participated in the spring turkey hunt, the overall harvest of both bearded birds and hens had increased. The Oneida Sportsmen harvested a total of 93 Toms, 17 Jakes, and 67 Hens during the spring season. The overall total harvest was 177 birds for the 2012 spring season and resulted in a success rate of over 54% for Oneida Sportsmen. This high success rate was an increase of over 29% compared to the 2011 Spring Turkey season. The following graph illustrates the harvest numbers from the 2012 Spring Turkey season compared to the past two (2) Spring Turkey seasons.

Overall, Oneida Sportsmen were extremely successful during the 2012 Spring Turkey season, as the harvest numbers and success rate indicate. The data collected from the Spring Turkey season will be considered as OCD staff plan for the upcoming Fall Turkey season. The annual Fall Turkey season will consist of twelve (12) consecutive weeks and open on October 6, 2012 and continue till December 31, 2012. Sportsmen will be allowed to harvest one bearded turkey and two hen turkeys. Legal hunting hours will remain the same as the Spring Turkey Season which are a ½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour after sunset. Oneida Sportsmen will be required register all harvested turkeys at the Oneida Conservation Office or other designated locations.

On August 20, 2012 the Fall Turkey tags can be purchased, at the same time as Oneida Sportsman purchase their 2012-13 Oneida Sportsman permits. The OCD will issue a set of three (3) Fall Turkey tags for a $10 fee and will be in addition to the annual Oneida Sportsman permit fee. The issued tags will allow Oneida Sportsmen to harvest one bearded bird and two (2) hens during the established season. All Oneida Elders with a valid 2012-13 Oneida Sportsman permit will receive their Fall Turkey permits at no cost and may designate a sportsman to harvest turkeys for them. Any designated sportsman will be required to harvest only hen turkeys for one specific Elder during the season and are required to register all harvested turkey with the OCD or other designated staff.

Warmer weather and an extended hunting season contributed to a greater turkey harvest compared to previous years. Fall turkey tags will be available starting August 20.

Stevens joins board of Center for Native American youth

Chairman of the National Indian Gaming Association and Indian youth advocate, Ernie Stevens, Jr. joins the Board of Advisors for the Center for Native American Youth

Ernie Stevens, Jr.

Washington, DC, July 9, 2012 ~ Former US Senator Byron Dorgan announced today that Ernie Stevens, Jr. agreed to serve on the board of advisors for the Center for Native American Youth. Stevens is the Chairman and national spokesman for the National Indian Gaming Association. He is also a former councilman for the Oneida Nation and former First Vice-President of the National Congress of American Indians. Stevens is a well-respected champion for young people in Indian Country, having served on boards for the National Indian Child Welfare Association, Boys and Girls Clubs and The Nike N7 Fund.

"Ernie is a longtime leader for Indian Country and a passionate champion of Indian youth," said Senator Dorgan, chairman of the Center for Native American Youth. "I am grateful for the partnership Ernie has already shown the Center for Native American Youth and look forward to continuing to work with him."

The Center for Native American Youth was created by Senator Dorgan who was Chairman of the US Senate Committee on Indian Affairs from 2007 - 2011. Dorgan donated $1 million of excess campaign funds in February 2011 to establish the organization, which is housed at the Aspen Institute in Washington, DC.

"I am honored to join Senator Dorgan in this effort to improve the lives of young people," remarked Ernie Stevens, Jr. "Preparing Native American youth for their leadership responsibilities now and in the immediate future is a priority."

The organization works to shine a spotlight on challenges and successes facing young American Indians and drive new resources to priority issues, including teen suicide prevention, ending substance abuse, and improving educational opportunities. The Center has worked to develop meaningful partnerships with tribal leaders, parents and children.

Stevens will join other prominent board members Lt. Governor Jefferson Keel, president of the National Congress of American Indians; Jacoby Ellsbury, center fielder for the Boston Red Sox; Lisa Murkowski, US Senator; as well as three Native American youth members from tribal communities in North Dakota, Alaska and New Mexico. A full list of the Board of Advisors members is provided below. Former Senator Byron Dorgan chairs the board.

The Center for Native American Youth is dedicated to improving the health, safety and overall well-being of Native American youth through communication, policy development and advocacy. Founded by former US Senator Byron Dorgan in February 2011, the Center is a policy program within the Aspen Institute, headquartered in Washington, DC. The Center works to strengthen and create new connections, as well as exchange resources and best practices that address the challenges facing Native youth. Visit the Center's website for a comprehensive list of resources available to young Native Americans, tribes and the general public. For more information, visit www.cnay.org

The Aspen Institute mission is twofold: to foster values-based leadership, encouraging individuals to reflect on the ideals and ideas that define a good society, and to provide a neutral and balanced venue for discussing and acting on critical issues. The Aspen Institute does this primarily in four ways: seminars, young-leader fellowships around the globe, policy programs, and public conferences and events.

Adventure Camp

Raft Building!

Python!

Knot Tying!

Oneida Adventure kicked off their summer youth programming with another successful and fun Adventure Camp! Attending youth had the opportunity to improve their skills in primitive fire starting, survival raft building, orienteering, teamwork, knot tying, and ultimately to learn responsible adventure seeking by practice of "leave no trace" principles. Youth also had fun cooking smores and popcorn over their fires, competing in an adventure race, playing water balloon volleyball, and swimming. A highlight for many kids was holding a python brought to camp by The Fox Valley Herp Club. While Campers held their snakes, representatives of The Herp Club educated our campers on the responsibilities associated with rescuing and caring for reptiles.

Information on Pregnancy and Prenatal Vitamins

By Candi Cornelius, MSN RN
Oneida Prenatal Coordinator, Oneida Community Health Center

What are they? Specially formulated multivitamins that help pregnant women get the extra nutrients needed during pregnancy. Prenatal vitamins have many different vitamins and minerals. Typically they will have more folic acid, iron and sometimes calcium than standard adult vitamins. Folic acid, iron and calcium are very important for a pregnant woman and her baby's health. Prenatal vitamins should be taken in addition to a healthy diet not a substitute for good nutrition.

Where/When can I get them? The Oneida Community Health Center guidelines specify that women who suspect they are pregnant or who have had a positive home pregnancy test can be seen at the clinic when they are 7-8 weeks. At that time a prescription for prenatal vitamins can be given. However, most women find out they are pregnant when they are 4-5 weeks and it is very important prenatal vitamins are started as soon as possible. Or if a couple is trying to get pregnant prenatal vitamins should be taken during this time even before pregnancy occurs. Wal-Mart sells a small container for 88 cents or any of the pharmacy stores (Walgreens or CVS) will also have prenatal vitamins. All prenatal vitamins are not the same. Look for key ingredients and doses: 400-800 mcg folic acid, 400IU Vitamin D, 250mg Calcium, 50mg Vitamin C, and 30mg Iron.

Why do pregnant women need folic acid, iron and calcium?

- Folic Acid: reduces the risk of having a baby with a serious birth defect of the brain or spinal cord (neural tube). A common neural tube defect is spina bifida where a baby is born with a spine that is not closed. The exposed nerves are damaged, leaving the baby with different degrees of paralysis and sometimes mental retardation. Neural tube defects develop in the first 28 days after conception, before women know they are pregnant. Therefore, it is recommended if a woman is trying to conceive to take 400 micrograms of folic acid each day and continue this dose for the first 12 weeks of pregnancy. Natural sources of folic acid are: green leafy vegetables (broccoli, beans, peas), nuts, beans, and citrus fruits (oranges, orange juice). It is also found in many fortified breakfast cereals.
- Calcium: prevents a new mother from losing her own bone density, since the fetus uses this mineral for bone growth. Natural sources of calcium are: milk, hard cheeses, yogurt, calcium fortified orange juice, breads and cereals. Vitamin D is also needed to absorb calcium otherwise it would be sent out of the body as waste. Natural sources of Vitamin D are limited: tuna, cheese, egg yolks, foods fortified with Vitamin D and sunlight exposure.
- Iron: helps prevent anemia, a condition where blood does not have enough healthy red blood cells to carry oxygen. Natural sources of iron are: lean red meats, salmon, chicken, and iron fortified foods.

What to do if Prenatal Vitamins cause nausea?

- Switch the time of day you take prenatal vitamin (if morning switch to bedtime).
- If you took on an empty stomach, try taking prenatal vitamin with food.
- Purchase children's gummy vitamins that have same components of prenatal vitamin.
- Talk with your doctor who may be able to prescribe something different.

Any prenatal questions call Candi Cornelius MSN, RN 920-869-4940

Tsyunhehkwa gets 30K grant from First Nations

LONGMONT, Colo. ~ First Nations Development Institute (First Nations) has awarded 10 grants totaling $300,000 through its Native Agriculture and Food Systems Initiative (NAFSI). The grants were made possible through the generous support of the Walmart Foundation.

The grants will help develop or expand locally controlled and locally based food systems in numerous Native American communities while addressing the critical issues of food security, family economic security, and health and nutrition, along with promoting American Indian business entrepreneurship. These NAFSI projects are expected to positively influence much of the populations of 10 separate tribal nations located in seven states, along with other Native nations that are not directly involved.

The 10 grants awarded were:

- $30,700 to the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin in Oneida, Wisconsin, to support Tsyunhehkwa a project to improve food-preservation processes of white corn to mitigate the negative effects of climate change and to support a symposium for the other 10 tribes in Wisconsin that are working with traditional foods.
- $22,355 to the Eyak Preservation Council in Cordova, Alaska, to develop an environmentally friendly food-processing and cold-storage plant to support and preserve sustainable and independent food harvesting in rural Alaska.
- $32,129 to Bay Mills Community College Land Grant Department in Brimley, Michigan, to develop the capacity to produce, process, and make available naturally raised poultry for the Bay Mills Indian Community.
- $32,200 to White Earth Land Recovery Project in Callaway, Minnesota, to assist local growers with independent food production, recovery of local food system production, restoration of Native varieties of foods and to expand the farm-to-school pilot project.
- $31,920 to Fort Peck Assiniboine and Sioux Tribes in Poplar, Montana, to purchase and install two large walk-in freezers, a walk-in refrigerator and shelving for the Wolf Point Food Bank. The food bank serves nearly 300 emergency food baskets each month to residents of the Fort Peck Reservation and five counties: Roosevelt, Valley, Daniels, Sheridan and McCone. The new food cold-storage system will double the freezer space and triple the refrigeration space.
- $30,117 to Hays Community Economic Development Corporation in Hays, Montana, to establish a food co-op, develop a community garden, and provide classes on preparing wholesome meals, menu planning, and budgeting.
- $32,179 to Cochiti Youth Experience at Cochiti Pueblo in New Mexico to create a localized food system by supporting existing farmers, instruct Cochiti youth on traditional farming techniques, and recreate the tradition of farming to strengthen the Cochiti community.
- $27,200 to Hasbidito in Cuba, New Mexico, to increase Navajo-controlled food production infrastructure in three chapters on the eastern edge of the Navajo Nation Counselor, Ojo Encino and Torreon by increasing certified food-production sales, developing food entrepreneurs, providing healthy cooking classes and holding social events centered on healthy food.
- $30,000 to Wind Hollow Foundation, Inc., in Anadarko, Oklahoma, to provide for the completion of its business incubator for agribusiness, and to support a seasonal farmers market, a local farmer co-op and a greenhouse program.
- $31,200 to Lac Courte Oreilles Ojibwa Community College in Hayward, Wisconsin, to support the continued development and expansion of canning and preserving classes, provide community members access to local foods throughout the year, and promote community farming and gardening.

About First Nations Development Institute

Why can't I get an appointment when I want to?

There is a nationwide shortage of physicians in Primary Care and Psychiatry. We currently have Provider vacancies in Family Practice, Internal Medicine and Psychiatry. We are faithfully attempting various strategies to meet our community's healthcare needs:

- We have contracted with a firm to assist with Provider Recruitment.
- Oneida Business Committee approved Nurse Practitioner and Physician Assistant positions.
- The Health Division is working on a Provider retention plan.
- We are negotiating with a local health system to provide urgent care services.

We seek your continued support and patience as we recruit additional providers to become fully staffed. You can assist us in our goal of improving healthcare access by:

- Keeping your scheduled appointments
- Providing us at least 24 hours' notice if you are unable to keep your appointment

West Wind One Stop opens renovated station

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida One Stop - West Wind location held a ribbon cutting ceremony on July 17, 2012 to celebrate the newly renovated station reopening.

Blending in with its West Mason street surroundings the One Stop closed due to construction on April 25, 2012.

The West Wind location, having been open for 22 years, was in need of renovations to meet state regulations.

As a result the station was upgraded with a completely new design that includes new gas pumps, tanks and canopy.

To go along with the new station design the landscaping was also reworked and features more green space, new lighting, and sidewalks.

The exterior lighting of the gas station features environmentally friendly LED lights.

The WestWind One Stop also contains a Subway restaurant and boasts a state of the art point of sale system.

With the new system and more checkout lanes customers will experience faster checkouts.

"This is a beautiful fueling station. This is a high traffic area for residents and tourists. So it is important that this be an example of two communities (Oneida and Green Bay) working happily together," said Green Bay Mayor Jim Schmitt.

The location will now be open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Representatives from the various entities that had a hand in the renovation along with Green Bay officials, One Stop employees, and Oneida Royalty cut the ceremonial ribbon.

Hot, dry weather putting stress on Oneida Farm

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

While the rain on Tuesday, July 17 was welcomed by Agriculture Supervisor Dennis Vanvreede, he stated it might not be enough to combat the hot dry summer the Oneida Farm has faced this year.

"It could rain for two days and it wouldn't bother nothing. I don't think you would even see a puddle, it's that dry," he said.

Dry weather with temperatures in the 90's has put stress on Oneida Farm's crops, livestock, equipment and employees. Director of Agriculture Jeff Scofield says the situation isn't serious yet.

From 1A/Oneida Farm: livestock graze at night

"Between all the rain that we had last year, we had pretty good sub-soil moisture for a while compared to a lot of the state and any place else that's got sand, so, knock on wood, we're right on the edge of really bad and ok," he said. "You go a few miles south of here and they're just bad, and the further south you go it's worse."

While hot weather has killed 10 of 200 fruit trees planted at the Oneida Orchard, it was a late frost that doomed the apple crop.

"Apples on the hill are ok, anything off the hill, there's nothing," he said.

The farm has put in a claim for disaster insurance to cover the crop loss.

Oneida Farm employees harvested alfalfa despite hot weather and hot equipment. Agriculture Supervisor Dennis Vanvreede stated trucks are overheating.

"You've got a truck out in the field, you're expecting this truck to work, it's not just driving down the road, it's working hard, they're overheating," he said. "You can't look at the weather for you, you've got to go. We were averaging 12-14 hours a day all week. The staff held up pretty good. I've got a pretty good staff."

The Oneida Farm has made three cuttings of hay, but Vanvreede is uncertain if they'll get their usual fourth cutting.

"You can drive by the fields right now, there's no re-growth there at all. There's nothing there, you've got to have water to feed it," he said.

In addition to rain, the cornfields need wind for pollination.

"If the corn don't pollinate, yeah, you've got a beautiful stalk, but there's no cob on it," said Vanvreede.

For the most part, the Black Angus cattle and buffalo are dealing with the heat by moving very little during the day and grazing at night.

"(The buffalo are) doing all right. We've been watching them really close, and they seem to be hanging in there pretty good, they're by the water a lot," said Scofield.

According to Tsyunhehkw^ Director Jeff Metoxen the hot weather has killed some of the farm's chickens.

"I believe it also has caused some predators to search more aggressively for food and we lost a lot of chickens to foxes in the area," he wrote in an email.

According to Scofeild and Vanvreede, the Oneida Farm benefits from having a lot of clay in the soil that retains moisture, and has fields scattered in several locations rather than in one large swath. For example, the northernmost cornfield was damaged by a hailstorm, but all the other fields were untouched.

"We're hanging in there, but keep our fingers crossed that we get some nice rain," said Scofield. "Now you can start seeing a steady decline every day we don't get rain."

UW residence hall to honor American Indians

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A new University of Wisconsin-Madison residence hall will be named in honor of American Indians.

Dejope Residence Hall opens Aug. 26 and will be home to 408 students near the Lake Mendota shore.

The name was selected after consulting with members of the Ho-Chunk Nation.

In the Ho-Chunk language, Dejope means "four lakes," a reference to lakes Mendota, Monona, Waubesa and Kegonsa, which are connected by the Yahara River.

The Ho-Chunk and other American Indian tribes used to live on the land near the lakes.

The residence hall will also recognize tribal culture, including having a fire circle facing the lake and bronze plaques representing the 11 Indian Nations in Wisconsin.

Rivalries impede Chicago-Milwaukee metroplex

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) ~ The greater London area needs only 34 government entities to oversee all its public safety, services, transportation, zoning and schools. Greater Toronto gets by with only 28.

When it comes to overlap and political fragmentation, the Chicago-Milwaukee metroplex is in a league of its own – the two adjoining metro regions are splintered into a profusion of 2,155 separate governmental entities, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported Sunday (http://bit.ly/OHlE3A).

The Paris-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development says the inefficiencies and jurisdictional rivalries undermine what otherwise could become a vibrant economic bloc.

"Proliferation on this scale sometimes leads to myopic decisions, while area-wide consensus and long-term strategic thinking become difficult, if not impossible, to achieve," the global economic think tank wrote in March. "Examples of duplication of service, over-taxation, and inefficiency are numerous."

Milwaukee's future in the region is the focus of a daylong conference Tuesday at Marquette University, sponsored by the newspaper and the Lubar Fund for Public Policy Research at Marquette Law School.

The OECD joined others who have argued that Milwaukee belongs to one of the world's emerging megacities - a three-state, 21-county hub stretching from Milwaukee to Gary, Ind. Advocates see advantages in creating a critical mass of universities, industries and globally minded entrepreneurs.

But Chicago and Milwaukee show as much interest in collaboration as the Brewers and Cubs or Packers and Bears, the Journal Sentinel reported.

CMN's Theatre Department Stages a Modern Trickster Story

Special to Kalihwisaks

College of Menominee Nation (CMN) invites you and yours to the Norbert Hill Center Auditorium in Oneida, Wisc. to enjoy an original one-act play staged by the summer Theatre Production course. The play, "For the Love of Fry Bread: A Coyote Story," is a comedy set in gas station in New Mexico, and it was written by CMN students, Dezhoni Anton, Burton Arthur, Kristen Barnum, Nicole Detour, Jayleah Fontaine, Renita Freeman, Kesekokiw Kenew Grignon, Maria Pecore, Neset Skenandore, Alyssa Werner, and Sunshine Wheelock, in a playwriting course at CMN this past spring. This production also marks the fifth time CMN has collaborated with the Oneida Arts Program's Dollars for Arts Program, which provides funds to support excellence, innovations, and the development of the arts in Oneida for individual artists and community groups.

"For the Love of Fry Bread: A Coyote Story" begins when a CMN bus breaks down on the way to The Gathering of Nations Powwow in Albuquerque, NM. In the play, Coyote owes an Oneida elder a favor; she uses the favor to find her adopted grandson's birth-parents. Needless to say, Coyote upholds his end of the bargain on his own terms, and the play concludes by allowing the audience to speculate over the role of birth-culture and parentage in Indigenous communities.

CMN current and former students involved in the play included: Eric Arce, Nathaniel Madsen, Santia Ninham, Janene Skenandore, Geoffrey Madsen, Sarah Moran, Neset Skenandore, Antonio Hernandez, Bradley Hixon, Angela Jacobson, and Marlow Dorner.

The play, edited and directed by CMN faculty member Ryan Winn, has two showings, one on Tuesday, July 31st and the second on Wednesday, August 1st. Both shows begin at 7:30 and admission is free. The production runs just under an hour in length, and there will be a reception following both shows where the audience will be able to meet and greet the production's cast and crew. The play is perfect for all ages.

Wis. town barred from beefing up farm water rules

By Dinesh Ramde
Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ The Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a rural town lacks the authority to impose tougher water-quality standards on a livestock farm than the state requires.

Magnolia, a community about 30 miles south of Madison, granted Larson Acres Inc. a permit in 2007 when it wanted to expand, but included a number of conditions because residents blamed it for polluting their water supply. The farm initially had 1,000 cows and now has about 2,900.

Among the conditions, the farm had to allow the town to conduct monthly water quality tests on its land, and it had to follow certain crop-rotation strategies to reduce nitrate buildup.

The farm sued, arguing that pollution-control measures are laid out by the state and can't be modified by individual towns.

The state Supreme Court agreed, ruling that the town exceeded its authority by imposing additional measures.

The case has been watched by rural Midwest communities struggling to deal with the expansion of so-called factory farms. States throughout the farm belt have seen big farms get bigger as the agriculture industry continues to consolidate.

Similar cases have been filed in six other Midwestern states, but Wisconsin's is believed to be the first to reach a state supreme court.

The lead plaintiff was Magnolia resident John Adams, who says he can't see the nearly 3,000 cows on Larson Acres' farm two miles from his home, but when the wind blows he can smell them.

The stench gives him and his wife headaches. They blame the farm for contaminating their air and polluting the groundwater well they use for drinking, bathing and watering their garden. They no longer feel safe eating the vegetables they grow.

"A township should have the right to establish guidelines to keep its people safe, but it doesn't," Adams said in September when the high court first heard arguments in the case.

Holy Apostles SOS Save Our Sanctuary Oneida Wisconsin

It takes a congregation to Build… And, to Restore…

Dan Hawk
CRC Spokesperson

Most people in Oneida know that Holy Apostles Episcopal Church is in serious trouble; spiritually, physically, and financially. I will comment on these troubled areas regularly as Holy Apostles moves through the phases of restoration over the next two decades. With that, Save Our Sanctuary Custodianship Trust (SOS) was created to help restore, repair, and maintain Holy Apostles by supporting the Vestry in those efforts. The idea is the Vestry would contract out restoration work and SOS would help pay down that contractual debt through various fundraising activities. Information to support SOS or Holy Apostles directly is at the end of this editorial.

I was reminded that our people are buried there, our children are baptized there, and weddings are celebrated there. I am also reminded that Holy Apostles is special to all Oneida's because it was built by our grandfathers. Holy Apostles is truly historical and it would be a shame for it to succumb to further deterioration and just allowed to crumble. These words may seem distant to you but the reality is the current congregation cannot support long-term restoration and maintenance costs.

The Vestry is currently charged with obtaining a balanced budget by the end of this year. I plan to report the progress of this important fiscal responsibility. On a positive note Holy Apostles finance committee is meeting regularly at the Parish Hall on Mondays at 5:30pm to help the Vestry accomplish this task. On a negative note the Vestry has rescinded the set-a-side fund for fixing the Bell Tower. I am asking you to come to finance or vestry meetings, to get involved, or to just see for yourself what the situation is, so that you can report to your family or like me the vested interest of the community.

Absolutely not. You'll always be in control. You decide whom, when and how often payments are made.

I would like to extend an invitation and encourage all tribal members to attend the coming gathering on August 16-19 in our community of Oneida to continue this process of developing relationships with our brothers and sisters from other Oneida communities.

The BACKGROUND

The Oneida Cultural Heritage Department commits "to preserve, protect, maintain and interpret the Oneida traditions, artifacts, language, customs and history in a manner that shall promote the dignity of the Oneida Peoples and culture." Various Tribal Departments worked with the Cultural Heritage Department to organize and promote a gathering to include all Oneida Peoples from around the world, concentrating on those located in Canada, New York and Wisconsin. Planning for this event began in January 2011 with a small group that identified key stakeholders in each primary Oneida community.

THE OPPORTUNITY

There are well over 20,000 Oneida in the three primary Oneida communities at the Thames Settlement , New York Territory and Wisconsin Reservation. People in these areas have various backgrounds including religion, education, lifestyles and our language making our culture very diverse. There are different number of people whom get together for different reasons throughout the year however at this time there is no specific gathering for the Oneida to share all of these various backgrounds, historical knowledge, cultural knowledge, life skills development and language with one another at one event. The gathering will provide an opportunity to address bridging possible gaps in community communications, improve our quality of life and assist in the developing Ska?niku'.lat "one mind".

THE INTENT OF THE EVENT

The purpose of the gathering is to share backgrounds, build relationships, bridge traditional knowledge with contemporary practices and interpret our role and responsibilities as a younger brother in modern day society.

I believe some have seen a larger picture of what the Oneida Peoples have been, are now, are not and can be. It seems like wherever we travel we find more and more of our Oneida relatives and welcome them to come home for many reasons. Perhaps we now have the alignment of these minds to bring a new future for Oneida no matter our geographic locations; where our foundation is more solid, our members stronger and our future more secure then it has been for some time. That reality may take a lot of work however we have understood the rewards of a good days work for the people's welfare for some time or we would not even be here today. I believe we will be here tomorrow and for some time after. Your participation in this gathering will only increase the resources to make our Oneida future brighter and better for all of our membership and community.

See you there August 16-19, 2012.

Equal Religion

Greetings to all the Tribal Nations here in Wisconsin and Kalihwisaks. I would like to bring forth an issue that has came to light here within the confines of the Wisconsin Department of Corrections that is appalling, not only to me, but I'm sure that a great many of you out in the free world may find quite disturbing.

We prisoners here with the Dept. of Corrections (hereinafter DOC) must rely strictly on "canteen catalog" vendors (monopolized) for our supplies, such as clothing, shoes, writing supplies, electronics, ect. Such catalogs also offer "religious" items for the prisoner faiths: Christian, Muslim, Pagan, Buddhist, Jewish and Native Americans. These items as offered now, include a "FAKE EAGLE FEATHER" to be used in prisoner's worship. I believe that only Native Americans can use the Eagle Feathers in their ceremonies, and I firmly believe that this is strictly aimed at us.

I do not believe the DOC has consulted any Bona Fide Native Religious Leaders our in the Wisconsin Native Community regarding the use of such "eagle feathers'', but instead went ahead to offer this. What are they thinking?

This proves my point of the DOC entities' total disregard of our Native Religious practices. They simply have no clue, let alone any respect, to ask Religious Leaders out there in the Native Community. I voice my complaint! I would ask that any of you who find this practice disrespectful to contact Mr. Gary Hamblin, DOC Secretary at (608) 240-5055 to let him know that this should be taken of the Union Supply Catalog and never be offered again. The analogy can be compared to them offering a Satanic Bible to be used in a Christian Church Ceremony (It's a 'Bible' isn't it?). Simply put, this is wrong.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully,
Curtis J. Pidgeon

GET OUT THE VOTE

Decisions are made every day by government officials that affect indigenous peoples, from the President to the Governor of the state to local officials. If Native peoples do not participate in these elections, these officials have little reason to consider to our concerns and issues; they will consider the concerns of those who do vote.

The Oneida Business Committee encourages all tribal citizens and employees to become part of the political process. The need to continue to participate in the electoral process and elect leadership who will represent the Tribe's issues and concerns at all levels of government is imperative.

In accordance with provisions of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin Open Records and Open Meetings Law, Chapter 7, sections 7.20-1 and 7.4-1, the Committee will move into executive session to discuss confidential information or to obtain legal advice.

1. Gaming General Manager contract recommendation
Sponsor: Ed Delgado
Excerpt from March 14, 2012: Motion by Patty Hoeft to approve the recommendation to extend the Gaming General Manager contract starting March 12, 2012 to June 30, 2012, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion carried unanimously. Excerpt from June 27, 2012: Motion by Patty Hoeft to defer the Gaming General Manager contract to an emergency BC meeting at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, June 28, 2012, seconded by David Jordan. Motion approved with one abstention.
Motion by Patty Hoeft to renew the contract for six months and direct the Chairman to negotiate the terms with Louise Cornelius, and bring back the terms to the Business Committee at our next regular meeting, seconded by Brandon Stevens. Motion approved with two oppositions:

Opposed: Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa

For the record: Tina Danforth stated my vote for no is because we discussed a different time frame and the motion as its stated leaves the contract terms open-ended for two weeks.
For the record: Ed Delgado stated that I believe this decision today jeopardizes the integrity of our gaming. Thank you.
For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated these discussions obviously involve personnel matters and some of them of which I can't get into but I just think that we should have posted for that position, but I understand that we are divided. I respect the opinion of the council members and I understand that there's going to be some follow up that we're going to pursue with the Gaming Commission and with Audit, but I can't support this motion.
For the record: Patty Hoeft stated the documents that we reviewed--this Business Committee did not adequately review them together, as a whole. The documents were not fully developed and more time is needed in order to get at the issues that are driving the decision made today. That's what I'm hoping the six months will allow us to do. The gaming operation has a great vision in front of it. We need to talk about how we're going to lead, make sure it's led in that direction the proper way. It might result in us looking at some new ways to manage and some new talent and during this next six month period, if we're all steadfast on getting this work done, we'll get there, but there's a lot of work that has to be done right now.
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I believe the six months will give us enough time to plan if we do have a change in direction in this position, so it will allow us that time and then also the due diligence on following up on the report that was given to us and follow that due process with the audit committee and Gaming Commission.
Motion by Patty Hoeft that the reports considered by the Business Committee today be sent to Internal Audit and the Gaming Commission to begin their review of those documents, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion approved with one opposition and one abstention:

Abstained: Tina Danforth

Adjourn

Motion by Paul Ninham to adjourn at 2:30 p.m., seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion approved unanimously

Public Hearing Notice

11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Child Support Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Child Support Law (the Law) is to establish the legal responsibility of parents to provide financially for their children's well-being based on the real earning capability of parents. The Law establishes a standard of support for those children whose paternity has been established or acknowledged and encourages the use of voluntary agreements to resolve any disputes over child support obligations. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Overtime Pay. Specifically include overtime pay in the definition of Gross Income for the purposes of paying child support.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Notice. Amend notice of hearings, thereby requiring that only the notice of the initial action be served via certified mail and all subsequent notices by first-class mail.
- Publication. Amend the provision regarding notice via publication. Due to the Kalihwisaks changing the frequency of their publication, the law now requires publication three consecutive times in either the Kalihwisaks or other newspaper in the county where the respondent resides.
- Past-due Obligations. Update the section on arrears to now include past-due obligations.
- Review. Require the Agency to review the child support order every two years. If a substantial change in circumstances exists, then the agency is required to file a motion with the Appeals Commission to have the order amended if the parties cannot agree to the amendment.
- Motion to Amend. Authorize any party to file a motion to modify the child support order, and sets the timing for scheduling a hearing to no sooner than ten calendar days after the date of service on the opposing party.

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Paternity Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Paternity Law (the Law) is to establish paternity of Oneida children and other Indian children in order to protect the best interests of these children regarding such matters as enrollment, customs and traditions of the Tribe, survivorship and inheritance, health, support, and social security benefits. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Timing of Filing. Allow a petition to determine paternity to be filed at any time after the child is born.
- Notice. Amend the provision regarding mail delivery to allow for regular first-class mail rather than registered or certified mail.
- Update of Address. Require the alleged fathers' who appear and participate in an action to inform and keep updated their current address at all time with the Agency and the Appeals Commission.
- Administrative Subpoenas. Authorize the Agency to issue administrative subpoenas to require the mother, child and alleged father(s) to appear and take a paternity test.
- Reopening of Judgment. Clarify that either the adjudicated father or the Agency can reopen a default judgment of paternity.
- Stipulations. Allow for the alleged father to stipulate to paternity and then to custody, placement and child support matters.

Public Hearing Process

I. Testimony:

A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. ## Wisconsin News

Conservationists, hunters clash on Wis. wolf hunt

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

STEVENS POINT, Wis. ~ Conservationists and animal lovers pushed the state Department of Natural Resources' board Tuesday to reduce kill goals for Wisconsin's new wolf hunt, arguing the population remains fragile.

The DNR has proposed limiting the harvest to 201 wolves, roughly a quarter of the state's population. The agency's board was expected to vote on the plan Tuesday.

The wolf hunt has emerged as one of the most contentious wildlife issues the DNR has had to navigate in recent years. Nearly 100 people packed the board's meeting at a Stevens Point hotel, and 43 had registered to speak, promising a long, bruising debate before the vote.

Hunt supporters argued wolves have more than re-established themselves in the state. Ecologists, conservationists and wolf lovers countered a hunt combined with other wolf deaths from illegal kills and car crashes could result in a drastic dip in wolf numbers.

Howard Goldman, the Minnesota state director of the Humane Society of the United States, told the board there's no biological reason to hunt Wisconsin wolves, noting President Barack Obama's administration just removed Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin wolves from the endangered species list in January.

"What's the rush?" Goldman said. "The wolf is not just another game species."

Orman Waukau, a member of the Menominee Nation tribal council, told the board his people revere the wolf.

"In effect, we're saying we're going to go out there and hunt our brothers and sisters," he said.

But hunter representatives countered the quota is too low, pointing out the DNR estimates as many as 880 wolves roam the state, far exceeding the agency's goal of 350.

Ralph Fritsch, chairman of the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation's wildlife committee, called the harvest goal "ultra-conservative" and said it will do nothing to decrease the population. Bob Welch, speaking on behalf of the Hunters Rights Coalition, said it's ludicrous to think hunters will wipe out Wisconsin's wolves. Hunters want wolves around because they're a trophy species, he said.

"Hunters are going to become the strongest advocates for wolves," Welch said. "That's how it's worked with every other species."

Gov. Scott Walker signed a bill earlier this year that calls for a wolf hunt from Oct. 15 through the end of February. The legislation set out almost all the hunt's parameters, including permit fees and allowing hunters to hunt at night and use bait and traps. The measure left the total harvest and permit limits to the DNR, however.

The agency released an emergency rule package earlier this month that set the total kill quota at 201 across six management zones, establish higher sub-quotas in areas that have seen more depredation and limit permits to 2,010. Bill Vander Zouwen, chief of the DNR's wildlife ecology section, told the board the agency is trying to find a balance between hunters and wolf lovers, but warned the first season will be touch-and-go.

"This whole first season will be a time for us to learn and adapt," he said.

DOJ supporting inmates in ceremonial tobacco suit

By Dirk Lammers
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. ~ The U.S. Department of Justice is supporting Native American inmates in their lawsuit challenging South Dakota's ban on tobacco in religious ceremonies.

Inmates Blaine Brings Plenty and Clayton Creek in their 2009 federal lawsuit against the South Dakota Department of Corrections contend that a prison policy that bans the use of tobacco during religious ceremonies is discriminatory. The state said ceremonial tobacco inside the state penitentiary was becoming increasingly abused, and the policy is not overly restrictive because it allows other botanicals such as red willow bark to be burned.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed late Friday, said the state's position runs contrary to the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act and U.S. Supreme Court precedent.

"The court should decline this invitation to determine the importance of tobacco use to practitioners of Native American religions," the Justice Department attorneys wrote. "Accordingly, the court should also reject defendants' argument that they have not placed a substantial burden on plaintiffs' religious exercise."

The South Dakota prison system went tobacco-free in 2000 but made an exception for tobacco used in Native American ceremonies. But officials in October 2009 eliminated that exemption, saying tobacco was being sold or bartered and inmates had been caught separating it from their pipe mixtures and prayer ties.

Members of prison-based Native American Council of Tribes sued, arguing that for Native American prayer to be effective, it must be embodied in tobacco and offered within a ceremonial framework.

Brings Plenty and Moore in their suit said the policy change violates their U.S. Constitutional rights ensuring that no prisoner be penalized or discriminated against solely on their religious beliefs or practices.

Their attorney, Pamela Bollweg, argued before U.S. District Judge Karen Schreier in March that prison officials have to show there's a compelling interest in limiting access, and even if there is a compelling interest they have to use the least restrictive alternative.

James Moore, the attorney representing prison officials, argued that South Dakota's policy change followed more than 10 years of conversations with tribal elders and traditional healers, some of whom perform pipe ceremonies without tobacco. He said prison officials stopped short of banning the use of pipes.

Moore did not immediately return a phone call Monday seeking comment on the Justice Department's intervention.

Other states, including Nevada and New Mexico, have prison smoking bans but allow Native Americans to use tobacco during religious ceremonies.

Rec. kids Explore the Outdoors

By Andrea Kolitsch
Environmental Intern

What interesting, nasty, yet important creatures can be found in our local wetlands? Some local community kids from the Oneida Summer Recreation Program recently found out at an outdoor, hands-on Bugs and Wetlands class.

During the week of June 11, Oneida Environmental, Health & Safety Division presented their Bugs and Wetlands class to approximately sixty community children around the ages of seven and eight. The purpose of the class is to teach kids the important role bugs and wetlands play in our environment and to gain an appreciation for wetlands. As the kids learned, wetlands are an important natural resource because they mitigate pollution and provide habitats for many different creatures. The biodiversity present can help determine health of the wetland.

The kids went out to a wetland and observed fish and other invertebrates in a tub that contained animals that call the wetland home. The critters were captured in the wetland prior to the class. The obvious big hit was the giant water bug. About two inches in size, the giant water bug is a very nasty predator of the wetland as seen by the kids when the giant water bug took on a crayfish and killed it. The giant water bug also made quick work of the many more fish that fell victim to its viciousness.

Young children in the Oneida Summer Recreation Program took part in a Bugs and Wetlands class this June. Students got to observed wetland species up close and captured specimens.

After observing the diverse variety of creatures in the tub, the kids then got to get hands on. They used nets to catch critters such as leeches, fish, predacious diving beetles, dragonfly larvae, water scorpions, and many other invertebrates. The critters were then put it into a cup to be observed more closely and probed under a microscope. The excitement and fright from the kids observing these strange critters was evident, but it did not impede their curiosity to see and learn as much as they could.

At the end of the class the kids were given magnifying glasses to take home to see what other kinds of bugs they could find in their own backyard. You don't just have to be a kid to enjoy bugs and wetlands and it's not limited to your backyard. There are many places to go on the Oneida Reservation where the best of the bugs can be seen. Some of the top natural areas to go see are Coyote Run around Olsen and Cooper Rd., Where the Water Birds Nest, and the Oneida Buffalo Overlook. For more information on exclusive natural areas, visit www.oneidanation.org/Environment.

Oneida Safety Town Registration
August 6-10, 2012

Did you know that unintentional injury is the leading cause of death in children? Did you know that ninety percent of these injuries can be prevented? Does your 4 to 6 year old know the rules that will keep him/her safe? Are those rules followed?

All very good questions. Not all children know the answers. But now, they can when you enroll them in the FREE Oneida SAFETY TOWN program. SAFETY TOWN is a 15 hour summer safety camp, designed for children ages four through six, to learn safety awareness and prevention in a fun and creative way. This is done under the guidance of certified teachers and trained safety professionals from throughout the community. Children are taught to evaluate "safe from unsafe" and learn how to react safely when confronted with potentially dangerous situations. This program offers children a classroom segment, as well as hands-on experience in Oneida's child sized SAFETY TOWN.

Safety topics in the week long sessions include: motor vehicle, pedestrian, bicycles, buses, safety belts, poisons, fires and burns, railroad crossings, playgrounds, animals, strangers, water, emergency 911.

When: August 6-10th, 2012
8:30-11:30a.m.
OR
1:00-4:00p.m.

Where: Recreation Center on County Hwy H in Oneida.

Children are enrolled on a first come, first served basis. Parents are responsible for drop off and pickup of children before and after class. Parents DO NOT need to stay with children during the session.

Community Education Center

GED-HSED update

A new sign hangs on the wall of the Community Education Center. It reads: "Change (Classes, Services and Programs) is headed for the CEC!" What does this mean? The Community Education Center is revamping its current services, classes, and programs to better meet the needs of the Oneida Nation community. For instance, the CEC will be reducing and minimizing services that community members can access elsewhere in the community. The CEC will provide Oneida community members with new services, classes, and programs that will help them become more qualified for jobs, prepare them to succeed in their educational endeavors, and enable them to become more self-sufficient learners.

The CEC will continue to assist the Oneida Nation community members with GED preparation. Anyone who wishes to prepare for the GED exam would be advised to begin this process as soon as possible. It should be noted that the National Testing Services (NTS), which prepares and distributes all the GED tests for the United States, is scheduled to change and update the GED test questions and subject matter. The new test format will continue to include the standard mathematical concepts, but will add advanced branches of math, including questions in trigonometry. The new test will include short answers, sorting and multiple choice questions. The essay portion of the GED test will remain and the whole test will be computerized. The new format of the GED-HSED is scheduled to be implemented on January, 2014.

In addition to other classes and programs, the CEC has recently collaborated with the Oneida Human Resource Center, the College of Menominee Nation and the Department of Transportation on a successful TrANS program. TrANS is a public-private model to prepare the underemployed with skills needed to gain access to skilled jobs. It is a free program. In May, 2012, this program graduated 10 people who immediately began to work for the Oneida Housing Authority. CEC hopes to provide more opportunities of this kind to address the preparation and placement of Oneidas in skilled jobs.

Enrolled Oneida Nation young people will continue to be helped with PASS Units and 5.09 HSED services, free of charge, regardless of which area public school they attend. Quality instructional services will continue to provide limited high school credit through PASS units.

A College Bound Boot Camp will be offered at CEC from July 23 through July 26. This program will provide basic training to anyone who would like to review their computer skills, and to refresh and enhance the basic math and writing skills needed to satisfy the demands of college course work.

The Oneida Community Education Center will continue to provide updates on new programs, services, and classes offered throughout the year to meet the needs of the community. The CEC website is updated regularly and contains scheduled programs and planned development. CEC staff members invite community members to take a look at this valuable resource.

Comprehensive Plan Community Meeting Report

Submitted by the Oneida Planning Department

The first of ten monthly community meetings on the comprehensive plan elements was held on July 5, 2012 at the Little Bear Development Center. The July topic focused on housing. There are currently three entities in the organization that provide housing to our membership. They are the Oneida Housing Authority, managed by Dale Wheelock; the Division of Land Management, managed by Dr. Fred Muscavitch; and Elder Services from the Governmental Services Division, managed by Don White. # PCSD finalizes $29.9 mil. referendum plan

After five years of study, the Pulaski Community School District Board of Education recently approved plans for a $29.9 million referendum at their meeting on Wednesday, July 11. The original price tag of the referendum hovered near the $46 million mark but, after eight listening sessions with community members around the district, board members scaled back their referendum projects.

"We went out, spoke to the community, listened to our taxpayers, and sharpened the pencil," PCSD Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mel Lightner. "These updates are desperately needed, and we feel confident that these proposals will not only give our students the facilities they need and deserve, but will ensure that taxpayer money is used as efficiently as possible, as well."

Board members also approved a second part of the referendum for technology upgrades: a $650,000 revenue cap increase over five years. A revenue cap increase allows school districts to exceed the state mandated revenue caps for needed projects.

The $29.9 million dollar proposal will increase result in a 73 cent mill rate increase for individuals living within the PCSD, while a 42 cent mill rate increase will cover technology costs. If both questions pass, PCSD residents would see a mill rate increase of roughly $1.15 for five years before it would drop back down to a 73 cent increase.

As part of the $29.9 million proposal, nearly every school in the district would receive updates, upgrades and/or additions.

Fairview Elementary, which hasn't seen any major updates since it opened more than 40 years ago, would receive a new gymnasium (currently, the school only has one multi-purpose room that serves as both a cafeteria and a gym) as well as updated classroom space, a new library (the school's library is now housed in a classroom) and new HVAC components.

Renovations to Glenbrook Elementary would make the area around the school safer for students. Presently, the school's parking lot is too small and crowded to serve its student population, many of whom walk to school each day or are dropped off by parents or guardians. A larger parking lot with a more efficient traffic-flow pattern proposed in the referendum will solve these problems while providing a less hazardous environment for students.

Hillcrest Elementary, currently the district's fastest growing elementary school, would receive an updated library space (which will allow more than one classroom to use the library at a time) while the old library would be converted into two classrooms to better serve the growing student body.

At Sunnyside Elementary, classrooms located in the school's windowless basement would be moved to a first-floor addition, allowing natural light into the rooms, while the old classrooms would be converted into a larger library.

The district's athletics and aquatics facilities, which are now housed at Pulaski Community Middle School, would be moved to Pulaski High School as part of the referendum proposal.

The updated athletic facilities would include a multi-purpose field for varsity football and soccer use, and would accommodate the community's rugby program as well. The sports complex will also feature an updated track, a new baseball diamond, a new softball diamond and a competition soccer field. The new community aquatics facility would include an eight-lane competition swimming pool, as well as a warm-water therapy pool and a community fitness center with ample daytime hours for use by Pulaski area residents.

Technology updates, funded by the district's increased revenue cap, will help bring the PCSD more comparable to other school districts across the state.

Presently, the district spends roughly one percent of its total budget on technology, in contrast to the statewide average of about three percent. The increased revenue would bring the PCSD more in line with the state average while also replacing several hundred aging machines that have reached the end of their lifecycle and can no longer efficiently run new technology. Other long-term technology updates and upgrades include increased access to classroom devices for students at all grade levels.

"These devices will help propel student learning to prepare them for the world they'll enter after school," Amy Uelmen, District Technology Instructional Coordinator said. "These are important 21st century skills necessary for success in society today."

At their meeting on Wednesday, August 15, Board of Education members are slated to approve resolutions to that will bring the referendum to the citizens of the district in November. The meeting will be held in the PHS library at 6:00 p.m.

For more information about the district's referendum, visit www.pulaskischools.org/referendum.

Oneida Longhouse needs help from the community for Kalihwiyo

Shekoli Swakweku
(Greetings to all of you)

Many of you may not know, but here in Oneida, Wisc., we were given wampum by the Fire keepers and Delegates within the Confederacy. Symbolically, this means that our community has its own "fire," or place within the Chiefs Council. In August we will "bundle up our words" and send a delegation out East to inform the Kalihwiyo Delegation Tonawanda that we would like to host the Kalihwiyo (the Good Message) this fall. There is a lot of responsibility to carry this message and to recite these words. WE are very fortunate to have Wolf Clan Faith Keeper, Leander Danforth – Shalihokt "Come to the End of the Words" and his helper Bear Clan Faith Keeper, Ron Hill – Lanuhsunihe "He Builds a House," carry on with these traditions in our language.

Our Faith Keepers met on Sunday, June 11, 2012 after Strawberry Ceremony to discuss if, financially, we can host Kalihwiyo this year. We are in need of restroom facilities and a new floor in the longhouse as well as money for expenses such as: gas, hotel and stipend for speakers who will recite Kalihwiyo, food for guests and community for five days. Considering all of this we have collectively decided to go forward with hosting Kalihwiyo because of the importance for the community.

Here are our financial needs:

1. $8,000.00 to host the Kalihwiyo
2. $14,500.00 to build rest rooms and run water to the kitchen
3. For supplies only, labor is covered

STRATEGY: Pulling Together/Wrapping Our Minds as One

At this time, we are asking people to do an automatic payroll deduction if you work for the Oneida Tribe or donate to the Longhouse Account at Chase Bank, Green Bay WI. If you are interested in supporting our efforts, please contact: Gail Danforth, 920-869-2052 or 920-869-1676 or Ron Hill 920-490-5385 or 920-606-2183 to get a form if you want to do payroll deduction.

There are two Longhouse Accounts established: Please be specific as to which fund you would like to make your donation;

1. Our existing account Oneida Long House taxpayer ID no. 45-5500611. This account will be used specifically for Kalihwiyo, paying gas electric, porta potties etc.
2. Oneida Longhouse Building Fund taxpayer ID no. 45-5500178

This fund will be used specifically for new bathrooms, kitchen upgrade, re-do hardwood floors in long house and other renovations specific to the buildings.

All our contributions are tax deductible and can be specific to either account.

Donations can be made to either account at any Chase Bank name of account is bolded above; contributors should print their names on deposits so they can be properly identified for tax purposes and acknowledgments.

If we had just 100 people donate only $10.00 per week, we could potentially reach our goal in time for the Kalihwiyo. We are mindful that we all have responsibilities and limited financial resources. Even if someone is able to donate $5 or $2 per week, this would be beneficial and greatly appreciated. We will also have some upcoming raffles or bake sales and we encourage people to sign up to work, cook, or volunteer with some of these events. Contact Michelle King-Hill at 920-569-9439.

We think it is important to mention that we cannot do this with a small handful of people. There are hundreds of people that have come to the Longhouse to get names, have funerals, birthday socials, and many other things. These are all the good things that are encouraging us to continue to go on with what we need to do in our traditional ways. We hope we can look to them for support. Every little bit helps.

We send you our prayers and ask that you be mindful and come support your Longhouse.

Woodland Indian Art Show & Market celebrates 6th year

The Woodland Indian Art Show & Market successfully completed its 6th Annual year on July 1, 2012. It ran at the same time as the Oneida Powwow and for the 3rd time, you could find the Market in the Norbert Hill Center Building.

Fourteen artists from midwest American Indian Tribes set up booths and entered the juried art competition that took place on Friday, June 29th, 2012. An art market followed the art competition on Saturday and Sunday. Sponsors of this event are the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, Oneida Nation Arts Board, Bear Paw Café & Art Gallery, and the Wisconsin Arts Board. These artists turned a cafeteria area into an incredible woodland Indian art show that wowed the visitors when they entered the room. These artists are story tellers, and provided perfect examples of why a Woodland Indian Art Show is needed. You will see that the winners promoted the expression of Great Lakes and upper North American Indian culture through their art.

Stagger Lane Clay pot

The Traditional Art category of the Woodland Indian Art Show features artwork that comes from the artist's tribe, expresses the artist's heritage and has usually been practiced for several generations. The skills to create the artwork are typically passed on informally, for example, through some sort of apprenticeship. Artists must disclose use of synthetic hair, commercially tanned leather, plated metal, plastic beads and commercial synthetic materials used in the artwork. The artists who won in this category exemplify these standards. Ken Metoxen won 1st place for his "Stagger Lane Clay" pot. He explained his techniques for creating the pot:"The clay was dug up from Stagger Lane, Oneida REZ, WI. I processed the clay by taking out roots, stones, etc. Traditional gathering and processing was done through prayer, tobacco and guidance of Rose Kerstetter, master potter. This is a traditional Oneida hand built vessel with 16th century form and Oneida incising of female effigies. It was traditionally hand built and pit fired. No electric. No gas, No wheel throwing." Doug Limon won 2nd place for a traditional cradleboard. Cradleboards have been used for centuries by Indian tribes in North America. Doug's winning cradleboard was made from cedar, oak, rawhide and glass beads. He carved and bent the wood used and assembled it with rawhide and leather. He used a straight line method of beading to create a beautiful Monarch Butterfly, which was inlaid on the head of the cradleboard.

Kateri

Evergrowing Tree

Dawn Dark Mountain, a member of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin and a world class winning water colorist, took first and second place for her "Evergrowing Tree" and "Kateri" in the category of Two-Dimensional Art. The "Evergrowing Tree" depicts a wampum belt which was an open invitation for all nations of the earth to come under the centuries' old Iroquois laws of peace. There is no beginning and no end to it, and it can grow to accept as many nations as there are who want to sit under the tree of peace with the league of five Iroquois nations (Oneida, Mohawk, Onondaga, Seneca, Cayuga). The 38"H X 30"W "Evergrowing Tree" is painted in transparent watercolor on paper, which was cut and manipulated with glue and linen tape to depict the Wing Belt or Evergrowing Tree wampum Belt of the Iroquois. Dawn's second place artwork is called "Kateri." This piece honors a Mohawk woman named Kateri Tekakwitha, and reclaims her as a woman of the Iroquois. Kateri was born in New York in 1656 and died in Caughnawaga, Canada in 1680. During Kateri's short life, she impressed all who knew her with her remarkable life of virtue. Upon Kateri's death, devotion to her began immediately by her people. This year, the Catholic Church announced that she would be canonized as a saint. Dawn used transparent watercolor on paper to complete her 30"h X 38"w "Kateri."

Unmatched Pair of Boots

Victorian Memories

Iroquois Raised Beadwork is a unique art category that is only found at the Oneida Woodland Indian Art Show because there are so many excellent beaders here.

Betty Willems, who took first and second place for her "Victorian Memories" and "Unmatched pair of Boots" is no exception. Besides at the Woodland Indian Art Show and Market, Betty has won Best of Show for her garments and beadwork at the Cherokee Indian Art Market in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Iroquois Raised Beadwork became a highly prized commercial product when it began to be sold at world fairs and to tourists in the Niagara Falls area. This art was recently revived with the Oneidas in Wisconsin through the commitment of a growing number of men and women.

Ojibwe Moccasins

Functional Items and Apparel is the most diverse category in the Woodland Indian Art Show, and includes clothing, jewelry, beadwork, rattles and drums, for example. Sandra Peterson, a member of the Lac du Flambeau Band of Chippewa, won first place in this category with a pair of "Ojibwe Moccasins." They are described as being handmade and sewn out of buckskin and decorated with beads. Robyn Buschke, a member of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin, took 2nd place in this category with a ruffled seed bead necklace, decorated with amythyst.

Ren Katchenago, Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa & Chippewa, won first place in the Three Dimensional Art category with a piece he called "Winter Song." His artwork captured four singers around a drum similar to what you would expect to see at a northern woodland Powwow. It was a beautiful piece of art carved from plaster on pine with copper accents on the drumsticks. Each figure was intensely involved with their song, and it was captivating, no matter what direction you were looking at it. Mark Fischer's "Rabbit Dance" won second place in the Three Dimensional Art category. The rabbit dance is a social dance done at most gatherings of the Longhouse people. It is a fun, lively dance, and Mark has captured this happy feeling in his rabbit dancing the "Rabbit Dance." It is so amazing how much life Mark Fischer can hammer and hand form from copper and hard silver. All his pieces are story tellers, and the green patina of the copper comes from Mark's fascination with ancient Indian pictographs. Mark is a member of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin.

Heat wave causes concerns for community safety

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Dangerously high temperatures along with high humidity prompted the Emergency Management Homeland Security (EMHS) area to open the Oneida VFW to provide relief.

Temperatures reached the 90-degree level numerous times making Monday, July 16 the fourth time an emergency cooling shelter was utilized in the Oneida area.

The process to open a cooling shelter may not be as easy and defined as thought.

"We have a plan that's adopted by resolution. The problem is getting all of these departments to go with the plan. We have buildings that have been walked through by public safety officials that have been designated as shelters," said EMHS Director Marty Antone.

According to Antone, the adopted plan calls for an assessment to be done by primary responders, such as police officers, to determine the need and level of response needed to a situation.

There are no criteria like certain temperature thresholds, to utilize a cooling shelter. Antone said resources must be wisely used and a few heat related incidents will not necessarily open a shelter.

"We have to weigh how many people versus cranking up the electricity and cooling a building down," he said. "We have the library, casino, and the mall. There are places people can go to get cold. That's why the initial assessment is so critical."

Once a shelter is open public safety officials complete a series of evaluations to determine what is needed.

"We do have partnerships with the Red Cross and we do make on-site assessments to determine what services are needed. Depending on the needs that walk through the door we have contacts we can contact for assistance," Antone said.

Antone acknowledges that everyone may not know when the shelter is available some outreach work was done.

"We've had presentations at elder sites but people can forget, too. We have a public information officers and we depend on them to get the word out for us," he said.

Antone does offer some simple but effective advice.

"If you don't have to be outside be inside. Don't risk it. Watch for blotchy skin and dizziness. Sun block should be required," he said.

Wis. officials confirm 8 heat-related deaths

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Wisconsin health officials confirm eight heat-related deaths since July 1. And another 11 deaths also may be heat-related.

While half of the confirmed deaths happened in southern Wisconsin, officials say two of the deaths were in Barron County and two in La Crosse County.

Officials continue to urge Wisconsin residents to take precautions as the hot weather continues this week.

State Health Officer Dr. Henry Anderson says people should keep hydrated, slow down, stay indoors and avoid strenuous exercise during the hottest part of the day.

The Department of Health Services continues to gather information on the number of heat-related deaths statewide.

Conviction reinstated in NY cigarette case

NEW YORK (AP) ~ A federal appeals court has reinstated a racketeering conspiracy conviction of one of New York's biggest cigarette dealers.

The three-judge panel in Manhattan reversed a lower court decision vacating the conviction of Rodney Morrison.

The ruling on Monday means the already jailed Morrison must return to court for sentencing on the conspiracy count. No date was set.

Morrison had been targeted by an investigation of untaxed tobacco flowing from the state's Indian reservations. He was accused in 2004 of running a violent criminal enterprise that fed the cigarette black market.

He was acquitted of murder, robbery and arson, and later convinced the judge to toss out the conspiracy conviction. But he was convicted of gun possession.

A judge sentenced him to 10 years in prison on the weapons count.

OBC approves Secretary's office re-org plan

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) took action dissolving a department as part of the tribe's re-organization effort that started when the Chief of Staff and General Manager positions were eliminated September of last year.

With a three votes in favor, one against, and three abstaining, the Communications Department was dissolved with staff being shifted to Legislative Affairs office, Tribal Secretary's office, and the Internal Services Division.

In all, 27 positions were affected as 19 were transferred, two were reassigned, and six were eliminated. All of the eliminated positions have already been vacated and many of the reassignments and transfers were completed before the OBC action on Wednesday.

During the September 28, 2011 OBC meeting the committee took action to undertake a major re-organization of the tribe's structure.

In 2000 the General Tribal Council approved re-organization of the tribe under a proposal called Plan B.

The then sitting OBC viewed the GTC action as out of order and rejected Plan B.

During the 2011 meeting, the current OBC rescinded resolution BC-8-2-00-B, which ruled the GTC action in 2000 was out of order. By rescinding the resolution Plan B was put in place eventually eliminating the General Manager, Assistant General Manager and Chief of Staff positions.

With the addition of staff to the Legislative Affairs office it will reorganize as the Office of Public Affairs to include public relations functions.

The Tribal Secretary's office will also provide tribal member information services. A new position titled Tribal Member Information Services Manager will be created by eliminating the political appointee position in the Tribal Secretary's office.

OBC Councilmember Brandon Stevens feels the re-organization topic still has more work that needs to be done.

"The committee still needs to address this issue," he said. "There was a big emphasis in the beginning of our administration to do this and it fell to the side."

According to Tribal Secretary Patty Hoeft, the employee movement will positively affect the major functions of her office. The employees will offer assistance handling administrative duties of the Secretary's office to the OBC and General Tribal Council (GTC), getting information to the GTC, and records management.

"A lot of these people will be put in positions that will really enhance their experience," she said.

When asked if pay rates for affected employees would stay the same Hoeft wouldn't offer specific details.

"We are trying to approach this as we have been discussing since the start of this business cycle of trying to reduce our expenses," she said.

Tribes may soon approve own land leases

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ A bill giving Native American tribes authority over agreements to lease their lands for development awaits the president's signature.

Supporters say the legislation, called the HEARTH Act, will hasten housing construction, clean energy and business or industry development on tribal lands. It allows tribes to approve their own land leasing agreements rather than the Bureau of Indian Affairs, if they choose. The Navajo Nation already has this sort of authority.

The Interior Secretary still must approve the tribes' leasing regulations. The bill does not apply to oil and gas leases. The administration issued new leasing regulations last November that set deadlines for approval of leases to end long delays.

The House approved the bill in May. The Senate approved it Tuesday by voice vote. The president's signature would make it law.

Ancient remains found in western WI construction site

Onalasks, WI (AP) – Archaeologists are finding ancient remains that might be of Native Americans beneath the reconstruction of Highway 35.

Scientists from the Mississippi Valley Archaeology Center have found almost two dozen likely skeletal fragments. They've also found hundreds of food and garbage pits, cooking hearths, tools and other artifacts of the Oneota people who inhabited the Onalaska area between about 1300 and 1600 A.D.

All burial sites are protected by state law. Jim Becker, the archaeology program manager for the Wisconsin Department of Transportation, told the La Crosse Tribune that any time remains are discovered during construction, the state must stop work and consult with the Wisconsin Historical Society.

"We knew that we had a burial site in there and that there was going to be more coordination," Becker said.

In accordance with federal law, state officials met with interested parties, including the historical society and the Ho-Chunk Nation to agree on a process for monitoring construction and looking for archaeological and human remains.

The site was previously a village occupied by ancestors of the Ho-Chunk, Ioway, Oto and Missouria tribes, said laboratory director Connie Arzigian. In many cases, Arzigian said, they've only found bone fragments, which will be sent to a skeletal analyst to verify whether they are human.

When remains are found, archaeologists usually try to leave them in place, but the road project makes that difficult, Arzigian said.

From 1A/USDA visit

work with the natural resources conservation service and the forest service," said Sherman. "I'm learning an enormous amount about the Oneida."

Sherman visited the Menominee reservation on Tuesday to learn about their forestry operation.

"I think both of these tribes are representative of many of the positive, expanding examples USDA has working with tribes across the country. And I'm learning a tremendous amount about how we can strengthen and improve our relationships," he said.

Sherman was particularly impressed with the way the 11 tribes in Wisconsin coordinated their work with the Natural Resources Conservation Service and the United States Forest Service.

"That's a model for the United States. I think this is the first time that this is happened in the country, and we're hoping that the tribes here in Wisconsin will reach out and provide this example to other tribes in other states," he said.

Sherman stated the USDA was working on improving protection and access to sites sacred to Native American.

"There are a variety of very important, historical sites that Native Americans want to preserve, they want access to those sites, so part of our goal is to help to facilitate an appreciation, an awareness of that, make sure that we are doing our job to protect those sites and allow Native Americans to get to those sites and to honor their culture and their history," he said.

Patrick J. Pelky, Division Director of Environmental, Health & Safety Division, stated his department was excited to welcome Sherman and Leavenworth.

"It was a great opportunity to showcase our successful partnerships with some of the USDA programs on how our Tribe is making a real difference on our Tribal lands," Pelky wrote in an email. "They seem pleased with our stewardship of our natural resources, including agricultural lands, forestland, wetlands, streams and small lakes through our sound agricultural and natural resources technical practices and projects."

OBC Councilman Paul Ninham was pleased to work with Sherman.

"The Natural Resources Conservation Service works very close with Tribes throughout Indian Country. The most notable exchange during the day was the Under Secretary offering the Oneida Tribe to visit him in DC and that he would introduce us to key persons drafting the Farm Bill," wrote Ninham in an email.

Farmers Encouraged to Report Crop Losses and Low Yields to FSA

Appleton, WISCONSIN ~ With recent dry weather conditions in some areas of the state, the Farm Service Agency (FSA) encourages farmers to document and report crop losses or low crop yields to their local FSA county office.

Producers must report crop losses resulting from a weather-related disaster event within 15 days of the disaster or when the loss first becomes apparent, this includes crops covered by crop insurance and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP). Prevented planting must be reported no later than 15 days after the final planting date.

Crop losses are acres that were timely planted with the intent to harvest, but the crop failed because of a natural disaster. It is important that producers file accurate and timely loss reports to prevent the potential loss of FSA program benefits.

Although low yield acreage does not need to be reported, producers are encouraged to keep good production records on acreage with a low crop yield to document crop losses.

Farmers are reminded that they may revise FSA crop reports free of charge. A crop report revision, however, must be verified by physical evidence of the crop in a field spot check.

In addition, farmers are encouraged to report crop conditions to their county FSA offices so that the information may be used to support the potential request for a disaster declaration.

Additional information in regard to failed crop acreage or crop losses covered by the Non-Insured Assistance Program (NAP) can be obtained by contacting your local county office. FSA program information is also available online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Postal Service Introduces PayPal as Online Shipping Payment Option

ONEIDA, WI ~ The U.S. Postal Service has added PayPal as a payment option for its popular Click-N-Ship online shipping application.

Customers using Click-N-Ship now can choose to pay for their shipping labels using a credit card, Bill Me Later, or PayPal.

PayPal is just one of several enhancements added to the U. S. Postal Service's Click-N-Ship tool and part of a broader redesign of usps.com to make the online shipping and shopping experience more flexible. "Our customers have told us they would like more payment options when shipping online and that's why we are excited to announce we are now accepting PayPal," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig.

How does it work? PayPal is a global e-commerce payment option that allows customers to pay for their purchases over the internet. Once Clink-N-Ship customers have completed their shipping labels and are ready to check out, they simply select the PayPal option.

PayPal allows customers to pay securely, without sharing financial information. The service provides flexibility to pay with multiple options, including PayPal account balances, bank accounts, credit cards or promotional financing. PayPal is a fast and secure way to pay that fits perfectly into the U.S. Postal Service's expanding online strategy to make it easier and more convenient for customers to do their postal business — anytime, anywhere.

"Get to know the new Click-N-Ship — online 24/7," added Koenig. "It's never been so quick, easy, and convenient to ship with the U.S. Postal Service."

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.m

Paying bills online is easy. It takes less time than opening an envelope, reviewing the bill, writing a check, finding a stamp and mailing it. Not to mention keeping and filing manual records of your payments.

How do I pay a bill online?
Once you've enrolled and entered your Payees, just enter a payment amount, schedule the payment date and you're done.

If I pay bills online, do I give up control of when payments are made?
Absolutely not. You'll always be in control. You decide whom, when and how often payments are made.

Need to cancel or change a payment?
No problem, as long as it's done before the processing date.

How is the payment sent to my Payee/Biller?
You will not always know if your payment is sent electronically or by paper check. While many payments will be made electronically, some Payees/Billers cannot receive electronic payments (such as individuals). Those Payees/Billers will be sent payments by paper check.

Letters & Opinions...

Good Samaritan

"THANK YOU to the Elder who gave my Grandmother a ride on Sunday, July 1st at 1:00 PM to our vehicle. At the start of Grand Entry we received some unexpected, unfortunate news that my 23 year-old Niece had passed away out of state. Although I don't know your name I want to thank you for taking us to the truck on the cart, placing your hand of comfort on her shoulder and providing condolences. Thank you"

Selfless Act

On July 18, 2012 at the Oneida One Stop West Wind, a customer went out of his way to run across Hinckle St to help two handicapped individuals in wheelchairs. He pushed them both up the hill to the stoplights at W. Mason. I thought this was a very generous and thoughtful act to go out of his way to help others. Actions such as this should not go unrecognized, as it is a positive reflection of the values that are instilled in our people. A Big Thank You Gary Adams, Jr. for your thoughtful acts of kindness.

Loretta Says... School Days

Loretta Metoxen • *Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • *Providing a connection to the past

I was born on June 8, so I entered school when I was just six years old. There was no kindergarten that I could go to. We lived on Kalb Avenue in The Little Yellow House, perpendicular from Schroeder's Greenhouse on Webster. It was a rural area, in that there were only farms across the road. One of the farms belonged to Ben Hunt and his wife. They were a black family with two children: Ben and Jessie Ellen. Later, Ben and Jessie Ellen were placed in the Guardian Angel School at Oneida. I liked to go to their house because they had a full size Charley McCarthy dummy, some goats and chickens.

I walked to school, more than a mile away—past two huge cemeteries, the Woodlawn Cemetery and the Allouez Catholic Cemetery, both on Webster Avenue and St. Joseph's Orphanage, and the Bishop's House. That was a first class adventure for a six year old kid. By that time, I heard a lot of stories about cemeteries. The Nuns were always herding the orphans in rows, two by two, and I had to make my way around them on the sidewalk. I didn't pay much attention to the orphans, but I liked the huge chestnut trees that lined the walk from the orphanage. One time, when the bushes along the walkway were turning yellow and brown, I looked back and thought I saw a tiger. After that, I ran all the way home and was scared to venture in that direction again.

The Allouez Elementery School was next to the Catholic Cemetery. There is a CVS Drug Store there now. After the school building was razed, a Walgreen's Drug Store was built there.

Here, I attended the first and second grades. Miss Fogarty was my first grade teacher. I remember she had a hair-do called a bob and black net stockings. Why I would remember that at age six is anybody's guess. We did a lot of art work with colored construction paper, blunt scissors and white paste. The white paste came in a huge jar—maybe about a two quart size. I tasted the paste and it was kind of minty, so I ate a lot of it. I was caught and admonished and I bawled a long time. We studied the famous Dick and Jane books. See Dick. See Dick Run. Run Dick Run, same thing for Jane. I knew the whole story before I entered school because my mother, Grace Skenandore Kurowski, taught me how to read at home before I ever went to school. I was indignant and quite upset when Miss Fogarty introduced me to a book I had not seen before.

For some reason I do not remember the name of my second grade teacher. I do remember what she looked like though. She was an older lady. My highlight in the second grade was a Felix the Cat movie. And I think there was a character in it called Steam Boat Willie. I belonged to a girl's group that played games like "Ring Around the Rosie" and "Duck, Duck, Goose". I was a year older, but I was still afraid to walk past the cemeteries and the Bishop's house.

In 1939, we moved to 1230 Thomas Street, just off Velp Avenue. This area was sparsely settled with just a few houses on each block. Dad had about an acre of garden that he spaded and worked by hand. I walked to Elmore School in the third grade. Miss Donavan was my teacher and she was a little on the plump side. I remember a lot about the third grade. I built a solar system with clay balls suspended on string in a cardboard box. I drew two geisha girls in among the cherry blossoms. I didn't know what geisha girls were, but they struck my fancy, so I drew them and won an honors award for it. We did a dance called the minuet. I had a long "Martha Washington" dress that our neighbor, Mrs. Okray, made for me. We had singing class every Friday. That's where I learned the Brahm's lullaby.

Dad bought Stuckart's farm on the Second Ridge. We moved there in September, 1941. The farm is midway between the Oneida Village and Silvery Summit School on the First Ridge—two miles in either direction. My sister Shirley and I walked to Silvery Summit School. We did have bicycles, blue for me, maroon for Shirley. They were heavy and lots of fun flying down the hills on them on the gravel roads, but they had to be pushed up the opposite hill and that was a big job for a nine- year-old and a seven year old.

School was fun for me. There were five grades in the big classroom. Some grades only had three students. Our class was the largest. There were four guys who always hung around together: Mervin Jordan, Hyson Powless, Erwin Cottrell and Max Antepenko. Two Summers' girls sisters: Noel (Fudge) and Lavinia. Jane and Ruth Skenandore, Louise's family, were also sisters, Marie Webster and Thelma King and myself. There may have been two others that I can't recall.

This is the little school where I learned everything. My fourth grade geography had stories about Baffin Island, the Congo and the Great Sahara Desert. My Social Studies book taught me Greek Mythology and about the Hanging Gardens of Babylon. A picture of "The Gleaners" was hanging on the wall, so I had to find out what that was about. I think it was done by Millet showing women picking up grain in the fields that had been left. I read every book in the library. I got A's in every subject and D in deportment. Deportment is behavior. I didn't want to bring my report card home with a D on it, especially in deportment. My fifth grade teacher was LaPearl Powless. She was the daughter of Manuel and Lydia Powless and an excellent teacher. We fifth graders wrote out "The Christmas Carol" with an indelible pencil and then made copies on the gelatin medium. We put the play together. I was Marley with the chains. I put up an entire life-size display of the Crusaders in action on the Black Board. I really didn't know what the Crusades were all about, but the display looked fantastic. The majority of the students attending Silvery Summit were Oneida students, but there were no subjects that taught Indian studies or the Oneida history.

Public Hearing Notice

11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Child Support Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Child Support Law (the Law) is to establish the legal responsibility of parents to provide financially for their children's well-being based on the real earning capability of parents. The Law establishes a standard of support for those children whose paternity has been established or acknowledged and encourages the use of voluntary agreements to resolve any disputes over child support obligations. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Overtime Pay. Specifically include overtime pay in the definition of Gross Income for the purposes of paying child support.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Notice. Amend notice of hearings, thereby requiring that only the notice of the initial action be served via certified mail and all subsequent notices by first-class mail.
- Publication. Amend the provision regarding notice via publication. Due to the Kalihwisaks changing the frequency of their publication, the law now requires publication three consecutive times in either the Kalihwisaks or other newspaper in the county where the respondent resides.
- Past-due Obligations. Update the section on arrears to now include past-due obligations.
- Review. Require the Agency to review the child support order every two years. If a substantial change in circumstances exists, then the agency is required to file a motion with the Appeals Commission to have the order amended if the parties cannot agree to the amendment.
- Motion to Amend. Authorize any party to file a motion to modify the child support order, and sets the timing for scheduling a hearing to no sooner than ten calendar days after the date of service on the opposing party.

August 9, 2012

Purpose: Oneida Paternity Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Paternity Law (the Law) is to establish paternity of Oneida children and other Indian children in order to protect the best interests of these children regarding such matters as enrollment, customs and traditions of the Tribe, survivorship and inheritance, health, support, and social security benefits. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Timing of Filing. Allow a petition to determine paternity to be filed at any time after the child is born.
- Notice. Amend the provision regarding mail delivery to allow for regular first-class mail rather than registered or certified mail.
- Update of Address. Require the alleged fathers' who appear and participate in an action to inform and keep updated their current address at all time with the Agency and the Appeals Commission.
- Administrative Subpoenas. Authorize the Agency to issue administrative subpoenas to require the mother, child and alleged father(s) to appear and take a paternity test.
- Reopening of Judgment. Clarify that either the adjudicated father or the Agency can reopen a default judgment of paternity.
- Stipulations. Allow for the alleged father to stipulate to paternity and then to custody, placement and child support matters.

Public Hearing Process

I. Testimony:

A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. # Thompson goes after Hovde in new US Senate race ad

Madison, WI (AP) – Former Wisconsin Gov. Tommy Thompson has unleashed his first attack ad of the U.S. Senate race campaign, accusing hedge fund manager Eric Hovde of gaming the system and betting against American taxpayers.

Hovde, who polls show is gaining on Thompson with the primary three weeks away, posted a response on his campaign website Monday calling Thompson's television ad "a disappointing and disingenuous display of politics as usual."

Thompson's latest spot going after Hovde, released on Saturday, came a day after Thompson sent both Hovde and third candidate Mark Neumann a letter complaining about their ads attacking him.

The latest back and forth between the candidates shows a further intensification of the race to fill Wisconsin's open Senate seat vacated by the retirement of Democrat Herb Kohl. Besides Thompson, Hovde and Neumann, state Assembly Speaker Jeff Fitzgerald is also running as a Republican. U.S. Rep. Tammy Baldwin is the only Democrat in the race.

Hovde opponents have been trying to knock down his campaign as it appears to be gaining momentum. The national anti-tax group Club for Growth launched a television ad attacking him and Thompson two weeks ago. Neumann is also running his own spot attacking Hovde's conservative credentials because he donated $500 to Democratic Gov. Jim Doyle in 2006.

Hovde responded with his own spot last week, accusing Thompson and Neumann of slinging mud in an attempt to distract attention from their own poor records.

In Thompson's latest, his first attack ad of the campaign, he accuses Hovde of running a hedge fund that "used 'Uncle Sam' to buy banks" and "gamed the system and bet against American companies and homeowners."

Ongoing investigation of fires on Lac Courte Oreilles reservation

Madison, WI (AP) – Police are investigating a rash of suspicious fires on a northwestern Wisconsin tribal reservation.

Lac Courte Oreilles (lah-COOT'-oh-ray) tribal police issued a statement saying authorities received reports of six fires on Saturday and Sunday. The fires damaged a store's siding, a storage shed, two sweat lodges, tribal powwow grounds and a ceremonial ring.

The statement says tribal police contacted the state fire marshal. Tribal police and the Sawyer County Sheriff's Department apprehended a person of interest on Sunday evening but the statement offers no further details.

Raylene Wolf, a tribal police office assistant, says the department won't release any additional information because the investigation is ongoing. A message left at the sheriff's department wasn't immediately returned. State Justice Department spokeswoman Dana Brueck referred questions to tribal police.

Wis. DOJ starts voter ID appeal process

Madison, WI (AP) – The state Justice Department has begun the process of appealing a Madison judge's order blocking Wisconsin's new voter identification law.

Republicans passed a bill last year that requires all voters to show photo identification at the polls. Dane County Circuit Judge David Flanagan ruled last week that the law impairs the right to vote.

Republican Attorney General J.B. Van Hollen, who leads the Justice Department, has said he believes the law is constitutional. On Monday the agency filed an appeal notice with the 2nd District Court of Appeals in Waukesha, a Republican stronghold.

The notice begins the appeal process.

Another Madison judge has blocked the law in a separate lawsuit. Van Hollen is appealing that decision, too.

Wis. DNR reminds hunters app deadline approaching

Madison, WI (AP) – The state Department of Natural Resources is reminding hunters the permit application deadline for multiple seasons is fast approaching.

Applications are due by Aug. 1 for the fall turkey, sharp-tailed grouse, bobcat, fisher and otter seasons as wells for Canada geese in the Horicon Zone.

Hunters can apply for permits on the DNR's website, at any authorized license agent or at DNR service centers. A bobcat permit application runs $6. Applications for the other seasons cost $3.

As drought continues, Wisconsin corn crop suffers

Milwaukee, WI (AP) – As the drought continues, Wisconsin's corn crop remains in sad shape.

In its weekly crop progress report for Wisconsin, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Monday that 43 percent of the state's corn crop is in very poor or poor condition, with just 31 percent rated as good to excellent. Hay yields are coming up short due to a lack of moisture, plus insects.

Only 23 percent of the state's soil has adequate moisture, with 46 percent of the state very short. Ninety-nine percent of the soil in south-central Wisconsin is rated short or very short.

Forty-five percent of the corn in the 18 states that planted the most corn acreage last year is in very poor to poor condition as the drought continues across most of the Midwest.

Report: 10,000 construction jobs lost in Wisconsin

Madison, WI (AP) – A new report says Wisconsin lost more than 10,000 construction jobs in the last year.

The Associated General Contractors of America says the state's construction employment dropped about 11 percent from June 2011 to June 2012. Only Alaska is worse with a 20 percent job loss in the construction industry.

The trade group's chief economist, Ken Simonson, says private sector demand for buildings is up in most states, but single-family home building is spotty and public investments in construction are shrinking.

The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reports Wisconsin got hit harder than some other states because of its shorter construction season.

Wis. domestic-violence victims seeking more help

Madison, WI (AP) – State officials say victims of domestic abuse are staying longer in shelters and seeking more assistance.

The Department of Children and Families says the number of victims staying in domestic-abuse shelters is roughly constant, but those victims are staying 12 percent longer.

Shannon Barry is the executive director of Domestic Abuse Intervention Services in Madison. She tells Wisconsin Public Radio her shelter is feeling the effects of that trend.

She says many victims are reporting more severe violence, more stalking and more death threats. They require longer shelter stays with more intensive support.

Carmen Pitre is with the Sojourner Family Peace Center in Milwaukee. She says she's seeing the same trend.

Barry and Pitre both attribute the situation to a challenging combination of poverty and unemployment.

No one hurt as wildfires spread on SD reservation

By Amber Hunt
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. ~ Just as firefighters had contained about 25 percent of the wildfires cutting through the Rosebud Indian Reservation in south-central South Dakota, a lightning strike started another blaze, effectively doubling the battleground.

Dozens of residents remained evacuated Monday as authorities looked hopefully at weather forecasts predicting thunderstorms Monday and Tuesday nights.

But Rocky Mountain Area Incident Commander Joe Lowe said the weather so far hasn't been cooperating. The area saw rain over the weekend, but the "thunderstorms come in and just miss us by about four or five miles," he told a gathering of residents and officials Monday at a Rosebud Sioux Tribe meeting broadcast on the web.

So far, no homes have been hit and no injuries reported. But some residents aren't sure whether they've lost pets or cattle in the blazes, which began late last week.

Authorities estimated that various fires cover at least 7,500 acres - or more than 11 square miles - on the reservation. That's similar in size to another blaze 10 miles northwest of Edgemont, where firefighters built a fire line Monday around the newest portion of the Mossagate Fire. Meanwhile, the nearly 16-square-mile Myrtle fire continued to burn farther west in the Black Hills. Authorities on Monday said that blaze was about 40 percent contained _ thanks, in part, to weekend rainfall.

Shane Del Grosso, a fire behavior analyst, told Rosebud residents that the reservation fires were fueled in part by the recent drought. Flames were 8 to 9 feet high. Where there's brush, some flames soared past 20 feet, he said.

Tribe President Rodney Bordeaux has asked for state and federal help. Residents have been told to document losses to report to the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Firefighters planned to pre-emptively burn off brush in hopes of controlling the fires' path, a move Del Grosso acknowledged was risky.

"We're doing it under our terms, and not the fire's terms," he said.

Lowe said a helicopter would go up late Monday or early Tuesday in hopes of spotting at-risk cattle, some of whom could be wandering in the burn area without water. Firefighters also hoped to find and save domestic animals.

State Fire Meteorologist Darren Clabo said that even without rain, cooler temperatures are headed to the area, with highs hitting the low 90s. Humidity should also increase, helping firefighters' efforts.

"Hopefully, that'll help put this fire to bed," he said.

High winds cause damage, injuries on Pine Ridge

OGLALA, S.D. (AP) ~ Several residents of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation are recovering after strong winds tore through the area this weekend, damaging homes.

Oglala Sioux Tribe spokeswoman Donna Salomon tells The Associated Press that the wind blew some trailers away. She says several people suffered injuries when the homes were blown away and were sent to the Pine Ridge Indian Health Services Hospital for injuries. The extent of the injuries is unclear.

Wayne Weston, the tribe's emergency manager, is surveying the damage.

The tribe will be working with the Red Cross to provide the displaced families clothing, food and personal items.

Leaders say climate is changing Native way of life

By Suzanne Gamboa
Associated Press

WASHINGTON ~ Native American and Alaska Native leaders told of their villages being under water because of coastal erosion, droughts and more on Thursday during a Senate hearing intended to draw attention to how climate change is affecting tribal communities.

The environmental changes being seen in native communities are "a serious and growing issue and Congress needs to address them," Tex Hall, chairman of the Mandan, Hidatsa and Arikara Nation of New Town, North Dakota, said Wednesday.

Mike Williams, chief of the Yupit Nation in Akiak, Alaska, said in the informational Senate Indian Affairs Committee hearing, that villages are literally being wiped out by coastal erosion. Williams said he can cast a net and catch salmon at his childhood home because the home is under water, he said. He also described how the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race, in which he participates, has been moved because of lack of snowfall and that dogs must run at night to stay cool.

"We've always lived off the land and off the waters and continue to do that. But we're bearing the burden of living with these conditions today," Williams said.

Sen. Daniel Akaka, committee chairman, acknowledged that environmental changes are widespread, but the Hawaii Democrat said native communities are disproportionately impacted because they depend on nature for traditional food, sacred sites, and for cultural ceremonies. Several tribes already are coming up with plans to adapt to the changes and federal agencies are assisting with resources, Akaka said.

Members of several West Coast tribes and Alaska communities have been in Washington this week for a symposium at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of the American Indian on the impact of climate change on indigenous people and their communities. The symposium, titled First Steward, brought together tribal leaders, people experiencing the changes and scientists.

Williams said Congress needs to come up with a strategic plan to address the impact to help ensure Alaska Natives and American Indian tribes continue to exist. He said in coming up with the plan, Congress should consider Native practices and traditional knowledge.

Native Americans to celebrate white bison in Conn.

By Michael Melia
Associated Press

GOSHEN, Conn. ~ The birth of a white bison, among the rarest of animals, is bringing Native Americans who consider it a sacred event to celebrate at one of the least likely of places, a farm in New England.

Hundreds of people, including tribal elders from South Dakota, are expected to attend naming ceremonies later this month at the northwestern Connecticut farm of Peter Fay, a fourth-generation Goshen farmer.

Native Americans in the area have come with gifts of tobacco and colored flags for Fay and the bull calf since it was born there a month ago, and Fay is planning to offer his hay field as a campsite for the expected crowds.

"They say it's going to bring good things to all people in the world. How can you beat that? That's the way I look at it," Fay said.

Connecticut farms host only about 100 bison, a tiny fraction of the populations in Western states, such as South Dakota, the home of Sioux tribes that attach the greatest spiritual meaning to white bison. As some push for greater recognition of the bison's significance to both the United States and Native Americans, advocates say the event on the far-flung East Coast is well-placed to boost exposure for the cause.

Fay, whose family traditionally stuck to dairy farming, took on bison four years ago as a hobby, enamored by the animals' toughness. He built his herd to 40 before recently selling half of them.

Word spread rapidly after the arrival of the white bison, which experts say is as rare as one in 10 million, and Fay invited Native Americans for the ceremonies at his farm below Mohawk Mountain. In turn, he and his two daughters were asked to participate in the celebrations, which will include a feast and talks by the elders.

"They're here almost every day, teaching me," said the 53-year-old Fay, who has bison tattoos on his shoulder and chest.

Marian White Mouse, a member of the Oglala Lakota tribe in South Dakota, said the birth of a white bison is a sign from a prophet, the White Buffalo Calf Woman, who helped them endure times of strife and famine. White Mouse's family of four is flying to Connecticut for the ceremonies.

"For me, it's like a surreal event. I never thought in my wildest dreams I would ever come in contact with one of them in my lifetime," said White Mouse, 51, of Wanblee, S.D.

Jim Stone, the executive director of the InterTribal Buffalo Council in Rapid City, S.D., said the oral traditions of many tribes honor white bison, which have become a universal symbol for hope and unity. He said each such birth is also an opportunity for tribes to share their history, and the celebration in Connecticut is likely to touch many non-tribal people.

The calf, born on June 16, is off-white - not an albino - and Fay said he is certain the bloodlines are pure, although he has sent its DNA for testing to confirm there was no intermingling with cattle. Fay, who also works at an excavating and rock-crushing business, focuses on breeding and selling the bison calves, but he has not determined what will happen with the white one.

To address concerns for the calf's safety, he also has at least one person stay at the farm around the clock. Last year, a white bison calf born in Texas was found dead and skinned - a slaughter that some suspect as an anti-Indian hate crime. Fay did not want the date of the ceremonies this month publicized.

Tens of millions of bison once roamed America's plains, but the over-hunted population shrank to about 1,000 toward the end of the 1800s. Their numbers have rebounded to several hundred thousand, and wildlife and tribal groups are now pushing Congress to have the bison recognized as America's "national mammal." The National Bison Legacy Act was introduced in the Senate in May.

"Any kind of awareness we can raise around bison is a good thing," said Jim Matheson, assistant director of the National Bison Association in Denver.

Feds urge colleges to adopt new student aid form

By Christine Armario
AP Education Writer

U.S. Education Secretary Arne Duncan is urging colleges and universities to adopt an easy-to-understand financial aid form to help students make smarter decisions on where to study, how to pay and determine what they'll owe.

The Department of Education and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau are unveiling a "shopping sheet" Tuesday that would provide each incoming student with information on the costs of tuition, housing and other fees.

The one-page document also is designed to help students figure out how much they would receive in grants and scholarships and what options are available for loans. Additionally, it would also provide details on the percentage of students who graduate, how much the average student pays monthly on federal loans after graduation and the default rate.

Colleges and universities will not be required to use the form. Duncan said he will be sending an open letter encouraging all institutions to adopt it. In June, the Education Department announced that 10 universities had agreed to provide information similar to what is in the new form.

The Education Department and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau released findings from a report on Friday concluding that risky lending caused private student loan debt to balloon over the last decade, leaving many Americans struggling to pay off loans they cannot afford.

The study focused on private student loans, which spiked from $5 billion in 2001 to more than $20 billion in 2008. The market shrank to $6 billion in 2011 after the financial crisis and a tightening of lending standards. Student loan debt has surpassed credit cards as the largest source of unsecured debt for U.S. consumers; Americans now owe more than $1 trillion in student loans.

Duncan said many colleges and universities use student aid letters that are confusing to understand and don't make clear exactly how much is being offered in aid and scholarships, making it difficult for families to comparison shop.

He called the shopping sheet a "step in the right direction."

"All of us share a responsibility for making college affordable," he said. "And for keeping the middle class dream alive."

We All Are Family

A project developed for the Re-vitalization of Tsiʔniyukwaliho·tʌ́ (Geet ne yoo gwa le ho da) all of us our ways - through the 'Renewal of Family Titles and Ties'.

This project was supported by Award No. 2010-TY-FX-0012 awarded by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Tribal Youth Program, Office of Justice Programs.

The grant report for January 2012 through June 2012 is in and once again we needed to offer up a big Yawʌʔkó. This time it is to Melissa Nuthals, Planning's Statistician. We approached Melissa when we were unable to secure an evaluator and asked for her assistance in developing a data base that would offer a place to record our data and produce the reports we needed. She did it and it has made the world of difference in our collection process. She continues to assist us in fine tuning data and reports. So, once again Yawʌʔkó Melissa.

Community and families came together to raise money for the Yethiyatanunha program. There was a bake sale and raffle at the Bingo Hall. The money earned will go to buying food for the youth and support family activities. Our first family picnic was held Friday, July 20 at Pamparian Park. We hope to head to Oconto for swimming on August 3.

For all of your help with the Bake Sale and Raffle we wish to say Yawʌʔkó to Wanda Boivin, Virginia Mahkimetas, Mary Lou Danforth, Vanessa LaRock, Jody Doxtator, Ralph Tucker, Marcus Tucker, Candy Clark-Durphey and Sarah Wunderlich.

One of the young women in our sewing group, Keʔníkhuhe (gay kneeh khoo), I Am Sewing, is starting a star quilt for her dad. She is hoping to find someone with extra fabric in the colors red, yellow and green. Should you have some fabric in these colors to spare, please drop them at the front desk of Oneida Social Services with a note to my attention (Alex Lei-Nako). The group will continue to meet on Thursday evenings throughout the summer at the Art Building. Please, call if you would like to join us 920-490-3774 or 920-370-5084.

Anyone wishing to assist with the Yethiyatanunha garden or our community garden, please, call Sarah Wunderlich at 920-490-3702 or 920-370-3091.

Coming in September there will be a one day training offered regarding council, the process, purpose, and why council and not board. The training will be offered to the community, area professionals and other interested parties. Watch for the day and location. If you have any questions or suggestions you can contact Ron Hill at 920-496-5385.

There are also plans to have a training on "Make it Right". The time and location of this training will be announced also.

If you have any question, or wish to contribute in anyway, (ideas, time, understandings) please, call Alex at 920-490-3774.

Samoan Fire Knife Dancers to perform at UTTC

BISMARCK (UTN) – Dancers twirling sharp knives that are on fire will be part of the 2012 United Tribes International Powwow. A group of Samoan fire knife dancers are the featured cultural group of the annual event set for September 6-9, the weekend after Labor Day, on the campus of United Tribes Technical College.

The fire dance brings Polynesian culture into the mix of Native American tribal music and dance during the powwow, now celebrating its 43rd year. Providing the action are tribal dancers and drum groups gathered in Lone Star Arena, the college's dance arbor. Upwards of 1,000 participants compete for over $80,000 in prize money.

2012 Elder Abuse Education Conference

By Joyce Johnson
Elder Abuse Prevention Coordinator, Oneida Elder Services

Oneida Elder Services and the Elder Abuse Prevention Program would like to thank all of the participants and presenters that were present for the July 9 & 10, 2012 Elder Abuse Education Conference held at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center of Green Bay, Wisconsin.

The conference focused on subjects such as identifying elder physical, financial, emotional and sexual abuse. There was some discussion regarding both Financial Power of Attorney and Healthcare Power of Attorney Agents and their roles as Power of Attorneys for an elder. The Guardianship, Restraining order, and Representative Payee process was explained. Other information involved the types of scams that are weaving their way into our elder communities and keys to prevent being scammed. Elders and other attendees received facts and statistics regarding elder abuse that they may have been unaware of previously.

With only two days of education there was a large volume of information shared with the attendees. We hope that all participants received information that they can take back to their jobs and families that will help to alleviate elder abuse and the horrific effects on our communities.

Wis. DNR encourages disabled to get set for hunt

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ State wildlife officials are reminding disabled hunters to connect with landowners ahead of this October's special gun deer hunt.

The Department of Natural Resources allows participating landowners to host hunts for the disabled when temperatures are milder.

Landowners must submit lists of participating hunters to the DNR by Sept. 1. A list of landowners involved in the hunt is available on the DNR's website.

The hunt, now in its 22nd year, is scheduled to begin on Saturday, Oct. 6, and run through Monday, Oct. 14.

Researchers report more condom use among teenagers

By Lauran Neergaard
AP Medical Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ More high school students are using condoms than 20 years ago - but progress has stalled with a lot of work still needed to protect young people from the AIDS virus, government researchers reported Tuesday.

Today, 4 of every 10 new HIV infections occur in people younger than 30, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention _ and the teen years, just as youths become sexually active, are key for getting across the safe-sex message.

Using a long-standing survey of high school students' health, the CDC tracked how teen sexual behavior has changed over 20 years. The results are decidedly mixed.

About 60 percent of sexually active high school students say they used a condom the last time they had sex, researchers said Tuesday at the International AIDS Conference. That's an improvement from the 46 percent who were using condoms in 1991.

"This is good news," said Dr. Kevin Fenton, director of CDC's HIV prevention center. But, "we need to do a lot more."

The problem: Condom use reached a high of 63 percent back in 2003.

Black students are most likely to heed the safe-sex message, yet their condom use dropped from a high of 70 percent in 1999 to 65 percent last year, the study found.

If mom and dad get antsy about discussing condoms, well, about half of high school students have had sex, a proportion that hasn't changed much over the two decades, the CDC reported. Today, 47 percent say they've had sex, down just a bit from 54 percent in 1991. Again, black teens made the most progress, with 60 percent sexually active today compared with 82 percent two decades ago.

The average age when teens begin having sex: 16, CDC said.

The more partners, the more risk. Fifteen percent of high school students say they've had four or more partners, down from 19 percent in 1991.

Fenton said part of the problem is that many school systems don't have strong enough sex education policies that include teaching teens about how to prevent HIV. But he cautioned that the CDC study can't link the abstinence-only policies pushed by Congress through the late 1990s and early 2000s to the stalled progress.

Focusing on individual risk behaviors is just part of the story. Increasingly, HIV is an infection of the poor, and specialists at the world's largest AIDS meeting all week are making the point that tackling it globally will require broader efforts to address problems of poverty including better access to overall health services and fighting stigma.

In the U.S., where new infections have stubbornly held at about 50,000 a year for a decade, complacency is part of the problem, Fenton added.

"We have to generate a new sense of urgency," he said.

Overall, though, a characteristic of the young is to think they're invincible, Fenton added.

Lawrence Stallworth II, 20, of Cleveland can attest that they're not. He learned he was infected with HIV at age 17, when he was a high-school senior, after a hospitalization. A black gay man, he's among one of the nation's highest-risk groups.

He's now an Ohio AIDS activist who works to teach young people that they need to protect themselves, and how.

"I want people to have the tools to keep themselves safe," said Stallworth, who at this week's AIDS conference is working with the nonprofit Advocates for Youth to increase young people's awareness of an epidemic that in the U.S., today gets little publicity.

Part of that involves our society getting "better at being more open about being able to talk about sex," Stallworth added. "It's still a taboo issue."

Indeed, at this week's conference, the world's largest AIDS meeting, young gay men are emerging as a population in special danger from rising HIV infections worldwide, and young black gay men especially in the U.S.

Black gay and bisexual men account for 1 in 500 Americans but 1 in 4 new HIV infections. The odds that a black man who has sex becomes infected rise from 1 in 4 at age 25 to a stunning 60 percent by age 40, said Phill Wilson of the Black AIDS Institute.

But they're not the only ones at risk. The CDC recommends that everyone in the U.S. ages 13 to 65 be tested for HIV at least once. Those at increased risk - such as people who have multiple sex partners or men who have sex with men - should be tested more frequently, at least once a year.

In South Carolina, 18-year-old Quinandria Lee offers an example of the safe sex practices that CDC says more young people should adopt.

Lee was frustrated at her school's abstinence-only focus. She learned about both male and female condoms from the South Carolina Contraceptive Campaign, and last year her principal allowed her to teach her classmates about them. Condoms are the only contraceptive that also protect against HIV infection.

But Lee credits her mother's frank talk about sex with this key protective step: Lee persuaded her boyfriend to go with her to a clinic where both got a clean bill of health before they ever had sex. Still, they use a condom every time.

"It's hard," she said of that get-tested conversation. But "you can't be too sure."

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility

Tribe inks service agreement with town of Oneida

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Ink was put to paper the morning of Friday, July 27as a new three-year service agreement between the Oneida Tribe and Town of Oneida was executed at the Town of Oneida Town Hall.

Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado and Town of Oneida Chairman Norman Austin signed the agreement as officials from the tribe and town were present.

The three-year agreement calls for an annual payment of $100,000 to be paid to the town. Broken down, $17,000 is for trust land within the town's boundaries related to the town's tax rate, $25,000 for fire and first responder services, $55,000 towards town equipment improvement and town staff salaries, and $3,000 for an annual trash collecting event similar to the tribe's Clean Sweep program.

The new annual payment is substantially larger than the prior agreement, which had a $24,300 payment to the town in its final year. Delgado pointed to the need to ensure satisfactory customer service levels from the town remained the same.

"The tribe chose to include this provision as we recognized the value that their staff brings when providing customer service to our members when they need to conduct business with the Town of Oneida. These contributions to staffing and equipment will also allow the Town to continue to address the needs of all citizens in a manner that will keep them engaged with the community, allows progress with the addition of new technology, and will help broaden communication efforts and services more effectively throughout the community," he said.

The agreement also states the town will not oppose the tribe's efforts to place land into trust within the town jurisdiction. It goes in effect on August 1 of this year.

Delgado also praised the town's leadership and the working relationship between the two governments.

""I look forward to continuing the positive government-to-government relationship we share with the Town of Oneida and their elected officials. The expanded services will offer tremendous value to the entire Oneida Community," he said.

The prior service agreement between the tribe and town expired June 30 of this year. The tribe now has service agreements in place with Outagamie and Brown Counties, the Village of Ashwaubenon, and the City of Green Bay.

resources to do something, but that shouldn't stop you from making the first steps to going forward to getting something done," he said in an interview.

Participants went through the steps of developing a description of their product or service and how to pitch it to potential customers.

"What I want them to realize is that it's not enough to simply have an idea and then talk to your friends about it, because it just sits in your head and over time you begin to hope, to wish – I wish I had done something with that," said Dr. Stamp.

Dr. Stamp speaks to several corporations and colleges every year, but enjoys doing presentations on Native American reservation because he grew up near a reservation in Minnesota.

"Growing up in the middle of nowhere in a rural community, you're often told there are a lot of things you can't do. What I realized that the better way to go through life is to focus on what you do best at and then get other people to help you with the things that you're not really good at," he said. "We live in a world now where the individual can do so much more than they used to be able to do, we live in a world where the individual can do things, there's a lot of resources. It's a good time if you have an idea for something to consider doing something with it."

Many of the aspiring entrepreneurs had business ideas ranging from an electronic gaming venue to services for the elderly. Norbert Hill Jr. attended the presentation to develop entrepreneurial methods for the Oneida Enrollment Board to communicate with Oneida citizens.

"How do we be creative in finding opportunities for the tribe, and seeing what are dynamics of entrepreneurship and being successful and being able to peek around the corner of opportunity?" he said.

Hill stated he enjoyed Dr. Stamps presentation, and wished more people attended.

"I think the tribe needs to be more creative and entrepreneurial and hungry in creating opportunities so we can sustain what we're doing and not just be dependent on just one enterprise – gaming – that we need to diversify or chances of success and sustainability," he said.

The workshop was sponsored by the Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development, Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, and College of Menominee Nation.

The Legislative Reference Office

By Richard Breuninger
Summer Intern 2012
Legislative Reference Office

The Oneida Nation Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) has a resourceful extension of their function called the Legislative Reference Office (LRO). The assignments delegated to the LRO by the LOC are generally the reinforcement needed to help forge Oneida sovereignty into words. Sovereignty is not found on paper, but the powers can be communicated through the written word. Writing down the powers of a people and getting everyone to agree can be nearly impossible. The LRO staff positions are not designed for those fearful of intense analytical scrutiny, as day in and day out, constant revision and redrafting through the consultative process of the people is seemingly endless in an attempt to do the impossible, yet the voices are heard. As a Higher Education intern in the LRO this summer, one of my assignments was to observe and learn the process and to share it with our people in an article. Having an eight week all access immersion into the challenge that is our Oneida tribal legislative process, I am now ready to share my story of the voices that were heard, because I listened.

Several good articles have appeared in this publication detailing the flow of formal documents and show colorful graphic charts to help us understand how we get from A to B at the Norbert Hill Center. This article provides insight into the spirit of our law and not necessarily paper shuffling into a written book of codes. The spirit of our law begins in the heart and mind of what we feel is right and just. Feelings and emotions run rampant through the mind and can provide a voice with many things to say. Sometimes the voice is reactionary to hurt or a painful experience, while other times the mind is at peace having thought about what the voice should say with clarity and purpose. Our people inherently are supposed to come from this central core as a foundation for what we want as an accord providing protections for our sovereignty. These are the voices that were heard.

The Oneida process provides several opportunities for a voice to be heard. It is also the inherent responsibility of an actively concerned member of our people to take part in this process or as witnessed repeatedly, be constrained by the voices that do. Our vote is a voice and consequently our elected officials are the collection of our voices. Imagine coming to work with the weight of Oneida on your back. That is what we have asked of our leaders, to hear all of us and make the right choices based on a harmony of voices in agreement despite opposition. Decidedly by our own pronouncement only a portion of voices are heard going into endorsing what words get on a document in front of the LOC. The five members of the LOC give the LRO only a percentage of a resource to craft an instrument reflective of the entirety of Oneida and its sovereignty. It cannot be flawed, it will be shattered. It cannot be weak, it will be ignored. It cannot be pre-empted, it will be taken. If we as Oneida have ever had any power to endure through time immemorial, it did not come from silence. If the process of making Oneida laws is to provide for the seventh generation, then know there is an office for the process where all of this is done, and is done by crafting actions from active voices, those of the voices that were heard.

In order to be heard there must be someone that is listening. Leadership must be willing to never turn a deaf ear to the voices of the people. I did not come here to be heard. I came here to listen. There were no shortages of people that had something to say, voices that so desperately wanted to be heard and voices that demanded to be heard. In order to maintain balance I have been taught that to truly listen is to truly understand. Coming here as a student of my own people I am beginning to truly understand and it is thanks to all whom I have heard and special thanks to those, even though I am a student, whom took the time to listen.

Richard will return to Arizona State University this fall to pursue his Masters of Legal Studies from the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law and concurrent coursework for a PHD from the College of Public Programs in Community Resources and Development.

In Regard to Transit

I am confused and upset in regard to the Oneida Transit System's mess. I keep hearing the blame pushed off on someone else, and/or excuses.

I have multiple ailments. Memorial Day I slipped and fell into the tub and bruised my tail bone. I made a call at 8:00am to be picked up at Aurora Bay Care for 10:00am for therapy. I waited until 10:30am to ask where my ride was. Carol told me the driver was almost there, so I waited. At 10:45am. I called, mad and crying. I was told that she was at the front door. I was standing there and the driver was not there. So I was angry, I told him what was happening. He put me on hold, and came back on the phone and said she was there again. I told him that I was standing in the entrance. Then he came back on the phone and tells me he was sorry, the driver was at the wrong place. He clearly blamed the driver for that mess, but doesn't she get her destinations from dispatch? For this mess I got a free ride home, and an $8 ticket on the bounciest big truck. I have requested a van most of the time, and have only received a van twice. Also, I still request they come to the alley because my front door faces the alley. When they do come to the alley I am always ready.

On 7/11/12 I went to transit with a voucher for a medical pass. I gave Brandon the voucher and scheduled my pick-ups for the next couple of days. He gave me a pass and I asked three times if I was going to get where I needed to be on the eastside. Brandon said yes. Well, I was sitting outside, and I hear a horn. Of course the driver finally was there. I showed the pass, he said it would be an additional $6. I blurted out hell no. I'm not going through this crap again! We had words, he tells me to get on the bus, they can bill me later. I was already dialing the office. I asked if Brandon was in. Carol said yes and transferred me to him. Of course it went to voice mail. I let him know again how mad I am that he, the supervisor, would not stand up to his own mistake. I still have not gotten a call back from him.

If it were up to me they would be gone. They should put someone in there that cares. They're too comfy in their jobs. Transit needs a facelift. I will be putting a call out to Don White, not that it matters; he also has never called me back.

Please help me to improve matters for all the people who count on transit like I do. I have had some good experiences, to those few who care, thank you, and keep up the good work.

Do you have a student in college, or getting ready to enter college in the next year? Have you ever wondered…

- What expenses might I need to assist my student with?
- What do I do when my student is homesick?
- How can I support my student without "parenting" them too much while they are away in college?

The transition to college can be confusing and full of anxiety for parents as well as students. Our children are starting true independence when they leave home for their higher education experience. It's hard to tell your student, "I don't know what you should do." Parents of college and university students are invited to participate in a mutual support group.

The Parents of College Student Support Group will identify common questions and issues that parents encounter, who can then help prepare the next group of parents of students who will be venturing into college life next fall! Join us as we share light refreshments, exchange stories and better prepare our Oneida students for higher education!

Highlights from Special Vestry meeting to address church repairs

Dan Hawk

A Special Vestry meeting was held on July 23rd to address fixing the church building. Three motions were on the floor the first two died in deadlock (4:4) and the proceeding third motion passed by one vote; allowing the Bishop to decide. Everyone should be asking the same question, why was the Vestry deadlocked? It would easy to sum the votes as four Vestry members wanted to fix the church and the other four Vestry members did not but, there is more to it than that. And, that is what this update will try to elucidate.

Four Vestry members wanted to fix most the outside problems at once. This is favorable because it addresses needed church repairs to include the eroded roof valley-tin and gives the greatest overall financial breaks; for example the construction company does not have to move equipment twice or three times as you would in phases. The down side is that fixing the outside of the church leaves little to no operating capital (more on this below).

One Vestry member played Indian, placing the pledge card on his forehead (not literally) suggesting that we do not get enough financial support from our congregation to support needed repairs.

One Vestry member suggested that we would lose too much interest income, suggesting that operating capital was more important than fixing the church. This is somewhat skewed because the Vestry does not have a balanced budget. In general, the Vestry spends about 50% more each year than it should. It would be similar to buying $150 of groceries knowing you can only afford $100 and since you spend more money on groceries than you should; the oil in the car does not get changed leading to engine damage. In this analogy, instead of neglecting our car we have neglected our church.

One Vestry member wanted to compromise and just fix what was required to allow access back into the church for church functions. This left the question of what to do with the other needed repairs; when would they get repaired and who would pay for it?

In summary, because of neglect for so many years I am suggesting that the Vestry is now faced with a difficult job; fixing our church spiritually, physically, and financially. The difficulty is further compounded by little to no community support. We may care but, we do not support.

Here I offer support suggestions, 1) come to church on Sunday at 10am, 2) get a bunch of your family together and host a dinner, 3) donate the extra toaster you got for Christmas, 4) come to meetings.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

Sheku, Greetings

With school starting soon and summer coming to a close, I hope everyone has enjoyed the beautiful weather and has created priceless moments that will stay with you always.

The GTC Budget Meeting has been set for Monday, September 17th at 6:00 pm at the Radisson. Prior to the GTC meeting we will be holding presentations in Oneida and at SEOTS to present the budget and answer questions. The dates of these sessions will be posted in the Kalihwisaks and on the Oneidanation.org website.

The Finance Department has had to face many challenges to complete this upcoming fiscal year's budget and despite everyone's best efforts, we are still facing a deficit of about $9 million dollars. This is very troublesome because it is apparent we cannot continue to do business in the same manner without some significant changes being made.

It was my understanding that the reorganization process was intended to address the overstaffing issue and the duplication of services. Unfortunately the restructuring has met with bias and favoritism. Even though I have had many heated moments in these Business Committee meetings, my voice is only one and decisions have been made without my input. I cannot support adding staff to already overstaffed area. I also cannot support the creation of new positions. When jobs are created we need to ensure we have the funds to support the job, the job is needed, and the job description is reviewed and posted according to the Human Resource Department guidelines. With a $9 million plus dollar deficit, it is not sound business practice to add new positions and keep unnecessary staff.

As Oneida Business Committee Treasurer I am forced to make tough decisions every day and I make these choices based on facts and good business practice. When I see or hear something this is not appropriate I question it. Many times I stand alone in my beliefs and am smeared throughout the community for being direct. I would rather have that than be accused of not looking out for the best interest of the Tribe.

Many times I ask things of management they are unaware of. This is unfortunate and speaks to our corporate culture. If management is unaware, either by choice or necessity, how effective is our organization? I believe this question was answered when the GTC voted in favor of restructuring.

As time goes on, the decisions facing the Oneida Business Committee will only get tougher. If we cannot significantly decrease the budget deficit by creating additional revenue; jobs, services, and programs will all be in jeopardy. It is unfortunate that we are in this position and it is disturbing that various members choose not to see the reality of our financial status. The Finance Department and I have been diligently working on ways to increase our revenue and to stop ventures that may result in additional debt for the Tribe. Ours is a thankless job most of the time but I know our work is well appreciated by our community.

I hope to see you all at the September 17th Budget Meeting and hope the remainder of your summer is memorable.

Tina Danforth

Councilman

I hope you and your families are having a great summer, this summer has been off to a good start. The recent powwow and other events have been well attended and I look forward to seeing you at the many other events coming up over the next few weeks.

On the home front, it has been an eventful summer. My office has been diligently working on various policy matters and I have been busy with budget meetings, committee assignments, legislative policy drafting work and meetings with constituents. I also recently had the opportunity to attend a housing training event at Housing and Urban Development.

Locally, there have been some nice accomplishments by staff, many projects around the community have been completed or are underway. The newly remodeled Westwind One Stop is complete and open for business. Construction has begun on a new One Stop on Larsen Road even though the project was initially delayed. This is a new facility in a type of business area we know, so with the projected growth we will hopefully see a busy and profitable store soon.

Community trails are being completed throughout the Reservation. Long term projections for harvesting a more progressively designed community are beginning to take shape. These types of projects will hopefully continue to unify the look and feel of the Reservation. We have a presentation on these matters coming up this week, please stop out and see the presentation and provide your input. Details on the event are listed at the end of this article.

Challenges

I will say, after being in office for a year, it has been great to have an opportunity to try and make a difference. Oneida is a dynamic place with a lot of great people. Individually and collectively we all have outstanding potential. Just think of our history, if there is any nation that can overcome challenges it is ours.

We need to maximize opportunities for both our people and on our land. One of my main goals is to fully tap the potential of our people and our tribe. We must start thinking strategically about how we invest in our people and how we invest in our land. In my estimation, we have to foster a posture towards our people and the land which realizes us investing directly to maximize the productivity of both. To me, Oneida has the tenacity to resolve all of our own issues.

There are many challenges confronting us today. I would note, leadership and the people of a nation have been confronted with serious issues throughout history, today is such a moment for us. The challenge today is, how will we respond?

I look at the current Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and I see us going into our second budget cycle with no new movement around creating new opportunities. Think about it, two-thirds of our budgets will realize no new investment or growth in new programs or new economic pursuits. The OBC needs to find creative solutions.

Today, Oneida is in a sort of a holding pattern. Economic growth is stagnant and layoffs may need to be discussed in the future. Also, housing shortages are present and we still need to engage in some level of restructuring. Operations of this tribe need various levels of re-tooling and as a people we need to rethink what we're doing.

Now, with the above being said, this is not to say that we're not doing good things, there are a lot of positives here. Services are still flowing and employees at the casino and elsewhere are still helping to keep this tribe alive and running.

The challenge for us is how to forge change in order to maneuver towards a brighter future. We need to actively engage in shedding the non-functional waste while harvesting new ground. My goal is for us to think hard about what we're doing and look at the various attributes we already have to maximize our future opportunities as a tribe.

Change

One of the obstacles for us is change. Many people are simply uncomfortable with the idea of change and I can understand that, but our future relies on us being able to change certain aspects of what we're doing when it's clearly not working.

I have continually sensed an undercurrent of resistance to change. For example, I have offered various projects which could create valuable new jobs and open the door to economic growth. Unfortunately, it seems there is no real interest or energy to try something new. Change can create various types of newly needed job opportunities for our people. New initiatives can spawn new industry. This is a serious challenge for the Oneida Tribe; can we take the initiative to create new job opportunities and advance ourselves economically?

Here is a brief overview on just two job making projects that I have brought forward:

- An Oneida housing plant proposal to build custom homes here in Oneida. This project would have created 30 plus new jobs.
- A federal contracting project to engage in Naval Shipping contracting. This project would have created 50 new jobs.

These are but two examples of opportunities that we should have pursued. Eighty (80) plus new jobs could have really been an economic shot in the arm for Oneida. There are other projects that are a possibility, but we need to first see how change is embraced in order to help us pursue and commit to creating new opportunities for our people.

Housing

When it comes to Oneida and housing, talk has not yielded results. I continue to be concerned about housing related matters. There are hundreds of Oneidas who need housing now. On the idea of a new housing push, I am hearing from some that say, "New housing for Oneidas will cause urban sprawl." I am hearing from others saying, "Why make it easier for Oneidas to get housing, they won't take care of the homes." Ironically, everyone I hear from who is against a new housing movement, already have homes.

I agree that on housing matters, we need to come forward with a broader approach where a majority of the people can have agreement. I would note, the idea of urban sprawl is coming, no matter how much we resist. In fact, other local communities surrounding us believe that they will realize a projected population growth of over 30,000 new residences or more over the next 10 to 12 years. These are communities which surround us, like Ashwaubenon, Hobart, and Lawrence. Not to mention the growth in De Pere, Pittsfield, Seymour and Green Bay. It is obvious we have our challenges and the reality is there will be housing growth with or without us. The idea under my proposal is for us to control the housing growth around us as much as possible. If we don't develop our community on our terms, others will. The areas in which we are going to build need to be identified and solidified. A draft analysis and suggestion pieces have been reviewed by the Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC). We will be discussing some of these ideas at the upcoming event this week. Please see below for details.

One of my central housing proposals was to construct a home building plant here on the Oneida Reservation for a host of reasons, i.e., jobs, quality control, home building volume, speed. I won't rehash that issue, but it is obvious we need to step things up.

Upcoming Event
Thursday, August 2, 2012

• CDPC

The CDPC will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, August 2nd beginning at 9:00 a.m. in the BCCR- NHC.

• Wisconsin Housing and Economic Development Authority (WHEDA)

Oneida will be hosting a WHEDA hearing/meeting on Thursday, August 2nd from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. in the BCCR-NHC. WHEDA's public hearings will include discussions based on three priorities:

1) Economic Development. A goal has been set to help private businesses create 250,000 jobs over four years.
2) Special Needs Housing.
3) Affordable Housing.

WHEDA has a long history of using its reserves to develop single family and multifamily housing serving families, the elderly and other persons with limited incomes. WHEDA has in the past dedicated a significant portion of its reserves to affordable housing programs. These reserves will continue to be used to support housing for persons with lower incomes.

Public Hearing Notice

11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

August 9, 2012
Purpose: Oneida Child Support Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Child Support Law (the Law) is to establish the legal responsibility of parents to provide financially for their children's well-being based on the real earning capability of parents. The Law establishes a standard of support for those children whose paternity has been established or acknowledged and encourages the use of voluntary agreements to resolve any disputes over child support obligations. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Overtime Pay. Specifically include overtime pay in the definition of Gross Income for the purposes of paying child support.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Notice. Amend notice of hearings, thereby requiring that only the notice of the initial action be served via certified mail and all subsequent notices by first-class mail.
- Publication. Amend the provision regarding notice via publication. Due to the Kalihwisaks changing the frequency of their publication, the law now requires publication three consecutive times in either the Kalihwisaks or other newspaper in the county where the respondent resides.
- Past-due Obligations. Update the section on arrears to now include past-due obligations.
- Review. Require the Agency to review the child support order every two years. If a substantial change in circumstances exists, then the agency is required to file a motion with the Appeals Commission to have the order amended if the parties cannot agree to the amendment.
- Motion to Amend. Authorize any party to file a motion to modify the child support order, and sets the timing for scheduling a hearing to no sooner than ten calendar days after the date of service on the opposing party.

August 9, 2012
Purpose: Oneida Paternity Law Amendments

The intent of the Oneida Paternity Law (the Law) is to establish paternity of Oneida children and other Indian children in order to protect the best interests of these children regarding such matters as enrollment, customs and traditions of the Tribe, survivorship and inheritance, health, support, and social security benefits. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Amendment of Name. Change the name from Oneida Child Support Enforcement Agency to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (Agency). The purpose of this change is to better portray what the Agency does, as enforcement is only a portion of the work being done.
- Jurisdiction. Add long-arm jurisdiction as is provided in the Wisconsin State Statutes. This allows for broader jurisdiction over those respondents' who may not reside in the normal defined jurisdiction of the Appeals Commission.
- Timing of Filing. Allow a petition to determine paternity to be filed at any time after the child is born.
- Notice. Amend the provision regarding mail delivery to allow for regular first-class mail rather than registered or certified mail.
- Update of Address. Require the alleged fathers' who appear and participate in an action to inform and keep updated their current address at all time with the Agency and the Appeals Commission.
- Administrative Subpoenas. Authorize the Agency to issue administrative subpoenas to require the mother, child and alleged father(s) to appear and take a paternity test.
- Reopening of Judgment. Clarify that either the adjudicated father or the Agency can reopen a default judgment of paternity.
- Stipulations. Allow for the alleged father to stipulate to paternity and then to custody, placement and child support matters.

Public Hearing Process
I. Testimony:

A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. The Legislative Reference Office fax number is 1-920-869-4399. Copies of this law are also available on the Internet: http://oneida-nsn.gov/PublicHearings.aspx

Casino hosts Slot Extravaganza

A representative of Multimedia Games displays the inner components of one of the company's slot machines to an interested event attendee.

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Casino hosted a Slot Extravaganza in the Radisson Iroquois Grand Council Room on Wednesday, August 1, 2012.

The event was free and open to the public.

The Slot Extravaganza featured representatives from various companies that create and produce the slot machines the Oneida Casino uses.

The representatives demonstrated how the machines work as well as field questions from the public concerning their machines.

Brochures were also handed out that separated slot machine fact from myth.

The event provided answers to questions such as, "Is it better to stay on one machine until it might hit or move to different machines all the time?" As it turns out all machines are equipped with a random number generator making your odds of winning the same no matter how long you are at a single machine.

The notion of a "magic button" or "game manipulation" was dispelled at the event as representative emphatically stated that operating games in such a manner is illegal and would destroy the industry in which they do business.

Question and answer sessions were held in the morning, afternoon, and evening and were well attended.

Judge rules pollution at Wis. mine

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A federal judge has ruled that Flambeau Mining Co. violated federal clean water laws at its former copper mine near Ladysmith, but that the amount of pollution was minimal.

In her ruling Tuesday, U.S. District Judge Barbara B. Crabb also said the company's environmental practices were "exemplary."

Environmentalists, including the Wisconsin Resources Protection Council, had sued, alleging that the mine violated the Clean Water Act when copper and zinc from the mine entered a small stream that fed the Flambeau River.

Crabb said evidence showed the mine was the source of the pollution, despite Flambeau's contention that it couldn't be traced to a mine filter designed to capture leftover toxic material.

But the judge also said the discharges were slight and that Flambeau deserved "commendation, not penalties" for its stewardship of the site. She ordered the company to pay $275 for the discharges and denied a request to have Flambeau pay the plaintiffs' legal expenses, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported.

The Flambeau mine operated from 1993 to 1997. Over the past year, it again drew attention when mining advocates, seeking to make changes in Wisconsin mining laws, cited the mine as a model of mineral extraction while environmentalists emphasized the toxic discharges into the Flambeau.

"We are pleased that the judge was clear in her ruling that the Flambeau River has been and is protected, and that discharges from the biofilter on our property have never threatened the river's water quality, as the plaintiffs claimed," Dave Cline, a project manager for Flambeau, said in a statement Wednesday.

An environmentalist had a different take on the ruling.

"We're glad to see the court recognized what concerned citizens have known for years: that even a relatively small-scale copper mine can still pollute waters for years after it has closed," said Al Gedicks, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Resources Protection Council.

Hunters have 30 days to apply for WI wolf permit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Hunters and trappers who want to take part in Wisconsin's wolf hunt this fall can soon apply for the necessary permits.

Applications must be submitted between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31. Permits will be awarded by drawing, and successful applicants will be notified by mail. The application fee is $10.

If you apply but you don't get a permit, you'll receive a 'preference point' that improves your chances of being selected in future drawings.

The Natural Resources Board established six wolf-harvest zones. Each zone will have a wolf quota, although the quotas are still being finalized.

The state Department of Natural Resources set the overall harvest limit at 201 wolves. The DNR estimates as many as 880 may roam the state.

The season runs from Oct. 15 through Feb. 28.

Tribes want federal regulation of Internet gaming

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ With some states readying to start online gambling, Native American tribal leaders are calling on the federal government to step in as it did with brick-and-mortar gambling and establish regulations that ensure tribes get a piece of the action without having their revenue taxed and their sovereignty compromised.

A new set of regulations is unlikely before this year's election, but recent events have given momentum to efforts to launch online gambling in some states. Since a December 2011 Department of Justice opinion that not all Internet gambling is banned by federal law, Delaware has legalized online gambling and Nevada is closing in on making online poker possible. New Jersey, too, is working to make it a reality.

Some tribes worry if regulation is left to states, it will be a patchwork of rules that aren't considerate of the relationship Native Americans have with the federal government.

"Tribes should be extremely hesitant to entrust their economic futures to the tender mercies of the 50 states, many of whom are still in financial crises and looking for new sources of revenue," Bruce "Two Dogs" Bozsum said Thursday in testimony before the Senate Indian Affairs Committee. Bozsum is chairman of the Mohegan Tribe of Uncasville, Conn., which has large casino operations.

Bozsum said his tribe has invested a "great deal of time" preparing Internet gambling regulations. "These regulations now stand ready to be implemented, and will meet or exceed the toughest regulations found anywhere in the world, including the new standards recently established in Nevada," Bozsum said.

According to the Senate Indian Affairs Committee, tribal gambling was a more than $27 billion industry in 2011, while commercial gambling was $35.6 billion and worldwide gambling revenues were $30 billion.

Glen Gobin, secretary of the Tulalip Tribal Council, reminded the committee that he previously testified against legalizing Internet gambling. But on Thursday, Gobin said that with states ready to start their own Internet gambling, "tribes must have equal footing to participate."

Gobin said his tribe, in Tulalip, Wash., plans to move forward as gambling evolves because the revenue pays for many of the tribe's government services. The Tulalip do not have regulations ready because tribes' participation has not been decided.

"To say we are ready for the full regulatory aspect, we are not, but I have full confidence we have the capabilities," Gobin said.

Jon Porter, a lobbyist for the Poker Players Alliance, urged tribes to get prepared because online gambling "has to happen."

Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., and Sen. Jon Kyl, R-Ariz., have been working on online gambling legislation. Kyl is a previous opponent of online gambling. On Wednesday, the Senate Indian Affairs Committee spelled out how the federal government could regulate online gambling so tribes are protected and included at a meeting of tribal leaders for the National Indian Gaming Association's Legislative Summit on Wednesday.

"We in Congress - and especially on this committee - also have a responsibility to ensure that tribal views and priorities are part of any legislation that could impact tribal gaming," said committee chairman Daniel Akaka, D-Hawaii.

Also Thursday, the Senate voted to move forward on cybersecurity legislation, intended to protect U.S. computer systems and infrastructure from cyberattacks. But if the bill moves forward and ultimately passes the Senate, it still would need to be reconciled with a House version. Little other legislation has moved through Congress, making it more likely that any movement on Internet legislation would happen after elections in the lame-duck session.

New York tribe moves to evict non-Indians

BRANT, N.Y. (AP) ~ The Seneca Nation, a native American tribe in western New York known for its defiant stances on sovereignty, said Friday that it would evict around 80 families living in a lakeshore community on its territory because the residents aren't members of the tribe.

The action covers an area on the shores of Lake Erie called Snyder Beach, now dotted with summer cottages, many of which are occupied by people who have been there for decades. Tribal leaders said in a written statement that they want the families out by Nov. 8.

"This is a long-standing issue of unlawful occupation and is key for the Seneca Nation. The Cattaraugus Territory is for Senecas and removing the unlawful occupants will make more land available for Senecas," Seneca President Robert Odawi Porter said in the statement. "It is quite clearly an illegal occupation, even if that may surprise some of the current residents and the general public."

The statement said tribal authorities had issued permits in the past for the last, but hadn't done so in many decades.

The eviction threat outraged longtime Snyder Beach residents, who acknowledged that they lived within the Seneca's Cattaraugus Territory, but said they leased the property annually from a Seneca businessman.

"I built this house. My family has been here 55 years," retired Buffalo firefighter William McNamara, 81, told the Buffalo News. "We built this ourselves. For a lot of us who live here, it's been a lot of hard work, blood and memories. My neighbor is 92 years old, and he says, 'I'll be damned if I'm going to turn my property over to the Indians.'"

The businessman renting the land to the families, John Metzger, told the newspaper he believed the tribe had no right to throw out his tenants.

"It verges on a cleansing operation, in my opinion," he said. He said Seneca Nation leaders had threatened a similar action six times before, but had never before gone as far as to serve eviction notices.

Seneca officials said Metzger isn't allowed to give leases to people who are not Senecas. Only the Tribal Council has the power to grant permission to the families to live on the territory, they said.

People on both sides said the dispute is certain to wind up in court.

New federal charges against Native Mob members

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) ~ Updated federal charges against alleged members of a Native American-based gang now include murder and aiding attempted murder.

The superseding indictment charges Shaun Martinez with killing another Native Mob member in February 2011. Prosecutors say Martinez killed Jeremee Kraskey to keep him from giving information to law enforcement.

The original indictment filed in January accused 24 suspected Native Mob members with conspiracy to participate in racketeering, alleging they used violence and intimidation to keep the gang in power.

The Bemidji Pioneer says the latest federal charges also accuse two other defendants with aiding and abetting attempted murder in March 2010. They're accused of shooting a man while he held his 5-year-old daughter.

Authorities say the gang wields power from the Twin Cities to reservations throughout Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Paying tribute to fallen warriors

By Yvonne Kaquatosh
Kalihwisaks

A small contingent of bike riders from Oneida traveled to the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community on Saturday morning, July 28, 2012 to pay tribute to two fallen warriors.

Kenny Metoxen provided a blessing for the participants and their bikes prior to their Veterans Honor Ride journey to Baraga, Michigan.

The 34th Annual Keweenaw Bay Maawanji'iding was in honor of veterans who were KIA. Lance Corporal Picciano on June 6, 1968 in Viet Nam and Specialist Voakes, Jr. on June 4, 2011 in Afghanistan.

The group met at the Oneida 54 One Stop where they all signed the American Indian Viet Nam Veterans Flag and the Enduring Freedom Flag.

The Oneida riders presented a flag to the family of Corporal Picciano and Specialist Voakes respectively during a special ceremony that was held in their honor later in the afternoon and evening.

The Oneida riders met up with bikers from the Veterans of Menominee Nation and Mohican Nation Veterans in Crivitz enroute to their destination.

At left, Al Pamanet leads the riders through the Mason Street round-about to 41N. The Mason street interchange opened up at 6 a.m. Saturday.

Our Changing Climate and the Parched Aquatic Habitats

Submitted photo

A nearly dry riffle in Duck Creek shows the affect the dry summer has on the water ways in Oneida. Low water levels can mean trouble for brook trout which need deep, cold water.

By Andrea Kolitsch
Environmental Intern

It has been a tough summer for the aquatic animals on the Reservation. The drought-like weather and heat has caused many of the wetlands and creeks to become unusually dry and lack any flow. To the best of their abilities, the Oneida Environmental Health and Safety Division (EHSD) have been working on lessening the impacts of unforgiving weather on the environment through numerous restoration projects.

The University of Wisconsin Sea Grant Institute projects our climate to gradually become warmer. This warming is expected to result in drier summers because of increases in evaporation due to the warmer temperatures. They predict that annual precipitation levels will remain relatively the same, but seasonal precipitation levels will shift. Average summer precipitation may decline by as much as twenty percent, while average winter precipitation levels will increase.

Climate change (predicted by many climatologists for decades), is becoming clearly evident, even to skeptics. Extreme heat events are occurring more frequently. The higher temperatures have been causing environmental stress for plant and wild animals as well as for humans. Insect species, kept in check by cold winters, have recently invaded more northerly areas resulting in huge losses to agricultural crops as well as to natural plant communities. The Oneida EHSD has been working on a restoration project to reintroduce brook trout into Trout Creek. It has taken over a decade of work to restore the stream to a condition suitable for trout to survive in. That effort included manure management, buffer establishment and re-establishing stream sinuosity. However, cold water species such as brook trout require high oxygen levels and cold water temperatures. They decline dramatically in high temperatures that contain less oxygen. Warmer water species expand their ranges when water temperatures rise. These species out compete the heat and oxygen stressed trout making brook trout reintroductions difficult to sustain in these conditions.

Additionally, EHSD has been working on stream restoration projects that protect and improve water quality. It is critical that stream flows are sustained throughout the year so that nature can more easily recover from harsh climatic events such as this summer's drought and heat wave. To further protect and enhance water quality, trees will be planted alongside the streams to provide shade and to cool the water. This will improve habitat and cover for brook trout and a variety of aquatic animals, many of which are food sources for brook trout.

Even with all of the climate change that is occurring, we must keep in mind the Seven Generations and continue to protect the environment so our children and grandchildren will be able to enjoy the land and water as we do now. It is only through constant and ongoing environmental management that our descendants will be able to fish for and catch brook trout in Trout Creek where brook trout were once absent.

Onʌyote? Community Action Team

Busy summer for Oneida youth

She·koli Swakwe·ku, Greetings Everyone, I'm Antonio Doxtator, the coordinator for Onʌyote? aka Community Action Team, (C.A.T). We have had a busy month and I would like to give the community an update of our activities.

The first activity was a boxing workout club at the Oneida Fitness Center for high school youth that started on June 8 and ended on June 22. It is an outlet to give local youth a positive way to promote sports and competition and working out with adult supervision.

Our second event was the Oneida High School Culture Camp was June 25 through June 27. We had 18 youth participate this year, 9 coming from Milwaukee and 9 local youth. Some of the activities were: cultural discussions and teachings, language classes, corn husk dolls, Experiential Team Building, Lacrosse demonstrations, Long House social dance, Museum tour, making medicinal salve, and guided imagery workshops. The kids had a great time and didn't want the experience to end. Yaw^ko to Michelle Jordan, Randy Cornelius, and Samantha Hill for chaperoning the camp and Stephanie Muscavitch, Cindy Thomas, Curt Summers, and all who helped out with activities.

The Community Action Team also had an informational table at the Oneida Pow-wow. We handed out literature and provided travel cups and water bottles. Also, in coordination with the Oneida Police Commission, we sponsored a Teen Smoke Dance and provided a gift to one male and one female winner. Yaw^ko to all those who volunteered at the table; Tsyosha?aht, Rebecca Chavez, Twylite Moore, Gerald Decoteau, David Webster, and the Pow-Wow Committee.

Our most recent event was the Oneida Middle School Culture Camp was July 15 to July 18. We had 18 Oneida youth participate in that camp, 6 coming from Milwaukee. The youth took part in the same events as the high school camp, but instead of camping we spent the nights in the Site II Green Building because of the extreme heat and then storms. The youth learned a lot and made new friends at each camp. Yaw^ko to Michelle Jordan, Ron Hill, Mark Powless from Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS), Tim Kolberg, Rosie Rothamer, for chaperoning, and Matt Ninham, Cindy Thomas, Tsyosha?aht, and Randy Cornelius for leading activities.

We still have two events this summer we would like the community to come out and support the first is the National Night Out on Tuesday August 7 in Three Sisters park from 5:00pm-7:30 p.m., the second is a fundraiser for our youth activities on Thursday September 20 we will be hosting the Brat Barn at the Oneida Farmers Market on Water Circle Place from 11:00am to 5:00pm.

To anyone else who I forgot - Yaw^ko, it's the Community that makes these events a success.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support VS. Custody/ Placement/Visitation

As the Oneida Child Support Agency begins to grow, there are many questions, not only regarding child support but often questions pertaining to issues of custody, placement and visitation that Oneida Child Support cannot address. Once these matters have been ordered in a previous action changes cannot be made by the Child Support Agency. However, we would like to educate and remind the community of the definitions of related matters and correct departments to contact when and if there are questions.

Custody-The authority assigned to one or both parents by the court to make major decisions regarding their child(ren). OCL 79.10(a) presumes that joint legal custody is in the best interest of the child.

Physical Placement- Periods of time a child spends in the care of a parent frequently called visitation. Placement can be stated as primary physical placement, where the child resides a majority of the time, and or secondary physical placement, where the child spends less time with the other parent. Secondary placement may also be referred to as, visitation.

Shared Time- The child lives with each parent part of the time. Both parents assume all costs in proportion to the number of days he or she cares for the child. The time with each parent may or may not be equal.

Split Placement- A family with 2 or more children in which one parent has primary placement of one or more children and the other parent has primary placement of the other children.

Once issues of custody, placement, and visitation have been ordered by the court or agreed upon by the parties, subsequent changes must be handled by the court through a Stipulation and Order (an agreement signed by both parties) or if the parties do not agree, a Motion may filed with Oneida Tribal Judicial System (OTJS), this is NOT a child support matter. The agency is prohibited from offering legal advice and must stay objective in the matter. The Child Support Agency will be notified if there are changes in the Custody, Placement and or Visitation due to a hearing, and will then submit a recommendation for child support to OTJS.

If both parties on a case are in agreement to any changes to issues regarding custody and placement there are blank pro se forms that can be found at OTJS and filled and out and notarized, therefore removing any court action if not necessary.

Again, it is important to reiterate that every family has different circumstances and the answer for each question will never be the same. Feel free to contact your Child Support worker at 920-490-3700 or Oneida Tribal Judicial System 920-496-5300 for any additional questions.

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

The Oneida Food Distribution Program

Special to Kalihwisaks

In 1994, the Oneida Tribe purchased a 2,400 tree Apple Orchard as part of their continuing strategy of reacquiring lands within the original boundaries of the reservation. The Apple Orchard has 24 acres of original orchard and an additional 10 acres of new orchard, which now totals approximately 4,200 trees. The majority of the apples are Macintosh, Cortlands, and Honey Golds. Thirty other varieties are also available. Also available is a large variety of meat products such as: Black Angus and Buffalo steaks, roasts and hamburgers, pork & chicken. There is also a wide variety of winter squash, pumpkins and other produce.

Part of the Orchards goal is to generate interest in the area of agriculture as well as encourage our children to understand at a young age, the importance of growing healthy food, and finding natural ways to eliminate pests.

The Apple Orchard is part of the Youth Day on the Farm event that takes place each April. The Oneida Elementary School 6th graders partake in this event. It has been quite successful in generating the youth's interest in agriculture. It also teaches them the many techniques which are used to naturally eliminate pests such as trapping insects, releasing bugs to control other bugs, and having range chickens which eat apple maggot flies.

The Apple Orchard offers fresh fruits and vegetables to all community members. They can purchase these products starting late summer.

Each September the Orchard participates in the Big Apple Fest. This year Big Apple Fest will be on Saturday, September 22 from 10am – 3pm. Please see our website for additional details www.oneidanation.org/ocifs Hours for the Apple Orchard Store

Gymnast claims title in first national competition

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Olivia Fabry walked into her first national gymnastics competition not expecting much, but what she earned was a national championship.

Fabry participated in the 2012 YMCA National Gymnastics Championships that were held in Milwaukee, WI on July 1, 2012.

The gymnasts were judged in balance beam, uneven bars, floor, and vault events and then given an overall score based on the results of those individual events.

Displaying her consistency in all of the events Fabry finished 4th in vault, 3rd in bars, 2nd in beam, and 2nd in floor giving her an overall score of 35.375.

The final score was enough to make Fabry the Level 5 juniors National All-Around Champion in gymnastics.

"I didn't really think I was going to win I thought I was going to come in 30th or something. I just wanted to be able to place and do my best," Fabry said with a giggle.

As a member of the YMCA Gym Stars team she gets to travel around Wisconsin for competitions throughout the season.

Being a serious gymnast requires dedication and a tireless work ethic and so far Fabry displays both. She practices at the downtown Green Bay YMCA three nights a week, attends private lessons, and spends much of her time at home progressing her skills as a gymnast.

Perhaps the most startling fact is that the 11 year old has been involved in gymnastics for only a couple of years, beginning at the age of nine.

The span of two years has allowed Fabry to indentify her favorite events to participate in.

"My favorite events to do are beam and floor, those two are kind of tied. The vault is my least favorite. I don't like vault at all because I'm not good at it," said Fabry.

Despite not liking the vault event and claiming she is not good at it Fabry was the 2011 level 4 state champion on vault.

Suffering an unfortunate string of injuries during the past year had forced her to miss a lot of time. Fabry had her appendix removed, suffered a knee injury, healed from an elbow injury, and broke a toe.

Having dealt with injuries throughout the year it would have been understandable for Fabry to give gymnastics a break. But Fabry persevered. Her perseverance has made her a national gymnastics champion.

"I just love doing gymnastics, everything about it I like doing. The only thing I don't like about gymnastics is conditioning. But I want to keep trying really hard in gymnastics so I can get as far as I can," said Fabry.

Watching the current U.S.A. gymnastics teams compete at the Olympics is providing motivation to improve her skills.

"Watching the Olympics is motivating for me because whenever I can't do something I think to myself 'Come on Olivia! They were doing this when they were your age'," Fabry added.

Olivia is the daughter of Ryan and Tracy Fabry, granddaughter of Sandie and Bob Mahn, and great granddaughter of Francis "Stitch" and Leona House.

Why can't I get an appointment when I want to?

There is a nationwide shortage of physicians in Primary Care and Psychiatry. We currently have Provider vacancies in Family Practice, Internal Medicine and Psychiatry. We are faithfully attempting various strategies to meet our community's healthcare needs:
- We have contracted with a firm to assist with Provider Recruitment.
- Oneida Business Committee approved Nurse Practitioner and Physician Assistant positions.
- The Health Division is working on a Provider retention plan.
- We are negotiating with a local health system to provide urgent care services.

We seek your continued support and patience as we recruit additional providers to become fully staffed.

You can assist us in our goal of improving healthcare access by:
- Keeping your scheduled appointments
- Providing us at least 24 hours' notice if you are unable to keep your appointment
- Providing complete and accurate information at registration

Community turns out for National Night Out

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Three Sisters Park hosted a National Night Out event for the community on Tuesday, August 7, 2012.

This year marked the 29th annual National Night Out, which is a nationwide effort to get neighbors to stand in unison against crime and drugs in their communities, increase participation in neighborhood watch programs, and demonstrate to troublemakers that they are not welcome in their communities.

This year the event was well attended compared to other National Night Out events held in past years.

"This a great turnout. There are a lot more people here this year than there were last year. That's a very good thing," said Isabel Parker.

Local law enforcement was also in attendance to communicate with members of the community. This interaction is another positive aspect that National Night Out promotes. Green Bay Mayor Jim Schmitt also attended Three Sister's National Night Out.

This event comes in the wake of a summer that was filled with crime. Local crimes consisted of a string of burglaries, to the stabbing of two women, and most recently the shooting death of an east Green Bay teenager, among many others.

Shooting suspects make court appearance

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The seven suspects accused in the shooting death of 15-year-old Jeremy Teller made a Brown County Court appearance on Friday, August 3. The procedure was to show probable cause as to why the individuals should be held until they are formally charged. The suspects are Julio Gonzalez, age 18, Samuel Godinez, 17, and Miguel Garcia, 25, all of Oneida; Brad Tower, 20, and Celia Holguin, 21 both of Green Bay, and Isacc Robbs and Terrill Gutierrez.

Brown County District Attorney David Lasee gave details of the events of Tuesday, July 31 when Teller was fatally shot in the back allegedly by Gonzalez.

According to Lasee, on Tuesday afternoon, Tower got into a fight with another man on Western Avenue. Later on, he heard that the man was bragging about the altercation at a party at 1127 Smith Street. Tower and the other suspects drove in Garcia's car to the party. Gonzalez had a pistol tucked into his waistband and visible. A child witness told police the group had a pillow-case filled with "hard objects". The group pulled into an alley and turned off the car's headlights.

Teller and his cousin came out of the backdoor of the house. Someone in the car yelled "Where's Chris?" the man Tower alledgely fought with. Teller and the cousin ran away. Teller ran to the backdoor, the cousin ran around the side of the house.

The six men chased the cousins with Holguin staying in the car. Teller slipped as the suspects surrounded him.

"Wait, no, wait," Teller was heard to say before Gonzalez shot Teller in the back, and shot towards where his cousin was running.

After the shooting, the suspects asked Gonzalez why he shot; he replied "It's over."

According to the autopsy, the bullet entered Teller's lower back, passed through his liver and entered his right lung, killing him. A bullet was found in a fence near where Teller's cousin had run.

Gonzalez is being held on a $1 million cash bond and will have an initial appearance on Friday, August 16. The other six may be charged with being a party to a homicide or conspiracy to commit aggravated battery. Bond was set at $50,000 for Holguin, $100,000 for Godinez and Robbs, $200,000 for Gutierrez and Garcia and $250,000 for Tower. They will have initial appearances Friday, August 10 and Tuesday, August 14.

Five of the suspects were arrested at a home on Fish Creek Road in Oneida the night of Wednesday, August 1. The Oneida Police Department arrested Gutierrez Thursday, August 2, and Robb turned himself in that day.

Community Action Team (CAT) Coordinator, used this opportunity to inform the public.

"I don't think people realize that all of these major local crimes have touched Oneida in some way, just recently we had a standoff in Oneida that involved the group that committed murder," said Doxtator.

The CAT team is comprised of community members who aim to increase awareness and educate Oneida youth and adults regarding gangs and gang activity.

"Being aware of what is happening in your community and educating yourself on gang signs and activity are the keys to keeping the area safe. An event like this is good because we can reach a lot of people at one time and answer their questions and concerns," Doxtator added.

The Three Sisters site currently has youth groups and neighborhood watch meetings that come together on a weekly basis to help people of the neighborhood feel safe.

Despite the serious subject matter the event allowed for some fun community activities. A clown was out and about to tell jokes and make balloon animals.

Fry bread, chicken booyah, and watermelon were served; and Blues Talk, a band out of Appleton, played throughout the community event.

The Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) sponsored the event.

A big Thank You goes out to the following: Wisconsin Indian Veterans Association, Marshell Grolow, Ed & Harvey Skenandore, Peto Alicia for making chicken booyah. Brenda Lynk for helping with the fry bread, Community Action Team, Antonio Doxtator, GBPD. & S.W.A.T Team, the clown, the great music Blues Talk, and OHA staff.

A look back at a visit from Presiding Bishop Dr. Katherine Jefferies Schori

Holy Apostles Finance Chair

We are remembering Last year on June 5, 2011, when The Most Reverend Doctor Katherine Jefferis Schori, Presiding Bishop of the National Episcopal Church, visited our Holy Apostles Church in Oneida, it was a historic event. Her visit was also one that was unprecedented in the Church's long history. The special tree that was planted on this day will long be remembered by members of the church as well by the rest of the Oneida community.

It was of special significance since the Presiding Bishop Schori visited only two places during her visit to Wisconsin, that of the Diocese and that of our own Holy Apostles Church in Oneida, the oldest Episcopal Church built in the Northeastern Region of the United States.

Today, we have a white pine tree and plaque located at Holy Apostles that reads:

On June 5, 2011, this White Pine tree, a symbol of the Iroquois Confederacy, is planted in honor of and blessed by The Most Reverend Doctor Katherine Jefferis Schori, Presiding Bishop of the National Episcopal Church. Our people sought "The Word" and Queen Anne responded to their request. Through the grace of God we thank our ancestors for providing us this holy ground and church to continue our spiritual journey together in peace, harmony, and friendship.

Young Scholars Program

Greetings,

My name is Iselena Teyolhaunhati Torres-Mejia. I am 11 years old. I will be entering the 6th grade in the fall and attending Oneida Nation. I was nominated by Heidi Mathey for a National Young Scholars Program in Dekalb, IL, which I successfully competed June 24-29, 2012. From there I received and invitation to attend the Middle School Presidential Inaugural Conference which will be held on January 19-23, 2012 in Washington D.C. I am currently fundraising in any way I can to get to Washington D.C.

Some Activities that I am currently involved in include: attending longhouse ceremonies, traveling to pow-wows, being a member of Oneida Recreation Civic Center since the age of seven, I'm an active member of the Oneida Family Fitness Center where I take Tae Kwon Do classes, I am in band where I play the clarinet, I've attended the library summer reading program since the age of five, I've tutored reading since third grade, me and my family have volunteered many years at the Parish Hall in Oneida every Thanksgiving helping serve a free meal, and my family has been involved in many community fundraisers.

Honors and award I have received include-perfect attendance since kindergarten. High and highest honor for G.P.A. since third grade, third place in the school science fair, attending and completing St. Norbert College G.L.A.D. camp, attending and completing NYSP C.S.I. program, first, second, and third place trophies for Tae Kwon Do in forms and board breaking, successfully completing seven levels to achieve my blue belt in Tae Kwon Do, receiving patches for high achievement and the splits club in Tae Kwon Do.

My Career Aspirations; to be a teacher or musician.

What impact the program may have in my future - some of the things I learned which I will be able to use in my career aspirations include team building, leadership, problem solving, and discovery strand (examining, questioning, researching, creating, investigating, and exploring).

Shanna Torres

Invitation to the community

Many years ago there was nothing in Oneida but the bar life and our people's lives were spiraling out of direction because there was something missing.

When I went to Canada, I was given a turtle rattle and a water drum by one of the seven chiefs. The chief who had given me the water drum was a true gentleman with every fiber of his bone. I gave the drum and rattle that was given to me to the long house so they could practice their ceremonies. I was also given a pipe from my sister so I can pray for our people.

I would like to see some elders and warriors come an witness this event so we can continue our beliefs so we are able to keep our traditional beliefs alive. Please help me make this a reality by attending an open invitation feast and give-a-way ceremony on Saturday, August 18, 2012 at the Cty. H Recreation Center at 5:00pm.

Thank you,
Louis T. Webster

Do you have a student in college, or getting ready to enter college in the next year? Have you ever wondered…

- What expenses might I need to assist my student with?
- What do I do when my student is homesick?
- How can I support my student without "parenting" them too much while they are away in college?

The transition to college can be confusing and full of anxiety for parents as well as students. Our children are starting true independence when they leave home for their higher education experience. It's hard to tell your student, "I don't know what you should do." Parents of college and university students are invited to participate in a mutual support group.

The Parents of College Student Support Group will identify common questions and issues that parents encounter, who can then help prepare the next group of parents of students who will be venturing into college life next fall! Join us as we share light refreshments, exchange stories and better prepare our Oneida students for higher education!

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support Enforcement

Question: What happens when I don't pay my child support?

Answer: The potential consequences of non-payment include:

- Having a lien placed on property
- State and federal tax return intercept
- Per capita intercept
- Seizure of bank accounts
- Suspension of recreational, occupational, and/or driver's licenses
- Intercept of certain types of lump-sum payments
- Contempt (which comes with its own set of consequences)

Question: What can I do if I have not been paying my child support?

Answer: Contact the Agency at (920) 490-3700 - you will be directed to your caseworker who will talk with you about what can be done to get back on track. Your caseworker can provide you with job search forms to complete and return to the Agency if you are unemployed or underemployed; they can also talk with you about barriers you may be facing and refer you to various community agencies.

Depending on your situation, you can also talk to your caseworker about doing an Alternative Payment Plan or a Compliance Plan. An Alternative Payment Plan (AAP) is an agreement between the payer and the Agency which can contain a lump-sum payment or periodic payments in addition to the court-ordered child support payments. An AAP is usually done to halt an enforcement action, such as license suspension. A Compliance Plan is also an agreement between the payer and the Agency, but it is done to halt contempt.

The most important first step is to contact the Agency—we are here to help you.

Upcoming Event:

Come meet your ONCSA caseworker as well as other representatives from Oneida Economic Support, TANF, DVR, Job Center, and the Father & Parenting Programs. Ask questions, get information on support services, and find out how to get back on track with your child support. Free Indian tacos for participants.

From 1A/LaX 4 Life

Teens Jonathan Danforth, Duwayne Matson, Daniel Arcee, DeeJay Baird, Byran Halona, and Melvin Matson joined Ninham and Summers at the camp.

"The focus is lacrosse fundamentals and it also focuses on healthy lifestyles, leadership, and life skills," said Ninham.

The Oneida teens left a positive impression on camp officials and other chaperones.

"I was so proud of the kids representing Oneida. I received so many compliments about our boys there," Ninham said.

They also left a mark on the lacrosse field.

"All of them are all successful. They were some of the best lacrosse players at the camp," Ninham proudly added.

This was Summers' first trip to the camp and according to Ninham, played a huge role in the camp's cultural focus of the game.

"My role at the camp was to bring the cultural aspect of the game to the camp. I explained the history of lacrosse and its origins with the Haudenosaunee," said Summers. "I also explained that with most tribes in the U.S., there is some form of lacrosse in their history. They are played a little differently but have the same significances."

Ninham believes sports play a vital role in the development of youth.

"It gives them a goal, it gives them something to look forward to. In order to accomplish goals you have to be good in school, can't get in trouble with the law, you have to be healthy, and be a good community member. All of those thins we teach youth on the field roles over into life," he said.

"On the field there are challenges that you need to overcome and in life you may have problems at home or relationship issues. Sports help you can overcome those," he added.

Not only did the youth succeed on the field, Deejay Baird and Jonathan Powless were asked to come back as camp counselors.

"Both were standouts and made such an impact they were asked back to mentor the kids," said Ninham.

Danforth was also presented with two awards for his leadership ability during the camp.

Summers hopes his participation wasn't a one-time event.

"The energy that I got from watching them play I still carry that with me today," he said. "This was my first year at the camp and hopefully not the last."

How do I pay a bill online?
Once you've enrolled and entered your Payees, just enter a payment amount, schedule the payment date and you're done.

Absolutely not. You'll always be in control. You decide whom, when and how often payments are made.

Need to cancel or change a payment?
No problem, as long as it's done before the processing date.

How is the payment sent to my Payee/Biller?
You will not always know if your payment is sent electronically or by paper check. While many payments will be made electronically, some Payees/Billers cannot receive electronic payments (such as individuals). Those Payees/Billers will be sent payments by paper check.

Town of Oneida Service Agreement

The last issue of the Kalihwisaks covered the story of our signing a Service Agreement with the Town of Oneida. Since then, I have been asked questions by several Tribal members about the purpose of the agreement and why there was a significant increase in the amount paid by the Tribe.

Purpose of Service Agreement: When the Tribe purchases land within the Oneida Indian Reservation boundaries and places it into Federal trust status, that land is taken off the tax rolls of the local municipalities. For a number of years, the Oneida Tribe has recognized a responsibility to compensate those local municipalities for the services they continue to provide to our people and to our Tribe regardless of tax status.

Why a Significant Increase in the Amount Paid: The Town of Oneida, along with the Village of Hobart, share a special history and relationship with the Oneida Tribe and with our Tribal people. Both municipalities lie totally within the boundaries of the Oneida Indian Reservation. Both municipalities were once Oneida in culture and in language. In many respects, they were us and we were them, and although we have not been able to maintain and nourish that special relationship with the Village of Hobart in recent years, that special connection with the Town of Oneida has continued to flourish.

The Oneida Tribe and Oneida Tribal people have significant land holdings within the Town of Oneida and have an interest in keeping the Town's tax rates low. The elected leadership of the Town of Oneida share in that interest (currently, it is my understanding that the Town of Oneida tax rate is at .68 cents per thousand dollars of value).

Also, serving on the Town of Oneida's Volunteer Fire Department are many members of the Oneida Tribe. Those are our people and we have a commitment to their safety by helping to provide them with safe and updated fire-fighting clothing and equipment. The Town of Oneida leaders share in that commitment.

In addition, the roads the Town of Oneida maintains are roads that both Indians and non-Indians travel on. It is important for the Town of Oneida to have appropriate equipment and staff to ensure the roads are properly taken care of throughout the year. The Tribe and the Town of Oneida share in a concern and dedication that the roads are safe for all our people.

Thank you for Reading.

Sincerely,
Ed Delgado
Oneida Tribal Chairman

GET OUT THE VOTE

Decisions are made every day by government officials that affect indigenous peoples, from the President to the Governor of the state to local officials. If Native peoples do not participate in these elections, these officials have little reason to consider to our concerns and issues; they will consider the concerns of those who do vote.

The Oneida Business Committee encourages all tribal citizens and employees to become part of the political process. The need to continue to participate in the electoral process and elect leadership who will represent the Tribe's issues and concerns at all levels of government is imperative.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A rare combination of pipeline and refinery problems has exacerbated already rising gas prices in the Great Lakes region, leading to surges of around 35 cents per gallon in just one week, officials said Friday.

Michigan's statewide average price for a gallon of regular unleaded rose 34 cents during the past week to $3.95, making for the highest per-gallon price in the continental U.S, according to auto club AAA. The week's average per-gallon increase in surrounding states ranged from 26 cents in Wisconsin to 33 cents in Illinois and Indiana.

The national average price for a gallon of unleaded, by comparison, moved up just 8 cents over the week to $3.56.

"The rest of the country has seen an increase, but nothing like here in the Midwest," said Pam Moen, a spokeswoman for AAA Wisconsin. "I don't think I've ever seen prices move this much in a couple of days."

The Midwest has seen a confluence of freak problems during the past few weeks that have tightened supplies and pushed prices. An Enbridge Energy Partners pipeline that transports crude from Superior, Wis., to Chicago-area refineries ruptured July 27, spraying about 50,400 gallons of crude into a southern Wisconsin field.

It was Enbridge's second break in the region in just more than two years - an Enbridge pipeline broke in Marshall, Mich., in July 2010, spilling 840,000 gallons - and federal officials have barred the company from re-opening the Wisconsin line until it submits a re-start plan. A company spokeswoman didn't immediately respond to an email seeking an update on the plan Friday.

Meanwhile, equipment problems have closed parts of refineries in Whiting, Ind., Lemont, Ill., and Wood River, Ill., said Patrick DeHaan, a petroleum analyst at GasBuddy.com.

"The reaction we're seeing in gas prices, you'd think Iran just tried to close the Strait of Hormuz," said DeHaan, referring to the Persian Gulf route for one-fifth of the world's oil. "Just the possibility of a shortage spooks the market."

Gas prices usually increase in the summer months as demand rises and refineries switch to more expensive, cleaner-burning blends. Plus crude oil prices have risen about $15 per barrel during the last few weeks after bottoming in June at just shy of $78 per barrel, driven largely by positive economic and job forecasts, said Tom Kloza, chief oil analyst for Oil Price Information Service. Wholesale prices have risen as a result, which translates to higher prices on the street, he said.

"It's the normal nonsense that moves crude," Kloza said. "What it reminds everyone is these prices are tremendously volatile."

Illinois' 33-cent jump in the last seven days brought its statewide average to $3.93 per gallon of unleaded. The average price in Chicago on Friday was $4.26, up 35 cents from a week ago. Indiana was up 33 cents to $3.84, Ohio has seen a 30-cent jump to $3.80 and Wisconsin's 26-cent increase brought its average price to $3.76.

Drivers should expect gas prices to climb for at least the next few days as retail prices catch up with this week's 20-cent wholesale increase, Moen said. Pump prices should at least stabilize by next week, she said.

Motorists greeted the news with a mixture of resent and resignation.

"Ridiculous," Tim Meinke of Central Lake, Mich., said as he pumped $73 worth of gas into his SUV at a station in northern Michigan's Traverse City on Friday. Unleaded regular there was going for $3.94.

Jack Rarick, a 57-year-old high school football coach from Holt, Mich., shrugged off spending $65 to fill his SUV at the same station.

"I'm not going to be upset. I'm going to pay it and move on," he said. "Gas is probably too cheap. Gas probably needs to be $6 a gallon if we're ever going to change the way we do things."

Mike Biehl, a 54-year-old University of Illinois veterinary medicine professor, dropped $78 to fill up his SUV in Savoy, Ill., a Champaign suburb where gas was $3.95 a gallon. He was skeptical about the reasons for the price spikes, but said consumers like himself could force prices down if they wanted.

"At some point we have to say we are all going to embrace conservation methods and cut back," Biehl said before climbing into his vehicle for a 170-mile trek to a St. Louis Cardinals baseball game.

In Milwaukee, gas prices shot above $4 a gallon at many stations, up from $3.75 Thursday.

Tony SanFelippo, who manages a downtown Milwaukee Citgo station, said drivers like to blame gas station owners when prices rise but they're at the mercy of suppliers. He said that, like a lot of people, he's changed his driving habits.

"My wife says to me, 'We sit on the patio a lot lately.'" Then he smiled and offered this advice: "Learn to walk again. Exercise the legs."

Ho-Chunk tribal member convicted of bribery

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A Ho-Chunk tribal member has been convicted of 12 federal charges after prosecutors said he received more than $3 million from companies wanting to do business with the tribe.

A jury found 60-year-old Timothy Whiteagle of Black River Falls guilty Wednesday of all 12 counts. A Wisconsin State Journal report says the charges included bribery conspiracy and filing false tax returns.

Prosecutors say Whiteagle worked as a covert lobbyist for several financial companies. He and others were also accused of giving cash and gifts to an elected official in the Ho-Chunk Nation.

Defense attorney Glenn C. Reynolds said Thursday he's not sure the jury understood how Native Americans work together, share things and help one another.

Whiteagle faces up to 111 years in prison when he's sentenced Oct. 24.

Tribe in northern Wis. to open 89 acres to public

BAYFIELD, Wis. (AP) ~ A tribe in far northern Wisconsin is preparing to open 89 acres of tribal land to the public.

The Red Cliff Chippewa plan to unveil Frog Bay Tribal National Park on Friday. The move will mark the first time that a national park that's tribally owned or controlled has opened to the public.

Frog Bay is about 15 minutes north of Bayfield, home of the Apostle Islands National Lakeshore. The area is flush with towering trees, including pine, spruce and cedar.

Visitors will be able to hear the songs of nearly 90 species of birds. Other wildlife includes bobcats, beaver, bears, deer and wolves.

To minimize trail damage, parking will be limited. People who want to visit the one-quarter-mile stretch of sand beach will have to walk.

"Rachel" Up to No Good Again – This Time in Email Gift Card Scam

MADISON, Wis. – "Rachel" (the scammer) has had a busy year, first showing up in "credit card services" automated phone calls and now as part of an email phishing scam.

If you receive an email from "Rachel, Customer Service, Employee Benefits Center, LLC" informing you that you have been issued a free $1,000 Visa gift card on behalf of a local business, be aware that it is a scam and take no action with the email.

Consumers nationwide have received these emails, with each email claiming to offer the gift cards on behalf of a local company, charity or government agency. The emails appear official and ask recipients to visit a website to claim the card.

Regardless of the company whose name is used, the scam emails include the same content:

- The body of the email will include:
  - The recipient's first and last name and an "Issuing branch" in the city or state where the recipient lives
  - A "Valid until" date for the card (often listed as "08/2015")
  - A website address where the recipient can "claim the card and have it shipped to the address of your choosing"
  - A 48-hour deadline to make victims react more quickly to the "offer"
  - A signature from "Rachel, Customer Service, Employee Benefits Center, LLC"

If you receive this email, do not visit the listed website, open any links or attachments, respond to the sender or take any other action with the solicitation. Update your anti-virus software to ensure that your computer can recognize any recent malware attacks.

MT fires bring emergency declaration from governor

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) ~ Montana's governor declared an emergency Monday across roughly half the state as gusting winds fanned wildfires that have already blackened almost 440 square miles in the past week.

As the winds and heat mounted, about 2,000 firefighters and other personnel worked to hold onto the gains made in recent days on more than a dozen large blazes.

At least one new fire broke out near Pryor but was quickly contained. Temperatures hit the upper 90s, further drying the parched region and setting the stage for several large fires to expand.

Fire crews braced for a long night as temperatures hit 100 degrees and winds up to 20 mph hit the area near Rosebud, where a group of six fires was burning ponderosa pine, sage, brush and grass. Red flag warnings were in effect for southwest, central and parts of southeast Montana.

The National Weather Service warned of possible lightning strikes that could spark additional blazes. The hot weather and scattered thunderstorms was forecast to last through the end of the week.

Gov. Brian Schweitzer's emergency proclamation for southeastern and south central Montana cited the continuing threat to towns and rural communities, including Ashland, Lame Deer and Colstrip.

The order paved the way for mobilization of the Montana National Guard and other state resources to help stamp out any new blazes in coming days. The order covers 23 of the state's 56 counties along with the Crow and Northern Cheyenne Indian reservations near the Wyoming border.

Strong winds buffeted the area near Rosebud, where six blazes have burned a combined 270 square miles. Officials said gusts fanned the fires onto tree crowns, spreading flames amid groups of trees.

One of those, the Chalky Creek Fire burning near Lame Deer, was about 10 percent contained as crews worked the blaze at the edge of town. No evacuations were in place. Spokeswoman Marilyn Krause said restrictions on U.S. Highway 212 were possible.

Two houses and three outbuildings have been destroyed, and dozens of homes remained threatened by the Rosebud Creek fires.

The nearby Sarpy Hills complex of fires on the Crow Indian Reservation was 65 percent contained after burning almost 130 square miles, including two homes and 12 outbuildings. Thirty homes were considered threatened. However, a perimeter line around the fire was holding and there appeared to be no immediate danger, fire spokeswoman Cindy Super said.

In north-central Montana near Augusta, 48 cabins and vacation homes remained under evacuation from the 24-squre-mile Elbow Pass fire complex. Authorities were concentrating on stopping any expansion of the fire on its northeast side along the Benchmark Canyon corridor, spokeswoman Kathy Thompson said.

Crews could be pulled from the rocky ridges at the leading edge of the blaze if weather conditions deteriorated, she said.

The spate of new fires in recent days has pushed Montana above 900 square miles burned so far in 2012. That's well over the state's 10-year average and more than three times the amount of land that burned last year.

Among the most destructive of the fires has been the 34-square-mile Dahl blaze that destroyed 73 homes and 150 outbuildings near Roundup in late June and early July.

On Monday, the head of the U.S. Small Business Administration said low-interest loans will be available for residents and business owners affected by the fire.

Loans up to $200,000 will help homeowners replace or repair damaged real estate, SBA administrator Karen Mills said. In addition, homeowners and renters are eligible for up to $40,000 to replace damaged or destroyed personal property.

Businesses may borrow up to $2 million through the federal disaster program.

An SBA disaster loan outreach center is scheduled to open Wednesday in Roundup.

Secretary Salazar Commends President Obama's Nomination of Washburn

WASHINGTON, D.C. ~ Secretary of the Interior Ken Salazar today lauded President Obama's nomination of Kevin K. Washburn, a member of the Chickasaw Nation of Oklahoma, to serve as Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs at the Department of the Interior.

"Kevin Washburn has a keen understanding of the many issues that affect Indian Country," Salazar said. "His strong professional and academic experience will be a key asset to the Department as we continue to strengthen the integrity of the government-to-government relationship with Indian tribes and empower Native American and Alaska Native communities. He will be an excellent addition to our team."

Washburn is currently serving as Dean at the University of New Mexico School of Law where he teaches courses in criminal and gaming law. He serves on numerous state boards, chairing the Judicial Selection Commission and the Judicial Compensation Commission for the state of New Mexico. He previously taught courses as a professor of law at the University of Minnesota Law School, Harvard Law School, and the University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law.

Prior to his current position, Washburn served as General Counsel to the National Indian Gaming Commission. He also served as an Assistant United States Attorney in New Mexico where he handled prosecutions in the violent crime division. As a trial attorney for the Department of Justice under the Clinton Administration, Washburn litigated affirmative cases on behalf of the United States in its role as trustee for Indian tribes.

Washburn received his J.D. from Yale Law School and his B.A. from the University of Oklahoma.

Senecas, NY reach agreement on highway work

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) ~ The Seneca Indian Nation and New York state resolved a dispute Monday that has held up much-needed repairs to a portion of highway running through the tribe's western New York territory.

A joint statement said the two sides have agreed to a framework to allow work to start on the Southern Tier Expressway, Interstate 86, in Cattaraugus County, as well as other road projects on Seneca land.

Seneca President Robert Odawi Porter and Gov. Andrew Cuomo's administration have been at odds over fees sought by the Senecas to monitor the projects.

Last week, the feud escalated when state Transportation Commissioner Joan McDonald threatened to reallocate $47 million to other projects in the absence of a quick resolution.

Under Monday's agreement, the Senecas will receive a 3 percent administrative fee on the $28.5 million Southern Tier Expressway repaving project. The nation had sought 3.5 percent, a fee amount it said had been built in to contracts involving work on nation territory since 1993 under the nation's Tribal Employment Rights Office (TERO) rules.

Tribal leaders said they were told by state officials in May that the state would not apply TERO rules to the Southern Tier Expressway project or any others going forward. McDonald said last week the department was willing to pay the fees, but not increased fees sought by the Senecas.

Monday's one-paragraph statement said the agreement had been approved by the Seneca Tribal Council and that "the contractor will deploy to the site as soon as feasible."

Elders enjoy the tour of Oneida

In the month of July, fourteen Oneida Elders from Milwaukee took a tour of Oneida. We met Kirby Metoxen at the Radisson and then headed out to visit many interesting sites in Oneida. We got to see the new cemetery located in Oneida. It is a beautiful area and just knowing that when our loved ones pass, they can come home to Oneida for their burial. Our next site to visit was the Bird Sanctuary, where many species of birds nest, including an eagle. A brief stop in front of the Methodist Church and a short history lesson and then off to Thornberry Creek Golf course for an enjoyable lunch!

Kirby then asked each person about their families and of course we found that families were within the group had grand-parents and parents from the Skenandore's, Metoxen's, Cornelius', Coulon's, Parker's, Denny's and Silas'. It was a great way to introduce everyone and see the smiles on each other, realizing how big the Oneida family is!

After lunch we went to the Oneida Museum. We were able to see the exhibit by Sam Thomas. The museum staff does a great job showcasing new and exciting exhibits every year.

We then headed out to the longhouse. A few of our Elders have attended a few ceremonies and had been there. It was a very hot day, but the longhouse was cool inside. We were able to relax, sit back and listen to Kirby. He explained where people need to sit according to their clans when attending a ceremony.

The overall comments from folks at the end of the tour were, "Kirby did such a great job explaining things!" "The trip was well planned" "I had such a great time and everything was so interesting" "Can we do this again?"

The Elders are looking forward to the next tour and are ready to explore and visit more sites in Oneida!

Thank you, Kirby!

A Reunion of our Onʌyote?a·ká· family

> "The main purpose of the Gathering is to develop relationships through fun, educational, and healing activities."
> – Anita Barber

The Onʌyote?a·ká· Gathering – A Family Reunion is a result of information gathered from surveys conducted throughout the community for the past 5-10 years or more. The main purpose of the Gathering is to develop relationships through fun, educational, and healing activities. We want to share backgrounds, build relationships, bridge traditional knowledge with contemporary practices and interpret our role in modern day society to strengthen our identity. A number of activities are planned to take place that will allow Onʌyote?a·ká· people to pull resources together and shine with the best they have to offer. This event will continue previous efforts to maintain contact through a reunion of our Onʌyote?a·ká· family.

There are well over 20,000 plus Onʌyote?a·ká· and their families throughout the world. At this time there is no way to estimate how many people will join us on August 16-19. One of the first activities is to develop knowledge about the clan system including the roles and responsibilities of each clan. There is a place for those who do not know their clan or do not have a clan to learn more.

Throughout the four days there will be times for learning about historically significant events, identity, language, tours of the reservation and tours of our environmental resources, community art projects, some crafts, Archery and talented Onʌyote?a·ká· people.

Saturday is a day of music. Groups of Oneida Hymn Singers will open the stage at 10 AM with Social Dance Singing to follow. The Grand finale for the day is the Oneida Youth Choir as an opening act for our special guests: Academy award winner Joanne Shenandoah and her daughter Leah.

Sunday will close with plans for the next Gathering.

Travelers can obtain a discounted room at the Radisson or join others for rough camping on the Cultural Heritage grounds. Showers are open at the Fitness Center daily.

Many tribal entities and individuals help to support this event. All activities are free of charge but donations are always welcomed. yawáko

Wis. DNR wants public input on elk restoration

Madison, WI (AP) – The state Department of Natural Resources is looking for public feedback on efforts to re-establish elk in Wisconsin.

The DNR estimates about 180 elk currently roam Ashland County. The animals descended from 25 elk captured in Michigan and released in the Clam Lake area in 1995. The DNR has proposed adding at least 200 more elk to the Clam Lake herd and introducing up to 75 elk to the Black River State Forest.

The agency has set up an online survey asking people for their thoughts on elk restoration, including whether they are concerned elk might compete with other wildlife, whether they're worried about car-elk crashes and whether they'd be interested in hunting elk.

Photo courtesy of G. Kaquatosh Gordon Kaquatosh of Ft. Washakie WY, nabbed this antlered elk in Wyoming last fall. The antler was a 6 x 6 with a spread of 50".

Blackjacks win championship

By Sherrole Benton
Special to the Kalihwisaks

Several Oneida athletes played key roles leading the semi-pro Green Bay Blackjack to the Northern Lights Football League championship on July 28 at Lombardi Middle School Field. The Blackjacks crushed the Titletown Muskies, 57-8.

The six Oneida players were starting quarterback and offensive captain Jason Laluzerne, tight end Dylan Benton, linebacker/fullback Roland Christjohn, offensive tackle Robert Danforth, and offensive guard and co-captain Aaron Mencheski. Offensive tackle Tyler Laluzerne sat out the championship game with an injured shoulder.

Another Native American athlete on the team is Kyler Hartl, RB, who is enrolled in the Citizen Potawatomi Nation of Shawnee, OK.

The BlackJacks had a great season, finishing with an 11-2 record.

Onondaga Nation and Allies Prepare for Historic Trek Down the Hudson

On Tuesday, July 31 thru Friday, August 3, 2012, citizens of the Onondaga Nation and allies from Neighbors of the Onondaga Nation (NOON) will travel in canoes and a sailboat on the Hudson River from Saugerties to Bear Mountain as a "trial run" of the Symbolic Enactment planned for the 2013 Two Row Wampum Renewal Campaign.

The campaign is an ambitious statewide effort marking the 400th anniversary of the first treaty between the Haudenosaunee (Iroquois) and Europeans. The Two Row Wampum Treaty outlined a model of friendship and peace, of living side by side forever and working together to protect the natural world. The campaign aims to bring this historic and inspirational treaty to the forefront of peoples' minds as a model for right relationship between our peoples, emphasizing the importance of honoring treaties with Native Nations.

"Our trial run down the Hudson begins our effort to share this important treaty with fellow New Yorkers and appeal to the people of our state to uphold it," noted campaign organizer and SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry professor Jack Manno.

In this treaty, "our ancestors agreed that you could live together with us on our land so long as you followed the natural laws," Onondaga Nation Chief Irving Powless Jr. explains. "It means to not pollute the water, nor the air, or the plants and medicines. We want our grandchildren to have these things too." Working together to address environmental concerns will be a key focus of the campaign.

The full symbolic "enactment" of the treaty with canoes (representing the Haudenosaunee) and boats (representing allies) traveling side-by-side down the Hudson River will start near Albany, NY in late July 2013. It will stop along the route for educational and cultural events and arrive in New York City on Friday, August 9 to participate in the United Nations International Day of the World's Indigenous People.

The campaign, organized as a partnership between the Onondaga Nation and NOON, already has over 30 co-sponsors, including universities, environmental organizations, social justice groups and faith communities. The campaign's Honorary Advisory Committee includes indigenous leaders such as Oren Lyons, Suzan Harjo and Leonard Peltier; Syracuse University Chancellor Nancy Cantor; folksinger Pete Seeger; internationally-acclaimed primatologist Jane Goodall and others.

For further information or to donate to support the full enactment in 2013, contact NOON, 315-472-5478, see www.HonorTheTwoRow.org or follow us on Twitter and Facebook.

Work Incentives for Labor Day

Distributed By Ken Hess
Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

This Labor Day, many Americans commemorate the fruits of their hard work by taking a day off from it. There will be gatherings and games, barbecues, and baseball. Labor Day was established in 1882, and it has become an American tradition to celebrate with family and friends.

For many Americans who receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits, Labor Day can be a good day to think about the future. It may be that, in spite of your disabling condition, you would like to attempt to work. But perhaps you're apprehensive because you don't want to find out you're not quite up to the task and risk losing your benefits and critical medical coverage.

We have good news for you: our work incentives can help you go to work without the worry.

Work incentives include:

- Continued cash benefits for a period of time while you work;
- Continued Medicare or Medicaid while you work; and
- Help with education, training, and rehabilitation to start a new line of work.

For example, a trial work period allows you to test your ability to work for at least nine months without affecting your benefits. Beyond that, an extended period of eligibility allows you to work another 36 months and still receive benefits, depending on your earnings. If your benefits stopped because your earnings were too high, but you find that your disabling condition does not allow you to stick with the job, you're eligible for expedited reinstatement without having to complete a new application.

If you are successful at returning to work, but you fear the loss of your medical coverage, here's more good news. You can continue to get Medicare Part A for at least 7 years after your cash benefits end, and after that you can buy Medicare Part A coverage by paying a monthly premium. Through it all, you can opt to continue paying your Medicare Part B premium for that additional coverage.

In addition to these incentives, you also may be interested in the Ticket to Work program, which may be able to help you receive vocational rehabilitation, training, job referrals, and other employment support services free of charge.

This Labor Day, visit www.socialsecurity.gov/ work to learn more. Or read our publication, Working While Disabled—How We Can Help, available at http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/10095.html.

It pays to check your Medicare Summary Notice for errors

When Jerry opened his Medicare Summary Notice, which lists payments made for health care, he received quite a shock. It showed that Medicare had paid a claim for surgery to implant a pacemaker—a surgery he had not received! How could this happen and what should he do about it?

Each year Wisconsin Medicare beneficiaries are billed for services they didn't receive. Sometimes it's an honest billing mistake and sometimes it's Medicare fraud — often because a criminal has obtained personal Medicare information. To protect your health and your Medicare benefits, it is critically important to review your Medicare Summary Notice and report any errors. If a thief uses your identity to get care, your medical record will be incorrect, which could lead to receiving inappropriate treatment in the future. Your Medicare benefits may be in jeopardy, too. For example, if you are fraudulently billed for a wheelchair and then need one in the future, your claim will be denied because Medicare will pay for only one wheelchair.

To protect your medical records and benefits, take these important steps.

1. Never, ever give out your Medicare number or bank account information on the phone. Medicare will not call to ask about this information.
2. Keep a record of the dates that you see doctors and note the care you receive. Then compare your record with the charges on your Medicare Summary Notice. If you find errors, call your medical provider. It may be a simple billing error.
3. Call 1-800-MEDICARE to report the error.
4. If you need further assistance in resolving an issue or if you suspect Medicare fraud, contact the Wisconsin Senior Medicare Patrol (SMP) at 1-800-488-2596, ext. 317.

To learn about healthcare and consumer fraud, visit the Wisconsin SMP website at www.wisconsinsmp.org.

Judge throws out lawsuit over Fighting Sioux name

FARGO, N.D. (AP) ~ A federal judge says it appears the political fight over the University of North Dakota's Fighting Sioux nickname is over and has thrown out a lawsuit by six American Indian students at UND.

The suit was filed last year after the state Legislature passed a law requiring the school to keep the nickname. The law was later repealed, but retirement of the logo was put on hold when a group of nickname supporters put the issue to a statewide vote.

U.S. District Judge Ralph Erickson says the overwhelming vote against the nickname and the state Board of Higher Education's clear intent to retire the moniker renders many points in the lawsuit meaningless.

Erickson says the lawsuit does not prove direct discrimination by the state or "deliberate indifference" to rights violations.

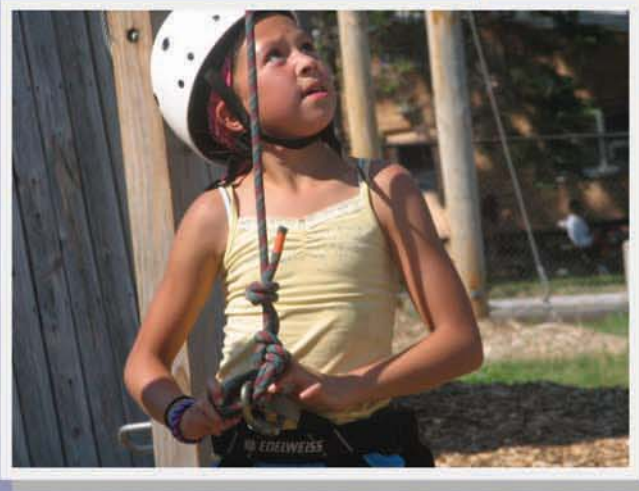
BUILDING CONFIDENCE BY CLIMBING TO NEW HEIGHTS!

THE COURAGE OF OUR CAMPERS AT ONEIDA ADVENTURE'S CLIMB CAMP WAS INSPIRING. CAMPERS MARKED OUT GOALS FOR THEMSELVES AND EACH CAMPER EXPERIENCED THE SATISFACTION OF ACHIEVEMENT AT SOME POINT THROUGHOUT CAMP. WHETHER IT WAS TREE CLIMBING, CLIMBING THE WALL, OR STEPPING OFF ONTO THE ZIPLINE, CAMPERS ACCEPTED THEIR FEARS; TOOK HEALTHY RISKS; AND ACCOMPLISHED MORE THAN THEY EVER THOUGHT THEY WERE CABABLE OF. THEY GREW IN THEIR BELIEFS OF WHAT IS POSSIBLE OF THEMSELVES! WE ARE VERY PROUD!



Only those who will risk going too far can possibly find out how far one can go.

Krawczyk appointed to Healthy Wisconsin Leadership Institute Advisory Committee

Submitted from the Community Health Services Department-OCHC

Eric Krawczyk, Community/Public Health Officer was recently appointed to serve on the Healthy Wisconsin Institute Advisory Committee (HWLIAC) for a three year term. The institute was established in 2005 to provide input to the two state medical schools for development, implementation and evaluation of the Healthy Wisconsin Leadership Institute. The committee helps to assure that Leadership Institute programs remain coordinated and responsive to the needs of the state's broadly defined public health workforce.

Erick Krawczyk

Krawczyk was involved with the establishment and development of the institute back in 2005. As a graduate of the Nation Public Health Leadership Institute (thru the CDC), this was part of his fellowship project to provide development guidelines and the infrastructure in getting the institute established. He was also one of the original members of the advisory board back in 2005.

Krawczyk states, "It is a pleasure to see how the institute has grown in the manner it has over the last seven years. In fact one of my goals is to continue to see all the Wisconsin tribes take part is this important training." The Oneida Nation just recently had a team participate in the one year experience. The commitment that these five individuals took over the last year was helpful in their development in not only becoming more diverse leaders, but sharing that knowledge with other co-workers and community partners. Teams are developed and meet throughout the year, working on certain projects that address a particular community or public health problem. In addition, the team is supported by the Institute with many resources, trainings and other opportunities to develop their skills. It really is a win/win situation for all those involved.

Why can't I get an appointment when I want to?

There is a nationwide shortage of physicians in Primary Care and Psychiatry. We currently have Provider vacancies in Family Practice, Internal Medicine and Psychiatry. We are faithfully attempting various strategies to meet our community's healthcare needs:

- We have contracted with a firm to assist with Provider Recruitment.
- Oneida Business Committee approved Nurse Practitioner and Physician Assistant positions.
- The Health Division is working on a Provider retention plan.
- We are negotiating with a local health system to provide urgent care services.

We seek your continued support and patience as we recruit additional providers to become fully staffed.

You can assist us in our goal of improving healthcare access by:

- Keeping your scheduled appointments
- Providing us at least 24 hours' notice if you are unable to keep your appointment
- Providing complete and accurate information at registration

Thank you

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility

Bishop approves $260,000 funds for repairs to steeple

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Members of the Holy Apostles Episcopal Church waited nervously in a Sunday school room for a decision to be made on the renovation of their church. Just yards away their place of worship remained closed due to falling cement - caution tape blocking the entrances to the church.

Rt. Rev. Russell E. Jacobus, Bishop of Fond du Lac, met with church leadership and representatives of the congregation on Thursday, August 9, 2012 to determine if funds should be taken from the Church's trust to pay for needed repairs.

Emerging from the meeting room nearly an hour later than expected, Bishop Jacobus reluctantly announced his decision to the waiting group.

"My decision was to allow funds to come from the trust to get you back into the building as soon as possible. Phase one. As I understand this will get the building fixed so that you can get back in there to worship," said Jacobus.

This decision allows $260,000 of trust money to be used in the construction of phase one on the condition that two additional bids from construction companies be acquired so that a comparison can be made.

Trying to get two more comparable bids is a more difficult task than it may seem because finding businesses that will do the work at a discounted price is difficult.

"Right now we can't get into the church because of the bell tower, the windows are falling out of it, and cement is falling from the top. Phase one, if we can find someone to do it, would fix just the tower," said Ron McLester.

Bishop Jacobus also indicated that the church's congregation would have to increase

Kalihwisaks to return to bi-weekly print schedule

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks Managing Editor

Due to budgetary constraints, the Kalihwisaks Newspaper will return to publishing every other week starting October 2, 2012.

While the staff has enjoyed the challenge of producing a weekly paper, the added expense of printing the extra issues hurt our budget. Initially, it was thought that a weekly paper would be half the size of a bi-weekly paper, but it didn't work out that way.

Overall, the experience was a positive one and we hope to build on the skills we developed to produce a steady product. We plan to use our off weeks to create more content for the Kalihwisaks website and Facebook page.

ONHS principle equates school with sovereignty

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Art Skenandore may be feeling a bit of déjà vu as he settles into his position as the Oneida Nation High School (ONHS) Principle in the wing of the Norbert Hill Center that once housed the Oneida Tribal School which he helmed in the 1980's.

"I was involved with the early beginnings before there even was a tribal school, I was on a committee that sat and had a dream about having a school," he said.

Skenandore started at the school as an elementary teacher, moved up to vice-principle and then principle of the then kindergarten through eighth grade school system.

Skenandore went on into some private ventures, but continued to teach tribal management at the college level at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, Nicolet College, and the College of the Menominee Nation.

"I've done a lot of work in designing educational systems for other tribes across the country, so I've never been disconnected to education over the years. I've certainly followed along the design and the development of our own system," he said.

Skenandore is impressed with the academic and extracurricular progress that's been made at the high school, and wants to build on that success.

"Our own story is a good story. What I see for the future of the school is to add chapters to that story in terms of growth and opportunity," he said.

Art Skenandore

Currently, the high school is working with Northeastern Wisconsin Technical College to incorporate a Computer-integrated manufacturing course into the curriculum.

"We're working with the education department to put kids into that system, because what that does it prepares from a toolbox perspective it prepares some of the kids that want to enter the work force, and if you look at the manufacturing, Wisconsin is one of the leading states in terms of manufacturing and manufacturing employment, and those opportunities are there, but you have to be computer savvy to enter that workforce," he said.

Having been involved with the beginnings of the school system, Skenandore is seeing the results of the early Oneida Tribal School.

Accident at casino nearly takes King's finger tip

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The level head of Oneida Casino's security guard Ashley Skenandore and her effective use of training is going to allow Dennis King the ability to keep snapping photos with his pointer finger.

King, a supervisor at the casino, responded to the casino floor when a piece of equipment malfunctioned and nearly cut off the tip of his pointer finger on his right hand. He also owns and operates the photography business D. King of Images.

"There was a glitch and I had to go out to troubleshoot it. The cover lifts like a hood to a car and the hydraulic arms malfunctioned and the lid came crashing down on my finger like a guillotine," said King.

That is when Skenandore took control.

"I was standing at the west lobby and the call came from the over the radio somebody go for a medical. It wasn't explained if it was minor or major," Skenandore said. "As soon as I walked up I saw blood and put my gloves on. I didn't know what I was walking into."

Skenandore proceeded to use her training to carefully wrap King's finger while keeping everyone calm.

"I am not a first responder but we are all trained in first aid and CPR. Every year we go through refresher courses. This is the first actual major medical I've ever been on and responded to and treat," she said.

Dennis King's x-ray shows his broken and badly cut pointer finger.

"She wrapped it up nice and tight. They took really good care of me. Then I got taken to the emergency room," King added.

Though Skenandore remained calm, she admittedly was hiding nerves.

"I was worried that he was going to lose his finger, I just tried to put it where it belonged. I didn't want to move it too much and have it fall off but I wanted to make sure there was enough pressure," she said.

King is grateful for Skenandore's ability to operate effectively under pressure.

"The doctor told me I cut it clear off, if it wasn't for the security team strapping you up nice and tight and straight and keeping it in line they would have to cut it off," said King. "All I said was thank you, thank you, thank you."

King's broken finger was re-attached with 18 stitches. He is still recovering from the break and still has no felling in his finger.

their efforts and support for future restoration projects the church will need.

"I am also asking that if you're going to do further reconstruction that you undertake a capitol fund drive of all the members of the congregation. So you can put up some money as well as the trust putting up some money for further restoration," said Bishop Jacobus.

A major part of those efforts are the Save Our Sanctuary (SOS) events that are put together by the Holy Apostles church. These events are often meals held at the Parish Hall with the benefits going towards maintaining and restoring the Oneida landmark.

The church also has a Church Restoration Committee (CRC) whose mission is organizing, planning, managing and raising funds that shall benefit the maintenance, historic preservation and restoration of the facilities and property of the Church of the Holy Apostles, Oneida, Wisconsin.

While church services are currently held at the Parish Hall, the future of the church is yet to be solidified.

"Previous generations worked hard to leave you the beautiful building you have it is now your responsibility to see that it is left in good condition for future generations if Holy Apostles is going to continue," said Bishop Jacobus.

Donations to the church can be deposits into a fund at Chase Bank. Donations can also be made by credit card (Visa, MC, Discover) by calling 920-634-7962.

October 12, 1925 - August 19, 2011

I look at your picture
It just doesn't seem real
That you are gone for one year that's how all of us feel

As the Lord took your pain
And your soul took flight
If you have found peace
Then the time must have been right

We feel you all around us
As we go through our days
We cherish the memories
You live on in so many ways.

From 1A/Skenandore: Vision for school

of teachers that started out in the elementary system that are now teachers in our own educational system. So when you look at the cycle and that cycle of education and the generational contributions that people are making that's how you create tradition, that's how you create a foundation of success. What I see for the future is a very bright future from the standpoint of our young people, our young citizens, giving them the toolbox on their identity, on the language, on their culture and giving them the confidence in no matter what they do, they'll never forget who they are while they're doing whatever they do from a professional standpoint," he said.

For Skenandore, the creation and continued existence of an Oneida school system is about more than education.

"The ultimate in strengthening sovereignty is really about educating our own children," he said. "This has always been from my perspective the most important focus of our sovereignty is that the school system is at the center of community history."

Skenandore shared a vision of community members supporting the students.

"We have that community fiber that we … want to duplicate. The stories of people coming to games, the grandparents coming to the games to watch their grandchildren play, and you repeat that cycle three or four times over, that's what creates that solid foundation for the future. I see that as something one we have to protect, one we have to duplicate and we have to then begin to tell that story over and over again to our grandchildren that this is the place they want to be because it's our school system," said Skenandore.

Minn. TV news director resigns after Facebook post

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) ~ A Duluth TV news director has resigned after a Facebook post that offended several Native American groups.

Jason Vincent resigned Monday from KQDS Fox 21 TV. His resignation takes effect Aug. 17.

The Duluth News Tribune reports Fox 21 general manager Jackie Bruenjes (BRUN'-jehs) issued a statement saying she accepted Vincent's resignation.

Vincent tells The Associated Press he has taken a new job but declined comment.

While on vacation last week, Vincent posted: "Add drunk, homeless, Native American man to the list of animals that have wandered into my yard."

The post prompted Duluth's American Indian Commission and the Human Rights Commission to call for an apology. The station issued an on-air apology, and Vincent apologized on Facebook.

Vincent had been news director at Fox 21 since 2010.

Maine Native American runner profiled in museum

OLD TOWN, Maine (AP) ~ One of Maine's great athletes is getting some national recognition this summer, 100 years after he just missed the medal stand in the 1912 Olympics.

Andrew Sockalexis of the Penobscot Nation was 20 years old and had only been running in major races for about a year when he finished fourth in the 1912 marathon in Stockholm, Sweden.

The Portland Press Herald reports that he is one of five athletes profiled in an exhibit about Native American athletes at the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington.

Maine author Ed Rice, who has written a biography of Sockalexis, says he was a phenomenal runner with enormous potential. But Sockalexis contracted tuberculosis a few years after his Olympic run and died at age 27.

Oneida artist shares beadwork knowledge

Oneida artist, Karen Ann Hoffman, has just returned from an Artist-in-Residency in New York state.

Sponsored by the New York State Historical Society, Karen Ann spent three days demonstrating Iroquois Raised Beadwork at the Fenimore Art Museum in Cooperstown New York followed by a day at the Iroquois Indian Museum in Howes Cave, New York.

During her visit she spoke to Museum tour groups, reviewed the Iroquois Raised Beadwork collections of the two museums and met with museum directors to discuss historic beadwork.

Karen Ann will return to New York later this September when she speaks at the International Iroquois Beadwork Convention hosted by the Iroquois Studies Association. The convention will feature speakers, scholars and an Iroquois Raised Beadwork competition.

During last year's convention, Karen Ann's beadwork was awarded both a first place ribbon and selected as best of show.

Iselena Teyolhaunhati Torres-Mejia is hoping to go to the Presidential Inaugural Conference through the National Young Scholars Program.

The 11-year-old participated in a week long program held by the National Young Scholars Program last June learning about team building and meeting new people. From there she was nominated to attend the Inaugural Conference in Washington, DC January 19-23.

"We'll go to the Smithsonian Museum, and we'll go to the Maryland Science Center," Torres-Mejia said of the side trips the group will take.

Her mother Shanna Torres is attempting to fundraise to cover the costs of travel and the conference fees.

"I'm proud of her; she's trying to raise money to get there. She's had a lemonade stand right now," said Torres.

Torres-Mejia attends the Oneida Nation Middle School and is a blue belt in Tae Kwon Do.

Do you have a student in college, or getting ready to enter college in the next year? Have you ever wondered…

- What expenses might I need to assist my student with?
- What do I do when my student is homesick?
- How can I support my student without "parenting" them too much while they are away in college?

The transition to college can be confusing and full of anxiety for parents as well as students. Our children are starting true independence when they leave home for their higher education experience. It's hard to tell your student, "I don't know what you should do." Parents of college and university students are invited to participate in a mutual support group.

The Parents of College Student Support Group will identify common questions and issues that parents encounter, who can then help prepare the next group of parents of students who will be venturing into college life next fall! Join us as we share light refreshments, exchange stories and better prepare our Oneida students for higher education!

OBC begins presenting FY2013 budget

Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Secretary Patty Hoeft, standing far left, facilitated a presentation of the proposed Financial Year (FY) 2013 budget for the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin at a series of meetings held Monday, August 13. Community members had a chance to ask members of the OBC and executive staff questions about the budget process and give input. The three meetings on Monday preceded a special OBC meeting on Tuesday, August 14 to allow for individuals to provide a public comment on the budget.

On Monday, September 17, the General Tribal Council will meet to adopt the budget. The meeting will be held at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center, 2040 Airport Road. Registration starts at 4:00pm, the meeting starts at 6:00pm.

Holy Apostles Church Update

On August 5, 2012 Bishop Jacobus met with 31 congregational and community members to discuss the spiritual, financial, and physical wellbeing of Holy Apostles. This update is in observance of this meeting.

Bishop Jacobus first heard from the Vestry in attendance and then from the congregation at large. Some want to restore (80%) the church structure (nothing cosmetic) while others want to Band-Aid problems (no restoration). And, one Vestry member does not want to fix the church at all (if you can believe that).

Before discussing reality I must tell you that some do not want me write this article while others want me to sugar-coat the facts. However, I was reminded at the end-of-the-day we all want the same thing; to restore Holy Apostles.

What is the reality here? Our Vestry is dysfunctional; failure to fill a vacant Vestry position is sensible evidence of this. The Vestry is not fiscally responsible; no balanced budget and non-responsive to this very serious problem. Poor leadership has allowed our congregation to bleed out because our missionary zeal to the Oneida people has evaporated. We struggle as a congregation to find the apostolic word and thus have become spiritually broken. Bishop Jacobus hinted that the Diocese of Fond du Lac will most likely release some funds for restoration (just enough to get us back in church). The balance will be "retained" in trust which I suggest will be depleted by current out of control spending policy; leaving us in financial ruin.

How can we (our community) make a difference and bring Holy Apostles back to being a pillar in Oneida? I leave you with this Iroquois Confederacy model of thinking; united we stand, divided we fall.

Wisconsin DNR:

Don't spread plant that threatens bats

MADISON, WI (AP) – Wisconsin wildlife officials are warning people not to spread a plant that threatens bats.

Invasive plant specialists at the Department of Natural Resources say seed heads from common burdock can stick to almost anything. They say passing bats can snag their wings on the seed heads, get tangled up and die of starvation.

The DNR says anyone who works, hikes, bikes or spends time outdoors to clean mud, seeds and other plant parts from their clothes, equipment and pets to avoid spreading the plant to new areas. The agency also is asking property owners to cut out any burdock they find.

Wisconsin is home to seven bat species. Four of them are listed as threatened because they're at risk of contracting the deadly bat disease white-nose syndrome.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support Enforcement

Question: What happens when I don't pay my child support?

Answer:

The potential consequences of non-payment include:

- Having a lien placed on property
- State and federal tax return intercept
- Per capita intercept
- Seizure of bank accounts
- Suspension of recreational, occupational, and/or driver's licenses
- Intercept of certain types of lump-sum payments
- Contempt (which comes with its own set of consequences)

Question: What can I do if I have not been paying my child support?

Answer:

Contact the Agency at (920) 490-3700 - you will be directed to your caseworker who will talk with you about what can be done to get back on track. Your caseworker can provide you with job search forms to complete and return to the Agency if you are unemployed or underemployed; they can also talk with you about barriers you may be facing and refer you to various community agencies.

Depending on your situation, you can also talk to your caseworker about doing an Alternative Payment Plan or a Compliance Plan. An Alternative Payment Plan (AAP) is an agreement between the payer and the Agency which can contain a lump-sum payment or periodic payments in addition to the court-ordered child support payments. An AAP is usually done to halt an enforcement action, such as license suspension. A Compliance Plan is also an agreement between the payer and the Agency, but it is done to halt contempt.

The most important first step is to contact the Agency—we are here to help you.

Shekoli,

The Dynamics of the Relationships of the Garden, Community and Government

As we grow our gardens this summer I ask we recognize the similarities to our community and government. When we begin the thought of a garden we must first evaluate the needs, resources and people available and impact to the health of the people to be served as well as the health of the environment. Many times we don't recognize these factors are being addressed , but they are. This relationship is a good thing to be reminded of in our thinking and action. Without this due diligence we would not have a plan that best serves the needs of the membership, community and the environment. All steps in creating these gardens may require different individuals to perform various tasks, such as working the land, planting the seeds, nurturing the plants, and processing the harvest to provide sustenance throughout the year. If any of these steps are not implemented, the garden will suffer or not reach its full potential. Each individual involved should recognize their "role and responsibility" and perform to the best of their ability. I believe these roles and responsibilities need to be passed along to our people, no matter the age . There are many in our community that may be beyond their youth and have never had the pleasure of gardening yet have a contribution to make the garden successful. Maybe it's not turning the soil or watering the plants, but there are tasks that will allow them to enjoy their participation in the process. After all without someone gardening in some way, big or small .... We as people would parish. Food is something we cannot turn our back on. The responsibility of feeding our families with "Good Food" should not be overlooked. I encourage you all to continue your gardens in the best way you can or begin to garden with good intentions in mind.

The Dynamics of Government and Leadership

Now onto the people's government and leadership ... The Oneida People's Government.... We need to treat our government the same way we do our gardens. We need to start by evaluating our "needs" not necessarily our wants...we need to evaluate our "resources", both in money and people , we then will be in a better position to address our goal of increasing the "health" of the individuals "Body, Mind and Spirit" as well as the health of our government, membership and community environment. The role of the government in this relationship is debated in many levels of government outside our systems. It seems like we have an opportunity to realign our core values to our government structures in our own unique systems. We are rebuilding our government garden to provide strength and resources for the peoples and community.

The Dynamics of Community

Just like a garden, each individual should recognize their " roles and responsibilities " in our world view and perform them to the best of their ability no matter the age. Just like a garden our ability to pass on "positive encouragement and useful knowledge" should be our goal. It's like turning the soil in a garden or watering the plants, we all can contribute to our community governmental process.

The Relationship

After all without someone governing in a good way with a good mind ... we as Oneida People will parish. The government no matter its function is not something we can turn our back on. The community is whom the government protects and serves. The responsibility of governing with a "good mind" should not be overlooked and I encourage you all to begin or continue to " garden " our government thru your community involvement with good intentions in mind. This rebuilding process we seem to be in the midst of should address the relationship between the membership, the government and the community. This process seems to be addressing not only what role each have in the dynamics of contributing to the change but also in managing the change and appreciating what success will look like in the end. I would hope each of you see your role in these processes for a good harvest for our membership, community and government.

Remember: "At times we have not lost our ways we have simply lost our way"

Child Custody Matters with the Oneida Tribal Judicial System

The difference between county courts and the Oneida court is small, yet significant. Many county family courts, including Brown and Outagamie, are overwhelmed with cases. The county courts stack several cases in an hour, allotting approximately 15 minutes per case. Most of these cases run longer than the allotted time and it means you are wasting your time waiting for your case to be called. Oneida can and does allot more time for each case and gives each case a thorough review. Many times in county court the judges are reviewing the case as it is called in the courtroom. The Oneida Judicial System court does not set more than one case at one time. There is no stacking of cases.

There is also the possibility the county court may not accept these cases back due to the large amount of cases they have now. Transferring these cases to Oneida offered them some relief. This was an agreement between the courts that may not be able to be rescinded.

While Oneida's laws are written very similarly to State law, there are some differences. These differences allow for the Oneida Judiciary to apply some of the traditions of the Oneida Tribe into the cases before it. One of those traditions is Peacemaking and the concept of each person having a Good Mind when trying to work out an agreement with the other party. Cases do not move as quickly in this system, because the Oneida Judiciary is trying to allow traditional ideas to work in each case. We should not meet this different way of handling cases with resistance as it encompasses our Great Law.

We do not want our Court to be just another State County Court. Rather, we want it to represent who we are as the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

Budget

Next year's budget is in its final stages of approval prior to being sent to the GTC. The tentative final amount of $454,553,899 million is staggering. At this rate we may be setting ourselves up for failure. In FY2005 our budget amount was $352 million dollars. Our most costly expense is fringe benefits. Each year from here on out we will have to cut $50 million just to keep up with this expense. Individual tribal members as well as all tribal entities need to read this budget and suggest unnecessary expenditures. If we continue down this path, services as well as personnel will have to be looked at and cuts made so we will stay afloat.

Education Benefits

School is upon us again and as tribal members we are entitled to seek assistance with funding for secondary education. However, it seems individuals are taking advantage of this program and new controls may have to be instituted to curb the abuse.

The intent of this program was to preclude individuals from having to dip into their savings or secure loans so their children could go to college. Prior to this program, the parent's income was being used to determine whether a student was eligible for Pell grants and other scholarship monies in order to offset funding for college. When passed in 1996 it still required the student to fill out the federal form, but when they were denied funding through grants or scholarships, the Tribe would give them up to $20,000. This dollar amount is still in effect today, however, some who are taking online courses seem to think they need the extra money, even though they are not taking the courses in residence and using the money for day to day needs, instead of actual needs.

This program is being looked at and in the future could change to giving dollars for actual needs, i.e., tuition, books, lab fees, dormitory expenses, etc. and stopping non-resident students from receiving monies just because they are enrolled in a school program.

Internal Audit

The Internal Audit department is tasked with "performing independent and objective assessments and reviews of functions, activities and operations of the Oneida Tribe." This department is here for our benefit. They are tasked with making sure our tribal entities are following all laws, codes and regulations. Standard operating procedures are developed to have individuals follow a set process when working within a tribal area. All of these are put in place as checks and balances to make sure our operation functions normally and within prescribed guidelines. Audits have identified risk areas within departments and brought to management's attention for correction.

After an audit has been completed, tribal members are entitled to view these audits and the concerns brought to the attention of the department. A member must complete a Request to Review Final Audit Reports form and mail or e-mail to the Internal Audit Department. They will set up a time and place for you to review the requested audit. Please note that copies cannot be made of the audit, however you are allowed to take notes of your review. Investigations are not able to be reviewed as they may contain confidential information of a personnel nature.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 920-869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

From 7A/OBC Meeting Minutes, July 25

Ninham to defer this item to the July 25 Business Committee meeting, seconded by David Jordan. Motion carried unanimously.
Motion by Melinda J. Danforth to adopt the revised resolution 07-25-12-B Autonomous Human Resource Structure and Reporting and to direct the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) to develop proposed legislation that sets forth an independent Human Resources Department to properly address the delegations and restrictions in the proposed agreement [referencing the proposed MOU], seconded Patty Hoeft. Motion carried unanimously
For the record: Melinda J. Danforth stated I know the community will have interest as to why this decision is being made, thus I offer the following. HRD reported directly to the GM and with the elimination of the GM position, the BC gave interim supervisory responsibilities to the Internal Services Director, but never made a decision as to HRD's reporting structure. Based upon 2 internal audits from 2009 and 2011 (in which tribal members can view) the audits recommend that HRD be placed within the organization so that it can operate with the most autonomy. The audits recommended HRD be placed either under the Business Committee or the Chief of Staff. Thus this move is temporary until legislation is developed to formally address this issue.
2. Gaming General Manager contract recommendation
Sponsor: Ed Delgado
Excerpt from July 11, 2012: Motion by Patty Hoeft to defer for two weeks, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously.
Motion by Patty Hoeft to accept the report update, seconded by David Jordan. Motion carried unanimously
3. Tribal Secretary Office organization proposal
Sponsor: Patty Hoeft
Excerpt from July 11, 2012: Motion by Patty Hoeft to defer this to the next Business Committee meeting, seconded by Brandon Stevens. Motion carried unanimously.
Motion by Patty Hoeft to approve the reorganization plan for the Tribal Secretary Office and placement of the General Manager and Chief of Staff direct reports, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with one opposition and three abstentions:
Opposed: Greg Matson
Abstained: Melinda J. Danforth, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
For the record: Ed Delgado stated for the record its three yes votes, one opposed and three abstained. Also, the Secretary's office has done an excellent job in addressing the needs of the Tribal organization in light of the structural changes made earlier in the term. These changes had to be addressed and she addressed them. Thank you.
For the record: Greg Matson stated my opposition is due to these are in theory, they are not based upon facts. The movement within the structure is based upon the individual's proposal, as being in theory this would be best practice, but not based on facts.
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I have a conflict, that's why my abstention is noted. I'd like to note also that Patty and Melinda, of all the talk we've had over the last almost year about reorganization, are the only ones who came forward with recommendations on how we proceed with the overall direction on where we want to go with the restructure. I just want to make note also that this is a huge issue and they did take the initiative and take this on and the committee still needs to address this issue overall. There was a big emphasis in the beginning of our administration to do this and it fell to the side and we kind of have little direction in that area right now.
For the record: Paul Ninham stated although I believe the Business Committee is truly attempting to address the reorganization efforts as best they can, I also believe we are missing some critical steps in the process. It is incumbent upon the Committee to prepare the necessary analysis for reorganization. It should be our intent to execute due diligence in the process of making effective organizational change. My abstention on this vote is because I am not ready to vote up or down, as I believe more information is necessary. Although the Committee has discussed restructure and reviewed several restructure concepts, I do not believe we have completed the process of due diligence, nor have we performed an assessment of the impacts of making organizational change, prior to implementing change. In all of the FAQ's we also state that we are not going to "supervise" or manage or deal with hiring, firing, transferring, or reassigning, and reinforced that role upon the managers of the Tribe. Therefore, I am not confident the Committee should be implementing organizational change at this time. Although I agree that some changes to the Tribal Secretary's office may be appropriate for increased efficiencies, and the need to place a hierarchy for the former GM and COS direct reports may be necessary, I want to ensure tribal processes are followed, and due diligence has been performed.

Doctors target gun violence as a social disease

By Marilynn Marchione
AP Chief Medical Writer

MILWAUKEE ~ Is a gun like a virus, a car, tobacco or alcohol? Yes say public health experts, who in the wake of recent mass shootings in the U.S. are calling for a fresh look at gun violence as a social disease.

What is needed, they say, is a public health approach to the problem, like the highway safety measures, product changes and driving laws that slashed deaths from car crashes decades ago, even as the number of vehicles on the road rose.

One example: Guardrails are now curved to the ground instead of having sharp metal ends that stick out and pose a hazard in a crash.

"People used to spear themselves and we blamed the drivers for that," said Dr. Garen Wintemute, an emergency medicine professor who directs the Violence Prevention Research Program at the University of California, Davis.

It wasn't enough back then to curb deaths just by trying to make people better drivers, and it isn't enough now to tackle gun violence by focusing solely on the people doing the shooting, he and other doctors say.

They want a science-based, pragmatic approach based on the reality that we live in a society saturated with guns and need better ways of preventing harm from them.

The need for a new approach crystallized last Sunday for one of the nation's leading gun violence experts, Dr. Stephen Hargarten. He found himself treating victims of the Sikh temple shootings at the emergency department he heads in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Seven people were killed, including the gunman, and three were seriously injured.

It happened two weeks after the shooting that killed 12 people and injured 58 at a movie theater in Colorado, and two days before a man pleaded guilty to killing six people and wounding 13, including then-U.S. Rep. Gabrielle Giffords, in Tucson, Arizona, last year.

"What I'm struggling with is, is this the new social norm? This is what we're going to have to live with if we have more personal access to firearms," said Hargarten, emergency medicine chief at Froedtert Hospital and director of the Injury Research Center at the Medical College of Wisconsin. "We have a public health issue to discuss. Do we wait for the next outbreak or is there something we can do to prevent it?"

About 260 million to 300 million firearms are owned by civilians in the United States; about one-third of American homes have one. Guns are used in two-thirds of homicides, according to the FBI. About 9 percent of all violent crimes involve a gun - roughly 338,000 cases each year.

Mass shootings don't seem to be on the rise, but not all police agencies report details like the number of victims per shooting and reporting lags by more than a year, so recent trends are not known.

"The greater toll is not from these clusters but from endemic violence, the stuff that occurs every day and doesn't make the headlines," said Wintemute, the California researcher.

More than 73,000 emergency room visits in 2010 were for firearm-related injuries, the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates.

At the same time, violent crime has been falling and the murder rate is less than half what it was two decades ago. And Gallup polls have shown support for stricter gun laws has been falling since 1990. Last year 55 percent of Americans said gun laws should remain the same or become more lenient.

Dr. David Satcher tried to make gun violence a public health issue when he became CDC director in 1993. Four years later, laws that allow the carrying of concealed weapons drew attention when two women were shot at an Indianapolis restaurant after a patron's gun fell out of his pocket and accidentally fired. Ironically, the victims were health educators in town for an American Public Health Association convention.

That same year, Hargarten won a federal grant to establish the nation's first Firearm Injury Center at the Medical College of Wisconsin.

"Unlike almost all other consumer products, there is no national product safety oversight of firearms," he wrote in the Wisconsin Medical Journal.

That's just one aspect of a public health approach. Other elements:

"Host" factors: What makes someone more likely to shoot, or someone more likely to be a victim. One recent study found firearm owners were more likely than those with no firearms at home to binge drink or to drink and drive, and other research has tied alcohol and gun violence. That suggests that people with driving under the influence convictions should be barred from buying a gun, Wintemute said.

Product features: Which firearms are most dangerous and why. Manufacturers could be pressured to fix design defects that let guns go off accidentally, and to add technology that allows only the owner of the gun to fire it (many police officers and others are shot with their own weapons). Bans on assault weapons and multiple magazines that allow rapid and repeat firing are other possible steps.

"Environmental" risk factors: What conditions allow or contribute to shootings. Gun shops must do background checks and refuse to sell firearms to people convicted of felonies or domestic violence misdemeanors, but those convicted of other violent misdemeanors can buy whatever they want. The rules also don't apply to private sales, which one study estimates as 40 percent of the market.

_Disease patterns, observing how a problem spreads. Gun ownership - a precursor to gun violence - can spread "much like an infectious disease circulates," said Daniel Webster, a health policy expert and co-director of the Johns Hopkins Center for Gun Policy and Research in Baltimore.

"There's sort of a contagion phenomenon" after a shooting, where people feel they need to have a gun for protection or retaliation, he said.

That's already evident in the wake of the Colorado movie-theater shootings during a screening of the new Batman movie, "The Dark Knight Rises." Last week, reports popped up around the nation of people bringing guns to the "Batman" movie. Some of them said they did so for protection.

Two Rivers museum offers Lake Michigan artifacts

By Suzanne Weiss
Herald Times Reporter, Manitowoc

TWO RIVERS, Wis. ~ The cold depths of Lake Michigan have yielded up many secrets. Some of them are on display in the Rogers Street Fishing Village and Museum's new artifacts building, where visitors can get an up-close look at the flotsam and jetsam of the area's past.

One glass case contains items that have turned up in fishermen's nets: shoes, a comb, a spoon, parts of clay pipes, a piece of a woman's shawl and broken china among them. They serve as chilling reminders of the countless passengers who went to their watery graves with the ships that rest at the bottom of Lake Michigan, many of them off the coast of Manitowoc County.

"The number of ships sunk and the number of lives lost is just incredible," said Gregory Goodchild, executive director of the museum, as he gave a tour of the spacious artifacts building, which opened in May.

The city of Two Rivers is rich in nautical as well as American-Indian and French-Canadian history. All will be represented. "It is our goal to maintain that history and keep it alive and keep it interesting," Goodchild told the Herald Times Reporter of Manitowoc.

As he moved from one display case to another, Goodchild pointed out items from the Sebastopol, which sank in 1855 at a great loss of lives. "When it hit the bottom, it hit with such force that the sides blew out," he said.

The ship was carrying goods that settlers needed for survival, including sewing equipment, pocketknives, nuts and bolts, and lead for musket balls, many of which can be seen here.

Three display areas are dedicated to well-known shipwrecks: the Francis Hinton, the Vernon and the Rouse Simmons, known as the Christmas Tree Ship.

Goodchild challenged visitors to guess the cause of the Francis Hinton sinking. A look at the charred ax, pulleys and other tools hint at the terrible fire that sank this ship on Nov. 16, 1909. A fisherman's net hauled up the ship's huge windlass, a device that raises the anchor. It serves as the focal point of the display, well preserved thanks to the lake's cold and relatively oxygen-free waters, Goodchild said.

Miraculously, everyone aboard was rescued. Other shipwrecks weren't so lucky, he said.

Two Rivers fishermen recovered 20 bodies of the 49 people who lost their lives when the Vernon, which was built in 1886, sank during a horrific storm on Oct. 29, 1887, about 12 miles northeast of Two Rivers. Some are buried beneath a Vernon stone at the Two Rivers cemetery on Forest Avenue.

The display features the ship's helm and sideboard, a wheel barrel and wooden cargo chest, among other items. "This ship docked here at Two Rivers," Goodchild said. "The captain seriously over-boarded the ship."

The museum is located at 2010 Rogers St., Two Rivers. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and noon to 4 p.m. weekends through October. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children, 15 and younger.

Wis. DNR has received 10k-plus wolf hunt apps

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The state Department of Natural Resources says more than 10,000 people have applied for a wolf hunt permit so far.

The agency says it had received 10,025 permit applications as of Tuesday morning. The vast majority - 9,820 - are from Wisconsin residents.

The DNR plans to issue 2,010 permits through a lottery. The application period ends Aug. 31. The hunt is scheduled to begin Oct. 15 and run through the end of February. A group of humane societies has filed a lawsuit in Madison seeking to block the hunt, arguing the DNR failed to prevent hunting dogs from dying in confrontations with wolves. An injunction hearing has been set for Aug. 29.

Census seeks changes in how it measures race

By Hope Yen
Associated Press

WASHINGTON ~ To keep pace with rapidly changing notions of race, the Census Bureau wants to make broad changes to its surveys that would end use of the term "Negro," count Hispanics as a mutually exclusive group and offer new ways to identify Middle Easterners.

The recommendations released Wednesday stem from new government research on the best ways to count the nation's demographic groups. Still it could face stiff resistance from some race and ethnic groups who worry that any kind of wording change in the high-stakes government count could yield a lower tally for them.

"This is a hot-button issue," said Angelo Falcon, president of the National Institute for Latino policy in New York City and a community adviser to the census. "The burden will be on the Census Bureau to come up with evidence that wording changes will not undermine the Latino numbers."

The research is based on an experiment conducted during the 2010 census in which nearly 500,000 households were given forms with the race and ethnicity questions worded differently. The findings show that many people who filled out the traditional form did not feel they fit within the five government-defined categories of race: white, black, Asian, Pacific Islander and American Indian/Alaska Native; when questions were altered to address this concern, response rates and accuracy improved notably.

For instance, because Hispanic is currently defined as an ethnicity and not a race, some 18 million Latinos - or roughly 37 percent - used the "some other race" category on their census forms to establish a Hispanic racial identity. Under one proposed change to the census forms, a new question would simply ask a person's race or origin, allowing them to check a single box next to choices including black, white, or Hispanic.

The other changes would drop use of "Negro," leaving a choice of "black" or African-American, as well as add write-in categories that would allow Middle Easterners and Arabs to specifically identify themselves.

Census director Robert Groves, who leaves his position Friday to become provost at Georgetown University, described the research findings as an important first step toward making changes in future censuses.

"As new immigrant groups came to this country decade after decade, how we measure ethnicity changed to reflect the changing composition of the country," Groves said. "Since that change is never ending and America gets more and more diverse, how we understand and tabulate the information has to be continually open to change."

"It's critical that race and ethnicity reflect how people identify themselves," he said.

The issue isn't just semantic. Some African-Americans in 2010, for instance, criticized a question asking if a person was "black, African American or Negro," saying the government's continued use of the term "Negro" was demeaning and offensive. The wording in census surveys can also be highly political: census data are used to distribute more than $400 billion in federal aid and draw political districts and thus can elicit concern if a change were to yield a lower response.

While individual Hispanics have expressed dissatisfaction with census forms that don't count Latino as a race, Latino political groups have been reticent about pushing for a change. The main reason: past research has sometimes shown that treating Latinos as a mutually exclusive group on survey forms leads to a lower Hispanic count.

"Why would Latinos want to give up their own question on the census form that specifically asks if they are of Hispanic, Latino or Spanish origin?" asks Falcon of the National Institute for Latino policy. He notes that the current wording, which first asks people if they are of Latino origin and then prompts them to fill in their race, fostered a strong count in 2010 that yielded a new census milestone for Latinos of 50 million, or 1 in 6 Americans.

Nicholas Jones, chief of the racial statistics branch at the Census Bureau, said the government's more recent research found that Latino response rates were similar under both the current and the new proposed format. Across all race and ethnic groups, the nonresponse rates dropped notably to 1 percent under the proposed change, compared to nonresponse rates of roughly 4 to 5 percent with the traditional form.

Jones said the research findings identified ways to improve responses that will be used to discuss any survey changes with members of the Latino, black, Asian and other communities leading up to the 2020 census.

The government definitions of race groups are set by the White House Office of Management and Budget. Changes to questions on census forms must be approved by Congress.

Other research findings:

_Removing the term "Negro" from the census form did not hurt the response rates of African-Americans. While some people in 2000 indicated that the term still had relevance to them, this number has steadily declined since then.

_Under the proposed changes, the number of people who reported multiple races increased significantly. The multiracial population is currently one the nation's fastest growing demographic groups.

_When provided write-in lines, as much as 50 percent of people who checked their race as "white" wrote in an ethnicity such as Italian, Polish, Arab, Iranian or Middle Eastern. More than 76 percent of black respondents also wrote in an ethnicity, such as Jamaican, Haitian or Ethiopian.

_Based on focus groups, many people supported creating a separate racial category for those who identify as Middle Eastern or North African.

Many demographers predict a wider range of responses on census forms and blurring of racial categories over the next 50 years as the minority population grows and interracial marriage becomes more common. In the case of Hispanics, the nation's largest minority group, the label as an ethnicity to date has created particular confusion.

For instance, while the Census Bureau has often described Asian-Americans as the nation's fastest growing race group from 2000 to 2010; their rate of growth is actually equal to that of Hispanics, an ethnic group. On the other hand, Hispanics are typically treated as a race for purposes of counting "interracial" marriages in the U.S.

Help Reservation Communities Recover from Fires

July 2012 will go down as the hottest July on record. Coupled with the worst drought since the 1950s, fires have been ravaging Indian Country.

Especially hard hit is the Northern Cheyenne reservation, following a June fire near Ashland, a second fire burned this past week near Lame Deer. The Rosebud complex is comprised of six wildfires and has burned 205 square miles. To the west, a wildfire burned east of Crow Agency at the same time.

The Longhorn complex fires burned 70 square miles on the Rosebud Sioux Reservation at the end of July.

Some of the other reservations that had fires this year are San Carlos Apache, Fort Apache, Fort Yuma, all in Arizona, Southern Ute in Colorado, Western Mohegan in New York, near Flathead in Montana, Yakima and Umatilla in Washington, Pine Ridge in South Dakota, and Fort Hall in Idaho.

Some Indians have lost everything and others endured hardship as they have had to evacuate their homes. During these times, the American Red Cross has been there to assist. Please give to the Red Cross nationally or to a local chapter so they may continue to help those in need. You can specifically state you would like your donation to assist on a reservation.

‘Old Lacemakers’ intent on keeping their art alive

By Richard Chin
St. Paul Pioneer Press

ST. PAUL, Minn. ~ If lacemaking ever duplicates knitting’s hip resurgence, it won’t be through street art installations like yarn bombing.

Making lace by hand is so labor-intensive – you’re doing well if you can crank out a square inch per hour for some types - that no one in their right mind would think of leaving a lace antimacassar on a park bench.

But the lacemaking faithful have gathered this week in St. Paul to do their best to try to keep their ancient and intricate art alive. About 300 lacemakers and top lacemaking instructors from the United States and Europe are here for the annual convention of the International Old Lacemakers.

“We’re going to be voting this year to change the name,” said Pam Tucker, president of the Minnesota Lace Society, which is hosting the event at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in downtown St. Paul. “The word ‘old’ is in it and people say, ‘Oh, do you have to be old to be a member of this group?’”

The convention goers also are taking classes, competing in a lacemaking contest, shopping for thread and lacemaking gear, listening to speeches and, they hope, raising the profile of the beauty and craft of handmade lace among the public, the St. Paul Pioneer Press reported.

It may be a bit of a struggle.

Once upon a time, wearing clothing adorned with handmade lace was such a symbol of wealth and luxury in Europe that laws were passed in some countries limiting the amount of lace commoners could wear to keep status divisions clear.

“People went to debtors’ prison for their lace,” lace instructor Susie Johnson said. “If your stagecoach was robbed, they took your jewels and lace.”

Lace fans blame a couple of revolutions for lace’s long fall from grace. The French Revolution, when ostentatious displays of aristocratic status could mean a trip to the guillotine, made lace wearing less popular in that fashion-influencing country. And the Industrial Revolution meant a decline in the cottage industry of handmade lace as workers found jobs in factories and inexpensive machine-made lace became available.

But the handmade stuff never totally died out. It was preserved in convents in Europe, according to Lynn Fumuso, a lacemaker from St. Paul.

“They had the time, they had the patience, and they had vows of poverty,” she said.

But today, few women carry handkerchiefs, shawls or fans, much less ones made with lace. And when is the last time you saw a lace doily or a dresser scarf on a piece of furniture? Even makers of machine-made lace have called their business a dying trade.

And when the Minnesota Lace Society, which has about 40 members, demonstrates lacemaking at the Minnesota State Fair, a lot of people have no idea what they are doing.

“There’s not really a lacemaking tradition in the U.S. At least, not a huge one,” said Trudy Scholten, a hobby lace maker from Colorado.

Now handmade lace is viewed not so much as clothing but as art.

There are several basic techniques of lacemaking, including tatting, bobbin lace, needle lace, knitted lace and crochet lace, with dozens of styles of lace with names like Courseulles Polychrome Blonde or Irish Carrickmacross, associated with the countries or the region where it was originally developed. And new styles and techniques continue to be developed by contemporary artists.

Scholten was taking a class at the convention on a bobbin lace style developed in the past 20 years by a Dutch nun. The 42-year-old chemical engineer estimated it would take her four or five hours to complete a lace design of a bird about the size of a half-dollar coin.

“It’s very tactile. It's very relaxing to make these movements. It’s very meditative. It’s very beautiful,” St. Paul resident Lynn Fumuso said of lacemaking’s lure.

Although the demand isn’t what it once was, handmade lace is still frightfully expensive. Fridley resident Arlene Linton said that 12 years ago, she spent about $300 for a single handkerchief in Pisa, Italy.

Tucker said the convention attendees are mainly women in their 40s, 50s and 60s.

But lacemakers think their favorite textile technique is starting to be more popular in high-end fashion lines. And they think the abundance of lace in the dress used by Kate Middleton during her wedding to Prince William last year also has sparked interest in the art.

“The problem is to get the information out there, and to get people to try it,” said Rosemary Horr, a 70-year-old lacemaker from Arizona.

“I just fell in love with it,” said Dagmar Beckel-Machyckova, a 32-year-old Wisconsin resident who teaches a rustic lacemaking style she first learned as a kid in the Czech Republic. “We don’t want to think of it as a dying art. That is so sad.”

NSP-Wis. to clean up polluted Ashland on-land site

ASHLAND, Wis. (AP) ~ Northern States Power Co.-Wisconsin could start cleaning up a 40-acre contaminated site along the Lake Superior shore in Ashland later this year, under an agreement announced Wednesday.

Officials from NSP-Wisconsin, the U.S. Department of Justice, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources said they have signed the settlement, which was filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Madison.

Under the agreement, NSP-Wisconsin will fund the on-land cleanup, expected to cost $40 million and take two to three years.

A predecessor to NSP-Wisconsin operated a manufactured gas plant at the site on the Chequamegon Bay of Lake Superior between 1885 and 1947. Sawmills, railroads and a city wastewater treatment plant also have used the site over the past century.

The agreement also requires Eau Claire-based NSP-Wisconsin, an Xcel Energy company, to transfer about 900 acres of land along the Iron River to the DNR and 400 acres within the reservation of the Bad River Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians to the Bad River tribe. Those parcels, worth about $1.9 million, will be preserved by the state and the tribe. Pollution from the site has harmed natural resources in the area, such as fisheries in Chequamegon Bay and its rivers, federal officials said.

The state of Wisconsin also will transfer 114 acres of land to the Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians. That land also will be managed to preserve natural resources.

"Chequamegon Bay and Lake Superior will be better protected as a result of this agreement," EPA Regional Administrator Susan Hedman said in the news release. "Removing the most highly contaminated soil from the site and controlling the flow of contaminated groundwater will prevent polluted water from entering the bay and harming fisheries."

NSP-Wisconsin president and CEO Mark Stoering said the company is pleased with the agreement.

Federal officials and NSP-Wisconsin said no decisions have been made yet about how to clean up contaminated sediment in the bay.

The on-land cleanup includes removing soil in Kreher Park and an adjacent bluff and installing recovery wells designed to remove pollution from the Copper Falls aquifer, officials said. The EPA will oversee the work.

The public has 30 days to comment on the proposed agreement.

Anti-Medicaid states: Earning $11,000 is too much

MIAMI (AP) ~ Sandra Pico is poor, but not poor enough.

She makes about $15,000 a year, supporting her daughter and unemployed husband. She thought she'd be able to get health insurance after the Supreme Court upheld President Barack Obama's health care law.

Then she heard that her own governor won't agree to the federal plan to extend Medicaid coverage to people like her in two years. So she expects to remain uninsured, struggling to pay for her blood pressure medicine.

"You fall through the cracks and there's nothing you can do about it," said the 52-year-old home health aide. "It makes me feel like garbage, like the American dream, my dream in my homeland is not being accomplished."

Many working parents like Pico are below the federal poverty line but don't qualify for Medicaid, a decades-old state-federal insurance program. That's especially true in states where conservative governors say they'll reject the Medicaid expansion under Obama's health law.

In South Carolina, a yearly income of $16,900 is too much for Medicaid for a family of three. In Florida, $11,000 a year is too much. In Mississippi, $8,200 a year is too much. In Louisiana and Texas, earning more than just $5,000 a year makes you ineligible for Medicaid.

Governors in those five states have said they'll reject the Medicaid expansion underpinning Obama's health law after the Supreme Court's decision gave states that option. Many of those hurt by the decision are working parents who are poor - but not poor enough - to qualify for Medicaid.

Republican Mitt Romney's new running mate, conservative Wisconsin congressman Paul Ryan, has a budget plan that would turn Medicaid over to the states and sharply limit federal dollars. Romney hasn't specifically said where he stands on Ryan's idea, but has expressed broad support for his vice presidential pick's proposals.

Medicaid now covers an estimated 70 million Americans and would cover an estimated 7 million more in 2014 under the Obama health law's expansion. In contrast, Ryan's plan could mean 14 million to 27 million Americans would ultimately lose coverage, even beyond the effect of a repeal of the health law, according to an analysis by the nonpartisan Kaiser Family Foundation of Ryan's 2011 budget plan.

For now, most states don't cover childless adults, but all states cover some low-income parents. The income cutoff, however, varies widely from state to state.

Most states cover children in low-income families. Manuel and Sandra Pico's 15-year-old daughter is covered by Medicaid. But the suburban Miami couple can't afford private insurance for themselves and they make too much for Florida's Medicaid.

Manuel Pico, a carpenter, used to make more than $20,000 a year, but has struggled to find work in the last three years after the real estate market collapsed. He occasionally picks up day jobs or takes care of the neighbor's yard. Sandra Pico would like to work full time, but can't afford to pay someone to watch her 34-year-old sister, who has Down syndrome.

"No matter how hard I work, I'm not going to get anywhere," Sandra Pico said. "If you're not rich, you just don't have it."

In San Juan, Texas, 22-year-old Matthew Solis makes about $8,700 a year - too much to qualify for Medicaid in that state. Solis, a single father with joint custody of his 4-year-old daughter, said he works about 25 hours per week at a building supply store making minimum wage and is a full-time college student at the University of Texas-Pan American. He aspires to be a school counselor.

He recently sought medical care for food poisoning, visiting a federally funded clinic. But he doesn't see a doctor regularly because he can't afford private insurance. The new health law allows young adults to remain on their parents' insurance until age 26. But that doesn't help Solis, whose father is uninsured and whose mother died of leukemia when he was 8.

"I voted for him (Obama) because he promised we would have insurance," Solis said. "I'm pretty upset because I worked for Obama and I still don't have coverage."

His governor, Rick Perry, like Pico's governor, Rick Scott, is rejecting the Medicaid expansion. So Solis too is out of luck unless his circumstances dramatically change.

In most of the states where governors are rejecting or leaning against the expansion, the income level that disqualifies a parent from Medicaid is stunningly low. Only in New Jersey, where Gov. Chris Christie has said he's leaning against the expansion, is Medicaid available to parents with incomes at the poverty line and slightly above. New Jersey will cover a parent making $24,645 in a family of three.

Most states base Medicaid eligibility for parents on household income and how it compares to the federal poverty level, which was $18,530 for a family of three in 2011, the year being used for easier state-by-state comparisons.

In Louisiana, the eligibility cutoff for a working parent is 25 percent of federal poverty, or $4,633 for a family of three. In Nevada, it's 87 percent of the federal poverty level, or $16,121 for a family of three.

That's been the range in states where governors are likely saying no to expanded Medicaid.

In contrast, states where governors have said they'll expand Medicaid are more generous with working parents. The Medicaid eligibility cutoff ranges in those states from Washington's $13,527 to Minnesota's $39,840.

To be sure, some states with generous coverage for parents have been forced to cut back. Illinois, facing a financial crisis, ended coverage last month for more than 25,000 working parents. Even so, the state still covers working parents

Letters & Opinions...

"Equal Religion" Clarification

I wish to clarify concerns raised by Wisconsin inmate Curtis Pidgeon on the subject of "Equal Religion" in the 7/19/12 Kalihwisaks. Mr. Pidgeon suggested the Department of Corrections (DOC) disregards Native American practices and does not consult with tribal officials or spiritual leaders. He also expressed concern about the "Imitation Eagle Wings Feather" that is available in the inmate canteen catalogs.

First, DOC has very favorable relationships and consults frequently with Tribal leaders:

- DOC has an appointed agency Tribal Liaison to specifically work with Wisconsin's eleven tribes. Most state agencies meet annually with tribal leadership to discuss issues of common interest. DOC has taken the initiative to meet three times this year. A few weeks ago, Tribal leaders and DOC officials toured Oshkosh Correctional Institution – the largest state prison housing over 2,000 inmates -- and talked with inmates at the monthly sweat lodge ceremony at the institution.
- The DOC has a Religious Practices Advisory Committee (RPAC). It consists of religious leaders from all faiths and advises DOC on inmate religious practices and addressing and meeting inmate needs. Two Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council (GLITC) officials and Oneida Councilwoman Melinda Danforth serve on RPAC. Councilwoman Danforth has provided significant assistance in educating DOC staff on Native American spiritual beliefs and practices, finding volunteers and providing other resources.
- Institution Chaplains work with spiritual leaders who volunteer in the prisons to facilitate sweat lodge and other Native American programming in a non-denominational way that meets the needs of our diverse inmate population.

Native American inmates are allowed an eagle feather or red-tail hawk feather, as well as other personal religious property. Wisconsin DOC is required to enforce federal laws requiring tribal enrollment to posses an eagle feather. For this reason the DOC religious property policy specifies, "Red-tail hawk feathers may be received through a recognized Spiritual Leader. Eagle feathers must be received from the U.S. Dept of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, National Eagle and Property Repository."

Some Native American inmates who are unable to obtain an eagle feather, or who have concerns about safekeeping of their personal eagle feather, may purchase the "Imitation Eagle Wings Feather" as a substitute for use while incarcerated. This item in the inmate canteen catalog may also be purchased Pagan inmates, who are permitted to possess, "Any bird feather except eagle, hawk or owl feather." The catalog specifies the product is a white turkey feather with dyed black tips.

DOC does its best to accommodate inmate religious practices. However safety/security issues and resource limitations sometimes require adaptations to make an observance/practice workable in the prison. For example, DOC strives to provide a natural setting for the sweat lodge, but sites must be inside the facility's perimeter fence. Inmates may supplement available group programs with personal spiritual practices, including study, meditation, pastoral visits, religious diets and correspondence with other faith adherents.

Please feel free to direct questions about inmate programming to Religious Practices Coordinator Kelli West at kelli.west@wi.gov or Tribal Liaison Kristi Dietz at Kristi.Dietz@wi.gov.

We The People

We are the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, a people united by common decent, history, and language who inhabit a defined or particular territory separated from our families, our brothers and sisters in Canada and New York by adverse actions of the greater society. We are said to be "one nation" not divided by social inequality. We are "Onʌyota'a:ka," The People of Standing Stone, a matrilineal society where the clan membership follows the mother's family line. WE are composed of three clans; the Turtle teaches patience, endurance and represents strength and solidarity. He is old and well respected: the Wolf demonstrates keen observation skills in listening and watching and illustrates a strong sense of family; and the Bear exemplifies gentleness and strength displaying discipline and control. We remain a member of the Iroquois Confederacy known as the Five Nations "Hodaunashonee", "People of the long house". The confederacy became the Six Nations when the Oneidas granted shelter to the Tuscaroras. The Iroquois Constitution or "Great Law of Peace" was the factor that influenced Benjamin Franklin to develop the Constitution of the United States. (Don't mean to scare anyone but one important feature of the Law of Peace was adopted into the U.S. Constitution is the process of impeaching leaders.) IN 1973 "We The People" adopted the Constitution of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin and organized an elected form the government under the Indian Reorganization Act (IRA) of 1934 and established what is now the business committee. The Constitution reads: We The People of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, grateful to Almighty God for his fostering care, in order to reestablish our tribal organization, to conserve and develop our common resources and to promote the welfare of ourselves and our descendants do hereby ordain and establish this Constitution. April 11, 1969 Amendment VIII, Article VI- Bill of Rights: All members of the Tribe shall be accorded equal opportunities to participate in the economic resources and activities of the tribe. All members of the tribe may enjoy without hindrance, freedom of worship, conscience, speech, press, assembly, association and due process of the law guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. "We the People" age 0 through 20 enrolled in the Oneida Tribe are not equally considered for the $100 afforded enrolled members receive to attend GTC (General Tribal Council) Meetings. "We The People" of areas of North; Northeast; Northwest; West; Southwest and Central Wisconsin are not afforded the facilities, services and polling opportunities from the Oneida Tribal budget as SEOTS (Milwaukee Community). In a True democracy, which I understand the Oneida Tribe to be, the elected leaders in the position to promote the common welfare of all Tribal enrolled members of Wisconsin, to conserve and develop our common resources for the benefit of those they are to serve verses control.

Respectfully Submitted,
Shirley Hill

Why bother to vote?

I think we should do away with Presidential and Congressional elections. Let us be honest about our governing choices. Let the corporations and Wall Street goons appoint and pay the President, Congress and the bureaucrats of regulatory agencies like EPA, FDA and OSHA who are at the beck and call of the oligarchy. These people are more responsible for the present sorry condition than the Taliban and Moslem zealots could have hoped for. This charade about our ability to change the way our government is being run by voting in one or the other party when both are under control of the banks, international Corporations and Wall Street is demoralizing and depressing. Let the true Dictators appoint, pay, provide health care and retirement benefits to their flunkies the, President, Congress and the so-called regulatory agencies like FDA, OSHA AND EPA. At least we could be honest with about who controls our destiny- The MIGHTY ONE PERCENT! Then we will see if congress can vote themselves raises.

The billions now wasted on TV advertising could be used to reduce the national debt or even to give raises to the working class. It would also relieve us of listening to lies and false promises.

I have wondered if the local payday loan outlets are really owned by the major banks? Who else has the clout to legally charge such outrageous interest? These are the same crooks who got student loans made so they could not be declared cleared by bankruptcy. They also paid large bonuses to the CEOs who got us into the housing debacle.

The Supreme Court has ruled that corporations can buy congress through super PACS created by congress to allow these entities to supply our legislators with unlimited funds to bombard us with promises they seldom keep.

I am a proud member of the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin. Our ancestors supplied 57 bags of corn along with a member of the tribe to show George Washington and his troops how to cook the corn at Valley Forge. The Oneidas also fought against the British. The Father of this country repaid the Oneidas by ordering General Schuyler to destroy the Oneida orchards, farms and homes 16 years later.

I realize this proposal is outrageous, but is there any way out of the dilemma we're in without becoming a country like those with armed rebellion in the Middle East or a collapse that Russia suffered through?

Dean Smith

Oneida's Burial Benefits and Related Services

Denny hired as Estate Claims Assistant with Enrollment Dept.

Julie Denny

She koli Swakwe Ku (Greetings to All). I am Julie Denny, current "Estate Claims Assistant" with the Oneida Enrollment Department. My job is to encourage, empower and educate the tribal membership on our burial benefits. As the saying goes there are two certainties in life "death and taxes." Death is not an easy topic to discuss. The majority of us don't like to consider our demise in our own personal thoughts, yet each of us knows life is a cycle with a beginning, middle and an end.

The Oneida General Tribal Council recognized this fact and established the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP) to assist our families through this difficult time. The $15,000 OLIPP benefit allows our members, while living, to designate a primary beneficiary(ies) who they feel will carry out their wishes, such as ensuring that the OLIPP benefit is used to help pay any funeral or final expenses of the deceased.

Without estate planning, our death, whether it be expected or unexpected, will leave the burden of burial and other final bills on the survivors. Therefore, we all have an opportunity to plan and prepare now, as the Creator has given all just a certain amount of time on this earth to fulfill our duties and responsibilities.

Having served in Human Resources Department, Oneida Business Committee and Oneida Gang Task Force for many years has given me the opportunity to meet many employees and community members. But all these years of working and training didn't prepare me for a life changing event when my 19 year-old-son was tragically killed in 2000. I truly understand the depths of human sorrow, grief and despair with the passing of your loved one. It's ironic how the spirit of my beloved son continues to guide me and takes me down paths I never thought I would travel and has led me to this position.

I appreciate you taking the time to read this article and I offer an open invitation to anyone who has burial related questions or concerns to contact me.

Currently only 52% of the adult membership has returned their beneficiary form back to Enrollment Department.

If you haven't returned your form and unsure of who to designate as your beneficiary, select the Oneida Enrollment Department (in Section B) as the Primary Beneficiary. This will ensure your funeral home invoice up to $15,000 gets paid.

Once you have determined a primary beneficiary, then resubmit a new form.

You can choose to elect Enrollment Dept as a primary beneficiary (which still ensures the funeral invoice is paid) and then any remaining dollars goes directly to your designated primary beneficiary, OR designate a trusted beneficiary who will receive entire $15,000 to carry out your final expenses.

Remember to change your beneficiary anytime you have a life changing event such as a marriage, divorce, death of a family member or birth of a child.

Experts say this allergy season one of the longest

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Hang on to your tissues. Experts in Wisconsin say this allergy season will be one of the longest.

Dr. Mark Moss at the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Medicine and Public Health says the allergy season began about two to three weeks early. The mild winter and unseasonably warm spring temperatures caused trees to bud and bloom and release pollen and mold much earlier.

Dr. Steve Kagen, of the Kagen Allergy Clinic in Appleton, says the early presence of ragweed pollen is blindsiding many allergy sufferers. Kagen tells The Reporter the short growing season for grass caused hardy weeds to take over. And recent storms compounded the mold spore count, which can cause asthma attacks and sinus headaches.

From 6B/Medicaid

with incomes slightly higher than the poverty line.

The national health law's Medicaid expansion would start covering all citizens in 2014 who make up to roughly $15,400 for an individual, $30,650 for a family of four.

The federal government will pay the full cost of the Medicaid expansion through 2016. After that, the states will only pick up 5 percent of the cost through 2019, and 10 percent of the cost thereafter.

So why would any governor say no to such a great deal?

These governors are in favor of smaller government. In principle, they don't want the federal government to expand _ even if that expansion would help their own citizens. And they say they don't want their own states paying any more of the Medicaid tab even if it's years down the road.

"We don't need the federal government telling us what to do when it comes to meeting the needs of the citizens of our states," Florida Gov. Rick Scott wrote recently in an opinion piece for U.S. News and World Report. "And we don't need Washington putting states on the hook for future budget obligations."

Also, many conservatives view Medicaid as a wasteful, highly flawed program, akin to no health coverage. Many doctors across the country won't treat Medicaid patients because the payments they receive are so low.

When the Supreme Court ruled that states could opt out of the health law's Medicaid expansion, it raised the chances for inequity at a time when more Americans have fallen from the middle class into poverty, said Isabel Sawhill, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution.

"Why should a sick person in Connecticut have access to health care when they don't in Mississippi and Texas?" Sawhill asked. "We really do have a very high level of poverty as a result of the recession. And the safety net is weaker than ever."

Medicaid, the nation's single largest insurer, is a state and federal program created in 1965 as a companion program to welfare cash assistance to single parents. Today, the elderly and disabled cost nearly 70 cents of every Medicaid dollar, not the stereotypical single mother and her children.

What's largely unknown to many Americans is who is left out of the safety net, said Cheryl Camillo, a senior researcher at Mathematica Policy Research. "A huge chunk of the populace is not covered, even by Medicaid," she said.

The political rhetoric during a presidential campaign focuses on the middle class and leaves the uninsured working poor largely invisible, said Rand Corp. researcher Dr. Art Kellermann.

"We hear a lot of talk about unemployment and the aspirations of middle-class Americans. But we don't hear about the consequences of unemployment and the consequences of the collapsing middle class," Kellermann said. Losing health insurance is one of those consequences.

"It's like the public just doesn't want to believe anything else until it hits home," he said, "Until it's their own child, brother or parent that got laid off when they were 58, until then, it's not real."

Up-date from the Ombudsman

By Dianne McLester-Heim
Oneida Ombudsman
920-490-3713

Shekolih,

It is with great pleasure and great enthusiasm that I present the community with a summary of the third quarter report from the Office of the Ombudsman along with some additional follow up news of items previously identified.

During the third quarter, the Office of the Ombudsman addressed 53 cases and tended to 12 general inquiry contacts. Of the 53 cases addressed, 33 were closed by the end of the quarter with 20 others remaining in 'open' status. Cases (or matters brought forward for Ombudsman assistance) often cross many areas of the Oneida Tribe as an employer and service provider. These cases are not limited to any one Division or area as the concerns of Oneida Community members are not limited. The matters brought to the Office of the Ombudsman do not represent any type of formal action occurring in any area of the Oneida Tribe. What they represent are matters brought forward by community members and/or employees (staff and/or management) to be assessed and discussed. From that point it is the decision of the individual(s) bringing the matter forward to determine what they feel to be the best course of action in working to address their concern.

The Office of the Ombudsman has also identified four Strategic Priorities which are in place to guide the way in which the office functions as well as the work and actions of the Office. These Strategic Priorities include:

1. Organizational Excellence and Exhibiting 'best practice' in performance and service
2. Improving Public Administration (building and maintaining relationships and resources)
3. Awareness, Accessibility, & Responsiveness (information and case management)
4. Promote Administrative Justice/improvement (professional development)

These priorities have been identified by reviewing the concepts of the Balanced Scorecard tool, networking with other Organizational Ombudsman practitioners (nationally and internationally), and striving to streamline the direction of the office under the concept of continuous growth and positive improvement of the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin.

Actions of the Ombudsman's Office which have been a direct result of these strategic priorities include the informational awareness articles that appeared earlier this year in the Kalihwisaks, increased communication with service areas of the Oneida Tribe (increased referrals to the Ombudsman from service areas), continual work toward cross functional collaboration between service areas, and increasing access of the Ombudsman's Office by community members and employees for a variety of informal proactive services.

Review of review a previously identified item:

- Revival of Quality Assurance and Quality Improvement at the Oneida Community Health Center
- An awareness surfaced that the specific position of Quality Assurance/Quality Improvement; as it previously existed and aligned under the Medical side of the Comprehensive Health Division; was eliminated in the severance action. Since that time a great deal of work has gone into reviewing how such actions were being conducted by the different service areas of the division, how they were conducted in the past (prior to the creation of a specific position), and what would be the most practical way to coordinate these ongoing actions while ensuring a constant drive and awareness for the highest quality care to the Oneida Community.
- As a result, a Quality Assurance/Improvement collaborative team has been put together within the Comprehensive Health Division to address such matters. Staff from a variety of services areas/units within the Comprehensive Health Division meet to discuss and address issues of quality assurance/improvement. This brings with it the sense and understanding that quality assurance and quality improvement are everyone's responsibility, both in their specific area of knowledge and expertise and as a collaborative unit.

I look forward to upcoming communication with the community in which the Office of the Ombudsman will share an awareness of thoughts, comments, concerns, and questions that are surfacing through the office. I also look forward to sharing with the community assistive information as it relates to these topics.

First annual Onʌ́yoteʔa·ka Gathering meets goal

By Anita Barber

On behalf of the Onʌ́yoteʔa·ka Gathering planning committee yawʌ́ko' ( big thank you) to all participants who attended the 2012 Onʌ́yoteʔa·ka Gathering. The purpose of the Gathering was to bring Onʌ́yoteʔa·ka people from around the world together to develop relationships through fun, educational, cultural and healing activities. It is with great pleasure to announce we met our purpose.

Watching our elders excited to see each other after several years was a heartwarming experience. Their smiles and sparkling eyes showed the joy of being reunited was worth the efforts of programs and volunteers who dedicated their time and resources to make this event happen. Witnessing siblings separated in childhood attending the Gathering as they begin to regain a connection cannot be explained in words. Children who attended were overjoyed just to be around Onʌ́yoteʔa·ka and participate in several activities put together for them by the Museum, Library, Conservation and Tourism.

Visitors from foreign countries and the neighborhood had the opportunity to enjoy a reservation tour, purchase items from our vendors and gain additional knowledge of who we are as we practice Kaʔnikuli·yo (The openness of the good spirit and mind).

This Gathering is not the first one for our community. It follows others that helped to build relationships and share our history as a nation of people. The quality of each cannot be measured by numbers but it can be measured by Kanolukhwa'sla(Compassion, caring, identity, and joy of being) one of the seven major values we strive to practice. Although there were no formal introductions, vehicles with license plates from various states were in the parking lot.

There were many joyous moments but the highlight of the event was our children's choir. They brought pride, hope and Kaʔtshtstʌ́sla (The strength of belief and vision as a people) to the audience as they sang various types of songs using the Oneida Language. In return the audience provided them with Kahletsyalu'sla (The heartfelt encouragement of the best in each of us).

Along with the positive

Reconnecting with the Community

By Yvonne Kaquatosh
Kalihwisaks

Oneida hunters were invited to a potluck dinner that was held at the VFW building Monday evening, on August 20, 2012.

Appointed members of the ERB (Environmental Resource Board), elected Land Commission members and staff who have responsibilities for the Hunting Laws and caring for the Land were available to answer any questions the sports men and women may have in an effort to reconnect with the community.

Shad Webster, Director of Conservation said, "There's a disconnect, and we want (the) community to reconnect with us and to connect and respect the land."

"We sell 800 hunting tags and I don't know 2/3 of the customers. This is a problem" said Webster. "As we acquire more land and open it up for hunting, we are seeing a rise in hunting tag sales. More people using the land is a good thing," he explained.

He expressed his concern for the land and respecting the land. "We are all responsible for caring for the land. When you are driving on the reservation and you see something that doesn't look right, you have the responsibility of letting the authorities know so that they can correct it," he added.

He went on to say that the hunters are the eyes and ears for the Wardens and OPD, "We are trying to strengthen that relationship."

It was also an opportunity for Oneida hunters to register for their 2012 sportsmen license.

A silent auction of tree stands that were left from previous seasons was also held during the gathering.

There were 824 sportsmen license issued in 2011.

Early heart death raises disease risk for family

By Marilynn Marchione
AP Chief Medical Writer

MILWAUKEE – Paul Ryan works out and watches his diet, but a new study shows that clean living can only go so far to help people like the vice presidential candidate overcome a strong family history of heart disease.

The study of 4 million people - the largest ever on heart risks that run in families - found that having a close relative die young of cardiovascular disease doubles a person's odds of developing it by age 50. This risk was independent of other factors like high cholesterol, high blood pressure and diabetes, and was even higher if more than one close family member had died young.

Ryan has said his father, grandfather and great-grandfather all died of heart attacks in their 50s, and the 42-year-old Wisconsin congressman has cited that as the reason for his devotion to exercise.

Heart attacks can result from genetic factors, an abnormal heart rhythm or a heart muscle problem - not just clogged arteries from poor health habits, said McBride, who had no role in this study but has published other work on the topic.

"What's important for anybody with that kind of story is that they sit down with their physician and get a very thorough, detailed family history and try to identify what factors may be present in the family - not just on their own think they can fix their problem," McBride said. "Exercise alone won't obviate this risk."

It's not known if Ryan has had such an evaluation, although McBride noted that as a congressman, Ryan has excellent insurance and access to care. A Mitt Romney campaign spokesman said Ryan was not available for an interview on his health, and did not answer questions about whether Ryan is taking medicines for heart risk factors such as high cholesterol or high blood pressure.

In an email message, the spokesman, Brendan Buck, said Ryan has never smoked, "works out five times a week, eats healthy, gets regular checkups, avoids sweets and limits alcohol consumption."

The Wisconsin congressman joked "my veins run with cheese" when he was named Romney's running mate, but it is clear that he takes the health of his arteries seriously.

NBC News correspondent Luke Russert recently described a January 2010 conversation when Ryan asked about Russert's father, "Meet the Press" moderator Tim Russert, who died of heart disease at age 58 in 2008.

Ryan urged Luke Russert to increase the cardiovascular level of his workouts and commiserated about the bad aftertaste of fish oil supplements, which some people take to try to ward off heart disease, the younger Russert wrote on an NBC blog.

Ryan's family history of heart disease "is dramatic," and his efforts to modify whatever risks he can control is "very wise," said the leader of the new study, Dr. Mattis Ranthe, a scientist at the Danish Ministry of Health.

The study involved 4 million people from Denmark, which has detailed medical registries on families dating to 1949 because of universal health care. Researchers zeroed in on people who had developed cardiovascular disease, such as clogged arteries, heart failure, a rhythm problem or trouble with a valve, by age 50.

The chance of this was roughly doubled if someone had a close relative - a parent, sibling or child - who died of cardiovascular disease before age 60. Losing two or more close relatives to cardiovascular disease by age 60 more than tripled the odds that someone would develop it before age 50.

Having a less-immediate family member, such as a grandparent, die young of cardiovascular disease also modestly increased a person's risk of early-onset heart disease - by 19 percent. As the number of early deaths in a family rose and the age at which they died fell, a person's risk of early heart disease rose up to 10-fold, researchers found.

White bison to stay at farm in Conn.

GOSHEN, Conn. (AP) ~ A white bison that caused a stir among Native Americans will be staying at the western Connecticut farm where it was born.

Peter Fay, the calf's owner, said it will live out its life at his Mohawk Bison farm in Goshen and will not be butchered like other bulls. He said in an interview Monday that he received offers to send the animal elsewhere, but they were not seriously considered.

"I think I can probably do the best with him," he said. "There's a reason why he's here."

White bison, which are extremely rare, are revered by many Native Americans as symbols of hope and unity. Lakota tribe members from South Dakota were among the hundreds who turned out last month for a ceremony at the farm, where the calf was named Yellow Medicine Dancing Boy.

The calf was born on June 16. Fay, who has about 20 bison at his farm, said he is still receiving visitors and about 25 calls a day about the animal. Earlier this month, Gov. Dannel P. Malloy visited the farm on a trip highlighting tourism destinations in northwestern Connecticut.

Bison have a life expectancy of about 20 to 25 years, and Fay said some show more of a mean streak as they age. He said he hopes the white bull can be used for breeding.

"Hopefully he's a good bull," Fay said.

Fredenberg, Maj. William R.

deceased July 21, 2012

The Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin mourns the loss of decorated combat veteran, Maj. William R. Fredenberg. Major Fredenberg, a retired United States Air Force veteran and distinguished member of the Menominee Tribe, died on July 21st, 2012.

Upon learning of his death, Menominee Tribal Chairman Craig Corn issued the following statement, "On behalf of the Menominee Indian Tribe, I extend to Major Fredenberg's wife Elizabeth and to his children our heartfelt sympathy. We also express our deepest appreciation for his extraordinary service to our country. His continuous acts of bravery in the face of adversity will forever remain symbolic of a Menominee warrior."

Major Fredenberg enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1942. Upon graduation from flight training he went to Europe where he was assigned to a fighter-bomber squadron, flying bombing missions. On June 17, 1944, on his 37th dive-bombing mission from England he was shot down over France and was taken prisoner. While on a prisoner train he led a daring and successful escape of 13 prisoners and took up arms with the Free French sabotaging and attacking the enemy. In October 1944, he returned to England. He was discharged in 1945 having received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters. William re-entered the Air Force in 1950 and was sent to Japan. In 1953, he returned to the U.S. to continue his jet flight training and became an instructor pilot. He returned to combat during the Vietnam War. On Aug. 2 and 3, 1966, he distinguished himself by extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight as an AC-47 Gunship pilot near Pleiku Air Base. For his courage, skill and resolute determination, he received his second Distinguished Flying Cross. He retired from active duty in 1969 having been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with two oak leaf clusters and the Air Medal with 15 oak leaf clusters.

A memorial service was held at 10:00a.m. Saturday, August 18th, 2012, at St Michael's Church in Keshena, followed by military rites. Visitation was held one hour prior to the service at the church on Saturday.

There is no charge for obituary notices to be published in the Kalihwisaks for enrolled Oneida citizens or spouses.

UW-Green Bay to offer Menominee language course for students, community

Special to Kalihwisaks

GREEN BAY – The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay's Division of Outreach and Adult Access will offer an introductory course in the Menominee language beginning Thursday, Sept. 6.

Open to UW-Green Bay students and the larger community, this first-time course can be taken for three undergraduate credits or as a noncredit option. It will meet from 5-8 p.m. Thursdays from Sept. 6 through Dec. 13 in Room 440 of Wood Hall on the UW-Green Bay campus, 2420 Nicolet Drive.

Taught by Menominee Nation Elders Muqsahkwat, also known as Ron Corn, Jr., and Napos, also known as David Turney, Sr., the Menominee language course will use indigenous educational methods together with western methods of language instruction. Students will be introduced to basic Menominee language speaking and reading skills through the use of storytelling and interaction with tribal Elders and First Language speakers. The course draws on oral traditional listening, observation and speaking skills, teaching basic Menominee language designed for use in day-to-day settings.

The Menominee language course will utilize "Total Physical Response" (TPR) as one of its primary teaching methods. TPR pairs language learning with body movement and physical interaction in the classroom. This method has been shown to maximize language acquisition in a short period of time, making learning both engaging and fun.

Course fees are $295 for the noncredit option ($100 due upon registration) and $956.04 for the three undergraduate credit option. Registration is available online at http://www.uwgb.edu/outreach/menominee/. For registration questions, call (920) 465-2775 or e m a i l felmera@uwgb.edu or christem@uwgb.edu.

More information about Outreach and Adult Access, including additional course offerings, is available at http://www.uwgb.edu/outreach/

Brown County Teen Leadership Program focused on high school sophomores now accepting applications

GREEN BAY – Brown County Teen Leadership, a program of the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce, is now accepting applications for the Class of 2013.

The program's mission is to build and strengthen emerging young leaders with skills, knowledge and experiences that prepare them to be effective partners for positive change in Brown County.

"Brown County Teen Leadership is one of the Green Bay area's best-kept secrets for emerging young leaders," said Dan Terrio, youth development manager at the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce. "The program gives high school sophomores the ability to see our community in a different light while at the same time preparing them to lead our community forward."

Terrio is excited to announce that this year's class will benefit from some significant changes to the program structure and curriculum. Due to changing times, skills needed in our communities and requests from past and current participants, the program will grow from offering five to nine sessions focused on pressing issues in our communities, workforce skills and a well-rounded education about the community. The class will also welcome 40 participants; in the past, 30 students were selected from the application pool.

In addition, as part of the core curriculum, students in the program complete a group project focused on a community issue. The Class of 2012 created two group projects focused on underage drinking. One group developed a public service announcement (PSA) that aired on local television that focused on underage drinking and prom season. That PSA has received more than 600 hits on YouTube, and the students received statewide attention for their work. The other group developed a silicone wrist band that states, "It's MY Choice," which focused on positive peer pressure in making decisions such as not to drink alcohol. The funds raised by sales of the bands went to local schools for alcohol or drug abuse (AODA)-based programs.

"My life has been changed because of Brown County Teen Leadership," said Emily Charneski, De Pere High School, Brown County Teen Leadership Class of 2012. "It was an experience that I will never forget. You get to meet inspirational people, see what is in our community and make lifelong friendships."

All sophomore students in Partners in Education affiliated high schools are eligible to apply. These include Ashwaubenon, Bay Port, Denmark, De Pere, Green Bay, Seymour, Pulaski, Luxemburg-Casco, Wrightstown and West De Pere High Schools.

Visit titletown.org or call Terrio at 920.593.3406 or dterrio@titletown.org to obtain an application. Applications are due Monday, Sept. 17.

Loretta Says... Picking Things

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

Nearly everyone my age, and a little older and perhaps a little younger too, remembers picking beans, picking cucumbers, picking cherries and picking apples—picking, picking, picking.

Most every Oneida family in the '30s, '40s, and'50s with a small acreage planted contract crops. It was a way for the family to get additional income and a way for students to earn some money for school clothes. Usually the young people had to help cultivate and hoe the crop as well. The contracts were with the local canning companies such as Larsen's Canning Company in Green Bay or Seymour Canning in Seymour. This consisted of a half-acre or so of green and yellow beans or cucumbers. The families often could not keep up with the harvesting in the height of the growing season, so they hired folks to help pick the crop. At first, the pickers got a half penny a pound for beans and later the price was raised to a penny a pound. I don't remember how much was paid for cucumbers.

I picked a lot of beans on our farm. Dad planted much more than a half-acre and he hired many people to pick. Beans needed to be harvested every two to three days. At one penny a pound, one hundred pounds would give the picker one dollar. One summer I earned $40. That is two ton of beans! I didn't figure that out until just recently. I learned to pick beans from Cousin Luther Ninham. He never looked like he was working very hard, but he always ended up with the most beans. By observation, I found that he was consistently and continuously picking, not fast, but steady.

A lot of people liked to pick beans at our farm because our Mother, Grace, always made a great lunch served out under the trees.

Seymour Canning Factory recruited young Oneida folks to pick sweet corn. When I was 15, I joined the group and got picked up in Oneida Village to ride on the back of a stake truck to Weyawega. We had to pack our lunches. The process was to snap out cobs from two rows of corn and throw them on the ground just in front of the truck. Then, the other pickers would each take one or two rows on each side of the truck and would throw the cobs in the truck as it was moving. Somebody would pick up the corn previously picked from the two rows and throw that in, also.

I never picked cherries in Sturgeon Bay except for a few pails for my immediate family. I took my children there so they could experience what it was like first hand. My Mother, Grace Skenandore Kurowski, picked cherries, though. She said people went there in family groups, usually recruited by a person who had been there many times and knew a certain orchard well. She was with Abby Schuyler's group. Abby was in charge of the kitchen and cooking for her family and friends working together. The cherry pickers made their own recreation—played ball and made music together. Sometimes, everybody went swimming. I was informed that 25 cents a pail was the going rate.

Aroostook County, Maine, is a great place for raising potatoes. Hundreds of box cars of potatoes are shipped out of that area to the rest of the country every day. I learned about Katahdins, Russets and a variety of other kinds when I lived in upstate Maine at Presque Isle Air Force Base. In the fall of 1959, I wanted to earn some money above and beyond the Air Force income to buy a room size rug for the new house we had just occupied on the base. The potato farmers needed help. The local school children were released from regular school for three weeks in September to help with the crop. They did have to start earlier, though, to make up for the harvest season. I made arrangements for our four children, including a six month old baby, to be cared for. Then, I created what was called "TV Dinners" on the weekend for every day of the week and froze them so I could just pop them in the oven when arriving home after a day in the fields.

The Micmac Indians are indigenous to that area and New Brunswick, Canada. They picked potatoes, too. We became well acquainted while working together in the potato fields.

First, the digging machine would go through. In Maine, there are as many stones as there are potatoes. The potatoes lie on top of ground in a row. The gatherers utilize one-half bushel baskets that when full are emptied into wooden barrels. A full barrel of potatoes weighs 160 pounds. My goal was to pick one hundred barrels at 25 cents a barrel. The best I could do was 69 barrels in one day. I did manage to buy the rug with my earnings.

Apple orchards are plentiful in Maine. Wild blueberries abound on the mountainsides. People are employed to harvest blueberries with picking devices that look somewhat like cranberry scoops. The pickers would dump their scoops of blueberries into a winnowing machine to get rid of the leaves, twigs and debris that came along with the berries. Our family picked both several bushels of apples and as many blueberries as we could for our own use. We also picked choke cherries to make them into jelly.

Today, we pick the beans, peas, cucumbers and corn in our own gardens. It is not the same as picking the same fruit or vegetable all day long for a meager income. Family members now go "Up North" on blackberry picking sprees. They end up picking gallons for themselves and community functions.

Older Oneidas have reminded me that they dug tons of horse radish roots in Black Creek and cut thousands of cabbages for the canning enterprises to turn into sauerkraut. I was not called on to do that. I must have been milking cows instead.

Quest Card now accepted at area Oneida One Stops

Contributed photo

Hwy. 54 One Stop located in Oneida.

The QUEST card or Food sharing program is now available at the Oneida One Stops and the Apple Orchard in Oneida. For those unfamiliar with the QUEST card it is an Electronic Benefits Transfer system that replaces what some may know as food stamps. It may also be referred to as SNAP. The QUEST card is used at the stores registers as a method of payment to buy eligible groceries.

In general QUEST cards can be used to buy foods such as breads, cereals, fruits & veggies, meats, fish, poultry, and dairy products. Designation is placed on specific items purchased that will not allow for the transaction to process when incorrect items are purchased. Items that are not eligible for purchase using the QUEST card include those items that are non-food items such as pet foods, paper products, soaps, grooming items and the like. Other items that may not be purchased using the QUEST card are Beer, wine, cigarettes or tobacco as well as foods that are considered hot foods in the store.

The Oneida One Stops are excited to offer this method of payment, which is a part of the continual improvement plan. The convenience to the community and customers will be an exciting addition and a great offering that promises to assist those using the QUEST card.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Couple utilizing sales skills in retirement

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

A small retirement business keeps Dean Smith, 81, and Jean Edwards, 74, feeling young and coming back to Oneida.

Smith and Edwards have operated the Native American Web Walker gift stand in the Oneida Casino for the last five years. They come to Oneida for the warmer months and spend the winters in Tucson, AZ.

They both enjoy the social interactions that take place as customers pass their tables.

"We're people people. We really enjoy selling and meeting new people. It's a lot of fun talking to them when they come through," said Smith.

The two operate the stand Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. They offer a wide variety of jewelry, dream catchers, beaded items, coin purses, and cell phone holders.

"People love the color and variety," said Edwards. "They shop with us because we have many items for $2, $3, $4, and $5."

The couple make about 15 percent of the items they sell and are willing to try to accommodate requests for certain items. They admit the production recently has slowed.

"We haven't had as much time to make items. We don't want to burn ourselves out," said Smith. "We do have other things to do."

Smith and Edwards have used their people skills and have been selling for the last 20 years. They spent seven years traveling the northwest before spending the last five years at the Oneida Casino.

The two really enjoy everyone their retirement business puts them in contact with and are certain their stand leaves an impression.

"You will have more smiles and laughing around our tables than you will find inside the casino," said Smith.

After spending much time in the lobby watching customers come and go, it's hard to disagree with him.

Dean Smith and Jean Edwards have not sat idle in retirement as they operate a "gift shop" in the casino lobby.

Child Support Enforcement

Question: What happens when I don't pay my child support?

Answer:

The potential consequences of non-payment include:

- Having a lien placed on property
- State and federal tax return intercept
- Per capita intercept
- Seizure of bank accounts
- Suspension of recreational, occupational, and/or driver's licenses
- Intercept of certain types of lump-sum payments
- Contempt (which comes with its own set of consequences)

Question: What can I do if I have not been paying my child support?

Answer:

Contact the Agency at (920) 490-3700 – you will be directed to your caseworker who will talk with you about what can be done to get back on track. Your caseworker can provide you with job search forms to complete and return to the Agency if you are unemployed or underemployed; they can also talk with you about barriers you may be facing and refer you to various community agencies.

Depending on your situation, you can also talk to your caseworker about doing an Alternative Payment Plan or a Compliance Plan. An Alternative Payment Plan (AAP) is an agreement between the payer and the Agency which can contain a lump-sum payment or periodic payments in addition to the court-ordered child support payments. An AAP is usually done to halt an enforcement action, such as license suspension. A Compliance Plan is also an agreement between the payer and the Agency, but it is done to halt contempt.

The most important first step is to contact the Agency—we are here to help you.

Thanks to a Great Policy Council

By Joan Christnot
Director Oneida Head Start/Early Head Start

During the 2011-2012 school year, I had the honor of working with a very strong and dedicated Policy Council. For those of you who are not familiar with the role of the Policy Council, I will give you a brief description of this group. In the Head Start/Early Head Start program it is required that parents and community members be elected by the parents to serve on the Policy Council. Their role is to work with the Director and members of the Business Committee to provide oversight of the program. They approve policies, procedures, and plans for the program. The intent of this group is to keep the best interest of the parents and the community at large.

This year I worked with such an outstanding group. The whole group attended regular meetings and presented valuable information to the program. The members are: Juanita Powless, Policy Council Chair; Tamar Ramirez, Policy Council Vice - Chair; Mary Ellen Hayes (Community) Treasurer; LeAnn White, Secretary; William Atkins, Policy Council Member; Gregory Holder, Policy Council Member; Dan Skenandore, Policy Council Member; Mariea Denny, Policy Council Member; Derick Denny, Policy Council Member; Margie Mehojah, Policy Council Member; Ana Balbuena, Community Member; Jennifer Skenandore, Community Member. In addition, Stephanie Stevens and Rosa Laster started out the year on the Policy Council but stepped down from their role for personal reasons. I was so grateful for all of the time and energy the Policy Council dedicated to this program. They made a difference in the overall program and built on the success of the program. All of the members have my very humble thanks for their time and commitment.

This is the final year for one of my valuable members. Mary Ellen Hayes has served the maximum term of three years on the Policy Council. For those of you who are not familiar with Mary Ellen she has a long history with the Oneida Head Start program. She was a director of the program for many years. Often times when we are meeting with members of the community Mary Ellen has a story about them when they were in Head Start. She has built a lot of strong relationships within the community. She is very insightful and truly understands the Head Start program and its role within the Oneida Community. She is dedicated to the well-being of all of the families that have been touched by this program. She was instrumental in writing the grant that secured funding for the recent Early Head Start grant. She has been a wealth of knowledge for me in my new role as the director. I truly want to thank her for the years she spent on the Policy Council. This program will continue to use her as the valuable resource that she is.

Wisconsin's No Call List Deadline

MADISON – Did you miss us at Farm Technology Days or the Wisconsin State Fair? The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) registered scores of new numbers to the state's No Call List at those two events in advance of the upcoming quarterly registration deadline on August 31.

If you missed our booths or were not at those events, no worries – there is still plenty of time to add your residential landline and cell numbers to Wisconsin's No Call List before the quarterly deadline. Wisconsin residents who add their numbers by August 31 will receive protection from unsolicited telemarketing phone calls and text messages starting on October 1.

"We had a great response to our onsite No Call signup stations at Farm Technology Days and the State Fair, and we look forward to helping protect all of those event attendees from unwanted telemarketing calls," said Sandy Chalmers, Division Administrator for Trade and Consumer Protection. "Registration is free and takes only a minute or two, so Wisconsin residents who were not at these events can still easily add their numbers by August 31."

The free No Call service is managed by DATCP. The service covers Wisconsin consumers' residential landline, VoIP and cellular numbers and includes protections against unwanted text messages. Consumers can register multiple numbers. Registrations are good for two years, but consumers can re-register their numbers at any time.

To add your number(s) to the list, visit nocall.wisconsin.gov or dial 1-866-9NO-CALL (1-866-966-2255). The website and toll-free number are available all day, every day.

Political calls, calls from non-profit organizations and calls made in response to your written or verbal request or permission are not covered by the No Call law. Additional information is at nocall.wisconsin.gov.

The list is updated four times per calendar year (January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1). The registration process is continuous, but those who sign up after the upcoming August 31 deadline will not be added to the list until January 1.

For more information on the program or to file a consumer complaint, visit the Consumer Protection website at datcp.wisconsin.gov, send an e-mail to datcphotline@wisconsin.gov or call toll-free at 1-800-422-7128.

Tribal Giveaway

I want to encourage all Tribal members to hold the Business Committee fiscally responsible. This is a "wake up call" to our leaders not to ignore their responsibility to manage our tribal dollars. We are giving away our money or we are trying to "BUY" our friends. As a Tribal member, I'm outraged when I see our Tribal money being wasted.

Look at the August 2, 2012 Kalihwisaks. Our Chairman signing our money away. It is the inexperienced, uninformed Oneida Business Committee who should be held responsible. There is nothing in the law that requires this. The only law that I know is a requirement to deal with the State. We pay them over a million dollars plus a percentage of what we earn.

To the Town of Oneida we gave:

$17,000 for trust land

$25,000 for fire and fierst responders' salaries

$55,000 for equipment and Town staff salaries.

$3,000 for annual trash collection

We also pay Brown County – Outagamie County – Village of Ashwaubenon – and Green Bay. Why? How much does this cost us?

We are a P.L. 280 State which means if we didn't have a casino or if we didn't have any money, the State is required to provide us with police protection and all social services and programs FREE to all Tribal members within the reservation boundaries. But our uninformed leaders who swore to uphold our constitution and protect our money is giving it away.

The local newspaper reported the Oneida Tribe donated about $357,000 to the Democratic Governor and $725,000 to the Democratic Party in 2011. Who authorized this giveaway?

On August 9, 2012 our Chairman tried to justify buying our friendship. He said we bought land. In the Code of Federal Regulation 23 C.F.R., this Government allows that for FREE. Also Public Law 93-638, the Indian self-determination Act passed by Congress in the 1970's, allows us to do that for Free. It is the duty of our leaders to carry out their responsibilities to the Tribal members – not to buy their favor and give away our money.

Our Tribe has police force. We provide protection on the Reservation – THEY should pay us. We give the Fire Department money to buy equipment and our Tribal members are volunteers. They should give us service for FREE. Our roads are paid for with tax payers' money (by law) and both Indian and non-Indian must share all the responsibility through tax dollars by law. There is no requirements by law for us to pay them. Yet we increase our giveaway by $24,300 this year. WHY?

I have tried to call some BC members, but they are too busy to call me back.. They were elected to listen to our concerns and help enforce the Constitution. What they are doing its not a requirement, it is a giveaway.

If you want fiscal responsibility and end wasteful Business Committee spending, speak up – you are the General Tribal Council. This is your Tribal dollars.

Notice of Availability

Project Description:
Brown County is proposing to build a 911 emergency communication tower to serve the western portion of Brown County, including the Oneida Indian Reservation. Brown County is proposing to build the tower on a 50 foot by 50 foot piece of tribal fee land leased from the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. The proposed site is immediately north of Oneida Conservation Department at N8047 County Trunk U. The proposed development includes a 180 foot tower built on a 10 foot by 10 foot cement base. There would be an equipment compound for electrical power and service related equipment as well as for back-up equipment. The 50 foot by 50 foot leased area would have a chain link fence surrounding it. The tower would not require guy wires or other above ground structures.

A draft environmental assessment (EA) has been prepared regarding the proposed action in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The draft EA contains project information, affected environment, project alternatives, and consultation letters.

Comments were requested from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service regarding possible impacts to threatened and endangered species, and from the Oneida Cultural Heritage Officer. No significant impacts to these resources are anticipated and recommendations from these sources will be followed.

Need for Project:
To provide reliable emergency services to western Brown County, including the Oneida Indian Reservation. This tower would fulfill Brown County's obligation to upgrade its emergency services for the western portion of the county.

Project Alternatives:
This site was chosen based on land availability to fulfill an expressed emergency service need for western Brown County. The no-action alternative would not address Brown County's obligation to provide reliable emergency service to the western portion of the county (including the Oneida Indian Reservation). That alternative would result in less than adequate emergency services for the western portions of Brown County.

Editor's Corner

Dawn Walschinski

By the latest estimates, Oneida has about 300 to 500 more employees than it can financially support. That's more than 10 percent of our workforce. That's a lot of people to say on^kiwa to, if, you know, management actually could lay people off which the General Tribal Council (GTC) says it can't.

Where to cut is the big question. Most look to the services side of the organization and say "cut this." Others look to the management and yell "cut that!" Departments heads look at other departments and ask "why do you need all those people?" while defending their own employees to the last breath. The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) members look down from above and wonder which firing will hurt their reelection the most. Not that anyone's getting fired, wouldn't dream of it.

While we're caught up in trying to figure out who stays and who (theoretically) goes, we forget the actual reason we have a casino in the first place – to create jobs for Oneidas. Good jobs with benefits and livable wages. It was our priority, our goal, our end all be all for existence as a gaming nation. That may be why we now look around our organization and wonder what all those other people are doing here.

In the meantime, another goal popped up amongst us. We saw other Indian nations getting per capita and wondered why we weren't getting one as well. At first it was modest, $225 per year for three years. With that kind of money you could, um, well, it was a nice trip to the mall. Per capita grew over time, taking a mighty leap in 2008 to $5000 because having a general fund that assured financial security in times of trouble was never a GTC priority. As far as some GTC members were concerned, having the greatest Christmas ever was their priority.

Currently, per capita stands at the more reasonable yet calm inducing figure of $1200 per year. What's interesting is the amount of money it takes to pay that per capita is a hair over the projected budget deficit. Basically, our twin priorities of jobs and per capita are at odds with each other.

So which should we choose? In theory, choosing per capita would mean our organization would have to operate in a leaner fashion; lay-offs, cutting services, cutting wages and benefits. Basically, the tribe would operate like every other business in the world. This would be great for our per capita, but it would never replace the wages of individuals laid off, or at best would offset some of the money an employee lost when his/her job got downgraded.

But there's a lot of Oneidas, a majority really, who don't work for Oneida and may be screaming "Who cares? Send me a bigger check!" There may even be employees unwittingly yelling for their own termination via per capita. The big question is who's going to make the potentially career ending decision to prioritize one or the other? Once again, math shows us the answer. There are 16,789 Oneidas. There 12,679 voting age GTC members. About 3000 Oneida citizens live in Brown and Outagamie Counties, the rest are scattered around the state, country and world. There are 2917 employees, 1601 are Oneida. About 1500 people pack into GTC meetings and about that same number vote in the tri-annual elections for OBC. Guess where most of these 1500 people probably work? I'll give you a hint, in a time of budget cuts and looming theoretical job cuts, about 1500 people approved a $.75 per hour raise for everyone earning less than $60,000.

So we can blame our leaders, and blame the meeting stipend, and run around with scissors trying to cut this, that and the other thing until we lose an eye, but the truth is that we, the GTC, are to blame for our actions and inactions and we are the ones who have to make the hard decisions before they're made for us.

Just don't cut my department, we're essential.

If you have any questions, call me at 920-496-7318 or email kalihwisaks@oneidanation.org

More crews head to Yakama reservation fire

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) ~ More firefighters are responding to a wildfire that was sparked by lightning on a closed area of the Yakama Indian Reservation.

Fire crews from the Yakama Nation and the Warm Springs Tribe have been fighting the fire in the Diamond Butte area, about 15 miles northwest of White Swan.

Don Jones, a fire management officer, told the Yakima Herald-Republic that a ground crew from southern Oregon will join the 115 personnel already assigned to the blaze, which has burned about 500 acres or less than a square mile.

Meanwhile, fire crews are still hoping to fully contain a wildfire east of Cle Elum. The Taylor Bridge Fire was 57 percent contained Tuesday morning. The fire has caused an estimated $8.3 million in damage.

Van Hollen wants Supreme Court to take ID case

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. ~ Wisconsin Attorney General J.B. Van Hollen on Tuesday asked the state Supreme Court to overturn rulings blocking the state's voter identification law from being in effect for the November presidential election.

Van Hollen asked the court to immediately stay earlier orders that put the law requiring voters to show photo identification at the polls on hold. If the Supreme Court agrees, the law could be in place for the Nov. 6 presidential election. A U.S. Senate race pitting Republican Tommy Thompson against Democrat Tammy Baldwin is also on the ballot.

The Supreme Court in April refused without comment to hear the cases as requested by two separate state appeals courts and supported by Van Hollen. Those courts asked that the cases be consolidated in order to speed resolution.

Van Hollen said Tuesday there is a more complete court record now, as well as final orders from two judges, increasing the chances that the Supreme Court will agree to bypass the appeals courts and take it up.

"The Supreme Court has more information to work with now," Van Hollen said. He said his request gives the court "another opportunity to bring prompt, clear resolution to the law and settle this matter in advance of the November elections. People in this state are very frustrated that a common sense law enacted by the Legislature and signed by the governor has been blocked."

While the photo ID requirement was in effect for the state's February primary, it was not required for the April presidential primary or Walker's June recall election.

The rules shouldn't be changed again so close to the general election, said Andrew Kaminski, executive director of the League of Women Voters, which filed one of the lawsuits challenging the law.

"It would be a grave error to change the rules again shortly before an election, especially for the purpose of reinstating an unconstitutional law which will make it extremely difficult or impossible for many qualified Wisconsin citizens to vote," Kaminski said.

In two separate cases earlier this year judges ruled in favor of groups challenging the voter ID law passed in 2011 by the Republican-controlled state Legislature and signed by Gov. Scott Walker.

In March, Dane County Circuit Judge Richard Niess permanently blocked the law in a case brought by the League of Women Voters.

In July, Dane County Circuit Judge David Flanagan also issued a permanent injunction blocking the law, saying it creates a "substantial impairment of the right to vote" guaranteed by the state Constitution. That ruling came in a case brought by the Milwaukee branch of the NAACP and the immigrant rights group Voces de la Frontera.

Lester Pines, attorney for the League of Women Voters, said he wasn't surprised by Van Hollen's request but he believes the law would not be in effect for the November election.

"This is a very serious constitutional challenge," Pines said. "And I don't expect the Wisconsin Supreme Court to do anything but give proper consideration to a challenge like this. It would be a very, very compressed time frame for the matter to be placed before the Supreme Court."

Two other federal lawsuits in Milwaukee challenging the law are also pending. No trial dates for those cases have been set.

Voter ID continues to be a contentious issue nationwide, especially in a presidential election year. Critics of Wisconsin's law said it was one of the strictest in the country. It requires that voters show either a state-issued ID card, valid driver's license, U.S. passport, a student ID that expires within two years, or a military ID.

The law's opponents say it will disenfranchise minority groups, the poor, students and senior citizens who lack the required photo identification and are more likely to vote Democratic. But supporters, including Van Hollen, said the state has a constitutionally protected interest in making sure there is no fraud at elections, even though documented cases of it are extremely rare.

Wisconsin Democratic Party spokesman Graeme Zielinski said Van Hollen was acting in a partisan way to benefit Republicans.

"This is a terrible law meant to suppress votes, making it harder for seniors, students and minorities to vote," Zielinski said. "Van Hollen should be working to extend and expand the franchise - not see that it is limited to benefit craven political interests."

The photo ID requirement was in effect for Wisconsin's February primary and there were few reports of problems.

Wisconsin At a Glance

Wisconsin confirms 1st West Nile virus case of '12

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ State and local officials have confirmed Wisconsin's first human case of West Nile virus for 2012.

The state Department of Health Services says a Dodge County resident became ill with the mosquito-borne virus, was hospitalized, and has been released.

Officials also say they have confirmed that dead birds tested positive for West Nile in 13 counties: Barron, Brown, Dane, Kenosha, La Crosse, Milwaukee, Oneida, Pierce, Portage, Rock, Sheboygan, Washington and Winnebago counties.

Infected birds can indicate that West Nile virus is present in an area. Residents are urged to protect themselves against mosquito bites.

Last year, three Wisconsin residents became sick from the West Nile virus.

Redgranite inmates refurbish wheelchairs

REDGRANITE, Wis. (AP) ~ Inmates at the Redgranite Correctional Institution have refurbished hundreds of wheelchairs, scooters and other medical equipment.

The nonprofit WheelChair Recycling Program sells the restored equipment at a reduced cost to those in need. The inmates also restore state-owned wheelchairs.

Industries specialist Christine Trinrud says prisoners at Redgranite have restored more than 700 wheelchairs, power scooters, strollers and walkers since October.

The inmates' work is under the umbrella of Badger State Industries and the Department of Corrections. Thirteen industries are operated at 11 correctional facilities in Wisconsin. The prisoners make license plates, but also manufacture furnishings for offices, classrooms, libraries and dining areas. They also operate a textile shop where clothes and mattresses are made.

Inmates at correctional farms in Wisconsin raise cows, produce dairy products for prisoners and steers for resale.

UnitedHealthCare adding jobs in Howard

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) ~ UnitedHealthCare is hiring in the Green Bay area.

The health benefits company says it's adding 169 jobs at its Howard office. Most positions are in customer care.

UnitedHealthCare employs about 2,000 people at the Howard location, which is the biggest of its 12 facilities in Wisconsin.

The Green Bay Press-Gazette says the company employs more than 7,100 in Wisconsin. It plans to hold a job fair on Thursday.

Seeking sophomores for leadership program

Green Bay, Wis. ~ Brown County Teen Leadership, a program of the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce, is now accepting applications for the Class of 2013.

The program's mission is to build and strengthen emerging young leaders with skills, knowledge and experiences that prepare them to be effective partners for positive change in Brown County.

"Brown County Teen Leadership is one of the Green Bay area's best-kept secrets for emerging young leaders," said Dan Terrio, youth development manager at the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, as part of the core curriculum, students in the program complete a group project focused on a community issue. The Class of 2012 created two group projects focused on underage drinking. One group developed a public service announcement (PSA) that aired on local television that focused on underage drinking and prom season. That PSA has received more than 600 hits on YouTube, and the students received statewide attention for their work. The other group developed a silicone wrist band that states, "It's MY Choice," which focused on positive peer pressure in making decisions such as not to drink alcohol. The funds raised by sales of the bands went to local schools for alcohol or drug abuse (AODA)-based programs.

All sophomore students in Partners in Education affiliated high schools are eligible to apply. These include Ashwaubenon, Bay Port, Denmark, De Pere, Green Bay, Seymour, Pulaski, Luxemburg-Casco, Wrightstown and West De Pere High Schools.

Visit titletown.org or call Terrio at 920.593.3406 or dterrio@titletown.org to obtain an application. Applications are due Monday, Sept. 17.

Sioux tribes upset over sale of sacred site

By Kristie Eaton
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, South Dakota ~ It's advertised as a one-of-a-kind deal: Nearly 2,000 acres (800 hectares) of prime real estate nestled in the Black Hills of South Dakota for sale to the highest bidder.

But the offer to sell the land near Mount Rushmore and historic Deadwood has distressed Native American tribes who consider it a sacred site. Although the land has been privately owned, members of the Great Sioux Nation - known as Lakota, Dakota and Nakota - have been allowed to gather there each year to perform ceremonial rituals they believe are necessary for harmony, health and well-being.

Members now fear that if the property they call Pe' Sla is sold, it will be developed and they will lose access. The South Dakota Department of Transportation and the Federal Highway Administration are studying the possibility of paving one of the main roads that divides the land, a fact mentioned in the advertisement touting its development potential.

The tribes have banded together to try to raise money to buy back as much of the land as they can. But with a week to go until the Aug. 25 auction, they have only about $110,000 committed for property they believe will sell for $6 million to $10 million.

"A lot of our people who practice our way of life go there to pray and there are a lot of us that go up there," said Rodney Bordeaux, president of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe, which is leading the effort.

The area is the only sacred site currently on private land outside Sioux control. The tribes believe the Sioux people were created from the Black Hills, and part of their spiritual tradition says Pe' Sla is where the Morning Star fell to earth, killing seven beings that killed seven women. The Morning Star placed the souls of the women into the night sky as "The Seven Sisters," also known as the Pleiades constellation.

The land - 1,942 acres (786 hectares) of pristine prairie grass - is owned by Leonard and Margaret Reynolds, who would not comment on the sale. Chase Iron Eyes, a member of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe, said they should be commended for how well they have preserved the land and for giving the tribes access. Iron Eyes founded Last Real Indians, a website that promotes indigenous writers and is working with the tribes to spread the word about the sale via social media.

The auction house also would not comment on the sale.

Raising money to buy the land is a monumental and controversial undertaking for the Sioux tribes. An 1868 treaty set aside the Black Hills and other land for the Sioux, but Congress passed a law in 1877 seizing the land following the discovery of gold in western South Dakota. A 1980 U.S. Supreme Court ruling awarded more than $100 million to the Sioux tribes for the Black Hills, but the tribes have refused to accept the money, saying the land has never been for sale. There are Sioux tribes in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska and Canada.

Online donations totaled about $59,000 as of Friday. The Rosebud Sioux have allocated at least $50,000 to the cause, and other Sioux tribes are discussing how much to donate, Iron Eyes said.

The tribes are not the only ones concerned about the sale. The closest business to the property is Mount Meadow Store & Campground, which is about nine miles (14.5 kilometers) away by road. Manager Dave Oyen said he would like to see the road paved to make it friendlier to visitors, but he worries the land could end up spliced among many different buyers. He said he hopes that it goes in one piece to a rancher.

Arizona running club boosts Native Americans' health

By Vandana Sebastian
The Arizona Republic

PHOENIX ~ An organization that provides services for Native Americans is inspiring a small but stalwart group to run for their lives.

Diana Yazzie-Devine, president of Native American Connections, knew that many Native Americans struggle with obesity. So, she decided to form Native Fit, a running group for Native Americans. The group meets at 5:30 Saturday mornings at Tempe Marketplace for a one-hour run. During the rest of the week, the group splits into smaller pockets based on proximity to runners' homes.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, American Indian adults are twice as likely as White adults to be diagnosed with heart disease. American Indian women are 40 percent more likely than White women to be obese. And American Indian adults are twice as likely as White adults to be diagnosed with diabetes.

"We won't be able to change the statistics immediately. But we're trying to spread awareness and influence personal choice. And somewhere down the line, things will change," said Yazzie-Devine, who is also the group's trainer and a veteran runner. In 2010, Yazzie-Devine completed Ironman Arizona, a grueling cross-country race that comprises 2 miles of swimming, 112 miles of biking and 26 miles of running.

Among the runners in Native Fit is Loretta Salazar, who was addicted to meth for 23 years. Now 40 years old, she joined Native American Connections' treatment program in Phoenix and got help physically and mentally.

She joined Native Fit as a way to lose weight, and she liked it so much she signed up for a half-marathon.

Like Salazar, most of the people in the group had never run before. Sheryl Caponera, director of grants and administration for Native American Connections, lost 65 pounds after joining Native Fit.

"I've struggled with weight my whole life. I'm addicted to food," Caponera said. "I walk. But I complete the distance."

She admits the weight loss was not a result of just walking.

"Getting physically active demanded a change in lifestyle. In order to be able to build the stamina and endurance needed to complete the walks, I started doing yoga and joined a gym," Caponera said.

Five months after training with the group, Caponera was able to stop taking her heart medication.

Jordanna Burkett Crist, who works as a counselor at Native American Connections, had developed achalasia, a disorder that affects the ability to swallow food, after her pregnancy.

"After I joined Native Fit, I find that I can swallow fresh fruits and vegetables, which I couldn't before. I also sleep better," Crist said.

Crist, 32, was a runner in her teens and early 20s. She said that she came from a family of alcoholics and that running was her retreat from the violence at home. She stopped running when she was 25, for no particular reason. She started again in August last year. Crist says that waking up in the morning for a run is still one of the hardest parts for her.

"It's easy to roll over and go back to sleep," Crist said. "What gets me out of bed is the positive social pressure of being part of the group. And also my grandmother, one of the few of my family members who was clean, used to say, 'If you run in the morning, you're first for a blessing.'"

For most people in Native Fit, who were non-runners before, transitioning wasn't easy.

"Did I mention that I lost six toenails?" asked Sandra Blosch, 51, a runner with the group.

Yazzie-Devine, the group's leader, said many in the group suffered from overuse injuries at the start, and often, they did not have good running shoes.

Being in the group required more than different shoes. A change in mind-set was needed, as well.

"I always associated people who exercised and kept fit as people with different aspirations in life. When I would see people biking and jogging in the morning, I associated them with being higher-class people. I thought exercise was only for the rich," Salazar said. "A few months ago, the realization struck me. I thought, 'Oh, my God, I'm a runner!' I was just like them."

Yazzie-Devine said, "Native Americans have a history of health diseases because of the rapid rate at which they had to adjust to modern lifestyles. It's a group that especially needs to get fitness conscious, and we hope to be an inspiration."

"Now, our group isn't limited to Native Americans," Yazzie-Devine added. "Just last month, we picked up a tall, White gentleman, and now he runs with us."

Returning the Gift Native Writers' Festival Comes to Milwaukee in September

In 1992, five hundred years after Columbus, more than 300 Native American writers gathered at the first Returning the Gift Festival held at the University of Oklahoma in Norman. The five-day festival brought more Native writers together in one place than at any other point in history. This year, the 20th Anniversary Returning the Gift Festival planned in Milwaukee September 4th through the 9th will again gather Indigenous writers from throughout the Americas at various venues in the city. Using the Ojibwe word from which it is believed Milwaukee took its name, ominowakiing (usually translated as "gathering place by the water"), organizers have tagged the historic event A Gathering of Words at the Gathering of the Waters.

Featuring as headliners internationally known Native writers Joy Harjo (Muskogee) and Joe Bruchac (Abenaki), Returning the Gift (RTG) will include two days of conference programming, evening performances, and a full schedule of events featuring Native writers throughout Milwaukee's 25th Annual Indian Summer Festival at the lakefront.

RTG will kick off with a 6 p.m. reception and "open-mic/mixed bag" reading September 4th hosted by Milwaukee Area Technical College (MATC). Featured performer at this event will be Abenaki writer, storyteller, and musician Joe Bruchac. Two days of traditional conference activities including a keynote presentation by Bruchac, plenaries, workshops, and publishing panels, and will follow September 5th and 6th at the Hefter Conference Center of the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee. Among the special events planned is an "Outdoor Skills" class with James Bruchac followed by a "Writing from Nature" workshop. Other noted writers scheduled for presentations include poets Heid Erdrich (Turtle Mountain Ojibwe), Denise Low (Delaware and former Kansas poet laureate), and Janet McAdams (Creek and editor of Salt Publishing's Earth Works series). Jesse Bruchac, storyteller, musician, and Abenaki language specialist, will offer workshops both days, and there will also be book sales and opportunities for individual manuscript evaluation.

A Gathering of Words
AT THE GATHERING OF WATERS

Special evening performances are planned for both evenings of the conference. Wednesday, September 5th at 7 p.m., Woodland Pattern Book Center will host a joint reading by Joy Harjo and Joe Bruchac. Featured at this event will be Harjo's newly released autobiography Crazy Brave and Bruchac's memoir At the Edge of Ridge Road, which is a part of Milkweed's Credo series. Thursday's conference events will culminate in a poetry and music performance by Harjo, hosted by Marquette University in the Weasler Auditorium at 7 p.m.

September 7th through 9th, RTG will move to the lakefront and become a part of Milwaukee's Indian Summer festival. This spectacular festival annually attracts 50,000 people over the three days. It includes music performances, a contest pow-wow, traditional villages from Wisconsin tribes such as Menominee, Oneida and Ojibwe; the ISMA Music Awards, lacrosse demonstrations, an artists' circle, traditional craft demonstrations, vendors, food, children's activities, fireworks, and much more. Performances run simultaneously on three large stages and other smaller stages and tented venues feature a wide range of events from fire dancers to puppeteers.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., during Friday's Education Day, Native writers will work with or perform for youth from Milwaukee schools. Friday evening a planned conference awards banquet will include Wordcraft Circle awards in various genres as well as the presentation of the Lifetime Achievement Award by the Native Writers' Circle of the Americas to Choctow scholar and writer LeAnne Howe. Friday will also feature music by Joe Bruchac and The Dawnland Singers.

Beginning Friday afternoon, Returning the Gift will have its own tented facility on the Indian Summer grounds, including a space for book sales and a stage area for ongoing performances. For the remainder of the weekend, RTG participants will offer readings, theater performances, music, storytelling, and other artistic performances, host book signings, and generally celebrate the Native arts. Among the highlights will be a Saturday evening performance (6 p.m.) by Joy Harjo on the Miller Stage to open the Indian Summer Music Awards (ISMA). Another high visibility event will be a competitive poetry slam being planned by Wordcraft Circle of Native Writers and Storytellers.

The first Returning the Gift in Oklahoma was a seminal event in contemporary American Indian literary history, and RTG remains important for the support it gives to emerging American Indian writers, the community it cultivates, and the presence it builds for American Indian literature. This year Native writers will again come together for this wonderful celebration of Indigenous arts: a Gathering of Words, at Milwaukee — the Gathering of Waters.

Wis. DNR reserves 85 wolves for Chippewa tribes

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The state Department of Natural Resources has rejected a claim by Wisconsin's Chippewa tribes that they can legally protect all wolves in the northern part of the state from hunting this winter.

The Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission argued Wisconsin tribes have treaty rights that allow them to lay claim on all wolves in the ceded territory, a swath of northern Wisconsin the tribes gave to the government more than a century ago. But DNR Secretary Cathy Stepp told the commission the tribes have the right to only half the wolves the department will let hunters kill in the territory.

"We respectfully disagree with the tribal claim to 'all wolves in the Wisconsin ceded territory,'" Stepp said in letter Wednesday to the commission's leader, Jim Zorn. "We also respectfully disagree that the tribes' reserved rights include the ability to 'claim' a harvestable natural resource, including wolves, to prevent its harvest."

Sue Erickson, a spokeswoman for the commission, said the group planned to discuss Stepp's letter at a meeting on Sept. 6.

"We haven't formulated a response yet," she said.

President Barack Obama's administration removed wolves in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin from the endangered species list in January. Gov. Scott Walker signed a bill in April establishing a hunt after farmers complained bitterly about wolves preying on livestock. The DNR estimates as many as 880 wolves may roam the state, far above the agency's goal of 350.

The hunt is set to begin Oct. 15 and run through the end of February. The DNR will allow hunters to kill 201 wolves statewide and plans to issue 2,010 permits through a lottery system. As of Wednesday afternoon, the department had received about 11,000 applications.

But the wolf is a sacred animal in Chippewa culture, which teaches that the animal, known as ma'iingan, is a brother to the tribes.

Under treaties signed in the early 1800s, the state's six Chippewa tribes ceded 22,400 square miles across northern Wisconsin to the government. A federal court ruling in 1991 found the tribes have the right to harvest at least 50 percent of the quota for any animal hunted in that territory.

The DNR's wolf hunt regulations set the quota in the ceded territory at 167 animals; the agency has said the tribe has the right to 85 of them, a little more than half of the quota.

Last week, Zorn sent a letter to Stepp saying a commission task force that deals with hunting rights passed a motion opposing killing any wolves and laying claim to all the wolves in the ceded territory.

"The Tribes' goal is for all suitable wolf habitat to be fully occupied, thus enabling wolves to perform their appropriate ecological and cultural function on the landscape," Zorn wrote.

"The State does not have unfettered discretion to exercise its management prerogatives to the detriment of the Tribes' treaty reserved rights," he wrote. "It proceeds at its own risk if it moves forward with its current harvest scheme, which will drive down the population and diminish the Tribes' right to the presence and function of ma'iingan on the landscape."

Stepp replied that she understands a wolf hunt presents a difficult situation for tribal members, but she contended the treaties give the tribes harvest rights, not preservation rights. She said the DNR would follow the treaty and reserve 85 wolves for tribal hunting, but anything more would infringe on the state's responsibility to manage the animals.

McLester speaks about his position at Mohawk College

Ron McLester currently serves as the Special adviser to the vice president of student services; and manager of aboriginal education & student services at Mohawk College in Ontario, Canada.

Job description: I play a leadership role in the development of various programs and support services that are respectful and responsive to the needs of all Aboriginal, First Nation, Inuit and Metis learners. I work closely with college administration, faculty and professional staff of various internal and external partners in order to ensure successful delivery of programs, support services and student success initiatives.

Is this the job you thought you'd be doing? When I first moved to Canada from Oneida, Wisconsin, at the age of 21, I thought I would be working for the FBI in the Behavioural Science Unit after graduation. Until that time, the FBI was a lifetime goal. I have known since 2005 that my heart is in education. My mom says that's because I have always liked to hear myself talk.

Advice to others on launching a career: I'd like to address Aboriginal youth specifically. First, we know that Aboriginal students do not lack ability. We can do anything we put our minds to. Sometimes what we do lack is self-esteem and/or self-confidence. Role models are important for youth and young professionals. Most importantly, find yourself a mentor. Find someone who can help you see that anything is possible with a good mind and hard work. I thank my parents for that. Last, when you find people who make you feel small, find a reason to grow big. You are our future and I, for one, trust that we are in good hands. The need for education cannot be underestimated.

Roots: I am a transplant. Strangely enough, I am classified as a "landed immigrant" here. Did I mention I am First Nation? I am Oneida of Six Nations and yet, in our traditional territory, the government here calls me an immigrant. I live and work in Hamilton, because of Mohawk College, Six Nations of the Grand River and McMaster University.

Facebook status: Believe it or not, I have never signed up.

Twitter handle: Not a fan.

iPhone, Android or BB? Blackberry for now. Once the iPhone 5 comes out, I am jumping ship.

Recent Tweet or FB update: A Tweet? Isn't that something Barbara Walters gives her dog?

Networks: Hamilton Centre for Civic Inclusion, McMaster Presidents Committee on Indigenous Issues, Mohawk College Aboriginal Education Council, Indigenous Peoples Education Circle and Six Nations Polytechnic board of directors

Favourite restaurant in the downtown: That's a hard choice …. I would have to say the Harbour Diner or Mex-I-Can Best feature of life in Hamilton: Absolutely, our environment. People always talk about the steel. For me, my favourite part is all the trees.

What would make Hamilton a better city? Light rail transit. I would love to see more support for the LRT project.

Contacts:ron.mclester@mohawkcollege.ca

Quote: Our community is the source of our strength. The more a person recognizes the importance of the "we" and less of the "me," the better off all of creation will be.

Per Capita Payments

By Joyce A. Johnson
Oneida Elder Abuse
Prevention Coordinator

Per Capita payment time is right around the corner for all enrolled Oneida Tribal members. This can be both beneficial as well as, harmful for many of our community elders. These funds are used to purchase many of the items that may not be affordable throughout the rest of the year.

On the upside, things such as clothing, appliances, furniture, and car repairs can be purchased with the money. However, on the down side, relatives, friends, and acquaintances may use this as an opportunity to borrow money from the elders, with promises to repay the loan and many times, repayment is not made and the elder has just given away money they may not ever be able to collect…

The elders that lend money trust that they will be repaid. Imagine the disappointment they must feel when they realize what has happened. Because of non-repayment they will be unable to repay the bills they wanted to pay or purchase the things that they looked forward to having.

In most cases all enrolled Tribal members are eligible for Per Capita payments and we all receive them at the same time. Please do not approach our elders for money at any time. Our elders are mostly surviving on fixed incomes and at times can barely meet their own personal expenses.

Let's all make a concerted effort to respect our elders and realize that we will all be in their shoes someday. We are a Tribe whose cultural values include respect for our elders. We should all remember this during Per Capita season as well.

Grab Bars Are Helpful For People Of All Abilities

By Justine Hill
Oneida Elder Services
Maintenance Supervisor

Installing a grab bar is an inexpensive way to make your bathroom safer.

There is always room to install grab bars in the bathroom. People of all ages and abilities benefit from using grab bars.

Where to Install? - Grab bars should be installed in the bathtub, shower, and near the toilet.

Will It Hold You? - A grab bar won't be much use if it doesn't hold you up when you need it most. Don't buy a bar unless it will hold up to 250lbs. that is obtained by adding your weight and the force you apply to the bar. To properly install a grab bar it must be screwed into a wall studs or to blocking in your walls.

Can You Grab It Easily? - Your grab bar should have a diameter that is 1¼ inches to 1½ inches.

Many bathtub and toilet safety bars aren't designed to support a heavy weight and don't meet safety codes for people with disabilities. Consider those products strictly to assist, do not use them to support your weight.

Our Home Repair Coordinator will install your grab bars for you. Simply call our Service Coordinator who will put in a work request at 869-2448.

Two confirmed cases of H3N2v Swine flu in Wisconsin

Written by Michelle Myers
Community Health Nursing Supervisor

Swine (Pig) influenza viruses do not normally infect humans. However, it can and does occur. Over the past year, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has noted sporadic human infections with influenza viruses that normally circulate in swine and not people.

Most commonly, human infections with variant viruses occur in people with exposure to infected pigs. This is thought to happen mainly when an infected pig coughs or sneezes and droplets with influenza virus in them spread through the air. If these droplets land in your nose or mouth, or are inhaled, you can be infected. There also is some evidence that you might get infected by touching something that has virus on it and then touching your own mouth or nose. A third way to possibly get infected is to inhale dust containing influenza virus. Scientists aren't really sure which of these ways of spread is the most common. Swine influenza has not been shown to be transmissible to people through eating properly handled and prepared pork (pig meat) or other products derived from pigs. While there is no evidence at this time that sustained human-to-human transmission is occurring, all influenza viruses have the capacity to change and it's possible that this virus may become widespread.

So far, the severity of illnesses associated with this virus in people has been similar to the severity of illnesses associated with seasonal flu virus infections. Flu signs and symptoms usually include fever and respiratory symptoms, such as cough and runny nose, and possibly other symptoms, such as body aches, nausea, vomiting, or diarrhea. Limited serologic studies indicate that adults may have some pre-existing immunity to this virus while children do not. CDC is closely monitoring human infections with all novel influenza viruses, including H3N2v viruses, and will provide more information as it becomes available.

How can you protect yourself?

Take Action to Prevent Influenza Virus Spread Between People

- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. (Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it.)
- Wash your hands often with soap and water, especially after you cough or sneeze. If soap and water are not available, an alcohol-based hand rub may be used.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs spread that way.
- Try to avoid close contact with sick people.
- If you are sick, stay home from work or school until your illness is over.

Take Action to Prevent the Spread of Flu Viruses Between People and Pigs

- Wash your hands frequently with soap and running water before and after exposure to animals.
- Never eat, drink or put things in your mouth in animal areas.
- Children younger than 5 years, people 65 years and older, pregnant women, and people with certain chronic medical conditions (like asthma, diabetes, heart disease, weakened immune systems, and neurological or neurodevelopmental conditions) are at high risk from serious complications if they get influenza. These people should consider avoiding exposure to pigs and swine barns this summer, especially if sick pigs have been identified.
- If you have animals – including swine – watch them for signs of illness and call a veterinarian if you suspect they might be sick.
- Avoid close contact with animals that look or act ill, when possible, and
- Avoid contact with pigs if you are experiencing flu-like symptoms.

For those that become ill with influenza like illness and seek treatment, be sure to let your doctor know if you have been exposed to pigs. Examples of exposure to pigs could include farm workers, but also petting zoos and visits to the summer fair grounds.

Immunizations give kids a healthy start to the school year

Pertussis Vaccination is Critical in Light of State Outbreak

MADISON—State health officials are encouraging parents to put vaccinations at the top of their children's back-to-school lists. While Wisconsin traditionally has high compliance rates with childhood immunization requirements, this year's pertussis (whooping cough) outbreak makes getting this vaccine especially important.

"Immunizations are key to ensuring a healthy start to the school year, for your child and for their classmates," said Dr. Henry Anderson, State Health Officer. "Following age-appropriate vaccination guidelines will help keep them healthy and in school rather than sick at home with an illness that could have been prevented."

With the widespread outbreak of more than 3,700 pertussis cases in Wisconsin this year, parents are urged to make sure children are vaccinated against the disease. For middle and high school students, state requirements include a dose of the tetanus, diphtheria, acellular pertussis vaccine (Tdap). Most children will also need to meet the requirement for a second dose of varicella vaccine to prevent chicken pox, which is being phased in. Parents are encouraged to check with their children's schools to confirm whether their children need the second dose.

The seasonal influenza vaccine is already available in many Wisconsin communities and the recommended target group is everyone age six months and older. This year's seasonal vaccine again includes immunization against the H1N1 virus.

Vaccinations are recommended not only for children entering grades K-12, but also for college students, particularly freshmen living in dormitories. These students should be immunized against meningitis and hepatitis B.

Parents and caregivers with insurance are encouraged to schedule their children's immunizations with their family's physician. Also, parents should keep track of each immunization children receive, and can review these records in the Wisconsin Immunization Registry (WIR): http://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/immunization/publicAccess.htm. Health care providers can also assist parents to access these records.

Volleyball returns to high school lineup

The Oneida Nation High School girls volleyball program took steps backward the past few seasons, with the program cancelled due to the lack of personnel needed to form a team. But with a new coaching staff and a dedicated group of players the Lady Thunderhawks look to rebuild Oneida volleyball.

To resurrect the program, Kayla Osterberg was brought in as head coach. Osterberg has much to offer as a head coach, offering not only experience as a player and coach, but also familiarity with Oneida volleyball.

"I played high school ball, I played club ball, and I also did some intramurals in college. But since then I've been coaching. Last year was my first year of head coaching middle school but I have coached with my mom who used to coach the middle school here in Oneida for about six years," Osterberg said.

Osterberg learned the sport from her mother, who coached volleyball for 20 years, and has been playing since she was five years old. Her love of the game has driven her to become a volleyball coach.

"I always wanted to coach at the high school level. I used to coach at the middle school level but I just wanted that higher level of intensity," Osterberg said.

Jamie Betters is also serving as assistant coach, giving Osterberg the needed support to manage the squad.

Right now the team features a roster of seven ladies, all with varying levels of volleyball experience.

"It's great the girls are dedicated; I mean they want to be here," Osterberg added.

Among those dedicated seven is lone senior Noelle Metoxen who is one of the few who played volleyball for the Lady Thunderhawks the last time it was offered.

"Being a senior I am excited for sports especially just because this is the last time to play. Sophomore year I played volleyball which was the last time we had a team so I was excited when we got the chance to play again," said Metoxen.

When asked to compare this season to her last season Metoxen couldn't help but notice the improved level of commitment and excitement surrounding the season.

"When I played sophomore year it seemed like (volleyball) wasn't important to anyone. Now we have two coaches and some excitement about the season," said Metoxen.

After a couple full weeks of practice it has become clear that some of the girls have hidden volleyball talent, sparking some optimism for the future of the volleyball program.

"My goal this year is to help build the program to where it used to be so that there is a strong team for future players, like the basketball team is now. And just to have fun and enjoy this last season," Metoxen said.

But Coach Osterberg wants to take the program one step at a time, understanding that small successful steps today will lead to a stronger program in the future.

"Our biggest goal is just to improve, hopefully by the end of the year we'll be significantly improved. Then carry that momentum into next year. This is kind of like a rebuilding year. Getting the girls back into volleyball form and playing a little catch up to other schools, and winning as many games as we can along the way," Osterberg said.

The Lady Thunderhawks opened their season with a tournament at Southern Door High School on August 21. The team will play its first game at home on Thursday, September 27 against Stockbridge.

Heat, lack of water lead to death of buffalo

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

An accidental or intended action lead to the death of 22 buffalo at the buffalo pasture on Cooper Road in Oneida.

On Tuesday, September 4 staff at the Oneida Farm were informed of dead buffalo and discovered the water supply to the herd was shut off sometime over the Labor Day weekend.

A veterinarian confirmed all of the deaths were due to dehydration. 18 were discovered Tuesday while four more were found Wednesday.

The last visit by staff to the pasture was Thursday, August 30. According to farm staff, tame buffalo held in captivity can go about four days without water while wild buffalo can survive seven to 10 days.

The deaths took place in the west pasture, which is used for reproduction and growth of the herd.

The grass fed herd is used as a tourist attraction along with producing buffalo meat for sale. It has roughly 150 head.

An investigation is underway to determine if the turned off water supply was an accident or intentional.

An update will be provided in an upcoming Kalihwisaks issue.

Oneida Tribal programs, along with those who live with diabetes, gathered in the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center on Wednesday, August 29, 2012.

The event was the annual Diabetes Dinner coordinated by the Diabetes Clinic at the Oneida Health Center. Various Oneida entities, such as the Oneida Health Center, Oneida Family Fitness Center, TRIAD program (Taking Responsibility In Addressing Diabetes), and many others, send representatives who give information, guidance, or health based alternatives based on diabetic needs.

After the information session is over guest speakers and a community panel are presented and offer further information and advice about diabetes.

Betty Schwantes, Diabetes Educator at the Diabetes Clinic at the Oneida Health Center, couldn't help but notice how the event has grown over the years.

"This is an event that we have been coordinating for the last 16 years. It has grown every year. The first year we held the event we had about 30 people and every year it continued to get bigger and bigger. We started having sold out events. Last year we had 400 attendees and sold out so we upped it to 450 and we still sold out," Schwantes said.

The strong turnout has made the event into a yearly highlight for many involved with the dinner. The event serves as a testament to show that the Oneida community is very involved in getting to know about diabetes and is taking steps toward preventing it.

Charlene H. Smith of Milwaukee last attended the Diabetes Dinner four years ago and couldn't help but notice the improvement.

"It certainly has changed since the last time I was here. It's bigger and better in that the displays and booths are very helpful and it's always good to get information and stay updated. Being diabetic this event most definitely helps, just knowing how to live with diabetes, how to exercise, how to eat, and just living a full life," said Smith.

The latest trend seen in diabetes is a movement

New NFL policy allows gaming ads

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

New NFL stadium advertising rules will increase the visibility of the tribe at Lambeau Field this coming season.

During the spring NFL Owners Meetings teams were granted the authority to allow casino advertising in limited locations throughout the stadium and game day activities such as programs and local radio broadcasts.

Prior policies limited gaming advertising as the NFL looked to keep sports betting at an arm's length and not affiliated with the game.

"The previous NFL policy did not allow clubs to have any advertising with casinos and other state-licensed gambling related establishments. It is now permissible, for clubs to have limited advertising with casinos and other state-licensed gambling establishments, as long as they do not have a sports book," said Craig Benzel, Packers Director of Marketing and Corporate Sales

The new policy will reviewed by the league after

Decisions to be made at GTC Budget Meeting

The Kalihwisaks gave members of the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and community an opportunity to comment on the Fiscal year 2013 Budget ahead of the General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting being held Monday, September 17. Here are the responses.

Chief Financial Officer Mr. Larry Barton

The proposed Fiscal Year 2013 Budget has been adopted by the Oneida Business Committee and is ready for presentation to the General Tribal Council for consideration. After months of Budget Meetings and revisions, the proposed Fiscal Year 2013 Budget will be presented to General Tribal Council on September 17th 2012. The total requested initial amount of this years' budget has been reduced by approximately $24 million dollars. The reductions were necessary to present a balanced Budget for 2013' to the Tribal Membership. The proposed reductions were very challenging to consider and represent sacrifice at many levels in the community. Importantly, the proposed budget maintains current employment, General Tribal Council mandates and continuation of essential services. Further, the proposed Fiscal Year 2013 budget attempts to further strengthen the Oneida Tribe financially by incrementally reducing debt service obligations and building the contingency fund for financial emergencies. Importantly, the overall economy continues to struggle toward recovery slowly. This circumstance combined with an expectation that Federal Grant Dollars will diminish, requires continuation of careful allocation of reduced resources. Austerity measures are here for the indefinite. The organization and community has and ideally will continue to adapt to the current economic climate and resultant financial pressures. The Finance area will continue to strive toward two seasons and requires limited advertising language.

"We believe this a well thought-out rule change by the NFL. In addition to no sports book relationships, all advertising with casinos or other state licensed gambling related establishments must have an audience reasonably anticipated to be composed of mostly individuals 21 years of age or older and include a prominent responsible gambling message," said Benzel.

The Oneida Casino will utilize this new policy and is excited for the opportunities the new advertising platform creates. Signage was in place for the Packers' first preseason game on August 16.

"Internal sign messaging will allow for cross marketing opportunities with our website and social media and allow Oneida Casino to bring awareness to casino offerings pre and post game," said Mike Overman, Director of the Gaming Marketing Department. "45 percent of Packer game attendees fall into the 45-plus age demographic. This group accounts for the majority of Oneida Casino revenues annually."

The two-year agreement will include signage in concourses and Atrium area along with a full-page ad in the game day program. It also guarantees the casino will have exclusivity meaning no other casinos will have advertising during the contract.

A relationship between the Packers and Oneida Tribe already exists as multiple advertisements can be seen throughout the stadium on game days along with the Oneida Nation gate.

"(The) agreement solidifies Oneida Casino's relationship with the most admired franchise in the NFL. This adds integrity," said Overman.

"Since we have had a long-term partnership with Oneida Nation, the new NFL rules are allowing us to work closer with the Nation and casino. We are able to continue our work together in the community, as well as offer new opportunities to promote one of northeast Wisconsin's major destinations," added Benzel.

Youth go fishing with cops

Cops and Bobbers is a community event geared towards youth ages 8-12 years old. The program gives youth an opportunity to go fishing with Oneida Police Officers and create some good memories together. In past years the group has gone to Shawano Lake to fish, but this year we went to the Oneida Lake. The day consists of going out to breakfast, fishing, and then out for ice cream. Not only do the kids enjoy this event, but the officers enjoy it also and gives them a chance to create some good relationships with our kids.

Officers that participated are: Sergeant Joel Maxam, Officer Larry Jordan, Officer Jack Mehojah, Officer Brandon Vandehei, and Community Resource Officer Matthew Ninham.

Debby graduated from West De Pere High School in 1974. After graduation she moved to Chicago where she worked as a switchboard operator for the Brynmawr Hotel.

She later moved back to Oneida and in 1995 she moved to the Crandon area. Deb was a very opinionated person; she enjoyed reading, movies, collecting Avon but especially enjoyed the time she spent with her godchildren.

She is survived by her sisters: Kate Calkins, Oneida; Beas Daniels, Crandon; Toni Whittaker, Chicago, IL; Roxanne Katers, Oneida; Robin Soldier, Green Bay; Jackie Carter, Tennessee; and Eldora Stevens-Saldona, Green Bay; and brothers: Buck Stevens, Oneida; Pork Stevens, Green Bay; Stein Stevens, Green Bay; Jimmy Stevens, Oneida; Warren "Barney" Stevens, Oneida; Quinton "Caveman" Stevens, Oneida; and Ray Stevens, Oneida

She is further survived by numerous nieces and nephews, and was preceded in death by her son, Dana Lee Hatfield and her parents, Buck & Geri Stevens.

Honoring her wishes, private graveside services will be held.

Weber-Hill Funeral Home and Cremation Services, 302 S. Lake Avenue, Crandon, assisted the family with arrangements.

Williams, Mary Louise
September 27, 1954 – August 22, 2012

We let her go, our sister, our auntie and wife of Steve Love, Mary Louise Williams. She was born September 27, 1954 in Ypsilanti, MI and passed away August 22, 2012, losing the battle with cancer in Frederic, MI.

Teyakoshnyehe was the Oneida name given to her by family. It means 'she looks after them'. She belonged to the Turtle Clan and the Oneida Nation.

She was daughter to Peter L. and Belle Mae (Doxtator) Williams and granddaughter to Chauncey and Emma Jane (King) Doxtator (maternal grandparents) & Louie and Minnie (Skenandore) Williams (paternal grandparents) all from Oneida, WI.

She was an excellent athlete and won the Presidential Award for Fitness many times while growing up.

She graduated from Brighton High School in Brighton, MI. On September 27, 1976 she was wed to Steve Love of Brighton, MI and is survived by him. They spent 36 years together. Mary was a faithful Detroit Tiger and Lion fan. She enjoyed betting against the Pack with her brother and sisters who live in Green Bay. She loved to be in the woods and used to pick mushrooms every year with her husband Steve. She and Steve never had children. They used to say it was because they had so many nieces and nephews to take care of and they did. She took care of children and elders her whole life. She made it easier for some of them to get along in life and to that we are very grateful. She was quick smile with a wide grin and had a great sense of humor.

She is also survived by 6 brothers and sisters: Lambert Williams (LosLunas, NM); Louis&Amy Fischer-Williams (Oneida, WI); Victrietta (Williams)&Harvey Hensley (Oneida, WI); LindaWilliams (Hayward, CA); Rose (Williams) Cordova (Oneida, WI); Crystal (Williams)&Steve Banker (Howell, MI)

Mary was preceded in death by her parents and one sister Fern (Williams) Dunham.

She has many nieces and nephews that considered her home their own at times while growing up and she was a beloved auntie that took care of her family not matter what the situation. She will be missed but is now in a better place without pain.

Each morning when we awake
we know that you are gone.
And no one knows the heartache
As we try to carry on.
Our hearts still ache with sadness and many tears still flow.
What it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
Our thoughts are always with you,
your place no one can fill.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we love you still.
There will always be a heartache,
and often a silent tear,
But always a precious memory
Of the days when you were here.
If tears could make a staircase,
And heartaches make a lane,
We'd walk the path to heaven
And bring you home again.
We hold you close within our hearts,
And there you will remain,
To walk with us throughout our lives
Until we meet again.
Our family chain is broken now,

But as God calls us one by one,
The chain will link again.

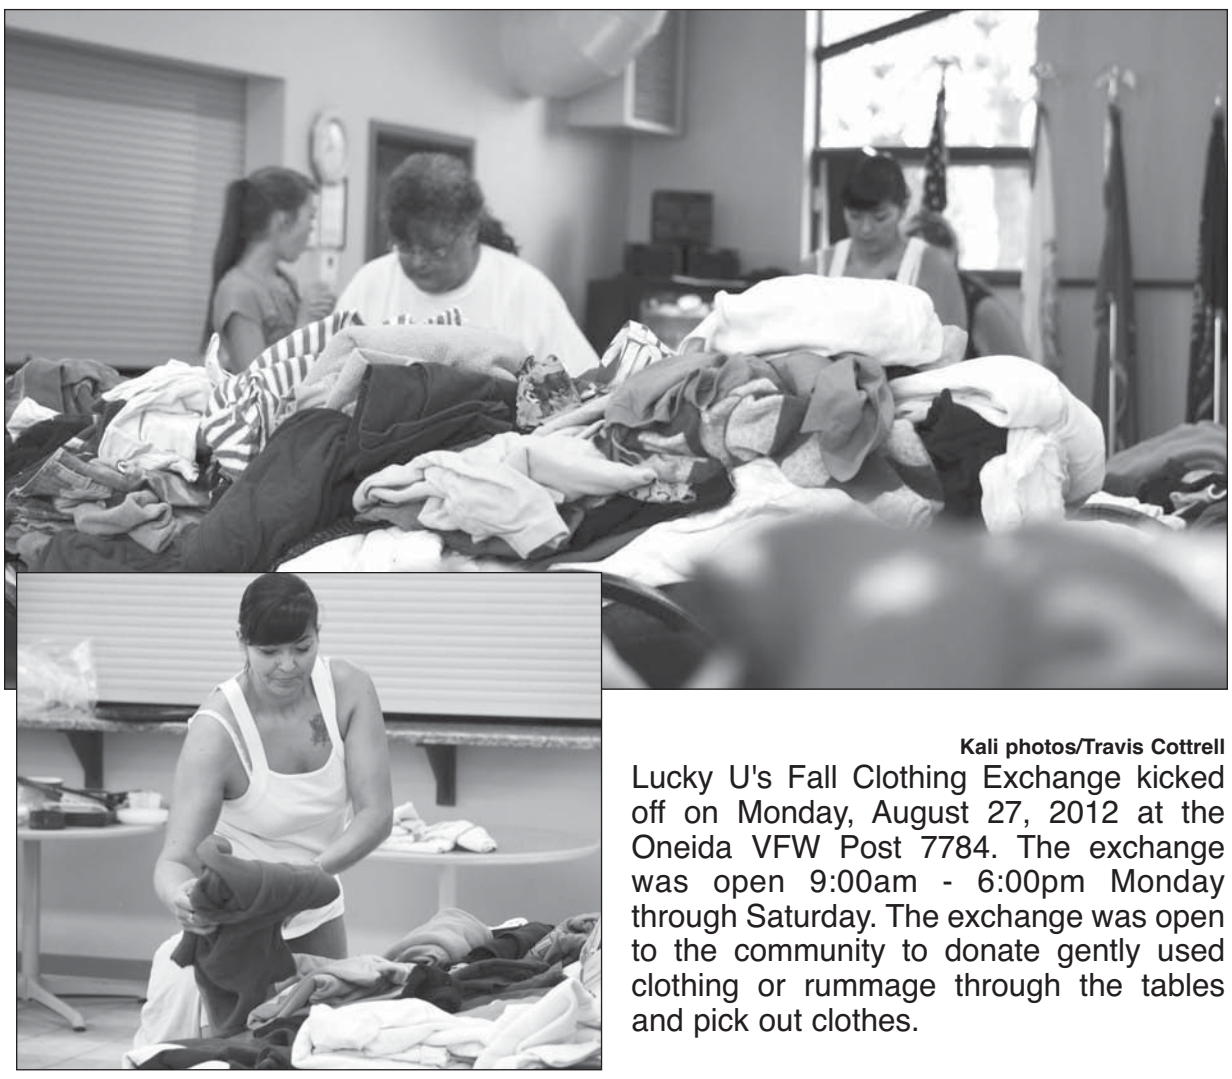
Fall Clothing Exchange utilizes Oneida VFW



Kali photos/Travis Cottrell

Lucky U's Fall Clothing Exchange kicked off on Monday, August 27, 2012 at the Oneida VFW Post 7784. The exchange was open 9:00am - 6:00pm Monday through Saturday. The exchange was open to the community to donate gently used clothing or rummage through the tables and pick out clothes.

From 1A/Budget: OBC offer opinions, thoughts

guiding the community toward financial sustainability strategies now and in the future. Thank You.

OBC Councilman David Jordan

I am in support of this year's budget. Every budget meeting I attended with directors and managers, I feel they had a good handle on their day-to-day expenses and made necessary cuts whenever possible. However, this should not be a status quo budget. We should be working to decrease our spending and saving money within our budget at every opportunity we can get. We need to be able to sustain our Tribe in the years to come and if we don't curtail our spending, we may not be able to afford our members' future services.

OBC Treasurer Cristina Danforth

The 2013 Budget development process began in February of this year. A directive from my office was given to set the parameters for funding the operations and provided technical assistance for the utilization of standardized-forms and procedures. The budget allocation was derived from Fiscal Year 2011 audited financials. A set aside is also determined to meet General Tribal Council directives and mandates. In June and July meetings were scheduled to allow the Oneida Business Committee to dialogue with tribal departments on their budget requests. When these sessions were concluded we had an $8.9 million shortfall. As a result of the shortfall the finance team met with the BC to direct further cuts and reduction of operational expense. Items reduced were; CIP project costs, reduction in Educational fund, 10% reduction in supply expense, reduced overtime expense, reduced capital contributions to Oneida Golf Enterprise, finance donation line reduction, decrease in tribal contribution of health insurance and increase in revenue from enterprises and a reduction of technology projects. All of these items allowed for the development of a balanced budget that was then forward to the GTC. The budget development task requires a lot of staff time and cooperation from everyone who is impacted by our financial obligations and as beneficiaries.

OBC Councilman Vince DelaRosa

The tribal budget process has been challenging over the last year. We have a built in structural deficit which needs some level of managing. We are at a crossroads here, it's something we need to think about. For example, economic diversification is critical for our success, but to pursue this path, other things need to go. As we see a leveling out of our resources to support a large employment base over the next few years, we have to try and grow top end revenues. We either have to grow revenue or look at more serious measures to cut expenses. Sadly, we are heading into deep and choppy waters without strategic long and short term plans to grow through economic diversification. Over the next 14 months, if we fail to grow revenue, there will be little options left but to start more drastic measures to balance future budgets with the trending rising expenses.

Contractor approved for church restoration

Dan Hawk
CRC Spokesperson

There are many good things to report.

On August 14th the Vestry unanimously came together and approved a contractor for restoring the bell tower. A down payment is scheduled to be released on August 24th with construction scheduled to start on September 1st. A survey of original Oneida quarry stone was completed and a plan to retrieve one pallet of sacred stone for construction will save Holy Apostles $1,200 in material costs.

There is some confusion in the community about church repair costs so I want to take a moment to address this. A total of $494,000 was requested to complete repairs and restoration of the outside of the church only. Unfortunately only $260,000 is made available. The shortfall is $234,000 which means the roof and west stone walls will not get repaired. The question the community needs to ask is when will the rest of the church be repaired?

Holy Apostles outreach is offering a Wednesday youth night which will include tutoring homework, art, and themed activities, 5:30pm to 8pm at the Parish Hall. If you would like to tutor or lead an activity please contact the Church Office at 920-869-2565.

Here are some ideas on saving Holy Apostles: 1) come to church and bring your children often, 2) consider giving $20 from your per capita payment, 3) Bring your family to a church dinner, 4) purchase a delicious apple pie from our fall pie bake sale. Please look for future events and join us – I leave you with this quote from our Presiding Bishop's plaque:

"Our people sought "The Word" and Queen Anne responded to their request. Through the Grace of God we thank our ancestors for providing us this holy ground and church to continue our spiritual journey in peace, harmony, and friendship."

Ongoing bi-monthly updates are provided and are not the opinion of the Kalihwisaks and/or it's publisher.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support Enforcement

Question: What happens when I don't pay my child support?
Answer:

The potential consequences of non-payment include:

- Having a lien placed on property
- State and federal tax return intercept
- Per capita intercept
- Seizure of bank accounts
- Suspension of recreational, occupational, and/or driver's licenses
- Intercept of certain types of lump-sum payments
- Contempt (which comes with its own set of consequences)

Question: What can I do if I have not been paying my child support?
Answer:

Contact the Agency at (920) 490-3700 – you will be directed to your caseworker who will talk with you about what can be done to get back on track. Your caseworker can provide you with job search forms to complete and return to the Agency if you are unemployed or underemployed; they can also talk with you about barriers you may be facing and refer you to various community agencies.

Depending on your situation, you can also talk to your caseworker about doing an Alternative Payment Plan or a Compliance Plan. An Alternative Payment Plan (AAP) is an agreement between the payer and the Agency which can contain a lump-sum payment or periodic payments in addition to the court-ordered child support payments. An AAP is usually done to halt an enforcement action, such as license suspension. A Compliance Plan is also an agreement between the payer and the Agency, but it is done to halt contempt.

The most important first step is to contact the Agency—we are here to help you.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

Sheku, Greetings

One important aspect of safeguarding assets is inventory control. We need to assure we have an ample supply of items but not be overstocked. In order to do this effectively, inventory controls should be in place in every department of the Tribe.

Tangible assets or things we can touch and see are the most common items we think of when we talk about inventory. Gaming should have an inventory of playing cards, slot machine parts, blank player cards, etc. DPW should have an inventory of tools, plumbing pipes, electrical outlets, etc. While other departments have an inventory of pens, pencils, paper, books, etc. All of these types of items are paid for by the Tribe. Even if the program is grant funded, the Tribe must ensure the items being purchased are allowable under the grant and are appropriate for the program.

For instance, if the Child Support Department needed to buy specific software to track payments received and payments issued, that would be an allowable expense. If they requested to purchase playing cards and dice, those would be considered inappropriate for that area.

To ensure we have the supplies we think we do, we must accurately record all items received and all items used. The simplest way to do this is to keep a log. If the school kitchen receives 20 lbs. of potatoes and 20 lbs. of flour, those items are logged in. If the menu for the week calls for use of 10 lbs. of potatoes and 5 lbs. of flour, the amounts used are recorded. At the end of the week, the log should show 10 lbs. of potatoes and 15 lbs. of flour available. This information is used when ordering for the next week.

Inventory control also deals with intangible assets such as human capital or employees. We except our employees are working their scheduled hours and to ensure they are, we have time clocks that record the time the employee starts and ends work. If the employee is scheduled for 40 hours per week but the time clock shows the employee only worked 35, the employee has the choice to fill those 5 missing hours with personal time or only get paid for 35.

In the case of salaried employees, the assumption is employees will work the scheduled 40 hours and more, not less. Specific positions are deemed salaried as a cost savings to the Tribe in not having to pay overtime.

Keeping accurate records is very important in every organization. At any time, the Audit and/or Accounting Department should be able to walk into any department and ask for their inventory records. The logs should be clear, concise, accurately completed and easy to read. Audit and/or Accounting should be able to take any log and compare it to the supplies on hand. If there are any discrepancies, they are noted and management is asked to explain the difference.

The whole idea behind inventory control is to accurately account for items while developing a benchmark for forecasting in the next budget cycle. If we know what we have and what we used, we can make an accurate guess as to what we need. Inventory control also assists in discouraging theft and fraud. If employees know everything is accounted for there should be less enticement to steal.

Like everything else in today's world, there are ways to alter records however, and that is what is most disturbing. A log can state we started with 15 items, received 10 more, used 12 and have 13 left. When the items are counted and 13 are found, the logs and inventory match so there is no need for investigation. The part that is missing is where did the 12 items we used go? Or the bigger question, did the 12 items go where the log states?

A similar question could be asked about time. Employees who use a time sheet to attend a two hour meeting write their beginning and ending times on the sheet. If the meeting only lasts one hour and ten minutes, the time sheet should reflect the actual meeting time. If the designated two hours is recorded instead of the actual time, this can be considered fraudulent record keeping and a violation of the Blue Book Policies and Procedures.

The same question needs to be posed to Boards, Committees, and Commissions who receive a stipend. Some have time minimums that need to be met while others are just paid according to time. Accurate records need to be kept by our Boards, Committees, and Commissions just as they are expected from our internal departments.

As we enter into a new budget cycle, these types of inventory control measures need to be implemented and documents need to be standardized throughout the Tribe. In some areas, changes will need to be made, in others, their current practices are appropriate. Accountability, planning, checks and balances are all necessary to assure we stay efficient and that is why all of these requirements are necessary.

As school begins and the construction on Hwy 54 continues, I hope we all take extra time to be cautious in and around our school zones as our kids may not be aware of the various detours. We need to look for them and they need to be conscious of us. I hope everyone's school year is safe, happy, healthy and successful.

Tina Danforth

Councilman

It is that time of year again where people begin to look forward to the changes of fall. There are many events that will be occurring in the area that are family friendly and free to the community. I encourage you to check out the Farmer's Market on Thursdays at their new (temporary) location near Tower Foods and Little Bear Development Center - just down the road from the prior location. Also, the Big Applefest will be Saturday, September 22nd at the Apple Orchard and Cultural Heritage locations. I look forward to seeing you there!

Housing

I have continued to advocate and pursue options and solutions to housing matters. My focus has been on changing the approach we have had to housing. We have to be more strategic in our response to housing issues, infrastructure, and economic development. Strategies for leveraging resources and coordinating efforts to better meet the needs of our communities now needs to be the focus of housing discussions. Housing options need to be improved through new housing start-ups in Oneida and elsewhere. The truth is it is time for us to leverage opportunities and seek partnerships to find the best solutions. We have to seek the best solutions and results.

Economic Diversification

Economic diversification is critical for our success. As we see a leveling out of our resources to support a large employment base over the next few years, we have to try and grow top end revenues. We either have to grow revenue or look at more serious measures to cut expenses. The simple reality is without strategic long and short term plans to grow through economic diversification there will be little option but to start more drastic measures to balance future budgets with the trending rising expenses.

We are looking at different model approaches which will involve partnerships and outside equity resources which can help address these matters.

Legislation

1) Election Law

The Election Law amendments are near completion and will soon be submitted to the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) for their review. Some of the substantial changes I am recommending are:

- Extending the appeal timeframe to 30 days from an election to allow sufficient time for candidates to appeal any portion of the election process which may have impacted the election results.
- Setting term limits for all elected offices. I am recommending a two term limit with a required one term break before being eligible for election to the same office.
- Reducing the timeframe of the primary. In general, I am not in favor of a Tribal primary but do realize the GTC has supported and approved the primary so therefore I am recommending some language to make this process run a bit more efficiently. My recommendation is to reduce the requirement for the primary caucus date from 90 days to 60 days.
- Decreasing the number of Business Committee candidates (non-officers) that will proceed after a primary. The current law allows for the top 15 primary candidates to proceed to the general election ballot. I am recommending that number be reduced to 10 primary candidates which is essentially two candidates per open seat. This change would be consistent with only the top two officer candidates moving on to the general election in the current law.
- Setting in law general guidelines for allowing election day observers and the removal of election day observers in cases of a violation of the law.
- Requiring chain of custody records to be maintained for important election equipment and supplies (ballots, voting memory cards, etc.).

2) Commerce Code

We are looking at various economic models which make sense and which are backed by reasoned approaches. This will take several months of preparation to complete. The idea of generating commerce and economic vitality on behalf of the people is much needed. The facts are we are approaching a sinking point, where the cost of running our current operations will soon eclipse our ability to afford all of this.

Part of my goal with this project is to use economic diversification and new commerce to stabilize our current operations and/or to supplement the bottom line of the tribe. The other goal with this project long-term will be to create a vibrant and thriving Oneida community. A place where there is a real desire to live for new families and a place where new industry and new exciting social opportunities exist.

I would also state the other obvious overarching point here is Oneida needs to start thinking hard about trying to generate new jobs. This is an important point; much of the work in this area should be geared around creating new jobs for our people. Leveraging our good points and enhancing opportunities for our people should be the focus.

3) Budget Management Act

Since June I have been requesting feedback regarding the components that the Finance area feels should be covered in a Budget Management Act. I want to gather input, ideas and concepts from the area that plays a significant and important role in our budget processes. Once I receive this feedback, I will have a starting point for preparing legislation that will streamline our budget processes and offer clear and consistent direction fiscal year to fiscal year.

4) Oneida Small Business Funding

I am calling for small business funding to be restored at Bay Bank using some of our compact funds which should be going back into funding the Oneida Small Business Project 2000 at Bay Bank.

As part of the request for funding I have submitted some amendments to the Oneida Small Business Project 2000 Policy for the LOC to consider. I am requesting the owner's contribution rate be increased to at least 18%. The current policy requires a 5% minimum owner's contribution. I am also requesting that the loan cap be lowered from $300,000 per individual, per project to $200,000.

5) Finance Committee By-laws

The Finance Committee (FC) is in the process of reviewing their bylaws. As a member of the FC I recommended the following changes earlier this month: adding the Treasurer to the membership of the Finance Committee; requiring only one other Business Committee member; and updating the language to eliminate references to the General Manager. I also wanted to create more of an appropriations approach to the FC, and have the FC serve as a more defined budget oversight committee.

I also think we need to look at what we're funding through the FC. The types of funding requests need to be locked in and spelled out to some level of detail to ensure consistency. I did send a memo over to the FC on some of these matters so maybe some of these recommendations may be viewed from a new perspective at some point.

In closing, I thank you for reading my report. I want to send a thank you out to my staffer Mrs. Cathy Bachhuber; she is an outstanding worker who really helps keep the office moving in the right direction. I would say, throughout this tribe there are so many outstanding employees. It is with these great employees and with harvesting good ideas we can make great strides here. The future is bright here in Oneida.

Chairman's Message Regarding Indian Health Care

The old Mormon Cemetery here on the Oneida Reservation contains the grave of Patricia Ann Delgado, my older sister. She was only ten-years-old when she passed in 1951. I can barely remember her, although I think of her often. She left this world because she got sick, probably from bad water. But the tragedy of my sister is not limited to her story or the story of my family. Throughout Indian Country in any graveyard on any Reservation, one can find the graves of many many Indian children. Ten-years-old is too young to die, no matter what race or what culture you may come from.

But in the 1950s, there were no resources for Indian health care; no resources for safe water; and no community development where safe water could be provided. The average life expectancy of an Indian in the 1950s was about 50 years, if that. It was as if the hundreds of Indian treaties which promised to care for Indian people in exchange for land had vanished as United States federal policy attempted to empty the Reservations one way or the other.

So what, some may say. But to those non-Indians who might not really care about the tragedies of our people, I say your babies were dying too, your life expectancy was not much higher than ours, and you too, more often than not, had no health care if you got sick. It wasn't really until the late 1960s and former President Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty, that health care started to improve for both Indian and non-Indian people. And for a long time both Democrats and Republicans worked together to improve the health conditions of all Americans.

The Oneida Tribe has always been pretty neutral in national politics. The Tribe takes no official stance on any political party. Democrats, we have many. And we have many Republicans too. Wisconsin Governor Walker has been there to support us on many issues, or at least there to listen, and that's important too, to at least listen. Republicans Reid Ribble and Tim Johnson, they too, I feel, are trying hard to serve the Indian and non-Indian populations in their districts. However, at the very top of that Republican ticket for the upcoming Presidential election is candidate Mitt Romney. Candidate Romney has promised to do away with what he calls "Obama Care." He must know that contained within President Obama's Health Care Plan is the Re-authorization of Indian Health Care. In other words, without Obama's Health Plan there will be no re-authorization of Indian Health Care, and the health of our beloved Indian people could be at risk. And that I could never support, and I would hope, that no other Indian would support it either. I encourage the Oneida people who might currently be considering supporting Mitt Romney for President, to write him and ask him why he would jeopardize the re-authorization of Indian Health Care in Indian Country. Tell him that the Indian nations do not want a return to a past when far too many of our children's lives were cut short simply because they got sick and adequate health care was not available. Then make your decision on which Presidential candidate you feel would best serve our people.

Chairman's Message Regarding Community Meetings

Our Oneida Constitution, adopted by our Oneida ancestors 76 years ago, starts out in part with "We, the people." It is evident to me that it's the people who form the basis of our Tribal nation under our Constitution. It's the elders who teach and provide guidance to our children who then carry on our legacy as Oneidas; it's the mothers and fathers who go to work every day and carry out their responsibilities to provide for their families, it's the casino workers and the Tribal program workers who provide the financial resources and services that the Tribe needs to serve the people; and it's the Oneida Business Committee who carry out the directives of the General Tribal Council who are "We the people." In August, the Oneida Business Committee voted to hold monthly community meetings on the first Saturday of every month. The purpose of the monthly community meetings will be to better serve the people of the Oneida Tribe by providing a monthly message or issue and will then provide the people the opportunity to discuss and comment on that message or issue, or other topics that might be of interest to the people. We have not yet established the place for these meetings, but food will be served, and all Business Committee members are expected to attend.

Chairman's Message Regarding Tribal Employment

With unemployment so high among our Oneida people, it has been for more than seven years now, my goal and message to our Tribal managers to increase the number of Oneidas who are employed by the Oneida Tribe. For seven years now, the goal is not being attained. The message, I guess, is not being heard and our Tribal people are paying the price by remaining unemployed. Recently, I received a communication from a Tribal mother who after witnessing her son being screened out time after time for a gaming position, wrote the following (portions deleted for conservancy of space):

"…My son and my friend's child applied for the same position. My friend's non-Oneida child was hired for the position and my son was not interviewed. My friend's child graduated from high school in June and was working at Gaming by late June/early July."

My Office has received many complaints from Tribal members who meet the qualifications, do not have criminal records, but are not even granted interviews at Gaming. This issue will be discussed soon by the Oneida Business Committee, but it surely appears something's not working.

Thanks for reading this message.

Sincerely,
Ed Delgado
Oneida Tribal Chairman

OBC Forum...

Shekólih,

On September 17th the General Tribal Council will be asked to approve the fiscal year 2013 (FY'13) budget. Many of you are aware that during a special BC meeting on August 14, 2012, I opposed approving the FY '13 budget and I entered a "for the record statement" which states " I certainly appreciate the work of the CFO and Asst. CFO in leading the BC through the budget process with goals of ensuring no lay offs and preservation of services to the membership. However, it is with regret that I oppose the budget due to the fact that this is a status quo budget and is not based on priorities by the leadership as a whole. Also, we wanted to be as transparent as possible, and yet the budget work meetings weren't posted as open meetings to our tribal membership and major decisions to cut were made at "work meetings". Some of our division directors were allowed to come to the BC and make cuts to departments that weren't fully communicated to and to date the departments still haven't been communicated the changes in their budget that may impact their area, which indicates to me that the departments may not be knowledgeable of a change in vision/direction their entity may be headed and have no input in to that vision and that is not transparency and not communication. I commend the work of the Business Committee and Finance to balance the budget, but just cannot support another status quo budget that is not based on nation priorities." Since this decision, I have received support of my decision through phone calls, emails and social media. Some of the encouragement also came with inquiries on the specifics of why I am opposing the upcoming budget. I have responded to each request for additional information and to ensure everyone has the same chance to have their questions answered. I am taking this time to share more details about why I voted to not support the FY '13 budget.

One of the main reasons I opposed the budget was that the current budget process no longer fits the needs of the Tribe and is not based on a strong vision and clear priorities. The budget process takes place every year and for many years, especially when there was money to spare, the current process utilized to balance the budget was an acceptable method to bring a balanced budget before the GTC. Here is a high-end overview of how the budget process works. First, the entire organization receives a request to submit all of the division's respective budgets and operational plans, usually with little to no guidance from the BC as a whole; then the budget requests are compiled and a projected dollar amount is provided to show what the division's needs are. When the division's needs don't match our revenue projections, the BC and divisions engage with our Finance area in cutting the budget until it is balanced. Unfortunately, this method of balancing and approving the budget is not based on anything, least of all a strategic plan and/or goals for our Nation. At least four budget cycles ago, the BC agreed we could no longer afford to continue budgeting in this manner. In understanding we could longer continue to allocate resources to everything, the BC put forth some effort to make change and in fiscal year 2010, sat down and tried to develop budget priorities. Although most of us recognized that this wasn't going to solve all of our problems, we understood that developing priorities would be a good start in order for us to justify how we would spend that year's budget and explain what priorities will be addressed in that budget cycle. Unfortunately, this practice too fell to the wayside, as key players on the Business Committee walked from the table when major decisions were about to be made.

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

Other attempts to change the budget process included the Budget Management and Control Act, which was first introduced as a concept about 6 years ago and again during this current term; however, this legislative mechanism has not been completed to date. In May, 2012 the BC engaged in the Native Nation's governance building whereby the Business Committee was asked to determine what needed to be changed. It was again confirmed by the BC there needs to be a change the Tribe's budgeting methods, and once again the same budget principles and methodology continued with no initiative or progress being made to support this determination. Also, the current budget process allows for changes to occur after the BC has provided direction and without communication, leaving the BC, as whole, unaware of any significant changes possibly made.

Also, the current method of budget development does not engage the GTC or the Oneida community in a meaningful way. Your questions, criticisms and solutions are not taken into consideration collectively and no process exists to garner the community's input on what you would like to see in the budget, or what you would support the BC doing to move us forward in a fiscally responsible manner.

For example, we continuously hear we must get our employee base down to 2,500 full-time equivalent positions, but what is not being said is that this only holds true, if we do not make change organizationally and fiscally. Additionally, if the bottom line is ultimately that we must consider laying-off employees; I firmly believe we should only do lay-offs based on something rather than nothing. That means we need proper analysis of each area in order to determine what the need is, the purpose for the service as well as the long-term goals. But, before we can determine the need, purpose and goals, we must take a big step back and look at the big picture and determine the Nation's strategic direction, identify what the desired outcomes are and then develop goals and objectives to achieve those outcomes and then we budget according to what our priorities are.

Finally, I have researched the investments that the Tribe has made over the past 20 years, and have also personally seen the political climate with which decisions have to be made when it comes to preserving, reinvesting, supporting or getting out of our investments. The Business Committee, although doing its best to provide oversight, are not the experts when it comes to investments, economic development, etc. GTC already recognized this back in the 1980's when it directed the Business Committee to develop an entity responsible to oversee "commerce/enterprises" of the Tribe to ensure that our commerce/ enterprises were protected from politics, had stability in leadership, that decision making was strategic and aligned with the goals of the Tribe, and this entity reported directly to the people (GTC). For the past several years, the Business Committee has also recognized this as an issue and has tried to develop a Commerce Code, which has failed to gain a majority of support over the past few years, and the will to pass such legislation has not yet succeeded.

I appreciate the opportunity to have outlined the reasons I opposed the FY13 budget, but I also feel obligated to offer solutions for the tribal members to consider for the September 17 GTC meeting.

1. GTC already directed the Business Committee to develop a Budget Management Act that would enhance fiscal policy and ensure a budget process that fits Oneida. This piece of legislation has yet to be completed. Councilman Delarosa has been assigned this task via the Legislative Operating Committee. GTC could direct the Business Committee to bring a draft forward at the January 2012 GTC Annual meeting.
2. GTC could mandate the Business Committee as a whole to develop a strong vision and clear priorities and bring back to the January 2012 GTC Annual meeting or a Special GTC meeting in February for GTC to approve the vision and priorities.
3. GTC could mandate the Business Committee bring back a draft Commerce Code or action plan that addresses the separation of commerce/enterprises to be brought back at the July 2013 Semi-Annual GTC meeting.

As this was a very difficult decision to make, I pray that together we can stand strong and make change for the long-term benefit of our people. I want to end with a quote that I drew inspiration from while making this decision. This quote truly puts in to words, why it is important for us to think long-term "7 Generations"; to have a strategy; to fight for our sovereignty; to teach and practice our culture and language; and ultimately take care of each other.

"Upon suffering beyond suffering: the Red Nation shall rise again and it shall be a blessing for a sick world. A world filled with broken promises, selfishness and separations. A world longing for light again. I see a time of Seven Generations when all the colors of mankind will gather under the Sacred Tree of Life and the whole Earth will become one circle again." ~ Crazy Horse

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Council members Melinda J. Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens

In accordance with provisions of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin Open Records and Open Meetings Law, Chapter 7, sections 7.20-1 and 7.4-1, the Committee will move into executive session to discuss confidential information or to obtain legal advice.
Motion by Vince DelaRosa to come out of executive session at 1:56 p.m., seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

1. Consider Three Fires LLC continued investment
Sponsor: Ed Delgado
Motion by Vince DelaRosa to approve the sale of the loan interest in 15th & L and the equity interest in Three Fires, LLC of $1.25 million, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion carried unanimously
For the record: Vince Delarosa said I support this motion with the understanding that things could be much worse if we delay past the 20th of August. The alternative to this agreed upon offer of $1.25 million is zero dollars if the deals collapses over the next two weeks and ends up before a court. The way this deal was structured, and given the preferred equity position that San Manuel retains, of over $7 million, and given the maturity on that debt, which was to be paid in late July 2012, my office has no other position than to try and recover something from this failed investment.
For the record: Tina Danforth said for the record the options for investment of Oneida's interest in the 15th & L LLC have been vetted, articulated and conveyed in writing to the Business Committee on several occasions. Between yesterday, Aug. 8, 2012, and today nothing has changed regarding the tangible options to participate or divest Oneida's interest. Unfortunately the politics around the BC table continue to interfere with the Business Committee's ability to make sound business decisions.

For the record: Greg Matson said my decision to support the motion to sell the Three Fires investment is totally based upon the recommendation from our Finance area. Due to my limited time involved in this investment and its many facets that have evolved over the years, I have to rely heavily on the recommendations of the Treasury area and its expertise.

Excused:Tina Danforth
For the record: Melinda J. Danforth stated I certainly appreciate the work of the CFO and Asst. CFO in leading the BC through the budget process with goals of ensuring no layoffs and preservation of services to the membership. However, it is with regret that I oppose the budget due to the fact that this is a status quo budget and is not based on priorities by the leadership as a whole. Also, we wanted to be as transparent as possible, and yet the budget work meetings weren't posted as open meetings to our tribal membership and major decisions to cut were made at "work meetings". Some of our division directors were allowed to come to the BC and make cuts to departments that weren't fully communicated to and to date the departments still haven't been communicated the changes in their budget that may impact their area, which indicates to me that the departments may not be knowledgeable of a change in vision/direction their entity may be headed and have no input in to that vision and that is not transparency and not communication. I commend the work of the Business Committee and Finance to balance the budget, but just cannot support another status quo budget that is not based on nation priorities.
For the record: Greg Matson stated my opposition is based on the process used. Thank you.
For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated I support the budget, obviously I've stated some comments earlier about what I think are non-performers that need to be eliminated from the budget, probably should have been a long time ago. We did ask and I think the record should stand clear that this council did ask each Division Director before they came before us, if they understood the budget directions and the directives and the responses that we were seeking from them and they all said yes, except for one and that was the Housing Director. He seemed to be unsure of what we had asked him to do. The Development Division, I'm not sure if they were perfectly clear, but everyone else seemed to be very clear and the Division Directors by and large, I thought they had communicated down. I'm hearing new information that maybe there wasn't clear communications but we did ask them specifically, because there was an assertion that there was unclear direction given during the budget process and everyone communicated, over 90% of them communicated that the directions were clear. So I support the budget because we need to get a budget in place, but I think that the idea, the concepts around matrix staffing model issues and creating new economic growth for this community have to be pursued at some point. This is a status quo budget, but we have to get a budget in place, that is our responsibility. We do have operations that have to continue going on to provide the services that Tribal members need, so therefor I support moving this budget forward. Thank you.
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I support this budget moving forward because it's the reality that we're faced as of today, because of lack of priorities, because of lack of general consensus on where our direction is heading, but I think I'd be remised if we would say, if we would try to have a continuing resolution to try and address some of these things and be subject to the same standards going through that continuing budget, trying to develop the things we need to develop during the course of this next year, which would probably only be implemented in 2014 anyways. So, having this, knowing that…it's with regret, I do approve this budget but looking at some of directions that we need to go strategically and fiscally and looking at our enterprises on how we approach their effectiveness, you know that needs to be vetted out thoroughly and doing that in this fashion, we don't have a process for it so we have the direction of the three year budget. It's just a roadmap basically, we don't have initiatives. How are we going to do this economic development, with no funds? How are we going to create housing, with no funds? How are we going to do all these things with lack of visioning and planning? So allowing this next fiscal year for that development, I think, is reality.
For the record: Paul Ninham stated I do believe that hopefully something good is going to come out of today's action as we move this forward. I just wanted to state that we really do need to sit down, as a committee and I guess come up and develop some priorities that we all have. I would really like to see this nine member committee, move something forward for the organization. I don't know what that is yet, but I would love to sit down and develop our priorities. One thing I would like to state is that we never did finish transition and we talked about that from a year ago. We did not quite finish transition and I think through the Councilman's proposed retreat session, I do believe that something very positive is going to come out. That we are going to be able move something forward and hopefully do it correctly.
For the record: David Jordan stated I would actually like to thank the CFO, Larry Barton and Ralinda, they worked very hard. I was at every single budget meeting that there was and I made a lot of opinions for the right reasons, but I cannot do those alone. So as a BC we should be there all together, not just two, three, three, four, that's all we had. We never had a full committee at any one of those meeting. So yes it's status quo, but there are only a handful of us that actually had to make all those decisions on our own. It kind of upsets me to find out that there are people opposing something that didn't even really help put this in place. I believe you should be at every meeting, for the budget.

Notice of Availability

Project Description:
Brown County is proposing to build a 911 emergency communication tower to serve the western portion of Brown County, including the Oneida Indian Reservation. Brown County is proposing to build the tower on a 50 foot by 50 foot piece of tribal fee land leased from the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. The proposed site is immediately north of Oneida Conservation Department at N8047 County Trunk U. The proposed development includes a 180 foot tower built on a 10 foot by 10 foot cement base. There would be an equipment compound for electrical power and service related equipment as well as for back-up equipment. The 50 foot by 50 foot leased area would have a chain link fence surrounding it. The tower would not require guy wires or other above ground structures.

A draft environmental assessment (EA) has been prepared regarding the proposed action in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The draft EA contains project information, affected environment, project alternatives, and consultation letters.

Comments were requested from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service regarding possible impacts to threatened and endangered species, and from the Oneida Cultural Heritage Officer. No significant impacts to these resources are anticipated and recommendations from these sources will be followed.

Need for Project:
To provide reliable emergency services to western Brown County, including the Oneida Indian Reservation. This tower would fulfill Brown County's obligation to upgrade its emergency services for the western portion of the county.

Project Alternatives:
This site was chosen based on land availability to fulfill an expressed emergency service need for western Brown County. The no-action alternative would not address Brown County's obligation to provide reliable emergency service to the western portion of the county (including the Oneida Indian Reservation). That alternative would result in less than adequate emergency services for the western portions of Brown County.

Comments & Availability:
Interested parties can obtain copies of the draft EA from:

Congressman Ribble visits area Veterans at Oneida VFW

Congressman Reid Ribble made a stop at the Robert Cornelius VFW Post 7784 in Oneida on Wednesday, August 22, 2012. The congressman was greeted by a crowd of area veterans who were there to hear Ribble speak about legislation that pertains to United States Veterans. Most of the questions and discussion points centered around numerous bills that provide benefits and incentives to veterans. Congressman Ribble will also be hosting a Veterans Symposium on understanding the mental health needs of Veterans and their families at the Radisson Paper Valley Hotel in Appleton, WI on Tuesday, September 18, 2012.

Special court for Wis. veterans to begin in Nov.

RACINE, Wis. (AP) ~ Some military veterans who face criminal charges in Kenosha, Racine and Walworth counties could be tried in a new treatment court geared specifically toward veterans.

The Veterans Treatment Court is designed to hold veterans accountable for criminal acts. But it's also intended to include opportunities for substance-abuse and mental health treatment. It will also introduce veterans to federal benefits and services they might not have known about.

A Journal Times of Racine report says the first session will be Nov. 14 in Racine. Court administrators are reaching out to prosecutors in the three counties, asking that staffers identify defendants who might be eligible.

To qualify, veterans must have a diagnosable mental health condition or an issue with drug or alcohol abuse.

Wis. DNR: Bird migration to peak this month

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ State wildlife officials say bird migration should peak over the next three weeks.

Bird experts with the Department of Natural Resources are telling bird watchers to be on the lookout for hummingbirds, warblers, vireos and thrushes. Nighthawks and chimney swifts also will be on the move during evening hours.

DNR officials say the migration likely will be more stressful for birds this year because drought conditions have hurt their food sources. The dry weather has reduced moisture dependent insect populations and prevented plants from flowering and dropping seeds.

The agency says homeowners can help by providing birds with a water source and vegetation that provides fruit and shelter.

Wis. ranks near the bottom for charitable giving

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ Wisconsin ranks near the bottom of states for charitable giving, according to a new study by the Chronicle of Philanthropy.

Wisconsin ranks 44th among the 50 states, according to the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel.

Residents contributed $2 billion, based on 2008 dollars, with a median contribution of $1,747, according to the study published this week that takes an extensive look at giving in America.

That means residents allocated 3.4 percent of their income to charity. The national median is 4.7 percent.

Utah, with a large Mormon population and a tradition of tithing, was the most giving state. Utah residents allocate 10.6 percent of their income to charity. New Hampshire ranked last, with residents donating 2.5 percent of their income to charity.

The study relied on 2008 Internal Revenue Service data from itemized deductions. Only taxpayers who earned $50,000 or more were examined. For total contributions, Wisconsin ranked 26th.

Deborah Fugenschuh is president of the Donors Forum of Wisconsin, which works to promote and support philanthropy. She wasn't surprised by Wisconsin's ranking.

"It's always been that way," she said. "It isn't new news. We just don't have the wealth that many states have. Our wealth is earned. And we don't have deep inherited wealth. We do have very wealthy people, but we don't have a strong middle class."

Wisconsinites aren't unwilling to help those in need, she said.

"We are frugal. We respond to disasters," she said. "But it's an important time to sustain our social services network."

Wild rice crop not looking great in Wisconsin, Minnesota

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP) ~ The wild rice beds in northern Wisconsin are nearly ready for harvest. But, aerial surveys by agricultural observers show the wild rice crop isn't looking that great.

Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission biologist Peter David, in Odahah, says a warm spring triggered early germination and heavy rain did some damage. David says while a few scattered beds look good, the overall crop looks poor, especially in northwest Wisconsin. He tells Wisconsin Public Radio News that beds in east-central Minnesota are in even worse shape.

The grain grows on tall stalks in shallow lakes, streams and riverbeds throughout the upper Midwest and Canada. In Wisconsin, most of rice harvest comes from Burnett, Washburn, Polk, Vilas and Oneida counties. Additional beds are managed on tribal lands.

Wisconsin DNR dusts off plans for more elk

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ State wildlife officials are dusting off an old plan to bring more elk to Wisconsin.

The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point introduced 25 elk to the Clam Lake area in far northwestern Wisconsin in 1995. The DNR has wanted to expand that herd and start another herd in Jackson County ever since.

The department shelved the effort, though, after chronic wasting disease was discovered in the state in 2002 and state agriculture officials effectively banned wild deer and elk importation.

Now DNR officials say they've identified a disease-free elk herd in Kentucky and are negotiating with wildlife officials there to bring some of the animals to bolster the northern herd and start the Jackson County herd.

The move requires legislation to lift the importation ban.

Neb., SD wildfires grow with help of strong wind

By Josh Funk
Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) ~ Wildfires in northwestern Nebraska tripled in size in less than 24 hours, as strong winds pushed flames through the rugged, rural terrain.

More than 285 square miles - an area more than twice the size of the state's largest city, Omaha - had burned by Sunday afternoon, fire officials said. One of the fires had crossed into South Dakota this weekend and burned more than 50 square miles, including land on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation.

A day earlier, the fires had only burned roughly 93 square miles in the ranching territory that's favored by deer and turkey hunters.

"We've got a very challenging situation out here because of the winds and the very dry conditions," Gov. Dave Heineman said Sunday after touring the damage and meeting with officials.

Cooler weather moved through the area Saturday night, helping firefighters mostly contain two major fires - the West Ash and Douthit fires - near Chadron. But winds gusted up to 40 mph Sunday, helping spread the fires through drought-stricken trees and grasses.

The Wellnitz fire, north of Rushville, broke through containment lines Sunday, Heineman said. The Nebraska Emergency Management Agency said it had burned roughly 150 square miles by Sunday evening.

Heineman said it will likely take several more days to fully contain the fires, but he says firefighters appear to have all the resources they need to do that.

Overall, the fires have damaged at least 10 homes and more than 50 structures in Nebraska and South Dakota. The fires also forced the evacuation of several small communities, although residents of the small town of Whitney, southwest of Chadron, were allowed to return home Sunday.

Rushville Assistant Fire Chief Jerry Kearns said Sunday that firefighters are working hard to contain the fires and protect property, but they sometimes have to make difficult choices. Kearns said it's hard to watch a rancher's hay burn because of this summer's ongoing drought.

Those very ranchers know the wildfires will scar the land.

Verona Douthit, 65, has always lived in these hills on land her family bought in 1929. Because one of the current fires started on her ranch, officials have named it after her last name.

Douthit says she knows it takes a long time for the land to recover - some of her family's land burned in 1989 - and the pine trees she loves may never be the same.

"It probably will take a person's lifetime to see it like it was again, and it may never happen," Douthit said.

The Douthit fire is nearly contained, but it burned about 30,000 acres. The other fire in the area, the West Ash fire, had consumed nearly 58,000 acres by Sunday and was about half contained.

Douthit said it has been fantastic to see the way people came together to help fight the fire and support those affected. She and her 66-year-old husband especially appreciated the help because of their age.

"We're retirement age, so we're not as agile anymore," Douthit said.

Firefighters have already battled several wildfires in Nebraska this summer, and more than 35 volunteer firefighting departments are working with NEMA and federal incident command teams to contain these.

Conditions are likely to remain ripe for fires for at least several more weeks because the land is so dry.

"Firefighters have put more water on the ground than Mother Nature this year," Chadron Fire Chief Pat Gould said during the governor's tour.

Red flag warning for much of Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) ~ More warm, dry, windy weather is keeping the fire danger high across much of Wyoming.

Red flag warnings were in effect through Tuesday evening. The National Weather Service said an approaching Canadian cold front would produce gusty winds from the north in south and central Wyoming.

Rain on Friday and Saturday helped slow the growth wildfires already burning in Wyoming.

Two fires are burning in the Teton Wilderness, the 13,727-acre North Buffalo Fire, which is 10 percent contained, and the 1,510-acre Butte Creek fire.

On the Wind River Indian Reservation, fire managers are monitoring the Alpine Lake Fire, which is burning on 10,545 acres in rugged terrain.

The lightning-sparked Gilead Fire southwest of Story is burning on about 1,300 acres.

Judge: 2 NY tobacco wholesalers broke law

NEW YORK (AP) ~ A judge has ruled two tobacco wholesalers broke the law selling untaxed cigarettes to retailers on an Indian reservation that then resold them at reduced prices in New York.

The judgment is a victory for New York. It's waged a legal battle for years to collect taxes on cigarettes sold by Indian-owned businesses to non-Indians.

According to The New York Times, Judge Carol Amon said Long Island company, Mauro Pennisi, sold more than 11 million cartons of untaxed cigarettes to Indian retailers on the Poospatuck Reservation from 2008 to 2011. She said Gutlove & Shirvint, a Queens company, sold a similar amount to the same tribe.

Both companies voluntarily stopped selling to the Indian retailers after the city sued in 2006. But Amon ruled they should've stopped sooner.

into the youth. The outbreak of youth diabetics sparked the Oneida Royalty to donate $1,000 to the Oneida Health Center, who provides a variety of services to diabetics as well as a financial means to put together the annual diabetes dinner.

"This year our theme is Preserving the Family Tree: Living Well with Diabetes, it's talking about the importance of our youth who are developing diabetes, what we need to do to prevent it. We need to start paying attention so that is really a main focus this year," Schwantes said.

With a national focus on health and healthcare as of late, it must be noted that Oneida does offer a wide variety of programs and professionals dedicated to giving those living with diabetes a healthy life.

"I go to Elders programs, I come here for health care, dental care, and there are quite a few things to take advantage of. Oneida provides the things we need to stay healthy, keeping healthy limbs and that. So it's a good thing. I am glad that its here for us," Smith said.

Katchenago takes 2012 Peoples' Choice Award

Art Show organizers give thanks

Special to Kalihwisaks

Like so many events in Oneida, the Woodland Indian Art Show could not have successfully marked another year without many volunteers and supporters. The Show and Market were held alongside the Oneida Powwow on June 29, 30 and July 1, 2012. Thanks to the 2012 WIASM Planning Committee for a job well done: Loretta Webster, Beth Bashara, Sherrole Benton, Susan White, Rae Skenandore, Betty Willems, Becky Webster, Laura Manthe, Mary Vvalther, Dylan Benton, Arlie Doxtator, Rita Lara, Claudia Skenandore.

The mission of the Woodland Indian Art Show & Market is "to promote the expression of Great Lakes and upper North American Indian culture through art." The artist is the most important part of pursuing this mission, and each one provides artistic expression to the ancient stories of their culture. Woodland artists are story tellers, and this year's Peoples' Choice award is a fine example of what they do to help us understand Woodland Indian Art. Ren Katchenago is a tribal member of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa & Chippewa. Ren is a carver and sculptor who works with materials from his natural environment. When you look at his art exhibit you see the central figure of a giant turtle carved out of wood, symbolizing Mother Earth in woodland cultures. Carved figures of bear, loon and other woodland animals surround the turtle. Like so many artists, Ren works in a variety of medias, including painting. Traditional dancers and singers of tribal songs are strong themes in his paintings and carvings, and they portray the uniqueness of his tribal culture. Visitors to this year's Art Show and Market registered for tickets to vote for their favorite artist. Thank you to the hundreds of people who stopped in each day to enjoy the awesome display of Woodland Indian Art, and to vote for this year's Peoples' Choice Award, which went to Ren Katchenago.

The Woodland Indian Art Show & Market transforms the Norbert Hill Center cafeteria into an art gallery each year. Thanks to the Oneida Business Committee and many tribal staff who made key decisions on behalf of the Woodland Indian Art Show reception: Stanley Webster, John Christjohn, Alvin Summers, Chef Arlie of Bear Paw Café, Laura Manthe, Sherrole Benton, Oneida Security. Awards for the juried art show were announced at the reception, and the results can be seen on the web page www.woodlandindianart.com. Thank you to this year's judges: Joanne House, Judy Dordel, Denise Sweet, Chad Wilson, Leanne Thompson.

We thank the major sponsors of the art show and market who have faithfully supported this endeavor for six years: Oneida Tribe Finance Committee, Oneida Nation Arts Program, Wisconsin Arts Board, Bear Paw Keepsakes. In addition, we had many donors who responded to our request for support. Thanks to all of you.

Besides our WIASM Planning Committee, we also had volunteers who provided endless hours (it seems) for the 3-day event which was held at the same time as the Oneida Powwow. Thanks to these volunteers who answered frequently asked questions, sold raffle tickets, assisted in setting up the juried art exhibit, put up signs and passed out flyers, cleaned up at the end, etc. etc.: Nori Damrow, Karina O'Malley, Noreen Smith, Susan House.

Thanks to all the family and spouses of our volunteers and Planning Committee members. We appreciate your patience and understanding during the times they were working to produce a fantastic 2012 Woodland Indian Art Show & Market.

The dates for the woodland indian art show and market are already set for next year: July 5-7, 2013. This will again be at the Norbert Hill Center and will run at the same time as the powwow. The planning committee is expanding the events and we hope to see you there in 2013.

For more information contact Loretta Webster, 920-713-8030.

T-Hawks have sight on State Title

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihiwsaks

For the first time in the three-year existence of eight-man football at the Oneida Nation High School a state championship is an obtainable goal.

After finishing 4-5 last season, the Thunderhawks have joined the newly formed 8 Man North Conference after the WIAA officially sanctioned the sport.

With the sanction, a true state champion can be crowned and head coach Bryan Peterson has his sights on it.

"We want to win the first state championship. There hasn't been an eight-man state champion and we want to be the first," said Peterson. "We have the talent this year to do it."

Prior season saw the Thunderhawks playing a schedule of teams not affiliated with each other. The new conference creates tangible goals reachable for the players and team.

"It's really nice to have something to play for. It's going to keep these guys motivated all year," Peterson said.

Devonte Pointer tries to avoid a tackler during the Thunderhawks scrimmage on Saturday, August 25. The T-Hawks host Valley Christian Oshkosh on Friday, September 7.

The Thunderhawks will lean heavily on their run game and experience to make their run at a championship season.

"We hope to run the all about 85 percent of the time and only throw when we have to. We lost our quarterback and that killed our passing game," said Peterson. "We run the ball very well. We have three running backs just as good as the other and are interchangeable."

Moving the ball and scoring points shouldn't be a problem but, according to Peterson, the defensive side of the ball needs improvement.

"We have to do better. Our goal is going to be to hold teams to under 21 points a game," he said.

The smaller eight-man field along with less defenders has Peterson focused on tackling this season.

"If you miss a tackle they score. We have to work a lot on fundamentals," Peterson said.

The Thunderhawks lost their season opener to New Auburn 50 - 12 on Friday, August 31.

An Indian... One Block East of Broadway is an evening of humor, music, videos and education from a Native American man's perspective and stories relating to personal experiences.

This show addresses the advancement of two cultures, Native American and Non-Native American as it relates to education, politics, culture, history and entertainment. We hope that you enjoy the show!

Richie Plass

A drummer for over 30 years with various bands, including the Wolf River Band and the Flying Feather Band, Richie Plass is also an actor (and sometimes comedian!) with a long background in business and manufacturing as well as tribal politics and economic development. But his lectures and sessions on "Trails of the Menominee: A Discussion of Native American Diversity" are where his heart really lies.

Plass lectures on education, culture, traditions, professional environment and social impact. His sessions deal with issues such as Menominee and general Native American history, past and present Native American issues such as logos and mascots, Native American lore and performing arts, as well as dealing with and living in a world of different cultures.

His multi-faceted background includes an Associate Degree in Architecture, Director of Tribal Economic Development on the Menominee Reservation, diversity training, and sports editor for his school paper. Plass is also a published poet and host of "Kalihyo'se," a WPR radio show airing Thursday evenings from 10 p.m. to midnight on 89.3 FM.

West Nile Virus symptoms

Written by Michelle Myers
Community Health Nursing Supervisor

West Nile virus (WNV) is a potentially serious illness. Experts believe WNV is established as a seasonal epidemic in North America that flares up in the summer and continues into the fall. Wisconsin has not seen wide spread disease as they have in states like Texas. But the virus has been detected in dead birds throughout the State of Wisconsin and one confirmed human case in Dodge County.

What Are the Symptoms of WNV?

- No Symptoms in Most People. Approximately 80 percent of people (4 out of 5) who are infected with WNV will not show any symptoms at all.
- Milder Symptoms in Some People. Up to 20 percent of the people who become infected have symptoms such as fever, headache, and body aches, nausea, vomiting, and sometimes swollen lymph glands or a skin rash on the chest, stomach and back.
- Serious Symptoms in a Few People. About one in 150 people infected with WNV will develop severe illness. The severe symptoms can include high fever, headache, neck stiffness, stupor, disorientation, coma, tremors, convulsions, muscle weakness, vision loss, numbness and paralysis. These symptoms may last several weeks, and neurological effects may be permanent.

How Does West Nile Virus Spread?

WNV is not spread through casual contact. WNV is most often spread by the bite of an infected mosquito. Mosquitoes become infected when they feed on infected birds. Infected mosquitoes can then spread WNV to humans and other animals when they bite. People typically develop symptoms between 3 and 14 days after they are bitten by the infected mosquito.

How Is WNV Infection Treated?

There is no specific treatment for WNV infection. In cases with milder symptoms, people experience symptoms such as fever and aches that pass on their own, although even healthy people have become sick for several weeks. In more severe cases, people usually need to go to the hospital where they can receive supportive treatment including intravenous fluids, help with breathing and nursing care.

What Should I Do if I Think I Have WNV?

Milder WNV illness improves on its own, and people do not necessarily need to seek medical attention for this infection though they may choose to do so. If you develop symptoms of severe WNV illness, such as unusually severe headaches or confusion, seek medical attention immediately. Severe WNV illness usually requires hospitalization. Pregnant women and nursing mothers are encouraged to talk to their doctor if they develop symptoms that could be WNV.

What Can I Do to Prevent WNV?

The easiest and best way to avoid WNV is to prevent mosquito bites.

- When you are outdoors, use insect repellent containing an EPA-registered active ingredient. Follow the directions on the package.
- Many mosquitoes are most active at dusk and dawn. Be sure to use insect repellent and wear long sleeves and pants at these times or consider staying indoors during these hours.
- Make sure you have good screens on your windows and doors to keep mosquitoes out.
- Get rid of mosquito breeding sites by emptying standing water from flower pots, buckets and barrels. Change the water in pet dishes and replace the water in bird baths weekly. Drill holes in tire swings so water drains out. Keep children's wading pools empty and on their sides when they aren't being used.

Pertussis Outbreak in Wisconsin

Written by Michelle Myers
Community Health Nursing Supervisor

Wisconsin is currently experiencing a widespread outbreak of pertussis disease. From January 1, 2012 through August 14, 2012, 3,819 cases (2,773 confirmed and 1,046 probable) of pertussis with completed investigations have been reported among Wisconsin residents. We are seeing confirmed cases in both Brown and Outagamie Counties.

Pertussis is a contagious bacterial disease that can cause serious illness in infants, children and adults. It is commonly known as "whooping cough" because of the "whooping" sound that is made when gasping for air after a fit of coughing.

Pertussis infection can be life-threatening, especially in infants. More than half of infants less than 1 year of age who get pertussis are hospitalized.

Pertussis can begin like a cold, with a low grade fever and a mild, irritating cough that can appear within 7 to 20 days after exposure. The illness progresses to include explosive coughing that can interrupt breathing, eating and sleeping, and may be followed by vomiting and exhaustion.

Vaccination is the most effective prevention. In the United States, the recommended pertussis vaccine for infants and children is called DTaP. This is a combination vaccine that protects against three diseases: diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis.

Vaccine protection for these three diseases fades with time. Because of this, a booster is recommended for preteens, teens and adults that contains protection against tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis (Tdap).

Families with a newborn are encouraged to be immunized as part of a process called "cocooning", where parents, siblings, grandparents and others are vaccinated to provide additional protection to the newborn, who cannot be vaccinated until they are two months old.

Individuals with symptoms should contact their healthcare provider. Your doctor will determine if you need treatment for pertussis infection. Those with pertussis should be isolated from school, work or other activities until completing at least the first five days of the recommended antibiotic therapy.

What can I do to protect myself and my family?

Make sure your children are up to date with their immunizations. Pertussis vaccination is included in the mandatory school immunization law.

Get vaccinated! Ask your doctor on your next visit. Additionally, patients of the Oneida Community Health Center can schedule an appointment with our immunization clinics by calling Community Health at 920-869-4840.

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility

This case involved a request for a Temporary Restraining Order from Petitioner, Christl Stevens and a Motion for Enforcement and Deficiency Judgment in the amount of $3,159.03 from Respondent, Dale Wheelock - Oneida Housing Authority. The Oneida Tribal Judicial System granted the Respondents Request for an Eviction. A Hearing was held on December 13, 2011, Petitioner nor did the advocate/attorney for the Petitioner appear. Respondent was present. The Court ordered Petitioner to vacate the premises by January 31, 2012, and ordered Petitioner to not commit waste on the home. On May 7, 2012 Respondent filed a Motion for Enforcement and Deficiency Judgment requesting reimburse fees of $2,542.52 in tenant damages, $350 in utilities and $266.50 in rent arrears for a total of $3,159.03. Respondent included supporting photos of the damages. The Court granted the Motion for Enforcement and Deficiency Judgment in the amount of $3,159.03.

Kenneth B.Metoxen vs. Gerald Hill. Docket No. 12-TC-071, May 18, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster, Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. The Petitioner in this case requested the Oneida Judicial System to issue a Temporary Restraining Order against the Respondent, Gerald Hill and an order of protection. Two tribal members in a dispute, one is seeking a protective order, fearful for his safety. The actual facts are unknown, the court has not heard any evidence and is not taking one side or the other. This case was dismissed because the Oneida Tribe does not have the laws which permit us to exercise our jurisdiction over these types of cases, where a protective order is sought.

Carmela Oshkeshequoam vs. Dale Wheelock, Oneida Houseing Authority Director and Rebecca Webster, Attorney Oneida Law Office. Docket No. 12-TC-107, June 4, 2012. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Sandra Skenadore and Janice McLester presiding. This case involved a request for a Temporary Restraining Order from Petitioner, Carmela Oshkeshequoam requesting a 14 day stay on the eviction. May 16, 2012 Petitioner received eviction notice. May 22, 2012 Petitioner filed an appeal with the Oneida Housing Authority requesting she be allowed to stay within her home and the tenant who caused a violation would be removed. May 24, 2012 Respondent/OHA denied the Petitioner's request. May 29, 2012 Petitioner filed an appeal at the Oneida Tribal Judicial System appealing the eviction. May 30, 2012 a deliberation was held and the case was scheduled for a hearing. June 4, 2012 hearing the Petitioner requested that she be given 14 days to vacate the premises. Respondent/OHA granted Petitioner's request. The court affirms the decision of the Respondent and Petitioner was to vacate the premises by June 8, 2012.

Catherine Bennett vs. HRD-Benefits and Crawford & Co. Insurance. Docket No. 11-TC-144, June 25, 2012. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Sandra Skenadore and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case involved denial of additional worker's compensation due to injuries received on March 5, 2011. Pre-trial hearing held on November 29, 2011 and the court moved the case to a trial on January 18, 2012. January 13, 2012 both parties requested to move the trial date due conflicting schedules. New hearing set for April 10, 2012. The issue was the Petitioner entitled to additional Workman's Compensation for the injury of March 5, 2011. The correlation between the onset and continuation of Ms. Bennett's pain and the events of March 5, 2011 are too strong to deny or to ascribe the cause to anything else. The doctors cannot say definitively there is a link between the events of March 5, 2011 and her pain through the spring of this year, we are not bound only by medical evidence and the ultimate question here is not medical; it is legal. Nevertheless, the benefits cannot be extended indefinitely. We rule that benefits shall be extended through May 10, 2012.

Timothy J. Skenandore, Electric Experts vs. Marjorie Stevens, Indian Preference Department. Docket No. 12-TC-051, June 27, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Sandra L. Skenadore presiding. This case involved the Indian Preference Department's refusal to certify Petitioner as an Indian-owned business. On March 12, 2012 Petitioner filed an appeal against Respondent claiming Respondent violate 57.5-4 and 57.4-3 when it denied Petitioner certification due to his alleged lack of involvement in the day-to-day operations on a full time basis. The law does not specifically say an owner must be at a business when there is no work. Respondent based their denial on their premise that it takes all businesses 24/7 to, in their initial startup, make it successful. Petitioner pointed out, his business is small and is currently at a part time level. The meaning of "day-to-day" is subjective; it could mean on the days the business is in operation Petitioner must be involved. What if the business operates in the evenings and on weekends? One full time job does not preclude a person from doing a full time second job. One of the purposes of the Indian Preference Law is to "maximize economic benefits" for Indian-owned business and to provide "maximum opportunity," Sec. 57.1-5, to them to supply materials and services. Petitioner's request to be certified as an Indian-owned vendor was granted.

Twahwahtsi·láyʌ (Dwah wah jee lie) We All Are Family

A project developed for the Re-vitalization of Tsiʔniyukwaliho·tʌ́ (Geet ne yoo gwa le ho da) all of us our ways - through the 'Renewal of Family Titles and Ties'.

All of us who work with Twahwahtsi láyʌ wish to start once again with our big Yaw^ko. We wish to say Yaw^ko to Dr. Toni House who brought the youth of Yethiyaʔtanúnha a class on relationships this summer.

We also wish to express a big Yawʔko to Mercie Danforth and Littlebear Webster who helped make it possible for us to begin surveying the community in regard to our youth. Because of their efforts we were able to set up a table by the entrance of the Oneida Health Care Center were we collect over 60 surveys.

Yawʌko, Anita Barber and the Staff at Oneida Cultural Heritage for allowing us to collect surveys at the 'Oneida Gathering'.

The surveys asked

1.) Do you believe we support our youth?
2.) What are important qualities or skills you wish for our Oneida youth?:
a. Behaviors,
b. Family Relationships,
c. School,
d. Peer Relationships,
e. Identity,
f. Spirituality,
g. Physically, and
h. Other:
3.) What do you see as the factors that will strengthen our youth?
4.) What changes and/or additions can be made in the community to assist our youth?
5.) In what ways can the community, Tribe, and you as an individual assist with these changes?

Our next step is to get out in the community and hold focus groups or do consensus building. We will use this information to better direct the Twahwahtsiláyʌ and its programs including Yethiyaʔtanúnha. We will also share our results with any other Oneida Youth Programs that are interested. If you wish to comment or are willing to fill out a survey please let us know by calling either Sarah Wunderlich, Candy Clark-Durphey, or Crystal Skenanadore at 920-490-3702 or Alex Lei-Nako at 920-490-3774. You can also email aleinako@oneidanation.org.

Keʔníkhuhe

Now for more good news Keʔníkhuhe (I Am Sewing) an open sewing group (currently made up of four youth) has finished several projects. A fleece bear and blanket were delivered to early head start (the group continues to work on bears and blankets for the children). They also completed the assembly of a quilt for the Gang Task Force which the youth presented to Ron Hill. The group is going back to meeting on Saturdays from 10:00AM to 2:30PM for the fall and winter. They meet at the Oneida Arts Building and anyone is welcome to join us (youth need permission slips from their parent it they are not accompanied by a parent.

A youth community service group (Keeping Mother Earth Clean) is starting Wednesday September 12 and will meet from 4:00PM to 6:00PM. Youth participants will need to fill out an informational packet. This group is for youth who have mandated community service hours for school or court. Where they will be located will vary from week to week so please call ahead.

Yethiyaʔtanúnha will start its fall schedule on Monday, September 10th. We are looking forward to this new year. Once again if you have any questions please do not hesitate to call either Alex Lei-Nako at 920-490-3774 or Ron Hill at 920-496-5385.

First Nations Grant received for Teyunkwahwʌtsyawyanhástu Youth Program

The Environmental Health and Safety Division is very pleased to have received a grant from the First Nations Development Institute of Colorado. The grant will support the Division's Teyunkwahwʌtsyawyanhástu Program by launching a high school culture based environmental youth group. We have partnered with the Oneida Nation High School to serve as the host school, but the youth group is open to Oneida high school students in any of the local school districts.

Another major partner in this grant is Oneida Cultural Heritage. Traditional teachings center on the natural world and give a holistic understanding of caring for Yukhinulha Ohw^tsya (Mother Earth). We will enrich our environmental education through the use of Haudenosaunee stories, cultural teachings and language. The cultural foundation will promote identity, unity and pride in our youth. Objectives of the group are to introduce environmental principles, Oneida language nature vocabulary, traditional stories and promote our Natural Areas. Each class has an elder storyteller from the community that will share a cultural story and their perspective on the environment.

If you know of a high school student interested in participating please contact us! Classes are every third Thursday at 5:00P.M. at the Norbert Hill Center in Oneida. Transportation, meal and attendance incentives are provided.

For more information please contact Sylvia Cornelius, Project Manager at scornel2@oneidanation.org or 920-869-1600.

Metoxen-Rivera visits DC offices of her great-uncle BIA Commissioner Robert Bennett

Submitted by Tone Pagan
Special to the Kalihwisaks

Hi, my name is Tone Pagan and Denise Metoxen-Rivera and I have known each other for over 30 years, One day she expressed interest in knowing where her great grandfather was born. She knew it was somewhere in Pennsylvania but didn't know the exact location? Unbeknownst to me, her great-grandfather's birthplace was right next to Gettysburg, which is only 60 miles from my home. Well one thing led to another and her family tree was born. From there and through conversations with her I discovered who her great-uncle was, leading up to this tour of his former office.

I was doing a genealogy trace of Denise's family. With the help of Denise's distant cousins I was able to locate a few headstones and after piecing together a few facts, I built a large tree for Denise. She was excited about knowing every little detail so I kept her abreast of my fact finding mission. As I learned more from her I was informed of her great-uncle and his contributions to the Oneida Tribe.

Denise and her close friend Wendy Graika-Robinson decided to take a vacation and come to Pennsylvania so Denise could see for herself where her line came from on her mother's side. As a surprise, I planned a trip to Washington, DC for Denise and Wendy to visit the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and the office where her great-uncle Robert (Bob) LaFollette Bennett once worked. I had the honor of reaching out and talking with Ms. Nedra Darling, Director of Public Affairs for the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Nedra set up a tour at the old Department of the Interior where Denise's great uncle Robert LaFollette Bennett once worked. On August 21, we were greeted in the lobby by Michael R. Smith, Deputy, Bureau Director, Field Operations for BIA in Washington, D.C. Mr. Smith became the Deputy in November, 2004 and previously served in senior management positions as the Regional Director, Southern Plains Region in Anadarko, Oklahoma and Director of the Office of Tribal Services in Washington, D.C. Michael was absolutely wonderful and a pleasure to talk with as he was very informative about the building and history of it.

We were given a tour of Denise's great uncle's office, Bob Bennett (b. 1912 d. 2002 ), For those unfamiliar with Robert Bennett's history, he was the second Native American appointed Commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs. He was an Oneida lawyer and administrator. Robert Bennett was born on the Oneida Reservation and attended the BIA's boarding school at Haskell Institute in Kansas. Afterwards he studied law at Southeastern University School of Law in Washington, D.C., earning his law degree in 1941. Robert served in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II. For his legal work supporting native land claims, he received the Indian Achievement Award in 1962 and Outstanding American Indian Citizen Award in 1966. In 1966, President Lyndon B. Johnson personally appointed Robert Bennett head of BIA. Robert left the BIA in 1969 and moved to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he founded the American Indian Athletic Hall of Fame. Robert was Director of the American Indian Law Center at the University of New Mexico Law School from 1970 to 1975. He was recognized as Outstanding Member of the Oneida tribe of Wisconsin in 1988.

The office that Mr. Bennett occupied at the time is currently the Director's office of Surface Mining The very same office where the Joint Chiefs met to make decisions affecting the lives of millions of people during World War II, and the present auditorium was the map room. During the war, the doors of the map room were closed and sealed, and an opening was cut in the floor to allow a sliding carriage to raise maps from the basement-level boiler pit. By the close of the war, the Joint Chiefs of Staff had held 201 meetings, most of which took place in their Combined Chiefs of Staff Building.

It was truly an honor to be able to share in this unforgettable experience with Denise.

Can you solve this problem?

You are walking up a 500 meter high hill. The trail has an incline of 12 degrees. How far will you walk to get to the top?

How about this one?

Find the angles and sides indicated by the letters in the diagram. Give each answer correct to the nearest whole number.

These trigonometry problems will be included in the new GED exam beginning in January of 2014. The National Testing Service will be implementing a new GED exam to include extended Math concepts, short answers, and sorting, instead of just multiple choice answers. # Popovich and Smith Recognized for Community Involvement

During the SEOTS Annual Picnic, held on Sunday, August 19 at Humboldt Park, more than 100 people gathered to partake in fantastic food, fun festivities and two community service awards.

According to Mr. Webster and his dictionary, 'service' is defined as "contribution to the welfare of others". In regards to the SEOTS community, SEOTS chose to identify individuals that have committed their time and talents to improving the well-being of the Oneida community of southeast Wisconsin.

Phyllis Popovich has been a weekly volunteer for the SEOTS Senior Activity Day that takes place every Tuesday at 11am. The program focuses on providing social activities, education on topics related to seniors, lunch, Bingo, and much more. Phyllis has dedicated herself by arriving early each week to set-up for the activities and stays late to help with clean-up. She also prepares Bingo sheets for the Bingo games. Her efforts contribute to the success of the program and the overall well-being of our Elders.

Charlene Smith is a recently retired Registered Nurse of 30 years. Despite her retirement, Charlene declares, "Hang on to my shirt tails and see if you can keep up with me!"

Currently, Charlene is a member of MAIRN (Milwaukee American Indian Resource Network), a Board Member of the Indian Council of the Elderly, Inc. where she coordinates honor events and giveaways for the elders and participates in the same nutritional, social and recreational programs. Her family manages the giveaway tables at the American Indian Task Force on Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault, and Vulnerable Populations community educational gatherings, when available. She is a trained Conversation Leader with Susan G. Komen and the Kohl's Conversations for the Cure where she discusses issues related to breast health and breast cancer. She is also an active member of the Oneida Singers. In addition, audiences of college students, churches, schools, community groups and social services staff, have heard her presentations on selected Indian culture topics. When there is a need to have a "brown face" in the audience or at a corporate table, she likes to be there representing our community of American Indians. Coming up, she will be meeting with members of the Wisconsin Alzheimer's Institute-Center for Urban Population Health, and will do a special presentation about American Indians and Alzheimer's disease.

The commitment to the community by Phyllis and Charlene is much appreciated by those they serve and are considered pillars of our community. For their efforts a small token of appreciation was extended to each honoree.

Tribe not responsible for storm water fees in Hobart

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Tribe will not have to pay storm water fees to the Village of Hobart after United States District Judge William Griesbach released his ruling Wednesday, September 5.

The decision states that the village lacks the authority to impose storm water fees on lands held in trust for the Oneida Tribe. In 2007 Hobart began charging the fees and the tribe shortly after filed a lawsuit challenging the village's authority to do so.

"It is unfortunate that we had to turn to the courts once more to settle a jurisdictional issue. This becomes a costly venue for both governments. Oneida has successfully entered into other intergovernmental service agreements to settle these type of matters," said tribal Chairman Ed Delgado.

The village also filed a motion to hold the United States responsible for the fees but the United States refused.

Delgado sees the ruling as an opportunity for less litigation between the two governments.

"Judge Griesbach also noted that overcoming the difficulties between the Village and the Tribe will require cooperation. I agree. Let's cooperate, not litigate. The cost of this litigation to Hobart taxpayers and tribal members has become too costly in a time of scarce resources. Let's take the resolution of this issue as a sign that we should move forward in a positive manner. The Tribe is pleased with the outcome and hope future litigation can be avoided," added Delgado.

Storm drains in front of the Village of Hobart's village hall

The village is still assessing their options in response to Wednesday's ruling and contends they will continue to treat all properties in the village the same.

"We would agree that litigation is costly but we did not initiate this suit," said Rich Heidel, Village President. "It seems entirely unfair that the Village is required to provide storm water management and water pollution control benefitting all parcels in the Village, when certain parcels can avoid reasonable service charges."

GTC approves FY2013 budget

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Almost 2,000 General Tribal Council (GTC) members received a detailed description of the fiscal year 2013 tribal budget before it was approved by an overwhelming voice vote.

The upcoming budget broke down expected expenditures and profits from all business units within the tribe. The GTC passed a resolution requiring profit and loss statements from the tribe's corporations. They must be included yearly with the tribe's budget packet sent to GTC members.

Some resisted passing the budget calling it status quo, which led to an amendment to the passing motion calling for the Oneida Business Committee to develop a strong vision and clear priorities for the tribe. The work is to be brought back

Pulaski school referendum raises questions

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Residents of Hobart gathered in the Hobart Village Fire Station on Monday, September 10, 2012 for an informational meeting hosted by the Hobart Village Board concerning the Pulaski School District's proposed $33.15 million referendum.

The referendum question, which will appear on the voting ballot as part of the November 6 election, requests approval to borrow not more than $33,245,000 to fund district-wide building and site improvements including building maintenance projects, additions and renovations, creating secure school entrances; constructing a new community pool and community athletic, recreation and performance complex at the high school; improving classroom technology; installation of technology infrastructure; and equipment acquisition related to the projects.

Although most in attendance agreed that many of the district's schools were overdue for renovations and maintenance, some did not agree that the proposed community pool and community athletic complex were necessities.

The village board indicated their strong stance against the school referendum during their August 21 meeting. Village Chairman Richard Heidel vowed to do everything within his power as chairman to stop the referendum.

"I'm not adverse to this village taking the task of doing a[n enrollment] survey, scoping out a procedure, the process, the timeline, to secede from the [Pulaski] school district, and look at the process for being absorbed into another," Heidel said during the meeting.

Angie Haen of Sobieski, WI cited the ACT scores recorded at Pulaski High School, they are among the highest in the area. Haen strongly opposed a switch to another school district fearing they may transfer into a school that doesn't score as favorably academically.

A handful of residents also voiced their support for the referendum stating that the school district has done nothing but increase its services while the village has cut services. The point was also made that the school district will attract more residents to the area with a new facility and their high academic standards.

"It comes down to, as a taxpayer, how much are we willing to pay," said Lance Kelley. "For me I am willing to do that. I'll admit I will probably never use the pool out in Pulaski or the wellness center. But I am willing to sacrifice those dollars for the good of all of us."

OBC gives backpacks at Sept. 12 meeting

By Dawn Walschinki
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) took some time to present school supplies to students in the Yethiyatanunha program during the Wednesday, September 12 OBC meeting.

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Councilmembers Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens, Melinda Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan.

Excused: Treasurer Tina Danforth

After a moment of silence for community members recovering from ailments, the OBC approved minutes for the August 8 and August 22 OBC meetings.

The OBC gave backpacks filled with school supplies to youth in the Yethiyatanunha Program, which according to Program Manger Sarah Wunderlich works with young people not in school.

"We work with the schools to try and get them back in," said Wunderlich.

The organization brings the youth to programs offered by Oneida Language and Cultural Heritage as well as the Oneida Library and other programs to earn high school credits.

Senior Policy Advisor for Chairman's Office Linda Dallas stated she reached out to program to see what the program and students needed.

"This is a wonderful program that helps our youth that have issues with various things that prevent them from … being where they need to be in their school academics," said Dallas. "We did it as a means to show them our support and to encourage you to go forward and to recognize the hard work that you do and to continue on."

Directors and Managers quarterly reports

The OBC accepted are report on the Comprehensive Health Division given by Director Debra Danforth. Danforth highlighted the need for more support updating the software for medical records. The division is financially penalized by Medicare because its computer system is not in compliance.

Danforth also informed the committee on a visit by chair and advisory board from the Wisconsin Council on Mental Health would tour Oneida Behavioral Health Services.

"They are in the process of doing some strategic planning to learn more about what they can do in terms of addressing some of the service needs and the gaps that exist, as well as how they can learn more about specifically tribal health behavioral health programs, and they have selected Oneida as their model," she said.

Appointments

The OBC appointed Charlene Cornelius, Henrietta Cornelius, Lloyd E. Powless to the Secretarial Election Committee, and John Breuniger to the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee.

Quarterly reports

The OBC accepted a report on the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation Board presented by James Elm. Elm noted that the hotel business is in a down cycle and the hotels are $120,000 down for the financial quarter. However, social event and wedding are up and the new Standing Stone Café has opened in place of the Standing Stone Buffet.

"The good news is it's at a lower price point for our customers," he said.

The OBC deferred a report from the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation, and accepted a report on the Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) from Kevin Cornelius. Cornelius urged a Business Committee member to go to an October 3 Green Bay Planning Committee hearing on OSGC's renewable energy facility being built at 1230 Hurlbut St. in Green Bay.

"The Planning Commission themselves are not following the process they've written and approved by law," said Cornelius.

The Committee accepted reports from the Oneida Child Protective Board and the Oneida Nation Commission on Aging. The Anna John Nursing Home Commission report given by Carol Elm noted that the new replacement building has been officially named the Anna John Oneida Resident Centered Care Community.

Standing Committees Legislative Operating Committee (LOC)

The OBC approved and emergency amendment for the per capita law that would allow for payments to be made on or before September 30 in order to accommodate electronic deposits scheduled for September 28.

The Oneida Business Committee approved the LOC's June 20 minutes and a quarterly report.

The OBC adopted the Tribal Environmental Response Law resolution. According to Councilwoman Melinda Danforth, the law "is to direct our Environmental Health and Safety Division to create an environmental response program" to respond to a discharge of hazardous material.

The OBC also adopted an extension of emergency amendments to the Oneida Indian Preference Law resolution. The amendment addressed a change in the Oneida law that put spouses of enrolled Oneidas ahead of other Native Americans in contracting. The law was out of compliance with federal Indian Preference laws.

A memo outlining the Oneida Housing Authority Relocation Policy and Real Property Acquisition Policies and Procedures was accepted as information.

A memo on bylaws for a proposed health board was deferred as debate was sparked as to whether the board should be advisory or regulatory or if it's actually needed.

Councilman Paul Ninham advocated for no board.

"Comprehensive Health is operating outstandingly … and we eliminated the general manager so we can work more closely with the division director, and putting a board in there … that's going against what we wanted to do," he said.

Councilman Vince DelaRosa was in favor of a board.

"There are key functions that a board can basically ensure that are carried out on behalf of the community," said DelaRosa.

The memo was deferred until after an Oneida Comprehensive Health strategic planning meeting.

before the GTC during the January annual meeting in 2013.

The GTC also heard two new per capita options. The current per capita payment schedule is set to expire after the 2013 payment and a new plan is needed. The plans are for discussion only to get discussion started on what the GTC wants.

Plan one would call for an annual payment of $800 plus a cost of living adjustment that is not to exceed $200. Plan two would call for an annual payment of 15 percent of the net profit from gaming and retail. A new per capita plan will be voted on during the January 2013 annual meeting.

From 1A/Pulaski School Referendum

For those caught up in between the two positions the primary concern is the content of the referendum question. For some the question should be divided between school renovations and maintenance and the construction of a new pool and exercise facility. While the current facilities are in need to attention many feel a simple renovation would bring them up to par.

Former athletic director of Pulaski High School, Don Tolkacz said, "Those who know me know that I am a big picture guy. I honestly don't know how I'm going to vote. To me it's all about needs and wants. You have some wants, and you have some needs. My disappointment is including everything in one question. I've been in all the buildings, and they do need updating. But I also see some wants in there, too."

Passing On...

Thomas, Barbara J. Hashagen

January 31, 1937 – September 7, 2012

Barbara J. Hashagen Thomas, 75, of Madison, passed away peacefully surrounded by her loving family, on September 7, 2012 at Agrace HospiceCare Center in Fitchburg.

Born in Kansas City, MO, on January 31, 1937, she was the daughter of Richard O. Hashagen, a career U.S. Army officer, and Geraldine E. Hashagen, a registered nurse. She was the oldest of three children, with two younger brothers, Richard D. and Stephen C. Hashagen.

Growing up as an "Army brat" in the WWII and Korean War era, Barbara lived in dozens of different places, from North Carolina to California, before graduating from Cudahy High School in Milwaukee, WI in 1955. She received her baccalaureate degree (Major in English, Minor in French) from Coe College in Cedar Rapids, IA, in 1959, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She taught high school English and French in Greenfield, WI and Hillsborough, NC, and later taught Native American History and English at the Indian Community School in Milwaukee, WI. She went on to serve as the sole staff member for the American Indian Language and Culture Education Board (a Native American advisory body to the WI Department of Public Instruction) for 15 years. Her enthusiastic dedication to the work of the Board won her the respect and friendship of many Wisconsin Indian tribe members, including those in the Oneida and Menominee nations. A "people person" like her mother, Barbara loved talking with both friends and strangers, and made lasting friendships wherever she went. She loved animals, especially dogs. She enjoyed gardening, language and literature, music, and travel, and one of her favorite places to visit was Bayfield, WI. She loved raising children, and was extremely proud and supportive of her children and her grandchildren. She cherished her relatives and friends. She saw the best in others, helped them look on the bright side of things, and was able to laugh at herself. She will be remembered for her kindness, humor, intelligence, positive and egalitarian spirit, generosity, creativity, and her wonderful stories, which will live on with her family and friends.

She was preceded in death by her father and mother, her brothers Richard D. and Stephen C. Hashagen, and her stepmother Magda. She is survived by her husband, William H. Thomas of Madison; children Jennifer A. Thomas (Dan Sjogren) of Denver, CO, Sarah S. Thomas of Milwaukee, WI, and William H. Thomas, Jr. (Martha Patterson) of O'Fallon, IL; grandchildren Mark Thomas-Patterson and Walter Thomas-Patterson; sisters-in-law Elizabeth Hashagen, Patricia Thomas, Rozanne Timbes, Peggy Thomas, Linda Thomas; brothers-in-law Christopher Thomas, Sr. and Gary Thomas; nephews Christopher Thomas, Jr., Michael Thomas and Greg Thomas (Caitlyn); nieces Stephanie Hashagen, Rebecca Audet (Rejean); Brigitte Melchert (Steve), Megan Vignocchi (Billy), and Lesley Coulter (Mark); stepsisters Krisztina Leitner, Kinga Schmidl, and Helga Mersich of Austria and Judith Mlivoncic of Germany; and many fine step-nieces, step-nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews.

A memorial service celebrating Barbara's life and friendships will take place on Saturday, September 29, 2012, at Holy Wisdom Monastery, 4200 County Highway M, Middleton, WI (www.benedictinewomen.org).

A gathering of family and friends will begin at 9:30 am, followed by the service at 11:00 am, then lunch. All who knew Barbara are welcome, and there will be an opportunity during the service to share stories and memories.

In lieu of flowers, Barbara requested contributions to the Dane County Humane Society (https://www.giveshelter.org/) and Doctors Without Borders (https://www.doctorswithoutborders.org).

In addition, her family thanks the following organizations for their kind generosity and support: Dogs On Call (http://www.dogsoncall.org/) and Agrace HospiceCare (https://www.agracehospicecare.org/).

New Business/Request

The OBC took action to support the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of Wisconsin legal defense fund to fight Ordinance 370 in Milwaukee. "This has basically has turned out to be an attack on Indian owned businesses in the Milwaukee area," said Powless.

The OBC approved supporting the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of Wisconsin's efforts and appointed DelaRosa to work with them.

The Committee also approved posting one vacancy for the Environmental Resource Board.

Travel Requests

Loretta Says... Water, Water Everywhere

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

Early Oneida villages were settled near a body of water such as a river or creek. Water would then be readily available for all daily purposes including the drinking of, cooking, cleaning, and washing clothing and for the watering of animals. It was no different when Oneida people removed from New York to Wisconsin. When they arrived at Green Bay, they looked for a place where good, clean water was close by. Duck Creek was just such a place.

Log homes were often built close to the creek. Later on, wells were hand dug and lined with rocks to access ground water. Often, there was a board fixture built on the surface with an iron hand pump installed. Sometimes, there was just a pail with a rope attached to retrieve the water by dipping the pail. We had one such well across the road from our log house on Second Ridge (Seminary Road). It is still there along the fence line, but is now filled with ground and rocks after the newer deep well was drilled. Some families accessed springs for their fresh water.

One such family was Louise Skenandore who lived in a house halfway between the hilltop and Duck Creek on the south end of Second Ridge. I would stop in there on my way home from Silvery Summit School. Louise would send her daughters, Jane and Ruth (my classmates) for water at the spring near their house. The natural spring was dug out and lined with boards. The water was clear and cold and sometimes there would be frogs jumping in and out. We filled the syrup pails and other pails full for family use.

Many Tribes have resources we do not have. They may have vast quantities of timber, oil and gas, uranium, coal, copper or silver and gold. We have none of these, but we do have water. Some Tribes in the Southwest do not have water. They depend on water to irrigate their fields from the great rivers that pass through their territory. Those rivers could be the Colorado or the Rio Grande. They need to drill very deep wells to obtain water that may be 10,000 years old. Their Tribal water rights are spelled out in the Winters Doctrine. I think that applies to the Oneidas, too, but no one from our organization has come forward with an explanation. My most recent research tells me that: "even if the statute, treaty, or executive order creating the reservation says nothing about water rights, the tribe is presumed to have a right to enough water to satisfy the reservation's purpose, that is, enough water to meet the tribe's present and future needs." (The Rights of Indians and Tribes, Steven L. Pevar)

Some Tribes, which did not want vast quantities of water flooding their reservations, objected long and loudly, to not avail. George Gillette, Chairman of the Fort Berthold Indian Business Council, wept at the signing of the Garrison Lake and Reservoir Project in 1948. Kinzua Dam, on the New York Pennsylvania border inundated thousands of acres of Seneca lands and their homes and villages against their will. Johnny Cash laments about that in a song "Cornplanter, Can You Swim?" Standing Rock Sioux suffered a similar fate. Northern States Power removed some bodies from the graves at Old Post at Lac Courte Oreilles Reservation in Wisconsin, but not all of them before flooding occurred.

Water is home to fish, turtles, frogs and other creatures. Water fowl look for their food in the waterways. Herons, mudhens, pelicans, kingfishers and other birds are seen acquiring their daily nourishment in ponds and creeks. Various kinds of ducks, geese and swans build their nests near the water's edge.

I understand that now the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin is considering partnering with or placing a dairy business of 3000-4000 milking cows on the Oneida Reservation. Immediate questions arise such as: Has a study been accomplished that tells us how much water will be necessary for an operation of this size? Do we know how much the water table has receded (cone of depression) because of various non-Indian housing developments within the Reservation Boundaries? Will there be enough water for the thousand or so families that Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado would like to see move onto the Oneida Reservation? I, too, would also like to see this occur if all needs of those families are met including infrastructure to provide water.

My office is at the Cultural Heritage Department on Hillcrest Drive. Not long ago, a huge black pipe was installed right past the front of our building. I understood it to be a water transportation system from the mighty Lake Michigan to Suamico. Will we soon be requesting huge pipes to provide us water from Lake Michigan, too. What will the Winters Doctrine have to say about that?

Water is precious. We tend to take it for granted. We expect good, clean water to come out of the tap every time we turn the faucet on or take a shower. Clean uncontaminated water is not available in all of China. Companies in the United States are making millions on bottled water. I never drink bottled water. Every plant, animal and human being requires water on a regular daily basis, unless a camel or a cactus, which require water on a longer regular basis. All in all, we need to show our respect for water in our daily lives, our business and Tribal lives.

Note: I started writing this article long before the sad event of our Tribal Buffalo herd. I was, at the same time, reading one of the many books I have on the American Bison, or Buffalo. It just so happens that my personal efforts coincided with this tragedy.

The Oneida Legal Resource Center

- Attorney Charlene Smith
- Paralegals Rena Brown & Tami Hill
- Administrative Assistant Donna Richmond

The Legal Resource Center (LRC) is for tribal members who have legal issues and tribal employees of the program side who have employment issues. The LRC staff is available for free legal consultations by appointment.

Due to the expansion of the Oneida tribal jurisdiction with the adoption of tribal laws relating to family law, more cases will be heard in the Oneida Tribal Judicial System (OTJS) for members who would otherwise have to file and appear in state court. It is beneficial for the tribe as a whole as our tribal court exercises our sovereign right to self govern.

The legal services for Oneida tribal members include family law litigation at the OTJS, pro-se divorce paperwork, name changes, wills, power of attorney documents, eviction defense (OHA and DOLM only), and small claims. The LRC attorney also provides assistance and/or representation for tribal members in criminal matters and family law issues in local (Brown and Outagamie County) state courts. These are modest fees for these legal services, however, initial consultations are free.

The LRC continues to assist Oneida employees with their issues of employee dispute. A program side employee who has an employment dispute may call for a consultation with one of the LRC paralegals. There is no fee for this service.

The LRC Attorney now provides a Legal Help Line for members in the SEOTS region. Free legal telephone consultations are scheduled to be held every other Tuesday with the next one on September 18 from 1:00 - 4:30 PM. Call the SEOTS office for more information at 414-329-4101.

Please call the LRC for more information or an appointment at (920) 496-5310.

The LRC is here in Oneida for tribal members who need to discuss their legal problems, receive legal advice or representation in local courts.

The Legal Resource center is located at Ridgeview Plaza, in Suite 7, 3759 W. Mason St.

Julie Denny

By Julie Denny
Estate Claims Assistant
Enrollment Department

She koli Swakwe Ku
(Greetings to All)

As your Estate Claims Assistant, I'd like to thank all the members who called in to inquire about their OLIPP (Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus) Beneficiary Designation forms.

Part of my duties and responsibilities is to talk with the membership and identify what you can do now (while living) to document your choices, desires and wishes in the event you should become terminally ill or incapacitated and for the time of your death. I am available with or without an appointment.

In this article I'd like to focus on importance of selecting a beneficiary and the results of selecting minor children or incompetent individuals as beneficiaries.

The OLIPP (Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus) is a $15,000 term life insurance policy afforded to all enrolled tribal members, approved by General Tribal in October 2009.

For un-enrolled, but eligible children who pass away between the ages of 0-5 or age 6 with an enrollment application pending we have the " Children's Burial Fund". If a child is deemed eligible this benefit will fund up to $3500 of the burial expenses. These expenses are paid directly to the vendor.

Beneficiary Designation

First and foremost, we encourage our members to designate a beneficiary. This is a very personal decision and we recommend you put some serious thought into who you will designate. One of the advantages of OLIPP is that the proceeds are paid directly to your primary beneficiary(ies). It is recommended you also list a contingent beneficiary(ies), as these designations are next in line to receive the proceeds in the event those listed as primary beneficiary(ies) are deceased or disqualified by law.

An important factor to consider in designating a beneficiary is who you entrust to take care of your funeral expenses and other arrangements upon your death. If you're married, in most cases the decision is simple, it could be your spouse. For those who are single, it can be a little more challenging to select.

Once you've made that decision, please inform your beneficiary(ies) you selected them and communicate your wishes. This spares your loved ones many difficult decision or any disagreements that might arise in the absence of your instructions.

At the time of your death when the family meets with the funeral home, your designated beneficiary(ies) should be the one(s) signing the funeral home contract/invoice. The funeral home may require the beneficiary(ies) to enter into an "Assignment of Proceeds" agreement. The agreement will identify an amount of up to $15,000 be paid to the funeral home first. With some planning the life insurance benefit should not burden anyone with out of pocket funeral expenses.

Caution when Designating Minor Children as Beneficiary(s)

Did you know when you designate only minor children as your primary beneficiary no monies can be assigned towards your funeral expenses.

Scenario #1: If a member lists minor a child(ren) as their primary beneficiary(ies) the proceeds go directly to the childs legal guardian. According to the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, the legal guardian cannot use the insurance proceeds and apply it towards funeral expenses—the monies need to be spent directly on the child (ren). Therefore, you will NOT have any monies allocated to pay your funeral expenses. The financial burden of your death will lie with whoever signs your funeral home contract/invoice. Hopefully, you may be asking yourself, "So how can OLIPP work me?

I strongly encourage members who have listed minor children as their beneficiaries to complete another form and in Section B, check the box that designates "Oneida Enrollment Dept." as a primary beneficiary. This will ensure your funeral expenses get paid first. If you still wish to list your minor children as beneficiaries, any remaining monies will then go to the legal guardian of your minor children. If you have doubts if the legal guardian will indeed spend the monies on the child(ren), then I recommend you seek legal counsel to help you determine what alternatives might work best for your children. One alternative might include: establishing a "trust account" with a bank of your choice and listing that information on the beneficiary form. This will ensure security of your minor children's proceeds.

Scenario #2: When the Oneida Enrollment Department does not have a Beneficiary Designation form on file, EPIC Life Insurance will comply with the policy's naming sequence. For a member age 18 & over the benefit will be awarded to the first available person(s) in this Naming Sequence. Again, if the first relative found in the sequence is a minor child, the legal guardian will be the recipient of the insurance proceeds and no monies will be available for your funeral expenses.

1. Widow or Widower
2. Children (natural or legally adopted)
3. Grandchild or grandchildren
4. Parent or Parents
5. Brother(s) and/or Sister(s)
6. Member's estate

I hope this information helps you in making an informed decision and brings you piece of mind knowing that you have addressed how your Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP) benefit is to be used to carry out your life ending choices, desires and wishes.

Please call me with any questions, I can be reached by phone toll-free at 1-800-571-9902 or my direct line is 920-869-6212. My E-mail address is jdenny@oneidanation.org, or stop in and see me Monday through Friday from 8:00am-4:30 pm at 210 Elm St, Oneida WI. No appointment necessary.

If you already completed a beneficiary form and want to make certain it meets your needs , please don't hesitate to contact me.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support Enforcement

Question: What happens when I don't pay my child support?

Answer:

The potential consequences of non-payment include:

- Having a lien placed on property
- State and federal tax return intercept
- Per capita intercept
- Seizure of bank accounts
- Suspension of recreational, occupational, and/or driver's licenses
- Intercept of certain types of lump-sum payments
- Contempt (which comes with its own set of consequences)

Question: What can I do if I have not been paying my child support?

Answer:

Contact the Agency at (920) 490-3700 – you will be directed to your caseworker who will talk with you about what can be done to get back on track. Your caseworker can provide you with job search forms to complete and return to the Agency if you are unemployed or underemployed; they can also talk with you about barriers you may be facing and refer you to various community agencies.

Depending on your situation, you can also talk to your caseworker about doing an Alternative Payment Plan or a Compliance Plan. An Alternative Payment Plan (AAP) is an agreement between the payer and the Agency which can contain a lump-sum payment or periodic payments in addition to the court-ordered child support payments. An AAP is usually done to halt an enforcement action, such as license suspension. A Compliance Plan is also an agreement between the payer and the Agency, but it is done to halt contempt.

The most important first step is to contact the Agency—we are here to help you.

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

Greetings Oneida Peoples,

I would like to share with you my understanding about a misunderstanding about key relationships with local unit of government litigation.

It appears people in our community have a misunderstanding about our relationship with some of the local units of governments in our Reservation. There is an understanding by some that the Tribe files numerous lawsuits and that we keep losing ground in protecting our sovereignity and exercising our jurisdictional responsibilities. In fact, the Tribe initiated only one lawsuit and has won all of the lawsuits involving the Village of Hobart except one. I would like to encourage the understanding of the facts and the strategic discussion about our relationships with all units of government exercising our sovereignty on our reservation and wherever we address the protection of the environment and responsibilities of ourselves as human beings in our worldview. The legal path of addressing issues is one path perhaps connected to the political path. At least the relationship between the two paths would be worth including in our strategic discussions concerning our future.

My understanding of the one of those units of government relationships

THE RECENT

Since 2003, the Tribe and Village of Hobart have been involved in five lawsuits and several administrative appeals involving Hobart's attempts to assert jurisdiction over the Tribe and our tribal members. Hobart describes these lawsuits as its last resort because the Tribe is being aggressive and forcing Hobart's hand. In reality, the Tribe is doing what we have always been doing, regulating our land and our people. Hobart essentially claims the Oneida Reservation no longer exists, the Tribe is not a legitimate Indian tribe, and federal law should be changed in favor of state and local government control over Indian affairs. Fortunately, the Tribe has been successful in protecting our sovereign rights and reclaiming our land base in all but one of these cases. Here are the cases:

- Condemnation Case: Hobart v. Danforth et al., Brown Co. Cir. Ct. Case No. 03-CV-75 and Tribe v. Hobart, 542 F.Supp2d. 908 (E.D. Wis., 2008).

In 2003, Hobart filed a lawsuit in state court based on its claim that Hobart had the authority to condemn tribal land. In 2006, the Tribe filed a lawsuit in federal court to resolve these issues. Unfortunately, the Judge in that case decided in favor of Hobart, holding that Hobart has the authority to condemn tribal fee land.

- Former Railroad Right-of-Way Case: Hobart v. Tribe and Wisconsin Central, Ltd., Brown Co. Cir. Ct. Case No. 08-CV-1313.

In 2006, Hobart filed a lawsuit asking the Court to declare who owned the former railroad right-of-way running through the Oneida Reservation. The Court dismissed Hobart's claim, finding that Hobart had no standing to challenge the Tribe's ownership of the land. Hobart appealed and the Court of Appeals affirmed.

- TCGC Case: Hobart v. TCGC, LLC, Baylake Bank and Oneida Tribe, 08-MC-59 (E.D. Wis. 2008).

In 2008, Hobart tried to block the Tribe from purchasing Thornberry Creek Golf Course ("TCGC"). The Judge affirmed the bankruptcy plan which provided for the sale of the golf course to the Tribe. The Tribe now owns TCGC.

- 911 Dispatch Case: Hobart v. Tribe and Brown County, Brown Co. Cir. Ct. Case No. 08-CV -1313.

Also in 2008, Hobart filed a suit against Brown County and the Tribe challenging Brown County's ability to dispatch Oneida police officers for 911 calls and claiming the County was required to dispatch Hobart police officers. The Court dismissed Hobart's claims and acknowledged the public benefits arising from the cooperative relationship between the Tribe and County. Hobart appealed and the Court of Appeals affirmed the decision. Hobart asked the Wisconsin Supreme Court to review the decision, but the Court declined to review it.

- Storm Water Case: Tribe v. Hobart, E.D. Wis., Case File No. 1-CV-00137

In 2010, the Tribe initiated its first lawsuit against Hobart, asking the court to declare that Hobart does not have the authority to impose storm water charges against the Tribe's trust property. Hobart defended its ability to impose the charges and also filed a claim against the United States demanding the United States pay the charges because the Tribe refused to pay them. The Judge granted Summary Judgment in favor of the Tribe and dismissed Hobart's claim against the United States. The Judge also ordered Hobart to stop attempting to collect the storm water charges.

- Fee-to-Trust Appeals: Hobart v. Midwest Regional Director, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Dockets IBIA 10-091, 10-092, 10-107, 10-131, 10-002, 11-045, 11-058, 11-083.

In 20 I 0 and 20 II, Hobart filed several appeals challenging decisions of the Secretary of the Interior to take land into trust for the Tribe. Hobart claims that the Secretary cannot take land into trust for the Tribe because the Tribe was supposedly not under federal jurisdiction when congress passed the Indian Reorganization Act in 1934. These appeals are pending.

In the most recent decision in the Storm Water Case a couple weeks ago, the Judge pointed out that "this is not the first case over which this Court has presided between the Tribe and the Village, and it is unlikely to be the last." The Judge also explained that "the interests of the Village and the Tribe are not aligned; their constituencies are not the same and they have vastly different plans for the future. As a result, cooperation is more difficult."

THE FUTURE

So then we need to ask ourselves, what do we do from here? How can we move away from the courtroom toward a relationship more like the one the Tribe enjoys with our other neighboring governments? Is this even possible when Hobart claims we shouldn't exist, that our reservation is gone, and they should have control over our tribal members? If this isn't possible, what are our options? The Tribe is not going away and neither is Hobart. We need to find a way to move past these issues so we can both properly serve and represent the community as a whole.

The costs of litigation and politics seem to dominate the world and even apply to our local realities. Often times an opportunity presents itself to us for various reasons and we welcome a solution to an issue. Perhaps that time is before us and we need to be prepared for that time. If not, we may well be on a path of a more costly political future and economic hardships. Our need to get to the real agendas of various units of government in both intra and intergovernmental relationships may reveal some core values and foundations of revealing who we really are and who we are not. There are tremendous opportunities if we find solutions and tremendous consequences if we do not. I believe we know what it is we need to get to so let's get to it. I do not know if there is a single solution or many solutions to our situation. I do know we need to keep this strategic thinking path to find a positive change. My email, mailbox, phone and door are always open to hear your thoughts, concerns and questions on how we move forward from here to a more positive future. The alternative is not acceptable to our good mind and the good future.

Letters & Opinions...

Bottom Line

Shekóli, loved ones and extended community/family members. In the August 23, 2012 issue of the Kali, elder Mr. Cornelius, USMC informed me of the staggering amount of money our elected leaders approved and gave away this year. As you all well know we are facing a financial deficit this coming fiscal year. We know this because our dedicated Treasurer has repeatedly warned us of it. Now another tribal official and member of the press has informed me and y'all to the looming employment changes that eventually must occur, if this trend of money management continues. As pointed out by Mr. Cornelius the money that was just handed out like candy to our neighbors, will have a substantial impact on our future to support this nation "our nation of Oneida." Just the numbers provided alone come to almost 2.5 million, that's not including the state's share from this years profits.

The Breakdown

One million+ % of 2012's profits, + 17,000 + 25,000 + 55,000 + 3,000 + 357,000 + 725,000 + 24,300 = 1,306,300 + 1,000,000 = 2,306, 300 (not including % of last years profits)

On top of that the strain that per-cap and the $100 meeting stipends are putting on the budget, these monies were not even taken into consideration when I added the numbers up.

Sharing and compromising end of some of the deals our elected officials commit US (the GTC), too. Now compound all this stress and added community problems that are plaguing native (Indian) families throughout the US, especially the young and disabled, and elderly. But most importantly the working families that feel there just hanging on by a thread as it is now.

"The Bottom Line" is we have major discrepancies in what important and what's absolutely imperative to the expansion of the tribe. Although many of us/you are sacrificing and coming together as a family unit should during tough times. Almost daily some of us continue to struggle with day-to-day living. The United States may be coming out of its economic devastation very slowly, but MY Oneida Nation is quickly and very much on the verge of a financial crisis of our own. So while I prepare myself to transition back into my own family and community, you OUR elected officials must prepare yourselves for this uphill battle also. Because we do what we do for the ones next in line behind us. You dig! As always "Family First."

5. Review EAP usability
Sponsor: Patty Hoeft
Motion by Patty Hoeft to maintain funding in the FY13 budget for the continuation of the two staff position in the Tribe's EAP program, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one opposition:
Opposed: Tina Danforth
For the record: Tina Danforth stated I oppose this decision because 1) it was an add on the agenda, 2) I still have no pertinent information, written or otherwise saying why this budget decision should be changed, 3) it is an action of inequity and it is an action that is not fair to the rest of the organization that went through the budget process and the considerations were made 4) if we're going to do budget considerations with no back up, with no opportunity for other people to get a second consideration about the budget, then we need to do that across the board and with that the timeliness of it is not appropriate.
For the record: Greg Matson stated as this committee continues to reorg, sometimes in consensus sometimes other, each one of these budget items needs to be considered as we think on our feet. Some things don't require the full-fledged paperwork trail, because things are changing on a regular basis up here. So just for the record, I believe some of these votes can be supported without the backup paperwork, just because of the environment change.
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I think in making the decision in the budget meeting we did not have the correct information to make the first decision in the first place. It is correct for me saying that the Division Director that was no longer supervising the department had an outgoing recommendation and the Division Director that is now supervising had no input in the recommendation so this would be affording that Division Director the opportunity to look at the utilization moving forward.
For the record: Melinda J. Danforth stated if we're going to begin to look at eliminating positions that affect Tribal members, I think we need to do it comprehensively and not just piece by piece. I think that when we talk in total about reorganization and looking at potential layoff's in the future or potential reorg, we need to do it comprehensively and not just singly and this affected and impacted a Tribal member and we've heard from our General Tribal Council and the community that they want to be the last to go. So if this is the case and point for exactly all the things that the Treasurer has indicated that it's not fair, that it's not equal, those are the exact reasons, the opposite reasons about why I support this motion.
For the record: David Jordan stated during that budget meeting, we were, I was never informed when I was sitting in that room that this was going to affect any member, that was going to lose a position and I don't believe we can actually make that decision in a budget meeting, it should be brought to the BC.
Motion by David Jordan to table this item, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion failed with five oppositions:
Opposed: Melinda J. Danforth, Patty Hoeft, Greg Matson, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
*Vince DelaRosa arrived at 11:10 a.m.
6. Schedule special BC meeting with public comment session to approve FY2012 Tribal budget
Sponsor: Patty Hoeft
Motion by Patty Hoeft to call a special BC meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 14, 2012 requiring the Business Committee as a whole to conduct a public comment session followed by approval of the balanced budget that will then be sent on to GTC for final adoption, seconded by Brandon Stevens. Motion carried with two oppositions and two abstentions:
Opposed: Melinda J. Danforth, Tina Danforth
Abstained: Greg Matson, Paul Ninham
For the record: Greg Matson stated I am not sure of anyone's schedule right now and I agree with Melinda.
For the record: Tina Danforth stated I opposed because, 1) there has not been appropriate communication between the Secretary's and my office regarding the Aug. 14 date, 2) it imposes a scheduling difficulty for things that have been planned out amongst myself and my staff, 3) I will not be in attendance on the 14th, I made you fully aware of that. I am scheduled to be on a plane from Monday to Monday, so I will be out of the area. I also oppose because I don't agree what was being recommended around changes around the process two days, three work days before it is supposed to occur.
For the record: Patty Hoeft stated the Business Committee came to a balanced budget that went beyond the original calendar. The Treasurer has failed to provide a new date for the Business Committee meeting so that we could adopt it. This effort by myself was to get a date in front of the Business Committee so we could decide when we would want to get together, to have a meeting to adopt the budget. The only time I knew the Business Committee would be available, as a whole, to talk about this would be at today's meeting. The balanced budget from the work meetings only came as of recently. Since Thursday on Aug. 2…since Thursday, Friday, Monday, Tuesday and today, we got no direction from the Treasurer on when to hold to hold a special meeting and we only find out at this meeting that she has plans to be out of town, next week, the week after that, and the week after that.

From 7A/ OBC Minutes, August 8

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated this date would provide us the opportunity, having the budget on Friday afternoon, to look at it, agree with any changes and provide any recommendations and further changes to be forwarded to that Tuesday meeting for our consideration.

For the record: Paul Ninham stated I abstained because I don't care if we do it Friday, if we do it Monday or Tuesday, or just like Councilwoman Danforth had mentioned, a Saturday or Sunday. Just so that we go ahead and we notice the community on this, it doesn't matter what day for me.

For the record: Ed Delgado stated I'm very disappointed that we saw not to accommodate the request of the Treasurer to be in attendance at that budget meeting

Unfinished Business/BC directives

1. Oneida Total Integrated Enterprise (OTIE) increase in shared revenue

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Excerpt from July 25, 2012: Motion by Melinda J. Danforth to direct the Chief Financial Officer to review the report submitted by OTIE and to make a written recommendation to the Oneida Business Committee at the Aug. 7, 2012 executive meeting, seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Patty Hoeft to accept the report, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with two oppositions and one abstention:

Opposed: Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa

Abstained: David Jordan

Motion by Patty Hoeft to request the law office to return, in conjunction with the finance department, an opinion regarding amending the operating agreement seconded by Melinda J. Danforth. Motion carried with three oppositions and one abstention:

Opposed: Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan

Abstained: Brandon Stevens

Motion by David Jordan to direct OTIE to provide a onetime disbursement of $120,000 to the Tribe, seconded by Melinda J. Danforth. Motion carried with two oppositions:

Opposed: Tina Danforth, Vince DelaRosa

For the record: David Jordan stated I'm taking advantage of, that's why I made the motion to take the $120,000 that's offered. Granted this entity that the Tribe entered into many years ago, at this time we were supposed to have the full $6M paid back to the Tribe.

For the record: Tina Danforth stated its also my understanding that the last operating agreement, which has been amended as of Dec. 7, 2010 that they were to obligate and distribute to the Tribe 25 percent and that was based on the quote, I'm going to quote here "The payment shall be up to 75 percent of the net profit derived from the company from each fiscal year. The following definitions shall be used in determining a payment to the member, which is the Tribe and it defines net profit, gross revenues, expensive operation and legally obligated distributions," and that is why I opposed the $120,000 because it does not meet the requirement of 75 percent of net profit, because that has not been formulated since 2010 by OTIE. That is not my obligation that is not finance's obligation that is the corporation's obligation to provide that to the Tribe.

Motion by Vince DelaRosa to have a formal written analysis done on current operations and the business relationship between OTIE and the Oneida Tribe. I am asking that this analysis be conducted by the CFO and the Treasurer's office. This will include an assessment of an agreement from a 2010 agreement which my office became aware of on August 7, 2012, be in writing in 30 days back to the Business Committee, seconded by David Jordan. Motion carried with one abstention:

Abstained: Tina Danforth

Motion by Tina Danforth that the Treasurer's office and the CFO's office get the full cooperation and commitment of OTIE to conduct this analysis, which means all financial information that is on their books and their ledgers, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried unanimously

Motion by Brandon Stevens to direct the BC to meet with OTIE board and the Nye's in the next 30 days, regarding all the issues that are arising, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one abstention:

Abstained: Tina Danforth

New Business/Requests

1. Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation (OAHC) update

Sponsor: Brandon Stevens

Motion by Brandon Stevens to accept the update, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with one abstention:

Abstained: Patty Hoeft

2. Approve limited waiver of sovereign immunity with Corner Stone

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Greg Matson to defer this item to the Chief Financial Officer, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one opposition and two abstentions:

Opposed: Tina Danforth

Abstained: Melinda J. Danforth, Brandon Stevens

For the record: Tina Danforth stated my opposition is because I don't believe full information and disclosure has not been made as to the necessity of the sovereign immunity and the content thereof from Corner Stone.

3. Approve contract with DiTronics Financial Services, LLC

Sponsor: Larry Barton

Motion by Tina Danforth to approve the contract with DiTronics Financial Services, LLC with a limited waiver of sovereign immunity, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried unanimously

4. 3 Fires investment report

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Tina Danforth to direct the necessary staff, the Law Office, Finance Office to conduct the selling of the Oneida Tribe's interest to Sam Manuel at the recommended buyout offer of $1.25M and no less if at all possible, seconded by David Jordan. Motion failed with four oppositions and one abstention:

Opposed: Vince DelaRosa, Greg Matson, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens

Abstained: Patty Hoeft

For the record: David Jordan stated this Tribe has invested in some good things and some bad things in the past. This absolutely one of the worst things, it didn't work out for this Tribe. They need us to put in a million dollars that has to be Ok'd by the GTC. In this short period of time it will not happen and I will not back something that needs to be approved by the GTC at a stake of a million dollars that is unbudgeted for and I think the GTC is fed up with these bad investments. We need to get out of them and that's for the record. To me, California is upside down, the whole entire state is. There is city after city, filing bankruptcy. The writing's on the wall.

For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated my concern is that to try and harvest the best return, as we try and engage in an exit strategy. I agree with Councilman Jordan, that there are problems with this investment and certainly problems out in California. We're not going to see nothing more than about $770,000 on return. I don't want to take a $4.3M or more haircut with Tribal member dollars, so I think we have to do more. We have to reach out to more people. Obviously the first issue here would be, is to try and see what we can do with San Manuel in terms of trying to extend the Umpqua deal. I don't think that's unreasonable to ask them that we need some more time to negotiate. I know that they've put a deadline of 30 days in terms of the extension, but I think we can ask for more time. I just think we should work a little bit harder to try and save these investment dollars on behalf of the Tribal members. I can't support trying to sell at $1.2, we won't realize anything above $700,000. $770,000 on an investment, over $5M, I just think that is just too big of a loss without looking other opportunities to save some of that revenue that belongs to Tribal members.

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I think there's options that were discussed, that were not relayed to the loan group that was discussed by the committee and that I think to further vet this out, I also agree with Councilman Jordan there are a lot of factors that would point us in the direction of getting out of the investment, but as far as long term, the property is cash-flowing. The loan agreement and the loan structure is very defunct and so there are options for us to proceed in looking further into something that would be more meaningful to our role, before losing the entire amount of the investment.

For the record: Greg Matson stated I just think that some of the information that has been shared by some of those meetings that we did have, that even in a support effort of the sale we'll end up with no return, just because of the structure of the overall. That's where we're going to end up. We're going to ask for the approval of the sale and the sale will result in no return. So that's my opposition to the overall offer. There again, for the record and very few records I agree with Vince, there needs to be further discussion by other groups other than those involved currently. So I think it's a no win-win for many people involved, I highly respect the CFO's recommendations, I agree with many levels of the Chief Counsel's oversight, but I just believe there will be no return with the purchase.

For the record: Paul Ninham stated my comments are just actually reflective of Councilman's DelaRosa's.

For the record: Ed Delgado stated if we don't come to a decision, this Business Committee cannot come to a decision pretty soon, that we not only stand to lose the whole investment but may even incur debt due to legal fees.

For the record: David Jordan stated something would be better than nothing.

Additions

Motion by Tina Danforth to accept the update, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with one opposition and one abstention:

Opposed: Greg Matson

Abstained: Brandon Stevens

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Melinda J. Danforth to start the pardon process within the 30 days in accordance with the Tribal Law and to have the Chairman lead the process, with the Vice Chairman as the alternate, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with two oppositions:

Opposed: Patty Hoeft, Brandon Stevens

For the record: Brandon Steven stated this is a burdensome process, the pardon process and I think it needs to be restrictive and it needs to have a clear distinction of what we're looking for regarding criteria, to have validity. We don't want to just be signing pardons left and right, but we want to make sure that the people are going through the process, they understand the process, it's communicated to them and they know where to go. I think it does need to be within the Chair and Vice Chair's office because you guys are the leaders and signing off on that would entail that you are granting them clemency or pardon. We do it for certain reasons, for housing. We have a long housing list of people. We have good applicants. We have applicants that are really trying hard and we have applicants that just want a pardon, just so that they can get housing and then there's a whole line of people who are good qualified people and we're just thinking about those who just want a pardon, just to get housing. Sometimes they get that misrepresentation that just because they get a pardon, they're going to get a house and so that's why we have to make it clear to them that just because they are getting a pardon, it just allows them to be on the list to be employed. It allows them on the list to get housing, that it doesn't push them forward.

For the record: Patty Hoeft stated the new pardon and forgiveness law is more restrictive to the applicants, not to the Tribe. It makes it very difficult for applicants to go through the process. Then it makes it very difficult for the agencies such as the Gaming Commission and HR to do their work because the applicant will go through various processes and when they come through us first, we are taking action to nullify their record. Which is good for the applicant.

For the record: Ed Delgado stated I brought this forward because right now we have no process and we have a lot of people who are seeking pardons. 25 years ago, when I came here I was shocked at the number of Oneidas in the Brown County jail and Outagamie jail. I was really shocked because our people are identified by those officers in Green Bay and Ashwaubenon and we have a high, high percentage of people with records. Whereas those other people they are not targeted. Caucasian Americans are not targeted, but our people are. We have a lot of people with records and we need to somehow welcome them back to our community, because that is part of who we are. We have a long history in our traditions about people who change, from the Tadadaho all the way to Handsome Lake. Thank you.

Dams going down at Pamperin Park

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Deconstruction of two low head dams in Pamperin Park will mean better fishing in Oneida according to Water Resources Manager Jim Snitgen.

"The purpose is to restore fish passage so when the fish migrate during their seasonal migrations they won't be blocked here at Pamperin Park, they'll be able to get all the way up and make use of the whole watershed. It's an advantage for the fish, it's an advantage for the anglers, and the overall health of the system will be improved by this as well," he said.

A dam in the at the Oneida Golf and Country Club will be modified to restrict the invasive round goby. The demolition and modification is being paid for by the US Fish and Wildlife, Wisconsin Costal Management Program, Great Lakes Restoration Initiative and Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

"It's complicated when you have all these partners to get all the agreements in place, but it was well worth while," said Snitgen.

Anglers may notice an increase in suckers and northern pike in reservation water ways next spring.

Deconstruction of the fish dams in Pamperin Park began Friday, September 14. Removal of the dams will allow for more fish to travel upstream creating better fishing opportunities in Duck Creek.

Brothertown denied federal acknowledgement

Only US Congress can restore status

WASHINGTON, D.C. ~ Acting Assistant Secretary – Indian Affairs Donald E. "Del" Laverdure today issued a final determination on a petition for federal acknowledgment, declining to acknowledge the Brothertown Indian Nation (Brothertown) as an Indian tribe under federal law. Brothertown is located in Wisconsin and first submitted its petition in 1980.

In the final determination on the Brothertown petition, the acting Assistant Secretary determined that the group previously had a relationship with the United States, but had its tribal status terminated by an 1839 Act of Congress. The Department's regulations prohibit the Assistant Secretary from acknowledging a petitioning group where Congress previously terminated the tribal status of that group. Only Congress may restore the tribal status of Brothertown and its government-to-government relationship with the United States.

"This decision was made after a careful review of the facts in the record," Laverdure said. "As our regulations prohibit us from acknowledging Brothertown through the Department's process, only Congress can restore the tribal status of Brothertown under federal law."

The Department's regulations require a petitioning group to satisfy seven mandatory criteria, including a requirement that the group had not previously been the subject of legislation terminating their tribal status or prohibiting a relationship with the United States. In this case, Brothertown could not overcome this requirement. Because Brothertown could not satisfy one of the seven mandatory criteria for federal acknowledgment, the Department did not look to the other criteria in making its final determination.

Copies of the final determination and Federal Register notice will be posted on the Department of the Interior website at http://www.bia.gov/WhoWeAre/AS-IA/OFA/RecentCases/index.htm.

Haskell Univ. responds to NAIA probation ruling

By Heather Hollingsworth
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) ~ Haskell Indian Nations University has taken "corrective actions" to address concerns that led to its athletic programs being placed on probation this week through 2014, the Kansas school said in a statement released Thursday.

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics placed the school on probation for "violations involving ineligible players," but it released no details. The probation went into effect Monday.

In Thursday's statement, the university said the problems involved only the football and men's basketball programs, and one player from each team was affected. The school had earlier disclosed internal and federal investigations into claims that two student-athletes had falsified ACT scores dating back to 2008.

Haskell president James Redman said in the statement that oversight and polices have been improved to bring the school into compliance with NAIA standards and address issues raised in a U.S. Department of Education Inspector General's investigation and report.

In the release, which was dated Wednesday but released late Thursday, Redman said departmental reviews were conducted, policies were tightened and the student database system and ACT reporting requirements were upgraded. He also noted that policies tied to "drop/add deadlines and stop-gap actions" have prevented other occurrences.

"Haskell takes ethical and compliance responsibilities very serious and believes this was an isolated event," he said.

The school said no students were advanced in class ranking or earned degrees "as a result of falsified ACT scores alleged to have been submitted" or other credits received from hybrid courses from online or off campus.

Haskell, which is overseen by the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, announced the investigations in May and said they had resulted in "official action on the employees and students involved," as well as the discovery that three other students' transcripts were manipulated. Two employees involved no longer work at Haskell, the school said at the time.

University spokesman Stephen Prue said in a telephone interview Thursday that the NAIA's decision to place the school on probation resulted from two of those cases. He declined to provide the students' names.

He also said the school is still determining how many men's basketball and football games will be forfeited. According to the NAIA handbook, the use of ineligible students leads to the forfeiture of "all contests in which the ineligible student participated." Athletes also lose at least one season of eligibility.

Institutions placed on probation must submit a written response detailing the corrective measures they plan to take. Future violations can lead to the suspension of programs, a move that would bar them from postseason play, according to the NAIA handbook.

BIA to take control of tribe's social services

FORT TOTTEN, N.D. (AP) ~ The Bureau of Indian Affairs plans to take control of social service programs for the Spirit Lake Tribe following criticism that the tribe has failed to protect endangered children, U.S. Sen. John Hoeven's office said.

The BIA informed Hoeven's office about the decision Friday afternoon, according to a Forum newspaper story published Saturday. Hoeven had called for a review of the tribe's social services program.

"BIA's informed our office that they will be taking over the tribal social services," said Ryan Bernstein, Hoeven's deputy chief of staff and legal counsel. "I was told that the tribe passed a resolution today ceding it back to the BIA, basically giving it to the government to run."

Federal officials have accused tribal officials of repeatedly ignoring reports of child abuse and neglect. Complaints have come from Thomas Sullivan, regional administrator for the U.S. Administration for Children and Families, and Michael Tilus, a former behavioral health director at the Indian Health Service clinic in Fort Totten.

Tribal Chairman Roger Yankton says most problems predate his administration.

Details of the transition weren't immediately available. A BIA spokeswoman and Yankton were not available to comment about the takeover.

The decision means the federal government will administer the social services for the tribe. The tribe had been running the programs under contract with the BIA, which provides funding.

Yvonne LaRockque, the self-determination officer for the BIA's Great Plains Region, which includes North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska, said a BIA takeover of programs it contracted with a tribe to administer happens about once or twice a year.

Tribe secures money in effort to buy SD land

By Kristi Eaton
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) ~ A Native American tribe trying to buy land it considers sacred in South Dakota's picturesque Black Hills is in negotiations with the landowners and has secured money for a deposit, though no final agreement has been reached, tribe officials said Tuesday.

The nearly 2,000 acres of pristine prairie grass plays a key role in the creation story of the tribes making up the Great Sioux Nation, and members fear that new owners would develop the property. The land, which the tribes call Pe' Sla, is the only sacred site on private land outside Sioux control.

The Rosebud Sioux Tribe, whose reservation is among the closest to the land, has allocated an undisclosed amount of money as an earnest deposit on the land, though tribe spokesman Alfred Walking Bull said Tuesday that he couldn't specify the amount or where negotiations stood with the land owners.

"Basically, Rosebud is working out the details and the details will be forthcoming as early as next week," he said.

The tribe had earlier said it was allocating $1.3 million to the cause, and donations to an online fundraising effort totaled about $300,000 by Tuesday, though tribal officials fear that the land could sell for between $6 million and $10 million.

An auction to sell that land had been scheduled for Aug. 25, but the couple cancelled it a few days before without commenting. Walking Bull said both sides have been working through a third party to handle negotiations.

"We are very pleased we've reached this positive milestone," said Chase Iron Eyes, a member of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe who led the online fundraising effort. He said supporters will hold a celebration rally Wednesday in Rapid City.

The tribes believe the Sioux people were created from the Black Hills. According to part of their spiritual tradition, Pe' Sla is where the Morning Star fell to Earth, killing seven beings that killed seven women. The Morning Star placed the souls of the women into the night sky as "The Seven Sisters," also known as the Pleiades constellation.

Indian Summerfest 2012 Highlights

Indian Summer 2012 has come to a close. The festival, which was held at the Henry Maier Festival Grounds in Milwaukee, kicked off on Friday, September 7th with Education day. Children from Milwaukee area schools had the opportunity to view villages of some Wisconsin tribes who participated in the Indian summer event – the Oneida, Menominee and the Ojibwe to name a few, provided educational materials for spectators. Story telling, Smoke Dancers and native artists were on hand at the Oneida village throughout the weekend.

A variety of native bands and musicians performed at the various stages while on the opposite end of the grounds, a contest powwow was held throughout the weekend with the first grand entry on Friday evening.

Another staple tradition which is always a huge draw for spectators, was the annual jigging contest. A variety of vendors were on site showcasing everything from unique silver jewelry, Pendleton blankets, purses, pipes and a variety of beautifully designed beadwork from barrettes, necklaces, and bracelets.

Check out www.indiansummer.org and Kali facebook for more photo coverage of various events.

Elm shoots for school records

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

West DePere high school senior Bryce Elm competed in the West DePere Invitational Cross-Country meet on Thursday, September 6, 2012.

Elm bounced back from an injured ankle that made him a spectator for the Phantoms' first two meets of the season. Despite being sidelined for a few weeks, Elm just missed a top ten finish in the meet, which featured a course just over three miles in length.

"This was my first race of the year. So it's okay I guess. I'm upset with my time but like my coach said at least I'm not happy with the time, not happy with the place. But I still feel that I should have done better," Elm said shortly after crossing the finish line.

Elm fought through pre-race leg cramps and a sore knee that bothered him during the race.

"I'm not 100% so it's frustrating right now. I'm not in the shape I need to be after missing two meets and not being able to practice. I've been able to practice here and there but not as much as I would like to," Elm said.

With that being said, Elm was still the first West DePere Phantom to cross the finish line. In fact, the entire Phantom squad has had to make due with an incomplete roster two meets into the young season.

"This is the first time all season that our whole varsity team ran together. Everybody has been on vacation or hurt. Last week we only had two out of seven varsity runners. So that makes a huge difference," Elm added.

With ten cross-country meets remaining in Elm's senior season he has plenty of time to work out the kinks, get into the physical shape he hopes for, and achieve his goals for the season.

"My goals for my senior year are to make it to state and beat the high school record in cross-country. The school record is 16 (minutes) 49 (seconds); last year my fastest time was a 17 (minutes) 14 (seconds) so it's not that far. In track I would like to beat the mile and two-mile records. That would be real nice," said Elm.

With his efforts focused primarily on the season ahead, Elm still has running at the college level on his mind. During his junior season at West DePere letters began to arrive from universities throughout the region. By mid winter Elm hopes to have made a decision on which school he will attend next fall.

"A couple more schools are looking at me. I just got a letter the other day from Saint Mary's University in Minnesota. It's a division three school which is pretty good, but like coach said I just got to wait a little bit longer and there will be more and more offers. But running in college is definitely something I want to do," Elm said.

Oneida Land Commission announces new place names

Oneida Community Members,

The Oneida Land Commission has formally selected the name of the new nursing home and residential care building located next to the Lee McLester Elder Complex. The name selected is the Anna John Residential Community Care Center.

The only name submitted (by numerous individuals) for the county H recreation center and approved by the Oneida Land Commission is: CLIFFORD WEBSTER SR. BUILDING.

Names submitted for the ball field were Hilton Charles Ball Park, Dan George Field, William (Bill) Danforth Ball Diamond, Little Brother, Strong Wind, Oneida Mission Athletic Field, Doxtator-John-Smits Athletic Field, Oneida Mission Baseball Field, Oneida Nation Ball Field, Vernon Ninham Ball Field, Edwin King Sr. Ball Field and Oneida Field of Dreams. After listening to the letters of recommendation from family members, the Land Commission second vote ended in a tie between William (Bill) Danforth Ball Diamond and the Oneida Mission Baseball Field. As chair of the Commission I was given the vote to break the tie. It was a difficult and challenging decision, but I broke the tie by selecting the ONEIDA MISSION BASEBALL FIELD. The tribe has many respected men who could have been honored by the field named after them, but I did not want to choose just one, so I selected the one that recognized that the land was restored to the Tribe by the Oneida Episcopal Church back in the 1940's for recreational purposes.

In closing, I, along with the Land Commissioners want to thank those who contributed to the naming of the residential care facility, the recreation center and the ball field.

Amelia Cornelius, Chair, Oneida Land Commission

The Family of Josh Webster Memorial Team wishes to thank the community and notable sponsors for supporting their recent fundraisers which provided an opportunity to compete in several coed softball tournaments. This year the team finished 2nd place in the Ross Stealer Memorial Tournament held in Crandon WI, team was beaten out by the home-town Potawatomi team. They recently returned from Black River Falls, WI to compete in the 15th Annual All-Nations Coed Softball. This year the team did well and came home with a 3nd place finish losing only to Team Michigan by one run. As the coach and mother for both teams it really is an honor to carry our son's name into the tournaments and to see all the young players excel and display such good sportsmanship. Our family is really proud of the players who elected to participate with us this season. We have representatives from not only Oneida, but Menominee Nation, Potawatomi, HoChunk and Navajo Nation.

Black bear hunt begins in Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A state ecologist says prospects are good for the black bear hunting season in Wisconsin.

The hunt gets under way Wednesday and runs through Oct. 9. A mild winter and early spring benefited the black bear population in Wisconsin.

About 9,000 hunting permits have been issued this season, the same as last year. This year, hunters who aren't using dogs will have the first week of the season to themselves.

DNR big game ecologist Kevin Wallenfang says the bear population is pushing toward southern Wisconsin.

What to do when the OCHC is closed

Have you ever wondered what the difference is when the On call nurse tells you to go to Urgent Care or sends you to the Emergency room? Many people have asked the same questions! We hope this short description may help you make a more informed, cost effective decision the next time you get sick and want to avoid going to the emergency room or are unable to get an appointment through the Oneida Community Health Center. If you are unsure whether you need to seek medical attention at any of the services, contact your primary provider or the On-call staff after hours.

There are two types of services available for after hour care located outside the Oneida Community Health Center that you may want to save and hang on your refrigerator or other convenient places in your home for quick reference:

Urgent Care
Mid-Range Cost

- Urgent care centers are more cost effective than emergency room visits.
- The waiting time is usually much shorter than an emergency room.
- The Oneida Community Health Center currently utilizes Prevea Urgent Care Centers.
- Urgent Care Centers handle conditions that require immediate attention and medical situations that may cause serious problems or discomforts if treatment is delayed.
- Some examples of conditions that require urgent care are:

1. Ear infections
2. Sprains
3. Vomiting
4. High fever

- You must receive prior approval from the on-call nurse before going to any urgent care center. The After Hours phone number (920) 869-2711.

Emergency Rooms
High Cost

- Emergency rooms are equipped to handle life-threatening injuries and illnesses and other serious medical conditions. An emergency is a condition that may cause loss of life or permanent or severe disability if not treated.
- You should call 911 or go directly to the nearest emergency room if you experience any of the following:

Chest pain
Seizures
Inability to swallow
Serious burns, cuts or infections
Uncontrolable bleeding
Shortness of breath
Broken Bones
Paralysis
Severe abdominal pain following an injury
Poisoning or suspected poisoning
Confusion or loss of consciousness - especially after a head injury.

Up-date from the Ombudsman

By Dianne McLester-Heim
Oneida Ombudsman
920-490-3713

Shekolih,

As the Oneida Ombudsman - with a responsibility to the members of General Tribal Council and the community as identified by the direction of the 2005 GTC motion creating the position and stating that the Ombudsman is to "listen to the concerns of the employees of the health center and tribal community members…"; I am reporting out on matters that have been coming before my office with respect to Oneida Contract Health Services.

Oneida Contract Health Services:

The Office of the Ombudsman (OoO) has been contacted on a variety of occasions by community members with questions and/or concerns that in some way related to Contract Health Services. While there has been great variety to the questions and concerns, there is a common thread that seems to connect the matters. The commonality of many of the matters brought forward is that of confusion and a lack of clear understanding of these services and the guidelines that go with the use of these services. The Contract Health Department of the Comprehensive Health Division has been very receptive to interaction and communication with the OoO. The Contract Health Services Department has also been very open and receptive to suggestions for positive improvement that have come as a part of this interaction.

With that stated, it is important to identify that the individual seeking to utilize Contract Health Services also has a responsibility in creating a successful working relationship for the smooth reception of the service. While Contract Health Services have been around for quite some time and utilized by many community members, it is important for the person(s) looking to use the service to seek proper direction and understanding directly instead of relying on 'community chatter and interpretation of how it works'. Contract Health Services is a service that has guidelines and rules just like any other service provided to society. The overarching guidelines are not set by the program itself but rather by rules and regulations' coming from a higher source – often the funding provider and federal regulations – meaning the program has no say over those guidelines.

Contract Health Services does have an informational brochure available to help guide the community in the use of their services. As a general rule of thumb, it is a good idea to:

- Contact Contract Health Services with questions and uncertainty
- Be aware that there are eligibility requirements that must be met

oThis includes a responsibility of the individual to provide the required documentation and forms for service within the identified time frame

- Understand that a referral for services (medical, dental, or other) IS NOT the same as approved financial coverage of services by Oneida Contract Health

o Make sure to have contact with a representative of Contract Health Services to verify eligibility and what is or is not covered by the referral – They are the Experts on this

- Are you Contract Health Eligible
- Number of visits covered
- Time frame covered by the referral…they are not eternal and do require renewal for long term services
- Realize that if a service provider to whom you were referred indicates you need other services, you must go back to the Oneida Health Center and go through the proper referral and contract health process to identify financial coverage by Contract Health for the suggested service
- Be aware that simply calling Contract Health to state that you sought 'emergency services' does not guarantee Contract Health Services will be covering the bill
- Understand that an On-call provider is not a Contract Health employee and cannot determine if a service you receive will be covered…you will need to make sure you speak to someone in the Contract Health Service Department, within the identified time frame, during normal business hours to get this information
- Know that it is OK to be confused about the process and it is important to ask your questions directly for proper answers instead of relying on community interpretation

It is the desire of the Contract Health Services Department to partner with community members seeking and receiving Contract Health Service to create the smoothest experience possible for all. It is also the position of the Office of the Ombudsman to offer and provide that neutral assistance to either and/or both sides if requested. The Office of the Ombudsman fully understands the fact that both a service provider and a service recipient have responsibilities to the process in order for it to run smoothly.

This article, as with any article by the Office of the Ombudsman, is for community informational purposes. It is not the intent of the Ombudsman to give a perception that community members should not contact the office with matters related to any of the areas covered. Community members are welcome to contact the office with questions, concerns, and comments as the Ombudsman is to "listen to the concerns of the employees of the Health Center and tribal community members." Look for the next article by the Ombudsman which will be discussing interaction with Oneida Transit Services.

How will the Per Capita affect your Benefits?

The Oneida Nation Per Capita that will be distributed will affect your SSI and Medicaid health care benefits (including QMB, SLMB and SLMB+). SSI and Medicaid eligibility are based on an individual or family's monthly income and assets. The Oneida per cap is considered income during the month you receive it and an asset anytime following and thus may affect your benefits.

- The Per Capita is considered income the month that it is received and will likely put most people over income for SSI and Medicaid. This means that you will not be eligible for SSI and Medicaid. The only way to become eligible again is to spend the money down until you are within the eligibility guidelines.
- After one month, any remaining Per Capita that you have not spent is now considered an asset, not income. Once you have spent down your Per Capita and are within the SSI and Medicaid assets limits, you will be eligible for SSI and Medicaid again. The maximum asset limit is $2,000 for an individual and $3,000 for a couple.
- You can always spend you Per Capita on home repairs, furniture, pay rent ahead of schedule, etc. to help meet the necessary asset limit.

If you have questions or need assistance determining if the Per Capita will affect you, or reapplying for SSI or Medicaid, contact: Angela Ortiz, Elderly Benefit Specialist, at (920) 869-2448 or (800) 867-1551

Per-Capita Time of year, suggested purchases

Update on Kalihwiyo

Shekoli Swakweku
(Greetings to all of you)

We are happy to report that we have reached our goal of $8000.00 to hold Kalihwiyo and extend a Yawʌ́ko ki wah (Huge Thank you) to those who have contributed to our financial needs, either through donations or supporting our various fundraisers.

On Monday, August 27, 2012 a runner from Oneida, Canada brought to our community the "Invitational Wampum" from Tonawanda. Now, we will "bundle up our words" and send a delegation out East to inform the Kalihwiyo Delegation in Tonawanda that we would like to host the Kalihwiyo (the Good Message) this fall.

This is a great responsibility; carrying this message and reciting these words. We are very fortunate to have leaders in our community to carry on with these traditions in our language.

We are also happy to report that the construction has begun on the bathrooms and running water to the kitchen. However, we find ourselves still needed financial support to continue working on the bathrooms.

We need $8,500.00 to build rest rooms and run water to the kitchen for supplies only, labor is covered.

STRATEGY: Pulling Together/Wrapping Our Minds as One

We are continuing to ask people to do an automatic payroll deduction if you work for the Oneida Tribe or donate to the Longhouse Account at Chase Bank, Green Bay WI. If you are interested in supporting our efforts, please contact: Gail Danforth, 920-869-2052 or 920-869-1676 or Ron Hill 920-490-5385 or 920-606-2183 to get a form if you want to do payroll deduction.

There are two Longhouse Accounts established: Please be specific as to which fund you would like to make your donation;

1. Oneida Longhouse Building Fund taxpayer ID no. 45-5500178

   This fund will be used specifically for new bathrooms, kitchen upgrade, re-do hardwood floors in long house and other renovations specific to the buildings .
2. Our existing account (Oneida Long House) taxpayer ID no. 45-5500611. This account will be used specifically for Kalihwiyo, paying gas electric, porta potties etc. People can still contribute to this fund to help support the next Kalihwiyo doings.

(All our contributions are tax deductible and can be specific to either account)

Donations can be made to either account at any Chase Bank name of account is bolded above; contributors should print their names on deposits so they can be properly identified for tax purposes and acknowledgments.

We cannot do this with a handful of people. There are hundreds of people that have come to the Longhouse to get names, hold funerals, birthday socials, and many other things. These are all the good things that are encouraging us to continue to go on with what we need to do in our traditional ways. We hope we can look to you for support. Every little bit helps.

We send you our prayers and ask that you be mindful and come support your Longhouse.

ORCCC gets sidewalks and landscaping, interior work

The work continues at the ORCCC project with the pouring of the sidewalks to the entrances. As the sidewalks are poured the landscapers follow with black dirt and edging for the rock maintenance strip that surrounds the building. The interior is as busy as the exterior with cabinets being installed throughout the resident wings. Two of the four air handling units are online and maintaining temperatures in two zones of the facility, with the next two following in sequence.

Ojibwe tribal member shoots elk in NW Wis

CLAM LAKE, Wis. (AP) ~ An Ojibwe tribal member has shot an elk in northwestern Wisconsin, despite objections from the state Department of Natural Resources.

An official with the Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission says a tribal elder from the Lac Courte Oreilles (lah-KOOT'-oh-ray) band shot the elk with a rifle Friday morning near Clam Lake.

Commission spokeswoman Sue Erickson tells the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel the tribe submitted an application on Thursday for a ceremonial harvest permit from the DNR.

The young male elk is being prepared for a thanksgiving feast and ceremony.

The DNR had criticized the tribes' decision to harvest an elk. A DNR official says the agency is disappointed that the tribes went ahead with the harvest and calls it a "setback" for the state-tribal relationship.

Wisconsin museum to celebrate Ojibwe treaty

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Madeline Island Museum plans to celebrate the signing of the treaty that created Ojibwe reservations in Wisconsin.

The museum's Treaty Days event is designed to commemorate the Treaty of 1854, which established the reservations and guaranteed the Ojibwe's right to hunt and fish on land they ceded to the government in perpetuity. The treaty was signed at La Pointe, a town on Madeline Island.

The event is scheduled to run from Sept. 29 to Sept. 30. It will feature Ojibwe music and art, an exhibit on Ojibwe treaty rights and a film documenting the Sandy Lake Tragedy of 1850. Hundreds of Ojibwe died that year traveling to and from Sandy Lake, Minn., after U.S. officials told them their annual payments would be distributed there rather than at La Pointe.

Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

It is brought to our attention that this year marks the 5th year of the United Nations adoption of the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

The primary message of this document supports sovereignty rights of indigenous people through the promotion of inherent rights, affirming treaties, and ability to control development of our land, governments and people.

The entire document can be seen on http://www.un.org/esa/socdev/unpfii/documents/DRIPS_en.pdf

The anniversary of another significant document will be happening November 11th. The Canandaigua Treaty addresses or lays out territories and exclusive rights of the Oneida and other Haudneosaunee people. The treaty establishes "... a firm and permanent friendship" and is celebrated each year to this day with the payment laid out in the treaty.

Site I road maintenance called into question

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Drivers avoiding potholes is a familiar sight in Site I in Oneida.

The roads within Site I fall under the jurisdiction of the Village of Hobart. They are also responsible for snow removal within the site.

The village uses a rating system that categorizes roads for repaving, reconstruction and maintenance. Due to the amount of traffic, roads inside Site I are considered lowest priority for the village.

"Examples of high priority roads are arterial roads such as North Overland Road, Trout Creek Road, South Overland Road, and Sunlite Drive due to the volume of traffic," said Allyn Dannhoff, the village's Director of Neighborhood Services. "Collector roads such as Hidden Trail, Florist Drive, and North Pine Tree Rd are classified as Medium Priority. Lesser

Kevin Washburn confirmed as Interior's Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs has ties in Oneida

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Secretary of the Interior Ken Salazar today applauded the Senate's confirmation of Kevin K. Washburn, a member of the Chickasaw Nation of Oklahoma, to serve as Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs at the Department of the Interior. The Senate confirmed Washburn's nomination, which President Obama announced in early August, by unanimous consent last night.

"As we continue to strengthen the integrity of the nation's government-to-government relationship with federally-recognized Indian tribes and empower Native American and Alaska Native communities, Kevin Washburn will be an outstanding addition to our leadership team and a vital asset for President Obama's initiatives in Indian Country," Salazar said.

Kevin Washburn

"Kevin's professional and academic achievements and his thorough knowledge of the critical issues facing the Nation's First Americans will help us to fulfill the President's commitment to empower tribal governments and advance their economic and social goals."

Washburn is Dean of the University of New Mexico School of Law, a position he has held since June 2009. Prior to that, he served as the Rosenstiel Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law from 2008 to 2009 and as an Associate Professor of Law at the University of Minnesota Law School from 2002 to 2008. From 2007 to 2008, Mr. Washburn was the Oneida Indian Nation Visiting Professor at Harvard Law School. Previously, he served as General Counsel for the National Indian Gaming Commission from 2000 to 2002, and as an Assistant volume collector roads such as a West Adam Drive and Nathan Drive are classified as priority. Finally local residential roads that do not collect large volumes of traffic from other roads are classified as lowest priority."

Traffic volume again determines how road repairs are applied.

"The Village, similar to most communities, evaluates its roads using the PASER rating criteria. This rating method assists in categorizing roads that a community should begin planning for repaving, reconstruction," Dannhoff said. "Village staff then evaluates those roads rated lower on the scale for various failure characteristics to further prioritize roads for repaving, reconstruction. Roads exhibiting the most severe failure characteristics are considered for repaving, reconstruction based upon available budgetary dollars."

With the majority of residents in Site I being Oneida tribal citizens the tribe's Department of Public Works fields concerns about the roads.

"We often get complaints concerning the road conditions in Site I. However, it is difficult to address the complaints as Site I is not under tribal jurisdiction. This is an on going battle between the Tribe and the Village of Hobart," said Mike Finn, Transportation Planner for the tribe.

Dannhoff even states the tribe is responsible for some of the road conditions in Site I.

"It should also be pointed out that some of the potholes and deteriorated sections are the result of utility repair work performed in past years by the area water utility. It is the contractor and utility's responsibility to make these repairs. This Department has discussed this with the Oneida Tribe of Indian's Public Works Department. At this point, we have not been advised when the responsible utility or contractor will make these repairs," he said.

Shirley Hill has lived in Site I for 41 years and feels the roads have been neglected.

"Site I streets have never received the maintenance they require considering the amount of occupants and vehicles that are located at this Site," Hill said. "I recall one time that the roads were resurfaced and that was following the reconstruction of the water and sewer system. As for maintenance there is none that I know of or have witnessed. The only time the gutters are cleaned is when we get a drenching rain."

According to Hill, the problem isn't specific to potholes.

"They start plowing and dropping those heavy blades when there is two inches of snow and when there is two feet of snow you are lucky to see them until everyone else is plowed out," said Hill.

Some good news is on the horizon for those frustrated with the road conditions in Site I.

"We have identified some limited areas in Site I in need of repair, however, until the utility patch work and present DOT Highway 54 construction affecting Artley and Elm Streets are completed, we are delaying repair efforts to avoid repairs being displaced by these other efforts," said Dannhoff.

"The Village does its best to address known potholes in a timely manner. Due to the physical land size of the Village, we do not and cannot patrol Village streets on a scheduled basis, so it is conceivable there may be potholes unknown to the Public Works Division. Therefore, we rely on and encourage residents to contact the Neighborhood Services Division at (920) 869-3809 or (920) 655-3719 to advise of any known potholes. The Village has addressed potholes and repairs in the past and will continue to with these efforts," he added.

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

Farmers in our area are totally dependent on the weather. Certainly they look for rain to regularly water their crops. They often pay attention to the Farmer's Almanac to give them guidance about when to plant for the best possible production. Some springs are too wet. Last March was too warm, so that the fruit trees were fooled into blossoming early—and then came the frost. So, apple harvests are now less than optimum and the cherry harvest on Door Peninsula was a failure. Although there was a maple syrup harvest, it too suffered the variances of this spring.

It seems, that inadvertently, we planted our garden at just the right time this year. Everything grew with abundance—potatoes, early red and Yukon Gold, summer squash and various kinds of winter squash, pumpkins, all varieties of tomatoes, two varieties of sweet corn, carrots, beans, and Swiss chard. I wanted to find out if sweet potatoes would grow in this climate, so I ordered twelve plants of a variety called Beauregard. The catalogue said they matured in 90 days. They not only matured, but grew to be about two pounds.

As children, we often had to harvest root vegetables from the garden when the ground was partially frozen and it would be quite cold. Beets, rutabagas, and carrots would have to be topped and put away for the winter in the root cellar. A light frost does not hurt these vegetables. In fact, it causes the vegetables to be sweeter. Potatoes cannot be treated this way though, because they, too, would tend to be sweet, which we would avoid by harvesting them earlier.

Violent weather came and went. John Rice's barn (now Briddell's on Ranch Road) blew away in a tornado while he was bringing his herd of cows home from the pasture in the evening at milking time. That happened in the early '40s. When I was eleven, I was pulled through the upstairs dormer window by a tornado. I had been sleeping on the daybed near the window because I had not been feeling well. When I woke, I was half way through the window and both my fore arms were cut up. From the discussions that I heard immediately after about the incident, all the windows and doors of the house were blown open, but the house prevailed. Many years later, about 1967, I witnessed three tornadoes at once, high aloft in the sky, moving from west to east, again near Ranch Road. I called Herb Bomalaski at the Airport Weather Station to ask him if he put out a report on the radio. He said he would do so in five minutes and I told him the tornadoes would be right over his station by that time.

I attended Silvery Summit grade school for three years. It was two miles from our farm. Then I attended St. Joseph's School in Oneida. It was also two miles to walk there. There were times when we would be drenched to the skin when caught in a rain squall. It was with great difficulty that we children walked that distance in severely cold weather. Neighbors and friends were kind enough to take us in for a few minutes, get us warmed up and get us on our way again. Nala Baumgartner served me some plum dumplings one time when I stopped in at her house. Mason Wheelock and his daughter, Mary, gave us warm tea or cocoa, too.

I still had to walk two miles to catch the high school bus, whether I went to West De Pere or Seymour. On one winter occasion, I got off the bus at Hintz's farm on First Ridge and stumbled over the frozen furrows in the field, down to Duck Creek and up to Second Ridge and Tony Van Schyndel's farm. It was eleven below zero and the wind was blowing fiercely. Previously, there had been a thaw, so there was a significant amount of water on the thick layer of ice already on the Creek. Then the top layer froze with the drop in temperature, but didn't freeze hard enough. I broke through the ice, so I had that to contend with. When I arrived at Tony's house, they said I looked like I had been in a war, because I had a bloody nose that froze all over my face. My two index fingers also froze. That particular event will never be erased from my mind.

When I was an elementary school student, at Silvery Summit school, I learned two poems. I remember them still. The First Snowfall by James Russell Lowell: "The snow had begun in the gloaming; And busily all the night; Had been heaping field and highway; With a silence deep and white."

This is a melancholy poem, because Author Lowell is referring to the first snowfall after the death of his little daughter. There are eight other stanzas.

The other poem is light hearted and perky. October's Bright Blue Weather by Helen Hunt Jackson. "O suns and skies and clouds of June; And flowers of June together; Ye cannot rival for one hour October's bright blue weather." There are eight more stanzas. Sixty years after I learned this poem, I also learned that Helen Hunt Jackson was a great activist on behalf of Indian tribes. She wrote the book: A Century of Dishonor and gave a copy to every Congressman. I went to visit her gravesite in Colorado.

One other major weather event happened on the North Atlantic in October of 1954. I was travelling on the Troop ship, the USS General Maurice Rose, with Gail my oldest child. She was 13 months old and eager to run about. The ship was carrying 500 military dependents, 2000 troops and crew. We ran head on into a hurricane. That required the dependents, especially, to be secured. I had to crawl on my hands and knees in the passageways, clutching a rope while hanging on to Gail to get anywhere. All the condiments, silverware and dishes flew off the tables right over the top of the restraining edges. The hurricane siege lasted four days. The trip was ten days from New York harbor to Bremerhaven, Germany.

OBC approves $2.19K loan to HA Church at Sept. 26 meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) approved a $219,000 loan to Holy Apostles Church at the Wednesday, September 26 meeting.

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Councilmembers Paul Ninham, Melinda Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan and Brandon Stevens.

Oaths of Office

John Breuninger took the oath of office for the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee.

The OBC took a couple of additions early on in the meeting. The first was to approve a National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) resolution supporting the Tribal Child Support Programs to have direct access to the Federal Parent Locator Service and Federal Income Tax Refund Offset Program.

The second addition was approval of a $219,000 loan to Holy Apostles Church for repairs. Wendell McLester presented some of the history of the first Episcopal Church built in the area, including land donations made by the church in the 1940's to create the ball fields and 1960's for the Site I housing area.

"We are in need, desperate need," he said.

The loan was approved.

Minutes to be approved

The OBC approved the September 12 OBC minutes and the September 14 emergency minutes.

Resolutions

The OBC approved a Self Governance Resolution for health service continuation. According to Self Governance Coordinator Chris Johns the resolution provides updates for the Affordable Care Act provisions.

"The new Indian Health Care Improvement Act extends the tribe's ability to provide long term care, community based care, for our elders and our disabled citizens within the community," he said.

The Committee approved a Long Range Transportation Plan Inventory Update presented by Development Director Butch Rentmeester.

The OBC approved Chairman Delgado as the delegate to NCAI and pay $5500 for membership dues.

Directors and Managers quarterly reports

The OBC approved a report from the Development Division given by Rentmeester and one for the Land Management Division given by its Director Fred Muscavitch.

Board, Committee and Commissions

Appointments

The OBC posted one Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee position, recommended appointment of Kimberly Skenandore Goodrich to South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services Board, recommended Gerald Cornelius to the Environmental Resource Board (ERB), and deleted a posting for the ERB.

Quarterly reports

The OBC accepted reports from the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation, the Oneida Election Board and the Oneida Library Board and deleted a report from the Oneida Gang Task Force. During the Oneida Police Commission report, Sandra Robelus noted that the Oneida Police Department (OPD) had been acknowledged for their work in several incidents such as a stand-off, stabbing and homicide investigation. The commission plans to post for a new police officer and sergeant. The OBC approved the report.

Standing Committees

Legislative Operating Committee

The OBC approved the November 8 public hearing date Room Tax Law

Finance Committee

The OBC approved the September 21 minutes.

Community Development Planning Committee

The August 2 minutes were approved.

The Quality of Life was deleted due to restructuring process.

New Business/Requests

The OBC approved changing Custodial Supervisor to Senior Custodian Roving.

The OBC approved the jurisdiction transfer of the old Highway 54 Bridge and underlying land to the Oneida Tribe, though there were some concerns over costs of maintaining the bridge which will be converted to a pedestrian bridge.

"We're supposed to grab everything we can get," said Delgado in support of the transfer.

An amendment was added to request from the Development Division Director a report that shows the long term maintenance plan for the bridge and that the report be sent to the Community Development Planning Committee.

The OBC tabled approval limited waiver of sovereign immunity for UBS Reality Investors to negotiate fees.

The annual and quarterly trade back for cash was referred to Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Larry Barton for a written recommendation.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Why Should I transfer my case to Oneida Tribal Child Support Agency?

1. If your case has a cash order for child support, the arrears will not accrue interest.
2. You will have better one-on-one customer service, as this one of the agencies priorities.
3. Depending on the parents' receipt of State/Tribal cash assistance, a non-cash order may be an option in lieu of child support, however this must be agreed to by both parents.
4. Your child support case will be reviewed every 2 years rather than the State's 33 month review, again to provide better customer service. Currently there are no fees attached to this process.
5. The obligor will not have to pay the $65 yearly State fee.
6. The obligee will not be charged the $25 yearly State fee.
7. Case management is stratified to meet the needs of the client/families.

Currently cases are being transferred from Outagamie County; notices should be received by the effected parties. If there any questions regarding the transfer process, they can be addressed by calling, Michelle Rutues at 920-490-3972.

The next county expected to transfer child support cases, is Milwaukee County. Our agency intends to hold another community event for those soon to be clients to answer questions and or concerns. We look forward to seeing you then, however the Milwaukee case manager, Jenna Skenandore, 414-329-4119 is currently available for questions at the SEOTS office.

If parties wish to agree/stipulate to transfer their child support case to Oneida, they may contact the agency for the directions and correct forms that both parties must sign. An application for transfer is also on hand for those who want to apply for a case transfer.

If your child support case is transferred from another county, any matters regarding custody, placement or visitation are also transferred but are dealt by the Oneida Tribal Judicial System, and those matters are not heard or decided by the Oneida Child Support Agency.

Chairman

Responsibilities of Leadership

Sovereignty lies within all of us as human beings, it is a God given right. As a Tribal nation, "we the people" come together to create a national sovereignty and within that national sovereignty is the right of the people to expect that their individual and common interests are both respected and protected. Unfortunately, most nations wind up neither respecting or protecting the people and instead abuse and diminish those rights (only this morning I watched on television, a woman being executed for adultery while the man who was party to the act bore no consequence). With our Tribe, the people have invested that responsibility of respecting and protecting the people to the General Tribal Council and the Oneida Business Committee (OBC).

Carrying out the directives of the General Tribal Council has been a Constitutional priority of my office since taking my Oath of Office in August of 2011. Over the years the Oneida people have guided and commanded that elected leaders carry out their Oaths. In accordance with that Oath, a Chairman must make decisions with great care and in accordance with Tribal law, while at the same time always being aware that those decisions have consequences upon the lives of our people, our resources, and often times, our very sovereignty as an Indian nation.

Early in this term, concerns were brought to my Office regarding possible misapplications of federal grant monies occurring at the Oneida Housing Authority. As a result, I directed that an audit be conducted. The audit findings determined that there were indeed serious problems of missing materials and misapplied funds amounting to tens of thousands of dollars. Note: All Tribal members have the right to view that audit by calling the Tribes Internal Audit Department at 920-869-4330. When the audit was completed, I requested an investigation by the Tribe's Internal Security Department. That investigation should be completed within the next few weeks. The process by which a Tribal investigation is conducted is determined by Tribal law and it is Tribal law that General Tribal Council elected me and my fellow OBC members to follow. In closing on this issue, none of this what I have said is earth-shaking or extraordinary action, its simply following Tribal rules and regulations to protect who the Oneida people are, what they want, and what they have directed Tribal leaders to carry out.

Community Meetings

For a time, I have been asking the OBC to support monthly community meetings. In August the Committee voted to schedule monthly community meetings on the first Saturday of every month at 10:00 A.M. to Noon at Ridgeview Plaza. A presentation at 10 a.m. and at 11 a.m., chili, fry bread and discussion is on the agenda. We anticipate that upcoming GTC petitions will be discussed, however, if the people wish to discuss other pertinent issues such as land claims and other things, those issues may also be part of the agenda for the meeting.

In the past, community meetings have been scheduled randomly, and this has not resulted in the opportunity for Tribal members to attend and participate in their government. Monthly meetings on the first Saturday of each month can provide a continuity and reliability in time and place. The Tribe needs the voice of Tribal members, the people, to give their presence, their thoughts and their opinions.

Thank you for Reading.

Sincerely,
Ed Delgado
Oneida Tribal Chairman

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Tribal Treasurer

Sheku,

The Permanent Executive Contingency Fund is a way for the Oneida Tribe to ensure cash is available should our revenue sources be interrupted for some unforeseen situation. This fund will allow the Tribe to cover cash needs until operations return to normal, without having to take out additional debt. Think of the Permanent Executive Contingency Fund as the Tribe's savings account.

The Permanent Executive Contingency account can only be used for the following items and no other funding source is available:

1. Debt payments for principal, interest, and services fees
2. Employee payroll and associated taxes
3. Payments to Gaming and Retail vendors
4. Payments to Governmental operations vendors
5. General Tribal Council mandates.

As of August 31, 2012 the Permanent Executive Contingency had a balance of approximately $12.4 million. Best practice indicates governments should have a contingency fund that at a minimum is equal to two months of governmental expenditures. This means the Oneida Tribe's contingency should be at a minimum approximately $35.6 million dollars. We are diligently building the Permanent Executive Contingency to an acceptable level by setting aside $2.5 million dollars in each fiscal year's budget. This practice will continue until the balance grows to a range of $35 to $40 million.

The Permanent Executive Contingency fund has played an important part in portraying the Oneida Tribe's commitment to a stable financial future to our creditors. The Tribe's commitment to creating a savings account, despite lack of growth in revenue sources, is evidence of the Tribe's ability to control spending. The financial world and our creditors value this commitment and view investing in the Tribe as less risky than some of our neighboring Tribes. The Tribe is able to benefit through lower interest and fee costs in the credit market.

From 5A/Sept. 26 OBC: Fred Bersch discussed as consultant

Travel Reports

The OBC approved travel reports for the Republican National Convention, August 26-29 Tampa, FL.

Travel Requests

The OBC retro-approved travel to Indian Summerfest, BC Meet and Greet, September 7-9, Milwaukee, WI and for travel to Special Committee on State/Tribal Relations, Sept. 25, 2012, Red Cliff, WI. The money for these services would follow the individual allowing tribes to get paid for classes and Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse (AODA) treatment. The tribes also supported legislation that would allow tribal conservation officers to enforce state law.

The OBC approved travel for Councilmember Stevens to the Haskell Board of Regents fall meeting, Oct. 2-5, Lawrence, KS. Stevens' travel will be paid for by Haskell.

Additions

The OBC discussed the status of the Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) funding. According to Delgado OHA had been urged by The Eastern/Woodlands Office of Native American Programs Administrator Kevin Fitzgibbons in the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Chicago to spend any unspent Native American Housing Assistance and Self Determination Act (NAHASDA) grant funds as soon as possible due to political uncertainty with the upcoming national elections. Preliminary plans include ramping up planned building of elderly duplexes within 26 months. The discussion was delegated to the Community Development Planning Committee.

The OBC retro-approved a travel request to meet with Representative Vos, Sept. 18 in Madison, WI.

After a lunch break, the OBC took up a Community Development follow up which resulted in moving forward with bringing on consultant Mr. Fred Bersch to work on community development and housing development issues and to have the contract terms worked on by the Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC) and to have the CDPC work with the Chief Financial Officer to complete the contract terms and to bring back to the Oneida Business Committee for final approval.

Opposed: Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated I think the motion is too vague where we're going to come back for an understanding again about what we're doing and what our direction was today. I think we needed a more clear direction on what we're doing with the advisory board. If it's going to be pushed back to the visioning, the Comprehensive Health Division Strategic meetings, I would like that to happen, but we don't know if it's going to happen. That's why if the motion was a little clearer we'd have a little better direction on what our direction is going to be about the advisory board and if it's even needed after the strategic visioning meetings have taken place.

Motion by Melinda J. Danforth to allow an unbudgeted expenditure of $490,000 in FY12 to be included in the Technology Projects budget with the remaining 110,000 to come from M&I funds, seconded by Vince Delarosa. Motion carried unanimously
For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated I do support the motion. The consequences of not moving forward and running into a situation over the next 14 days, as it relates to penalties that we could enjoy or not enjoy at the health center are dramatic. So we have to get this project done for whatever the underlying reasons are, these issues have to be settled and we have to move forward because the financial implications are much worse than the actual cost of actually doing this project in this particular budget cycle so I support moving forward with this expenditure.

‘Get out the Vote’ Flash Mob invades downtown Broadway, Oneida Style

Members of the Oneida community gathered for a flash mob at the Farmer's Market on Broadway to promote citizens to vote in the upcoming election on Wednesday, September 26th.

Special to Kalihwisaks

Oneida, WI – A crowd of people mosey down the sidewalk of a lively street, music is being played from a nearby speaker; suddenly one person breaks out into dance. It isn’t long until another anonymous person joins them, then another, until the street is full of dancing people. It’s called a flash mob; a secret planned event where a random group of people meet in a public place for a brief activity and then disperse.

Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) was contacted to put together an inclusive community event to promote voting in the upcoming presidential election this November. The objective was to orchestrate a flash mob in which Green Bay community members would unexpectedly break out into a choreographed dance routine in a public place.

With the help and dedication of many community members, the flash mob was ready to strike on Wednesday, Sept. 26th, at the Green Bay Farmer’s Market on Broadway the flash mob performed for many unsuspecting market goers at 5:35pm.

This event is geared to encourage younger generations of voting age to get informed and make their voice heard in this year’s presidential election, but even more importantly it is a wonderful excuse for a community to come together and do something positive and fun.

Voting will take place on Tuesday, November 6, 2012. Check with your local municipalities for locations.

Exercise your right to Vote! November 6, 2012

Brothertown Nation celebrates history, future

By Sharon Roznik
The Reporter, Fond du Lac

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP) ~ For close to a decade Loretta Metoxen, an Oneida Indian, struggled to gain back the tribal history of the Brothertown Nation.

And her work paid off.

The collection, including dozens of letters written by tribal members who served in the Civil War, were on display Sept. 15 at the grand opening of the Brothertown Indian Nation's new community center in Fond du Lac.

The day was marked with reaction to a recent federal ruling that declines to acknowledge the Brothertown Nation as an Indian tribe under federal law.

"Every day I learn more about the people in my community. One of the great things about my Senate office is how it is becoming a living understanding of each of my Senate districts," said State Senator Jessica King, who attended the event.

Hundreds of tribal documents, including original court records, photographs and letters dating back to 1795 had been collected by a man named Otto Heller, a farmer, cheese maker and historian who lived in Stockbridge along the shores of Lake Winnebago.

As Loretta tells the story, when Otto Heller passed away the old farmstead along the lake went to his grandson and when his grandson passed away it was given to the grandson's best friend, a man named Jerry.

One day, Jerry was rummaging through the old house, by then neglected and rundown, and he came across a trunk on the enclosed porch filled with yellowed papers.

"He looked inside and there was the history of the Brothertown tribe," Loretta told The Reporter of Fond du Lac. "And he decided he wanted a million dollars for it."

She explains that although she is Oneida, and lives on the Oneida reservation serving as the tribal historian, its members are intertwined with the Brothertown and Stockbridge-Muncie nations - going back at least 200 years.

The Brothertown tribe descends from seven separate tribes that lived in the Northeast. They came to Wisconsin, traveling on foot and by boat, in the early 1800s.

"They always say life is a journey. From New England to New York to Wisconsin and beyond we look forward to our future together as a proud nation," said Richard Schadewald, chairman of the Brothertown Nation. He spoke to the large crowd gathered at the community center to celebrate the milestone event.

Loretta said about four years ago, after having all the items appraised, Jerry finally acquiesced and sold the historical collection for $75,000 to the Oneida Nation, because the Stockbridge Nation did not have the resources for such an acquisition.

Now the records are in safe keeping with the Oneidas and the Stockbridge tribe continues to make payments on the treasured collection that contains the original treaties between the U.S. Government and the "peace keepers" of the tribe. There is also a complete list of war veterans that dates from the Revolutionary War to World War II.

"We will be taking good care of it and putting it in a format that is accessible to researchers," Loretta said.

Jill Watson from the University of Wisconsin Foundation presented the Brothertown Nation with the Samson Occom Legacy Award for encouraging Native Americans to pursue careers in medicine. Occom was a Native American Presbyterian preacher who organized Christians among various Mohegan and Pequot bands in New England and eastern Long Island into the Brothertown Indians.

Tribal Council member Faith Ottery said the government's decision declining to acknowledge the Brothertown Indian Nation as an Indian tribe under federal law allows the tribe to finally move forward.

"This has been a 32-year process. Now our only course is to go through the political process and petition Congress, so that is where we are now," she said.

The city of Fond du Lac has a long-standing connection with the Brothertown people, Loretta said. They have worked here for generations and served as civic officers in their own counties and at the state level.

"We are all connected. We are here and we are happy," she said.

Milwaukee legislators want increased police training and new standards

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ The death of a suspect who was in the custody of Milwaukee police has prompted a couple of state lawmakers to call for new training standards for officers.

Derek Williams died in July 2011 after struggling to breath in the back of a squad car. The Milwaukee County medical examiner recently changed the manner of Williams' death from natural to homicide following an investigation by the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel.

Democratic Sen. Lena Taylor, of Milwaukee, and Republican Rep. Garey Bies, of Sister Bay, plan to reintroduce bipartisan legislation that would mandate new training and education standards for police officers. Republican Rep. Dean Kaufert, of Neenah, says he supports additional training as well.

Officers would be required to be trained in "cultural differences, mental health and physical health conditions that can affect behavior and arrest and pursuit procedures." The bill was initially introduced in 2009.

Judge would narrow tribal claims in northern NY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) ~ A federal magistrate has recommended dismissing Mohawk tribal land claims in northern New York except for the Hogansburg Triangle, approximately 2,000 acres by the St. Regis Reservation that extends along the Canadian border.

The ruling by Magistrate Judge Therese Wiley Dancks applies to three suits consolidated in 1991, claims by the St. Regis Mohawk Tribe, Mohawk Council of Akwesasne (og-wuh-SAHZ'-nee) and Mohawk Nation Council of Chiefs to more than 12,000 acres in Franklin and St. Lawrence counties and islands in the St. Lawrence River.

The suits claim the land was unlawfully transferred from original reservation land.

Dancks' notes the disagreement between the tribes and defendant state of New York over whether the triangle is mainly populated by Mohawks.

Her recommendations will be considered by U.S. District Judge Neal McCurn.

LINCOLN, Nebraska (AP) ~ A federal judge dismissed an American Indian tribe's lawsuit Monday that blamed beer makers and nearby stores for chronic alcoholism on an impoverished South Dakota reservation, saying the case belonged in state court but gave a subtle nod to the tribe's claims.

The lawsuit was filed by the Oglala Sioux Tribe, which governs the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, where alcohol is banned. Four beer stores named in the suit sold the equivalent of 4.3 million 12-ounce cans last year even though they're in Whiteclay, a Nebraska town with about a dozen residents on the reservation's border.

"There is, in fact, little question that alcohol sold in Whiteclay contributes significantly to tragic conditions on the reservation," U.S. District Judge John M. Gerrard wrote in his ruling. "And it may well be that the defendants could, or should, do more to try to improve those conditions for members of the tribe.

"But that is not the same as saying that a federal court has jurisdiction to order them to do so."

The judge dismissed the case without prejudice, meaning the tribe could take its claims to state court.

The tribe's attorney, Tom White of Omaha, said he had not yet discussed the ruling with his clients or decided how they would proceed, but added: "I would just point out that the judge had every opportunity, if he wanted to, to say this is a spurious case or it doesn't have legal merit. And he carefully did not. That is significant."

The Connecticut-sized reservation has struggled with alcoholism for generations, despite an alcohol ban in place since 1832. It also spans some of the most impoverished areas in the country.

The tribe filed the lawsuit in February against the four Whiteclay beer stores, as well as regional distributors and four manufacturers: Anheuser-Busch, Molson Coors Brewing Company, MIllerCoors LLC and Pabst Brewing Company.

An attorney for Pabst declined to comment. Messages left with attorneys for the other companies and the four stores weren't immediately returned. Some of the stores' owners have previously said their insurers told them not to speak with the media.

The lawsuit alleges that the stores and beer makers allowed alcohol sales to Pine Ridge residents knowing they would smuggle it onto the reservation to drink or resell. The beer makers supplied the stores with "volumes of beer far in excess of an amount that could be sold in compliance with the laws of the state of Nebraska" and the tribe, the lawsuit alleged.

The vast majority of Whiteclay's beer store customers have no legal place to consume alcohol since it's banned on Pine Ridge, which is just north, and state law prohibits drinking outside the stores. The nearest town that allows alcohol is more than 20 miles south.

The reservation includes South Dakota's Shannon County, which U.S. census statistics place as the third-poorest in the nation. It has a median household income of $27,300 and nearly half of the population falls below federal poverty standards.

One in four children born on the reservation suffers from fetal alcohol syndrome or fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, and the average life expectancy is estimated between 45 and 52 years - the shortest in the Northern Hemisphere except for Haiti, according to a lawsuit. The average American life expectancy is 77.5 years.

Vic Clarke, a Whiteclay grocery store owner who serves as a town spokesman, said Monday that the lawsuit renewed media attention on the town and has triggered a wave of protests from outside groups.

But he said the same focus hasn't come to bars in other nearby towns - including Swett and Oelrichs, South Dakota, and Gordon, Nebraska - that also serve American Indians, noting that a protester last week threw a makeshift stink bomb at one of the town's beer stores. He also suggested that the tribe could legalize alcohol.

Pine Ridge legalized alcohol in 1970 but restored the ban two months later, and an attempt to allow it in 2004 died after a public outcry.

Tribe plans $26M casino in Michigan

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP) ~ An American Indian tribe is planning a new $26 million casino in Michigan's northern Lower Peninsula.

The Petoskey News-Review reports the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians agreed to shift $970,000 to its capital project fund for preconstruction fees and consulting for a satellite casino in Mackinaw City. A draft of minutes for a Sunday meeting included the 6-2 vote.

The tribe operates the $140 million Odawa Casino Resort in Emmet County, south of Petoskey. An agreement with the state of Michigan allows the tribe to build a second casino in Emmet County. Mackinaw City was originally considered for a casino before the Petoskey-area one was built.

The tribe says the new casino could include 550 slot machines. The Petoskey-area casino has 1,300 slot machines and other gambling.

Oneidas add Nat'l. Indian Museum multimedia show

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) ~ The Oneida Indian Nation says a multimedia presentation has been added to its display at the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington.

Oneida Nation Representative Ray Halbritter made the announcement last week while giving the museum $1 million, the eighth installment of $10 million the tribe has committed to the institution.

The display "Allies in War, Partners in Peace" features a bronze statue of Oneida Chief Skenandoah with Polly Cooper, an Oneida woman, and George Washington. The design is meant to mark the close relationship between the two nations.

The new 8-minute multimedia show includes stories about the Oneidas' role in U.S. history.

Gauthier takes top honors at Art Show

By Yvonne Kaquatosh
Kalihwisaks

It was local beading artist, Sandra Wescott-Gauthiers' first showing at the International Iroquois Beadwork Conference, which was held on September 21-23, 2012.

Wescott-Gauthier entered several pieces of her beadwork in the competition. For her efforts, the artist took 'Best in Division' honors and she also won the Kathy Mitchell Best of Show Award.

When asked what she hoped to accomplish with her art, Wescott-Gauthier said, "I view my talent as a gift from the Creator and one that is to be shared with family and community members."

In discovering Raised Beadwork – the Oneida style of beading, she added, "I have discovered an identity that I never knew existed in myself as an Oneida elder woman. She explained that raised beading has allowed her to express herself and what she sees on Mother Earth.

"I have grown to know what peace is in my life when I let myself get lost in my beading, said Wescott-Gautheir. "When I do raised beading and create beautiful things that I can give away as gifts or just look at them in my home, it is a good feeling," she added. She said she has learned to do something she loves and in turn, she has been sharing her knowledge with others as others have shared their knowledge with her.

Sandra Wescott-Gauthier

She was first introduced to the art of raised beading by master bead artist Samuel Thomas of Niagara Falls, a member of the Lower Cayuga Band of the Iroquois Nation. Carol Bauman and Judy Jourdan are two ladies she praised, adding that they both have "helped her on the journey of a life-changing experience."

Through the years, she has made many treasured creations, which have been given as gifts to those close to her. She also managed to preserve a collection of her masterpieces on display at her home as a calming reminder of the inner peace that she gets from her creations.

Wescott-Gauthier has been the Director of Purchasing for the Oneida tribe since July 6, 1992.

The conference was held at the Iroquois Indian Museum in Howes Cave, New York, and was sponsored by the Iroquois Studies Association, Inc., New York State Historical Association and the Fenimore Art Museum.

Her plans for the future are to work with Rosemary Hill in the spring of 2013 for two weeks – an opportunity that she cannot pass up - and to continue on with raised beading for as long as she's able to see to thread needles.

Box purses were used in the late 1800's and early 1900's. The box purse pattern (left) is from Carol Bauman, fellow Oneida tribal member, who shared the design with Sandra. Below, the jewel box is a treasure in itself with intricate detail on both sides. You would have to see them to truly enjoy the beautiful detailing.

A pot luck was held at Bearpaw Café, and mentees received certificates and incentives gifts for their participation. During our first year, we are proud to boast we had a total of thirteen mentees participate for the entire year.

Mentees were expected to spend 20 hours each week learning and practicing the Onʌyote?a·ká· language. Weekly sessions were planned between mentors and mentees, as mentees studied to test out of each level and unit.

The primary goal of this program is to provide language learners with a comfortable, relaxing, non-judgmental environment in which to learn and practice their skills.

Year two of the program will begin soon, we are accepting applications now

We would like to invite anyone who is serious about learning the language, to apply to be a mentee. # The PCSD values relationship with Oneida Nation

On Thursday, September 20, the Pulaski Community School District (PCSD) held a dinner/discussion with Native American families at Hillcrest Elementary School. Traditional Oneida food was served, including corn soup, and the rich culture of the Oneida Nation was celebrated.

The PCSD serves approximately 120 Oneida Nation students, and, following the meal, Dr. Mel Lightner, PCSD Superintendent of Schools, led a discussion about ways the district can better serve both Oneida Nation students and their families.

According to Lightner, the district has already taken many important steps, including hiring Renee de la Cruz as a Native American/ Title I tutor at Hillcrest Elementary. In addition, the district is funding a half-time Native American Advocate/Liaison at Pulaski Community Middle School and Pulaski High School.

"We felt it was important that we continue to support our Native American children as they move through middle school and high school," Lightner said. "Several years ago, funding from the YES program dried up, and now the district has decided to fund that position on its own."

Attendees at the dinner also discussed the upcoming PCSD referendum, which has been criticized by many of the Village of Hobart's elected officials, including Village President Rich Heidel. During an August Village Board meeting, Heidel went as far as threatening to leave the PCSD should the referendum pass.

According to Lightner, however, many of the parents from the Oneida Nation are pleased with the education their students receive at PCSD schools, most notably Hillcrest Elementary, and are proud to proclaim the PCSD as their school district.

"We look forward to strengthening our relationship with Oneida families. We are proud and honored to be able to have Oneida families in our district."

For more information about the PCSD referendum, including videos of the facilities set to be improved by the proposal, visit www.pulaskischools.org/referendum

PCSD citizens approve budget

Citizens of the Pulaski Community School District overwhelmingly approved the district's 2012-2013 budget and tax levy at the annual meeting on Wednesday, September 19, with only two nay votes.

For the 2012-2013 school year, the district's tax levy will increase by 2.65 percent, a decrease from last year's levy, which increased by 3.65 percent.

In addition to the district's general operating budget, called Fund 10, which funds the day-to-day expenses of the district, the citizens also overwhelmingly approved the district's Community Service Fund (called Fund 80) which funds various PCSD community education programs, such as PACE.

"I am very pleased that our residents have continued to support our community education program," PACE Director Mark Heck said. "These are very important programs built upon the Pulaski Community School District philosophy of educating all of our citizens- from cradle to grave."

Overall, Lightner believes the district's budget will allow its school to continue to be successful.

"We spend roughly $1,200 less than the state average for per-pupil spending," Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mel Lightner said. "Despite this, however, we still achieve high results, and we believe this budget will continue that tradition."

Dorothy Liska Retires

The week following Labor Day Dorothy Liska retired from the Oneida Community Education Center. She had been serving the Oneida Community as a teacher since August of 1993. She was one of the "original Career Center teachers" originally hired through the federal Workplace Literacy Grant. When that grant ran out Dorothy stayed on at the Career Center and helped to develop some of the unique programs offered at the CEC, including the Wisconsin PASS Program and the Competency based HSED (5.09) Program (the only program of its kind in this region). Her inspiration has reached out and touched thousands of students, children and adults alike. Dorothy taught, challenged, and motivated people throughout the past nineteen years. We congratulate Dorothy on her accomplishments and wish her the best in retirement. The ONCEC pledges to continue her tradition of excellent educational service to the Oneida Community.

It seems like it was yesterday when we learned to ride our bikes together, discovered that we both liked to dance and speak our language. It seems like we were never apart and everyone knew we were best friends.
When we decided to go to school, we made sure we were going to be roommates.
When you finally landed that first job after all your hard work, I was the first to say "congratulations."
When you said you wanted to help the youth on the reservation, I said, "Let's do it together."
Then came a time when you told me that you have a mental health problem, like depression and anxiety.
Now I know that anyone can experience mental health problems, even Native People.
We thought we knew everything, yet I really didn't understand what a difference my support can make in your recovery.
Well, I am here for you. I will be here for you.
And—as always—we will recover together.

Update on the Buffalo

By Michelle Doxtator
Retail Area Manager

Twenty-eight (28) buffalo died due to a lack of water over Labor Day weekend 2012. The dead include two (2) bulls, seventeen (17) cows, five (5) yearlings and two (2) calves. Prior to the deaths the Tribe had fifty-three (53) buffalo in the west pasture and seventy (70) in the east side pasture. The market value of the buffalo is over $60,000 and the farm is working with the Tribe's Risk Manager, Bob Keck to file a claim with our insurance carrier.

At some point Thursday August 27 or Friday August 28, 2012 someone turned off the water, and we may never know who is responsible. Should you have any information on the water source being turned off please call the Oneida Police Department at 920.869.2239.

The Farm employee responsible for feeding the cattle over the holiday weekend did not check on the buffalo over the weekend. Checking on the buffalo over the weekend had not been a regular practice for the past several years by many of the Farm employees. The buffalo had good grazing pastures and the source of water had not been an issue in the past.

The carcasses were removed by OJ Krull to prevent any diseases migrating to the remaining herd. The animals were examined by a veterinarian and the cause of death was determined to be dehydration. The carcasses were decomposed and the hides and skulls were not salvageable.

To prevent any future losses the Oneida Nation Farm has implemented the following;

A daily check list has been reinstated that includes checking on all of the livestock including the buffalo, the fencing and their water source daily. This will include driving into the pasture to check on the animals and the water basins daily.

A new sign will be placed in the overlook with information to call the Oneida Police Department if you see a problem with any of the buffalo. An updated call list was provided to the Oneida Police Department.

As reported in the September 6, 2012 edition of the Kalihwisaks, a lock has been placed on the lever that controls the water. The Farm is working with Oneida Plumbing for a long term fix on the water source.

At this point two of the bulls for the east pasture have been moved to the west pasture to breed with the cows. Hopefully we will have calves next summer.

Cohoes Falls Celebration

On October 6-7 an historical event will take place upon the ancestral territory of the Kanien'keha:ka/Mohawk Nation in the New York State capitol region in the city of Cohoes,NY.

Many generations ago Skennenraha:wi, the Peacemaker, met the Mohawk people on the north shore of the Mohawk River at a place called Kahon:ios. There, on the high river bank above the waterfalls, he persuaded the Mohawk people to embrace the message of peace and unity thereby creating the world's oldest united nations. This area has been sacred to the Rotinonhshon:ni (Haudenosaunee-Iroquois) since that time.

The Brookfield Renewable Energy Company has elected to return the land to the Iroquois. The transfer was made possible with the help of Dr. Gregg Schaaf and the late Mohawk Chief Jake Swamp with special assistance from John Kim Bell, Mohawk consultant to Brookfield.

On October 6-7 the Hiawatha Institute will celebrate the return of our sacred land. We will have an open public forum on October 6, a formal presentation to Brookfield, a tour of Kahon:ios property and a concert featuring Joanne Shenandoah on October 7. Kindly join us on this historic occasion.

Greenery comes to AJRCCC

By Alan King
Assistant Project Manager

The Anna John Residential Community Care Center (AJRCCC) continues to progress with the installation of interior doors and hard ware. The ceiling grids are installed in the resident wings with the light fixtures and HVAC venting following thereafter. Temperature control and resident room wiring are being installed with various offices having permanent receptacle power in place of temporary power panels for the workers to use. The exterior shrubbery and trees have been placed on the south side of the building along with sod. The North drive way is complete, but there will be no public access allowed until there is no longer construction traffic.

Flu Season is Here Again

Submitted by Dawn Cornelius
UW-O Nursing Student

The flu, also called influenza, causes a respiratory illness that infects the nose, throat and lungs. It is caused by a virus that is spread from person to person through close contact (within 6 feet) with an infected person who is coughing, sneezing or even talking. Sometimes people can get infected if they touch an object that has droplets from an infected person and then touch their eyes, nose or mouth.

There are many ways to protect yourself from getting the flu. The following is a list of things that you can do for yourself to limit the number of ways the flu can invade your body. The more of these practices you follow the less likely you will get the flu this season:

- The most important way to prevent getting and spreading the flu (and many other germs) is simply to wash your hands with soap and water often. Use clean running water, lather the soap on your hands for at least 20 seconds (hum "Happy Birthday" twice), rinse well and then dry with a clean towel or air dry. Alcohol based (60%) hand sanitizer may be used in place of soap and water only when your hands are not dirty looking (for example, in your vehicle after shopping at the store).
- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it and then wash your hands.
- If you are wearing long sleeves, it is now recommended to sneeze and cough into your sleeve instead of your hands.
- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Everyone 6 months or older should get a flu vaccination to protect themselves as well as those who do not or cannot get flu vaccines. Getting the flu vaccination before peak flu season (December-February) is highly recommended because it takes a couple of weeks for your body to build up its level of protections against the flu virus.

People who should not get a flu shot include:

- Children younger than 6 months old.
- People with a severe allergy to eggs.
- People who have had a severe reaction to a previous flu vaccination
- People who are currently moderately to severely ill with a fever. Wait until your sickness has gone away.
- People with a history of Guillain-Barre Syndrome within 6 months of a previous flu vaccination.

You need a flu vaccine each year because influenza viruses are always changing and flu protection decreases over time. Each year, experts identify the influenza viruses that are the most likely to cause illness during the upcoming flu season. Your flu vaccine protects against those viruses. This year's vaccinations provide protection against two influenza A viruses and one influenza B virus.

This year you can get your flu vaccinations at the Community Seasonal Flu Clinic. Any Tribal Member 6 months or older that currently receives health care services through the Oneida Health Center can receive a flu vaccination free of charge at the Flu Clinic.

The History of Division of Land Management

Division of Land Management
Caretakers of the Land
ONEIDA NATION

1821 - Oneida's movement to Wisconsin
- August 18, 1821 and September 23, 1822, the Oneidas and other emigrant New York tribes acquired an interest in some 7,480,000 acres of Wisconsin land from the Menominee and the Winnebago.

1831 - Treaty with the Menominee
- Menominee ceded 500,000 acres to the United States for the use of the New York Indians including the Oneidas.
- This treaty also contained a cession of other Menominee lands directly to the United States.

1838 - The Buffalo Creek Treaty
- The Oneida Tribe ceded most of the lands obtained from the Menominee, retaining approximately 100 acres per person, therefore reducing the once-vast Oneida lands in Wisconsin.
- Established the Oneida Reservation in Wisconsin
- Oneida Reservation was approximately 65,400 acres, all the land was held in trust for the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin by the United States of America.

1887 - Dawes Allotment Act
- This act required the government to partition the tribal lands into individual tracts called allotments.
- There were approximately 1,530 allotments assigned to Oneida tribal members.
- The act also authorized the government to negotiate with Indian tribes for the sale of all tribal lands remaining after allotments were made to individual members; Oneida allotted all of its reservation.

1902 - Dead Indian Act
- Established a procedure where the adult heirs of a deceased allottee could sell the heir ship land with approval of the Secretary of the Interior
- Secretary of the Interior could issue fee patents to the heirs as a group or otherwise remove the restriction.
- The estate could be physically partitioned among the heirs and either trust or fee patents issued to them individually.
- The estate could be retained by the superintendent and leased for the benefit of the heirs.
- The estate could be sold under Government supervision and the proceeds distributed among the heirs.

1906 - Burke Act
- Allowed the Secretary of the Interior to determine competency and to issue fee patents, making land taxable for any Indian allottee that was found to be competent and capable of managing his or her affairs. This did not require the Indian allottee to approve, or have knowledge of the fee simple patent being issued.
- The secretary of the interior was authorized to determine the legal heirs of the de ceased and issue patents in fee simple to the heirs for the land. Or, the secretary could sell the land and issue a patent to the purchasers and pay the net proceeds to the heirs.
- Act amends the general allotment act by granting citizenship to Indian allottees after a patent in fee simple was granted to them.

1917 - Trust Period Ends
- Conclusion of the 25 year trust period for the allotments.
- By this time the vast majority of the allotments had passed out of the Oneida Indians hands to the non-Indians.

1934 - Indian Reorganization Act (IRA)
- United States passed the IRA in an attempt to secure new rights for Native Americans on reservations.
- It allowed the Oneida people to reform its government under and IRA Constitution, this is still the present form of government.
- Oneida Executive Committee (later changed to the current Business Committee) was established as the legislative body of the Oneida Tribe.
- One incentive for being recognized as an I.R.A. Tribe was that the United States promised to purchase lost land back for the Tribal Government.
- United States purchased approximately 1,900 acres of land for the Oneidas within the Reservation.

1941 - Oneida Land Committee
- Executive Committee approved to form the Oneida Land Committee.
- Oneida Land Committee currently is known as the Oneida Land Commission.
- The Commission is responsible for making policies for Division of Land Management
- They oversee Land Acquisition, Leasing, Loan approval, probates and other issues relating to Tribal Lands.

1977 - GTC approved to establish a Tribal Land Office
- Resolution was passed to establish the Oneida Tribal Land Office and hire adequate staff to maintain all land records for the Tribe.
- New Land Office was opened April 16, 1977
- One employee was hired to maintain all tribal land records and to reacquire the Oneida Reservation lands.
- This office is currently known as The Division of Land Management, with 26 full-time employees.

1980 - Land Commission expansion
- Commission went from three (3) members to seven (7).
- Land Commission is an elected body.

1981 - Delegation
- Oneida Land Committee and Land Office were delegated the responsibility to administer Tribal Lands including residential, agriculture and commercial leases and assignments.

1982 - Land Acquisition Program
- GTC approved a self-funded program, allocating 30 cents from every carton of cigarettes sold to toward land acquisition.

Tribal Land
- By the end of 1982 the tribe owned 2,382.35 acres of land.

1982 - Direct Real Estate and Mortgage Program (DREAM)
- DREAM program was originally developed, when the Oneida tribe purchased a large parcel of land with a house.
- This house was offered for rent with an Option to purchase agreement between the occupant and the Land Commission.

1986 - Tribal Loan Credit Program (TLC)
- TLC program provided Tribal Members with a 20% down- payment, low interest loan.

Tribal Land
- By the end of 1987 the Tribe owned 3,412.125 acres of land.

1987 - Land Acquisition Plan
- The first Land Acquisition Plan was approved and contributed to higher allocations to the land acquisition funds and accelerated the purchases.
- Plan provided a rational method and steps of implementation for land acquisition.

Being Strong

"Wake up grandson, wake up," my grandmother said. I rolled over on my bunk squinting to see her. "C'mon, get up grandson." I sat up wiping boogers from my eyes. "Grandma, what are you doing here? How did you get in?" I asked. "No walls can stop my love…my love travels everywhere, passes through all things." I shook my head agreeing. "Life's been a long road for me…sometimes it was good…sometimes it was bad. But the good outweighed the bad," she said standing there looking at me. I knew this was coming. My chest tightened and my throat constricted. I thought I was more prepared for this. Tears ran from my eyes. I felt the warmth of her hand when she stood over me wiping teats from my cheeks. "Don't cry for me…there's no more pain for me. I feel better, plus I got my leg back." She smiled and started jigging. We both laughed.

"Tʌ́hethwanuhela·tú Shukwayoʔtisu!" "Grandma…you just spoke Oneida," I said surprised. "After not speaking it for so long I forgot how…but when my mother and daughter come got me … I remembered.

Tʌ́hethwanuhela·tú Shukwayoʔtisu, Thank the Creator…I can't wait to eat some strawberries." She smiled at me. I smiled back. "I hear they're big and juicy year round," she said. My heart sank again realizing this wasn't a dream. "Grandma, I…don't know if I can do this without you…you've been my center for my whole life…I don't know if I have the strength to do this on my own." Tears fell again. Grandma grabbed my hand and sat next to me. "Grandson, your heart is good. You may have done some bad things in the past, but that doesn't make you a bad person. Others might not see it, but you've done a lot of good too, even when you didn't have to." I could feel her draining some of my heart and pain, reducing the weight on my shoulders. "You've always been special to me. Before you could crawl I knew you were going to do something great for our people. I don't know what, but you know in your heart and in your mind." She leaned over and gave me a hug. I hugged back. When she let go she touched her hand to my heart. I felt my heart warming up as if it had been kissed by the sun. The ice around my heart was melting. "You think you don't have the strength to do this on your own…but the strength is there within you. You've had it the whole time, you've just been ignoring it." She let my heart go. "It's time," she said wiping the last of my tears away. "I'll always be with you grandson. Konaluʌkwa. Onʌ́ki–wah," she said. I blinked and she was gone. I heard her voice whisper "The strength is within you!"

S.O.S.

The Holy Apostles Church of Oneida, Wis. needs our financial help now. The Stone Church is part of our Oneida heritage. The Stone Church was built by the Oneida people and they gave one day a week to quarry the stone used to build the Holy Apostles Episcopal Church. It was also the third Episcopal Church built in Oneida and was consecrated in 1866 as Holy Apostle Episcopal Church.

Holy Apostle Church is the oldest Indian mission in the mid-west and of the Episcopal Church. The Oneida Mission was founded in New York in 1702. All enrolled Oneidas whose families came to Wisconsin with the Episcopal missionaries would all have ties to this mission church. Holy Apostles Church needs our help now to do serious repair and updating of the building which was built originally in 1866.

Think about this.

If you could donate something towards the Holy Apostle Church rebuilding work, bit or small, it will help toward preserving a part of our grandparents' heritage.

Please send your donation to: Holy Apostles Episcopal Church, C/O SOS Fund, 2937 Freedom Road, Oneida, WI, 54155.

Cultural Feast?

On 9-13-12, the Native American Group at Red Granite Correctional Institution had a feast, or at least what the state offered as a feast. Normally when you think of a feast you think of getting full and eating wild rice, corn soup, fry bread, berries, venison, or fish. Here at RGCI we were given chicken stir-fry or what's really soy stir-fry.

They also gave us pineapples, bread milk, an oatmeal raisin cookie, white rice, and a cucumber and onion mix. The rest of the prison was given the same meal and portions.

Granted we are incarcerated and have little control over what we get and feast can't be what they should be, but we don't see how any of the foods besides cucumber and onion mix are Native American related.

The Internal Management Procedures (IMP) states, "An approved celebratory meal will maintain it's spiritual purpose." We don't see how these foods maintained a spiritual purpose.

In years prior they have given us hot dogs, or hamburgers, without any traditional foods. So we don't think the DOC understands the spiritual purpose of Native American feast. Some of us wrote the kitchen requesting fish, but we did not get it. Some people were not allowed to participate in the feast because the Chaplin failed to put them on the list to attend.

The IMP states, "If an inmate arrives at the institution within 30 days prior to a feast they can submit a request to the Chaplin and will be allowed to attend. Although some people were not allowed to attend and our foods pitiful we made the best out of it and enjoyed our meal together as a group with the little time we had a prayer was said in Oneida language for the food and we thank the uncle who did this for us. We don't know if this happens at feast in all prisons in Wisconsin, but if it does we encourage others to speak up.

We also ask the public to remember just because we are incarcerated does not mean we are bad people. We have made bad decisions that got us here, but we are still human beings that belong to various tribes.

It could be your sister or brother, mother or father, aunt or uncle, or even a grandparent sitting here dealing with the same problems. If the public wishes to speak up on this matter we encourage you to contact Chaplin Barwis or Warden Dittman here at RGCI. Maybe someone can enlighten them to our ways.

Sincerely
The Native American Group at Red Granite,

For mail going to service members overseas

Oneida, WI ~ It's not too early to start thinking about mailing those holiday cards, letters and packages to service members and their families stationed overseas. The first deadline for the 2012 holiday season is just around the corner.

Tuesday, November 13, is the deadline for sending holiday packages to troops stationed overseas using Parcel Post to all Air/Army Post Office (APO) or Fleet Post Office (FPO) ZIP Codes.

"We encourage our customers to mail early this holiday season," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "Observing the holiday deadlines will make sure that cards, letters and packages to loved ones serving overseas will reach their destinations in time for the holidays."

All military mail, regardless of destination, is sent by domestic mail rate. International rates do not apply to military mail delivery.

The large Priority Mail Flat Rate Box (12" x 12" x 5 ½") offers a $2 discount to APO/FPO destinations and ships for just $13.45. Customers can access shipping information by adding Delivery Confirmation, which is available for almost all military destinations, including those outside the United States. Delivery Confirmation provides customers with the date, ZIP Code of delivery, and time the package was delivered. This information can be accessed online at www.usps.com.

The Postal Service's popular Military Care Kits also help military families and friends keep free shipping supplies within reach. Each kit contains six Priority Mail Flat Rate boxes (two large and four medium-sized boxes), six customs forms and envelopes, six Priority address labels and one roll of military tape. The kit may be ordered by calling the USPS Expedited Package Supply Center at 1-800-610-8734. All packages and mail must be addressed to individual service members, as required by U.S. Department of Defense regulations.

"The mail is a great way to communicate with service members during the holidays," adds Koenig. "Sending a card, letter or package brings them closer to family and closer to home." The complete list of military mailing deadlines is above:

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

Oneida Food Distribution Program

The Oneida Food Distribution Program opened its doors in the old Oneida tribal bldg. on July 1, 1980. It operated under the umbrella of the Great Lakes Indian Tribal Council (GLITC) until Sept. 30, 1983.

It was at that time that the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (FDPIR) was officially activated here in Oneida on Oct 1, 1983 to the present time.

The program is administered at the federal level by the Food & Nutrition Service (FNS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, or USDA as we know it. FDPIR is managed locally by either Indian Tribal Organizations (ITO's) or an agency of a state government. Currently there are approximately 257 tribes receiving benefits under FDPIR through 98 ITO's and 5 state agencies.

The agreement to administer the FDPIR is between the state agency, in this case the Oneida Nation, and USDA. Therefore, we are required to operate within the USDA guidelines as well as Oneida policies & procedures.

The USDA agreement or contract requires the ITO's to order, receive, warehouse, and distribute USDA commodities according to the USDA 501 handbook of regulations. Also to offer nutrition education with the help of state, federal, and Oneida nutritionists, as well as outreach to potentially eligible households with information of the services we provide, and finally, referral to other entities that can meet needs that we in the Food Distribution Program cannot satisfy.

Our service area is the rural areas of Brown and Outagamie counties as well as those of Door, Kewaunee, and Manitowoc. Inside the reservation boundaries any eligible household can receive our services. Outside the reservation only eligible Indian households can be serviced. We cannot service any city or town that has a population of over 10,000 with the exception of Green Bay that is based on a waiver agreement reached with USDA in 1992. This allows our program to service Indian households if they meet program eligibility criteria. The prevailing rule of eligibility maintains that low-income American Indians, and non-Indian households residing on a reservation, and those Indian households living in approved areas near a reservation, that contains at least one person, who is a member of a federally recognized tribe, are eligible to participate in the Food Distribution Program.

Those communities that we cannot service directly are Allouez, De Pere, Ashwaubenon, Appleton, Kaukauna, and Grand Chute.

Households are certified based on income and resource standards set up by the federal government, and must be re-certified as often as necessary, or at a minimum of every 12 months. Households may not participate in the Food Distribution Program and the Food Stamp Program (SNAP) in the same month.

Each month, participating households receive a food package to help them maintain a nutritionally balanced diet. We offer a nutritious food package consisting of fresh fruits and vegetables as well as wholesome meat products of frozen ground beef, chicken, canned salmon, and roast beef, and when available, ground buffalo and regular hams during the fall season. We also have a full line of canned fruits and vegetables in addition to an assortment of fruit juices, cereals, and other wholesome products.

Our food package from the USDA is worth approximately $100 per person per month, and is well balanced in all food groups. Over the years our caseload has fluctuated between 400 to 1000 certified participants. The average caseload in 2011 was over 400 clients monthly. In order to be an effective program, the Food Distribution Program continually assesses the needs of its participants through various surveys and questionnaires, to make sure we are addressing all of our requirements.

The Oneida Food Distribution Program is actively involved in and an integral part of OCIFS (Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems) originally established in 1994. OCIFS was formed to develop a strong food infrastructure for the Oneida Nation. It includes tsyunhe'hkw^, Oneida Nation Farms, Apple Orchard, Oneida Health Promotions, and the Food Distribution program.

Niedziejko finds Oneida heritage

My name is Gail Niedziejko and I am an Oneida Tribal member from the Hill family. I was given up at birth, and recently found my biological family. This discovery was a revelation to me. I was so welcomed by my Great-Auntie Elayne Fern Hall and my cousins. I am so thankful and feel so blessed to know my family.

I am happily married 31 years to Ron and have two children, Jeff and Michelle.

After learning my Oneida heritage, I came to Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services and took a loom beading class with Deb Ushakow. My life began to change after taking the beading class. I began beading at home daily; learning new patterns and found it was very soothing and therapeutic.

My beadwork reflected Oneida designs, and one of my favorite is the Hiawatha wampum belt design. The Oneida designs have been requested by tribal members in the community, so I have made the purple Hiawatha belt bracelet and other designs for them to enjoy and wear proudly.

This year I won a 1st place Blue Ribbon and also the Judges Favorite for my "Bumble Bee on Corn Flower" design at the Wisconsin State Fair. It was done on an Ojibwe loom with over 70 different colors in size 11 seed beads.

I have to say that my life has changed in the most wonderful way! I am so grateful and thank everyone that has been so welcoming to me!

YawÁko,
Gail

City of Green Bay rescinds CUP for OSGC plant

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Green Bay City Council voted seven to five to rescind a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) issued to Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) for a plant that would turn waste into electricity at a meeting held Tuesday, October 16.

Green Bay had issued a CUP for the plant to be built at 1230 Hurlbut Street on March 1, 2011, but environmentalists and some area residents opposed the plant due to concerns over emissions.

The vote came after an October 3 meeting held by the Green Bay City Planning Commission to determine if the city had been misled by OSGC to obtain the CUP. Councilman Jerry Wiezbiskie stated the commission stands behind the decision to issue the CUP.

"We were not duped as we were accused of," he said.

The plant would have taken waste material, and after sorting out the recyclable items, the trash would be heated to 1200 degrees breaking down the material into a fuel that could be used to generate electricity for up to 4000 homes. The project had cleared several regulatory boards such as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Department of Energy (DOE) and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WDNR).

Before voting on reapproving the CUP, the council opened the floor

Metoxens to witness canonization of Native saint

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Throughout history there have been many shining examples of Native Americans making exceptional contributions to society. One of those remarkable people was Kateri Tekakwitha. On October 21, 2012 Pope Benedict XVI will canonize Kateri Tekakwitha, making her the first Native American saint. Oneida tribal members Kirby and Russell Metoxen will be traveling to Rome to attend the event.

Tekakwitha's story is a simple yet powerful one.

Kateri was born into the Mohawk tribe in 1656. At the age of 4, she was orphaned when a smallpox epidemic swept through her village killing her Mohawk father, Algonquin Christian mother, and younger brother. The disease also infected Kateri. She emerged from the illness with scars on her face and severely impaired eyesight. Because of her poor sight she was given the name Tekakwitha, which means, "One who places things in order."

Wanting to live a life in the service of God she ran away to a Catholic Indian Settlement. It was there that she worked with the sick and lived a life of devotion to God.

After she died at the age of 24, the people of her community witnessed the miraculous clearing of her face leaving her skin smooth and scar-free.

The movement to recognize Kateri as a saint began in 1880, when Catholics began to petition the Vatican. A century later, the Vatican certified the first miracle attributed to her intercession. Last year, the Vatican certified a second required miracle when a flesh-eating infection in a Native American boy in Washington was healed.

For the Metoxens, traveling to Rome in order to witness the canonization of the first Native American saint was an experience they couldn't pass on.

"How this trip started was my father's interpretation of the hype of the first Native American saint. Ever. How that was an event worth celebrating. Traveling to Europe was something I wanted to experience. But when I say the first Native American saint to people and when people get it they ask 'What's her name?'" Kirby Metoxen said.

But it is no surprise that identities of Catholic saints are unknown to many who live in Oneida. Within the boundaries of the Oneida reservation there are a large number of religious denominations present. Making the canonization of Kateri a subject of mixed feelings.

"I've gotten feedback from tribal members ranging from animosity to surprise to excitement. The interpretations of the announcement are so varying because of different religions," Metoxen added.

Riverview Baptist Church celebrates 10 years

Pastor Shawn Suri, fifth from right, and his congregation will celebrate the tenth year of their church on Sunday, October 21.

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Riverview Baptist Church will celebrate their tenth anniversary October 21 and Pastor Shawn Suri couldn't be happier.

"We're excited about being in the area for the last 10 years and hoping that we continue to be a help to the community," he said.

The church has struggled at times, especially with finding a permanent home after moving six times. The church was able to purchase a building at 216 N. Main Street in Seymour and will stay there until they can build on land it owns in Oneida.

Suri stated that the ups and downs experienced by Riverview Baptist Church have made its congregation stronger.

"Churches have a lot of overturn, but we've established a core group of families, there's about five that's been there the whole 10 years," he said. "These are not people that just show up at Easter and Christmas, they're there all the time, so if you don't have that, the church will not survive."

And while the church takes a moment to look back, Suri is looking forward.

"You're seeing now some of the second generation kids are becoming more faithful and that's what it's going to take to keep a church going that second and third generation that's coming behind that older generation," he said.

Riverside Baptist Church will host nationally known guest speaker Dr. John Goetsch at their morning service October 21. Morning services begin at 9:45am. Call 920.530.6308 or visit www.riverviewbc.com for more information.

From 1A/Kateri Tekakwitha

For some time there was a concern if traveling to Rome would be a sort of wild goose chase after not hearing any news or conversation about the announcement. But as the date drew close groups began to schedule their trips.

"At The Gathering event in Oneida in August Joanne Shenandoah had mentioned she would be performing in Rome at this canonization. So I made sure I told her we were traveling there also and she was excited about it. But there are groups throughout Indian Country that are making the trip. So there seems to be some sort of a Native celebration," Metoxen said.

Holy Apostles Church in Oneida will dedicate their services on Sunday, October 21 to Tekakwitha. Kateri will be formally canonized at Saint Peter's Basilica in Rome, Italy on October 21, 2012.

Students help plant wild rice

Oneida Nation High School students volunteered to aid the Oneida Environmental and Adventures departments in planting wild rice. The area covered with wild rice measured at around four acres of the "Where the Waterbirds Nest" body of water and the rice was purchased using grant dollars from the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative. The rice was harvested on Big Rice Lake, Minnesota and was obtained from the St. Croix Chippewa tribe. This is year 2 of a four year project to reestablish a self sustaining population of wild rice in Oneida.

We little knew that morning
God was to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
in death we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
You did not go alone.
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

You left us beautiful memories,
Your love is still our guide,
And though we cannot see you,
You are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken,
and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one,
The chain will link again.

They say memories are golden well, maybe that is true.
I never wanted memories, I only wanted you.
A million times I needed you, a million times I cried.
If love alone could have saved you, you never would have died.
In life I loved you dearly,
in death I love you still.
In my heart you hold a place
no one could ever fill.
If tears could build a stairway and heartache make a lane,
I'd walk the path to heaven and bring you back again.
Our family chain is broken,
and nothing seems the same.
But as God calls us one by one,
the chain will link again.

OBC recognizes employees at Oct. 10 meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) honored employees with 25 years working for Oneida and suspended trade-back-for-cash on vacation and personal hours for two years at the Wednesday, October 10 regular OBC meeting.

Present: Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Chairman Ed Delgado, Councilmembers Paul Ninham, David Jordan, Brandon Stevens, Melinda Danforth and Vince DelaRosa.

Special Recognition

Before starting the meeting, the OBC gave a special recognition for 25 years of service to Dianne L. Boex, Loretta Metoxen, Julie A. Clark, Marilyn M. Jourdan, Mercie L. Danforth, Rebecca J. Schommer, and Carmen B. Danforth.

Oaths of Office

Secretary Patty Hoeft administered the oaths of office for Kimberly Skenandore Goodrich to the South Eastern Oneida Tribal Service Board and for Gerald Cornelius to the Environmental Resource Board.

Minutes to be approved

The OBC approved the September 26, 2012 emergency meeting minutes and the September 28, 2012 emergency meeting minutes.

Resolutions

According to Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Operations Manager Scott Denny the OBC needed to adopt a self-monitoring policy to be in compliance with the Native American Housing Assistance and Self Determination Act (NAHASDA). He noted that OHA currently self-reports, but there's no official policy saying that they must do so. The OBC adopted resolution 10-10-12-A Self-Monitoring Policy with the noted changes and referred Denny to work through the Community Development Planning Committee level to adopt and approve a procedure to implement the resolution.

Directors and Managers quarterly reports

Self-Governance Coordinator Chris Johns delivered his quarterly report where he warned about a potential cut to Indian Health Services due to a looming Congressional budget sequestration. The impact to Indian Country could mean an 8.2 percent cut in funding which could result in Oneida Health Services losing $1.7 million. The OBC accepted the report and accepted the Ombudsman report.

Denny gave the OHA report where he highlighted the construction of five duplexes in the Green Valley Site. He also discussed the construction of apartments that will address the housing needs of single individuals as well as families.

Councilman David Jordan asked about emergency housing. Denny noted that while it was needed, it's difficult to balance competing demands.

"It's challenging for us to have inventory sitting with a waiting list," he said.

Councilwoman Melinda Danforth noted that there are some Oneidas in homeless shelters in Green Bay, however, there may be more not seeking services.

"People don't ask for help, we have hidden homelessness," she said.

The OBC accepted the report.

Environmental, Health and Safety Division Director Pat Pelky highlighted the removal of dams in Pamperin Park and on the Oneida Golf and Country Club. The removal of the dams will created better fishing on the reservation. Pelky also highlighted the Dinner with the Warden event which attracted 100 sportspeople.

The OBC brought up concerns about damage to wildlife areas and a new pedestrian bridge and asked that individuals be encouraged to report such activity. The OBC accepted the report.

Board, Committee and Commissions

The OBC posted three new Pardon vacancies for the Pardon and Forgiveness Screening Committee and appointed Linda Powless to serve on the committee.

A vacancy for the Library Board was posted along with two Oneida School Board parent-position vacancies.

The OBC appointed Robert Jossie to the Bay Bank Corporation Board.

Quarterly reports

The OBC accepted the Environmental Resource Board report.

Oneida Gaming Commissioner Amelia Cornelius reported on revisions to Class II gaming regulations. She explained that while the state doesn't enforce Class II gaming, the Gaming Commission wants to be stringent. The OBC accepted the report.

Standing Committees

The OBC accepted the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) August 29 minutes, September 7 minutes, and September 19 minutes.

The OBC held discussion on a referendum question for the 2013 semi-annual General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting proposing that Oneida School Board members have educational requirements. Councilwoman Danforth stated the referendum was vague and there was already difficulty in getting candidates for the school board.

The OBC accepted memo as For Your Information (FYI) and requested a report come back to the OBC on December 12 and recommend this referendum go to the General Tribal Council for discussion and further direction at the July 2013 General Tribal Council meeting.

The OBC did the same for a referendum question proposing term limits for members on boards, committees and commissions including Oneida Business Committee.

The OBC placed the adoption of Administrative Procedures Act amendments and Legislative Procedures Act on the January 7, 2013 GTC annual agenda.

The committee scheduled public hearings for Public Use of Tribal Land Law and the General Tribal Council Meetings Law for November 29.

The OB also scheduled a November 29 public hearing for consider Independent Contractor Policy and approved and extension of Emergency Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy resolution.

The OBC approved amendments to the Child Support Law resolution and amendments to the Paternity Law resolution.

A draft of the Judicial Canon of Ethics sparked a lot of discussion, particularly over whether to expand the nepotism policy beyond what is normally stated, and whether the judiciary should be able to attend and participate at GTC meetings. After a four-to-four polling of potential votes on the issues, the OBC sent the Judicial Canon of Ethics draft to General Tribal Council and have the issues vetted there.

For the Finance Committee, the OBC approved the October 5 minutes.

General Tribal Council

The OBC accepted an action report from the September 17, 2012 GTC meeting to adopt FY2013 Tribal Budget as FYI. The committee also accepted an agenda for

Financial Elder Abuse

BayBank
Green Bay, Wisconsin

What is it and how can you prevent it?

Elder abuse doesn't have to come in the form of physical abuse or neglect. In its financial form, elder abuse is the exploitation of senior citizens to gain access to their property, investments, cash or real estate. As many as one in five cases of financial elder abuse remain undetected and unreported, often because the perpetrator is a family member of the victim. What are some warning signs for you to look for if you suspect an older person is being exploited?

Isolation - The number one tactic used by perpetrators is to separate the victim from family and friends who would stop the abuse. Watch for victims to stop attending social events or even disconnect their phone line.

Changes in spending habits - Drastic changes in account balances or unusually flamboyant purchases like cars and real estate are a sign that the senior citizen is not the person in charge of their finances. Keep a close eye on lavish "gifts" to new friends or acquaintances.

Unfamiliar names on joint accounts - Sometimes perpetrators convince their victims that they will help them organize their finances by creating a joint account. In reality, this gives the perpetrator unlimited access to the victim's funds. If a senior citizen wants another person to manage their finances, they should use a Power of Attorney (POA) account instead, which puts a legal obligation on the co-signer to protect the elderly person's interests.

If you notice these warning signs, what should you do about it?

The first step is to talk to the suspected victim. Often, financial elder abuse victims are afraid or ashamed. They can be hesitant to seek help because they don't want to admit they've been scammed. Many are afraid if they admit they've been taken advantage of they'll be put in a nursing home. This can be especially true if the alleged perpetrator is a family member, because the victim may not want their relative to get in trouble.

Another option is to report the suspected abuse to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. Wisconsin's elder adults-at-risk help lines can be found listed by county here: http://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/aps/Contacts/eaaragencies.htm. However, the best thing to do is educate your elderly family members and friends about how they can protect themselves from becoming victims in the first place.

the January 7, 2013 GTC annual meeting as FYI.

Unfinished Business

Under the recommendation of Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Larry Barton, the OBC suspended the trade back for cash for fiscal years 2013 and 2014 due to the essential needs to preserve working capital for operations and during the 2015 budget cycle they consider re-instatement of the policy. The policy had allowed employees to trade up to 80 hours of vacation and/or personal time for its cash value.

New Business/Requests

The OBC approved letting the National Center on Quality Teaching and Learning (NCQTL) to film in Head Start classrooms. The Oneida Head Start program had been selected by the NCQTL as a model program.

The OBC approved posting a position for a Limited-Term Employee (LTE) Records Technician position for the Department of Land Management. However, Treasurer Tina Danforth voted against the position due to what she stated was a lack of planning on the part department.

Travel

The OBC retro-approved travel to attend South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) in Milwaukee on August 28 and September 24-25 for Councilman Vince DelaRosa. It also approved DelaRosa's travel for a SEOTS community meeting on Oct. 30.

Additions

The OBC approved the renewal of a contract for Oneida Gaming Commission attorney William T. Cornelius.

Action in open session on items from Executive Session Discussion meeting of October 9, 2012

The OBC accepted a report on the New York land claim settlement and to go forward with an October 18 meeting date with the New York Oneidas.

A motion made by Melinda J. Danforth to continue to prohibit the leasing of the New York agricultural properties until after the discussions with the New York Oneidas and that the Chairman make a recommendation via the appropriate parties on the future of the New York lands by Dec. 12, 2012 carried unanimously.

The OBC accepted a report given by Chief Counsel Jo Anne House, and one from the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation given by Bobbi Webster.

Unfinished Business/BC directives

The OBC approved a request for $123,333 to take care of their operating costs of the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation Board fiscal needs and franchise fees, noting that the funds are coming from the corporation's ownership report.

Additions

The OBC moved to approve a request for the limited waiver of sovereign immunity for CDW-G contract.

The OBC accepted a Four Fires report.

for comments. Several opponents and a few supporters shared their opinions.

Robert Heroux believed there wasn't enough information given on the project.

"I don't think the prior council and the city studied this project long enough to reach the decision that this would be good for Green Bay," he said.

William Acker stated he supported the project.

"The emissions are going to be less because we're not getting emissions off the landfill that would come from the waste that would go in the landfill. If the environment is becoming better, then why would we decide against this CUP?" he said.

Oneida Business Committee Vice Chairman Greg Matson reiterated that the project had passed scrutiny from regulatory bodies.

"All of a sudden we became lawyers and scientists. You turn that information over to the lawyers and the scientists and they evaluated it. They determined it was safe," he said.

After closing the floor, Councilman Wiezbiskie confirmed his support of the project.

"It creates jobs, it's green, and you don't have to be afraid of it," he said.

However, Councilman Andy Nicholson confused the timeline of the project and made a false statement that the Town of Oneida had rejected the project. Councilman Thomas De Wane stated "They can bring electricity to any part of Oneida County." The Oneida reservation is located in Brown and Outagamie Counties.

OSGC CEO Kevin Cornelius attended the meeting but did not speak during the open floor session or after the vote.

Vice Chair Matson reacts to Green Bay Decision

The City Council of Green Bay took action last night to rescind the conditional use permit of the Oneida Seven Generation Corporation (OSGC). This permit was previously granted by this same council and was brought back for reconsideration and referred to the City Planning Commission. Two weeks ago after four and half hours of open discussion, the City Planning Commission voted to uphold this permit.

The next step expected was to have the City Council accept the minutes of the Planning Commission to uphold the conditional use permit. That did not happen, the City Council voted to rescind the permit. The Oneida Seven Generation Corporation must now determine what their options are and what the next step will be. OSGC has a lot of responsibility to take all facts into consideration as they determine their next course of action.

As Vice Chairman, I believe I have a responsibility to continue to support our Tribal Corporations. The Oneida Business Committee passed a resolution in support of the project. I stand behind our resolution. As Vice Chairman I attended these meetings, I spoke last night and I challenged city councilmen and women to contact me for information. I made the same offer two weeks ago at the last meeting and not one contacted me. I will continue to reach out and take every opportunity to educate these people with the facts about how we do business here. I encourage everyone to support our business efforts and to be forward thinking about those relationships. We have created some great relationships over the years and those are the ones I will continue to strengthen.

OBC Vice Chairman Greg Matson

I believe our relationship with the Green Bay City Council may change if we cannot resolve this issue in good faith and mutual respect. The City of Green Bay came to us to do business and asked to be our partner, we agreed in good faith. As this project moved forward the process to secure a conditional use permit for Oneida Seven Generations was above and beyond what others were expected to do. The process was followed the entire time.

Last night I was stunned to see how individuals followed the spokesperson for the Clean Water Action Council and stood before the city council and attacked the integrity of one of our tribal members. Several people accused Kevin Cornelius, President of Seven Gens, of lying, misrepresentation and skewing the facts. They accused their own city council of not allowing the citizens a voice or opportunity to learn the facts. OSGC can and has provided a litany of public hearings and open meetings since its inception of this project where the public has had the opportunity to react, ask questions and challenge the information available. This has been the process for more than two years.

OSGC has done their due diligence in securing their conditional use permit from the city and they have followed every procedure required in the process outlined by the city. The permit was initially granted because all procedures were followed and the process was satisfied. This project has received all necessary approvals by various state, federal and local agencies. Yet, due to the ranting of about 20 people, not all from Green Bay, the city turned their decision against OSGC by rescinding their permit.

Those of you who know me know I don't give up. I am not going to let this go until I am satisfied that every member of that city council gives me an opportunity to respond to the statements that made them change their minds on this permit. I will personally call each city alderman and woman and offer to provide them with facts, not hearsay or unfounded allegations. I will hold them accountable for their decision.

My goal in the next few weeks is to encourage OSGC to carefully evaluate the next steps. While this train may be derailed, I believe they can still get back on track and move forward. Let's hope the next decision is made with fact, not fiction. I will encourage the Business Committee to continue to support their efforts and also I offer my office open to any constituents who want more information about this project and what you can do to help.

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency

Child Support VS. Custody /Placement/ Visitation

As the Oneida Child Support Agency begins to grow, there are many questions, not only regarding child support but often questions pertaining to issues of custody, placement and visitation that Oneida Child Support cannot address. Once these matters have been ordered in a previous action changes cannot be made by the Child Support Agency. However, we would like to educate and remind the community of the definitions of related matters and correct departments to contact when and if there are questions.

Custody - The authority assigned to one or both parents by the court to make major decisions regarding their child(ren). OCL 79.10(a) presumes that joint legal custody is in the best interest of the child.

Physical Placement - Periods of time a child spends in the care of a parent frequently called visitation. Placement can be stated as primary physical placement, where the child resides a majority of the time, and or secondary physical placement, where the child spends less time with the other parent. Secondary placement may also be referred to as, visitation.

Shared Time - The child lives with each parent part of the time. Both parents assume all costs in proportion to the number of days he or she cares for the child. The time with each parent may or may not be equal.

Split Placement - A family with 2 or more children in which one parent has primary placement of one or more children and the other parent has primary placement of the other children.

Once issues of custody, placement, and visitation have been ordered by the court or agreed upon by the parties, subsequent changes must be handled by the court through a Stipulation and Order (an agreement signed by both parties) or if the parties do not agree, a Motion may filed with Oneida Tribal Judicial System (OTJS), this is NOT a child support matter. The agency is prohibited from offering legal advice and must stay objective in the matter. The Child Support Agency will be notified if there are changes in the Custody, Placement and or Visitation due to a hearing, and will then submit a recommendation for child support to OTJS.

If both parties on a case are in agreement to any changes to issues regarding custody and placement there are blank pro se forms that can be found at OTJS and filled and out and notarized, therefore removing any court action if not necessary.

Again, it is important to reiterate that every family has different circumstances and the answer for each question will never be the same. Feel free to contact your Child Support worker at 920-490-3700 or Oneida Tribal Judicial System 920-496-5300 for any additional questions.

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Restructure, Reorganizing, Realignment, Rebuilding the Oneida organizational and community systems....what have we done, what are we doing now, what are we talking about doing in the future and how are we doing it?

The Situation of the Situation

It has come to my attention there are concerns out there in the community and among the membership that the above questions need to be answered. That undefined line between more and less communications seems to be causing more questions.

The Numbers

Our roles and responsibilities in many opportunities to contribute to addressing the above questions have many numbers to understand....

- Plus or minus 17,000 tribal members
- Plus or minus 12,000 G.T.C. members
- Plus or minus 3000 employees
- 9 Business Committee members
- An undetermined number of members of our Oneida community

We as the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) have been in our role for over a year now and the answers to the above questions should be easy to report out to the GTC and the world as the various levels of making a positive difference to contribute to a better Oneida are numerous. The voice of the BC is key to the communication foundation with the GTC and the community.

The Opportunity

It appears that each of those potential contributors should find their voice to know the subject and discover where they can make a positive difference during these times that are a changin'. I am reminded of Bob Dylan song lyrics that may better explain what I see in Oneida these days...

"Come gather 'round people
Wherever you roam
And admit the waters
Around you have grown,
And accept it that soon
You'll be drenched to the bone.

If your time to you is worth savin'

Then you better start swimmin'"

At the GTC meeting of September 1, 2012 on the primary budget the GTC voice passed not only the budget for the community but also included a motion which directed a group of facilitators and appropriate staff to work on setting up forums for the GTC to have their voices heard as contributors to the BC as they report back on alignment of "the vision and priorities for the " nation, tribe, organization, community to the GTC in January 2013. I want to sincerely encourage you and all members of your families to watch for the times and places for these meetings as well as other electronic appropriate opportunities to contribute to a better Oneida. Together we do better.... "for the times they are a changin" and your role and responsibility no matter what your age is important to contribute to those 7 generations we speak of in our thoughts and prayers.

OBC Forum...

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

The difference between living and thriving can be a very narrow passage!

As this year draws closer to the end, I hope this time of the year finds you in great health and good spirits. I know a lot of you out there are still working hard every day to raise your family and to make things right for yourself.

As I think about the upcoming winter, I think about our blessings as a tribe and yet am reminded that we still have those amongst us who are facing real hardships! Whether we're talking about the lack of work or limited housing options someone amongst us can always use a helping hand. In this perspective, when it comes to the Oneida Government, it is always time to renew and think about better ways. The path toward thriving and living more enhanced lives is in our hands. If we desire to live in a community with assets, charm and character, we need to look at things from a fresh perspective and move towards results.

I have been working hard to try and yield some results here in Oneida. I have tried to create jobs and deliver a complete continuum of new housing opportunities. In our first year in office from the swearing in ceremony of August 11, 2011 to October 2012 (currently), new job creation stemming from economic development, as it relates to housing, has failed to produce results. In addition during this time, only a handful of housing opportunities have been delivered, most being the same HUD type housing offered in the past.

Beginning this week, hopefully we can embark on a new path during the second year. I really believe that the OBC wants to do so much more, and I am here to encourage and support new initiatives for our tribe. Truthfully, our future depends on us doing something better, something new. The Oneida government is duty bound to produce on behalf of the Oneida people. I talked about this at the last GTC meeting, "Where are the new jobs or the new housing options here?" If I were to compare the OBC leadership style with one of our neighboring communities, I would be more than a little alarmed when comparing results.

Let's look at our neighbors for a second. I am always amazed how we can be outpaced on so many levels, especially in the last 14 months. How is this even possible? Hobart recently released a report for the 1,000 days since August 12, 2009 when they embarked on a village government driven housing and commercial development expansion where they master planned two tax districts supporting a massive expansion. Then they targeted two developers who focused on fulfilling the village's vision for a "lovely mixed use development project" along Highway 29 and another project on Packerland to the south; on our lands. In just over two years, two businesses with 300 jobs located near 29 along with 299 new living units were built and occupied. To the south, they have already completed a reported 98 units. Developer agreements for an additional 231 units have been signed. During this time we (Oneida) purchased a handful of units and delivered perhaps 30 HUD units.

The time to change is always now, tomorrow is too late and yesterday is gone. In this vein, I have been diligently working to present job creation opportunities and diverse new housing opportunities. Unfortunately, I have continued to run into road blocks from people who feel we can create these opportunities on our own or have the mindset that any growth will equate to urban sprawl. My question to them is if we can do it, why haven't we done it? When it comes to concerns about urban sprawl, growth is already at our doorstep, just look around all four corners of the reservation, we're being encroached by swift moving communities who are controlling growth within our Reservation while openly being against our heritage and who we are.

Where are our vibrant neighborhoods? I have examined what has been done and what has been tried over the last 25 years and have seen that our efforts have resulted in little to no product. I estimate that since 1982 well over $465,000,000 was spent on volumes of economic and planning personnel, managers, projects, and failed investments. What do we have to show for all of this besides a lot of paper, no economic growth, one profitable hotel (which is not run by us), and several revenue sources that have leveled out, lagged or lost revenue? The stark reality is that if we continue the status quo financially, we may need to consider cutting services and/or laying off employees as soon as the next two years. Does anyone not believe it's time for leadership to step-up? Will the old ways of doing the very same things change our results here? When you're confronted with

REMEMBER
WHEN YOU FIRST DUG THE DIRT FOR ME?
We'd spend afternoons together with the kids, outside. You'd get the satisfaction of planting each seed, watching us grow, then making us into something the whole family would enjoy. I miss that. I just need some fresh seeds and a little care... Please? Teaching kids to plant is fun and healthy!
P.S. I heard planting a garden is coming back in Indian Country.

Public Hearing Notices

11:30AM • Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

November 29, 2012
Purpose:
Adoption of the General Tribal Council Meetings Law
The General Tribal Council Meetings Law (Law) creates a schedule of General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting dates; sets a general agenda for those meetings; outlines the petition process; sets standards of conduct for meeting attendees; and outlines the duties of those who help prepare for and assist with GTC meetings. The Law requires that at least four GTC meetings be held each year (annual, semi-annual, and 2 special meetings). In addition to these four meetings, a budget meeting is also required to be held as necessary. Additional GTC meetings can be called in accordance with the Constitution – by the Tribal Chairman or through petition. The Law limits GTC meeting attendees to those individuals who are: (1) enrolled Tribal members who are eligible to vote or (2) non-enrolled individuals who have a business-related need to attend the meeting and are approved by GTC.

The Law outlines a general agenda for GTC meetings and also sets out how a petition is processed. The process includes analyses of the petition being conducted, deadlines for when a petition must be presented to the GTC and required communication between the petitioner and the Tribal Secretary's Office. A petition received at least sixty days before a GTC meeting will be placed on the upcoming GTC meeting agenda; the petition must be considered by GTC within six months after it is submitted. GTC meeting attendees are required to be respectful and of others, be free from the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs, and remain in compliance with Tribal law – anyone violating these provisions may be removed from a GTC meeting.

November 29, 2012
Purpose:
Adoption of the Public Use Land Law
The Public Use of Tribal Land Law (Law) was developed to prevent the improper access, use and trespass to Tribal lands. Under the Law, the Environmental Resource Board would be responsible for adopting a Land Access Map which will clearly define whether Tribal land is:
- open to all persons
- limited to those persons who have a lease or permit to use the land; or
- limited to Tribal members, their spouses and descendants; members of other federally recognized tribes; authorized employees of the Tribe; or individuals who are accompanied by a Tribal member, or the spouse or descendant of a Tribal member.

In addition, the Environmental Resource Board would hold public hearings before amending the Land Access Map. This public hearing process is similar to the process used by the Land Commission to rezone property or amend district boundary lines under the Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law. The Law also defines trespass by describing activities that are a violation of the Law. Violators of the Law will be subject to a fine and the Environmental Resource Board will conduct hearings for anyone who choose to contest a fine issued under the Law.

November 29, 2012
Purpose:
Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy
The purpose of the amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy is to regulate the hiring of persons to complete work in order to minimize the costs of independent contractors. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:
- Authorizing, and identifying specific situations where a Tribal employee or a business owned by a Tribal employee may be utilized by the Tribe as an independent contractor.
- Clarifying that this Policy does not apply to elected or appointed Tribal officials or employees of Tribally-chartered corporations; it just applies to internal employees.
- Deleting an order of preference (i.e. Tribal members first, Tribal member spouses second, etc.) to be used in selecting independent contractors. Instead, the Policy requires the order of preference set out in the Tribe's Indian Preference Law to be applied.

-Deleting numerous procedural requirements that appear to be more appropriate as departmental Stand Operating Procedures or internal rules and guidelines.

Public Hearing Process
Testimony:
Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.
If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240*. Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Brandon Stevens to approve all contracts as recommended by Dr. Vir and Debbie Danforth, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one opposition and one abstention:

Opposed: Tina Danforth

Abstained: Melinda J. Danforth

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I'm opposing for the record because a month ago we denied any increase for other management staff. I'm opposing for the record because someone just mentioned a minute ago that one of these is beyond COLA increase that is allowed, so I oppose for all of those factors.

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated this is a management decision that just is following the process and if we have issues with that process we need to change the process.

For the record: Tina Danforth stated as I said in front of General Tribal Council this is the very reason that we need a health board, that is more than advisory. We need a health board that can make these kind of determinations and do them from a professional standpoint, from a medical standpoint.

For the record: Brandon Stevens stated this right now is acting as the health board in that capacity and not allowing our managers to manage with their expertise and their certifications and their education. So making a decision on this level is doing the same thing. So allowing those managers to do their jobs is what we are doing here today.

For the record: Ed Delgado stated these contracts, increases are within the existing contracts of the medical personnel, for most of them anyway, if not all of them. It is within their contract that there would be increases.

*Chairman Ed Delgado arrived at 10:05 a.m.

Approve the agenda

Motion by Patty Hoeft to approve the agenda with one addition, 1) Consider date for special GTC meeting in November, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried unanimously

Motion by Paul Ninham to go into executive session at 10:06 a.m., seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried unanimously

Motion by Paul Ninham to come out of executive session at 11:20 a.m., seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried unanimously

Executive session

In accordance with provisions of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin Open Records and Open Meetings Law, Chapter 7, sections 7.20-1 and 7.4-1, the Committee will move into executive session to discuss confidential information or to obtain legal advice.

1. Investment issue

Sponsor: Melinda J. Danforth

Excerpt from Sept. 26, 2012: Motion by Tina Danforth to table this item, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried with one abstention.*

Motion by Patty Hoeft to take the investment issue off the table, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried unanimously

Motion by Brandon Stevens to waive the limited waiver of sovereign immunity for the investment labeled USB agreement, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

For the record: Ed Delgado stated that we've passed this regardless of the financial concerns raised by our Chief Financial Officer. Thank you.

For the record: Vince DelaRosa stated I appreciate those concerns but the venue for sorting out some of those issues really have to, probably go back at some point, to General Tribal Council. General Tribal Council has empowered and authenticated the authority scope of the Trust department and I think that at some point maybe it's a fruitful discussion, to go there and chit chat a little bit about these issues. Debate is healthy and maybe that's the venue to discuss these things. So GTC has granted this authority to the Trust department and I'm just honoring essentially the role that GTC has created for the Trust Committee. So that's the context for my support of moving forward.

Open Session

1. Emergency request to post for Pardon Committee

Sponsor: Patty Hoeft

Motion by Melinda J. Danforth to approve the request to post for the four vacancies on the Pardon Committee and in the interim allow for emergency appointments to be made, seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

2. Setting a special GTC meeting date

Sponsor: Patty Hoeft

Motion by Patty Hoeft to set the special GTC date for Nov. 10 at Shopko Hall, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion failed with five oppositions:

Opposed: Melinda J. Danforth, Greg Matson, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens

Motion by Brandon Stevens to hold the special GTC meeting Monday, Nov. 19, 2012, seconded by Paul Ninham.

Motion carried with one opposition and one abstention:

Opposed: Patty Hoeft

Abstained: David Jordan

For the record: David Jordan stated that myself and my assistant will be on vacation that week. We both took that holiday week off, so I am just noting for the record that we both will not be able to help at the GTC meeting.

For the record: Greg Matson stated I've recommended time and time again, we have multiple day meetings. They shouldn't cost us anything if we have them at the Turtle school; we just need to make those decisions. We can have three days' worth of meetings at the Turtle school that can house 1,000 people at a time, which means you could total 3,000 people. You come on the day that the interest of the agenda is yours. If we're going talk about housing one day, health care the next day and job creation the next day then so be it, but that's where you get those that are interested in the subject, to communicate through the meetings. It's across the street. You want to talk about historically; historically the meeting's been here for 30+ years. Let's get creative.

Adjourn

Motion by Paul Ninham to adjourn at 11:46 a.m., seconded by David Jordan. Motion carried unanimously

OPD in No Text/Take the Pledge PSA

Oneida Police Chief Rich Van Boxtel, fourth from right, took part in a Public Service Announcement (PSA) that informs viewers about the dangers of texting while driving. Individuals from the Brown County Sheriff's Department, Green Bay, Ashwaubenon, and Hobart/Lawrence Police Departments also participated in the shoot that's part of the No Text/Take the Pledge Campaign.

OPD receives grant for ICAC training

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Police Department (OPD) recently received a grant from the Department of Justice – Division of Criminal Investigation. This grant will allow the OPD to train investigators in the area of Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC).

"The grant has to be used for training. We've been part of the ICAC Task Force for several years now, so we'll be using it for further training. That's what it was designed for," said Rich Van Boxtel, OPD Chief of Police.

The ICAC Task Force Program was created to assist state and local law enforcement agencies by enhancing their investigative response to technology facilitated crimes against children.

Due to this training police investigators will be taught how to identify child predators acting on the Internet. They will also learn to protect the predator's victims from predator abuse and victimization.

According to the police chief online predators have been an area threat for quite sometime.

"Online predators have always been out there. I think it has been extremely underreported. We don't really get a lot of calls for service for it. But as time permits our investigators are able to do some things online to try to find those folks that are trying to take advantage of our youth via the internet," Van Boxtel said.

The main cyber operations that are utilized by predators are online chat rooms, messaging programs, and social network sites.

"The ICAC Task Force has quite a few partners across the state, right now in Wisconsin there are 181 affiliates. It's a large network of investigators who, as they come across things, will go back and see where that potential suspect is from and share that intelligence," Van Boxtel added.

This system of shared intelligence has already aided the department in a handful arrests in the area.

"Internet crimes are affecting our kids here. This grant will allow us to extend our capabilities to stop online crimes against children," Van Boxtel said.

financial upheaval, should the response really be to do more of the same?

Let's avail ourselves of the world's resources where there are volumes of people with specialized talent. There are proven people with great ideas and result driven performance track records who would be glad to work with us, if only we invited them in and trusted them. I am trying to harness the best ideas and to team-up with the most talented people. If we can team our talented employee base with experts in the field we will see faster, better, and more cost effective results. I want to put people to work and have some shovels in the ground with Oneidas working side-by-side with industry partners who get things done. This is how we will see results. Results like our neighbors but much better for our Oneida community. Together we will deliver the Oneida vision to our people.

Over the next few weeks I hope to speak more directly about a draft Vision Oneida plan which many Oneidas have worked on for many generations. This is an exciting movement forward, planned out over many councils, and I will be honored to be part of the council that implements the vision in bricks and mortar. It is time to embark on the economic and community growth framed out by this plan.

This week we also moved forward with an enhanced vision for SEOTS. Soon we will be serving the needs of our Oneida families in southeastern Wisconsin from a beautiful new campus on the south side of Milwaukee. Many years and a lot of planning have gone into getting us this far. We have asked the development team to seek the approvals necessary to begin construction as soon as possible. We will be holding a briefing session in Milwaukee to help align the final building program with the services our members desire. We hope that you are able to attend.

Sometimes the difference between living and thriving is a narrow passage where the needy amongst us can turn to the government and seek a helping hand. Within the passage, there is middle ground. There is room here for thriving Native American enterprises, a vibrant and sustainable community and economic growth opportunities for those that we serve. I seek the middle ground; I seek the passage where a government can really serve the Oneida community. I seek a day where we turn this all around and get to a point where we can reinstall pay increases for the Oneida employees. We have to get our business operations in order; the Oneida people deserve a sustainable future.

We will see what year two brings in terms of the OBC administration. We hope that jobs and housing options inviting our people back to the reservation will be part of our legacy.

Thank you for your time and I encourage your feedback.

Hunters ready for 1st wolf hunts in Wis.

By Todd Richmond and Steve Karnowski
Associated Press Writers

MADISON, Wis. ~ For years, vacationers and farmers across northern Wisconsin and Minnesota have heard the eerie howl of the gray wolf and fretted the creatures were lurking around their cabins and pastures, eying up Fido or Bessie. The tables are about to turn: Both states plan to launch their first organized wolf hunts in the coming weeks.

The hunts won't be anything on the scale of the two states' beloved whitetail deer hunts, when hundreds of thousands of hunters rearrange work and school schedules and fan out across the woods. Both states have limited the number of wolves hunters can kill and capped the number of permits, creating an exclusive club of hunters who will get what could be a once-in-a-lifetime chance to take on the wiliest of predators.

Anticipation has reached a fever pitch, but most hunters will come face-to-face with a sobering fact within a few hours of venturing into the woods - wolves aren't deer or ducks. They're intelligent, mobile creatures with an unmatched sense of smell. The states could be hard-pressed to meet their kill goals.

Wolf hunting isn't unheard of in the United States. Alaska, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming allow it. Federal officials removed Great Lakes wolves from the endangered species list in January. That spurred Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin lawmakers to draft bills establishing hunts, too, pushing aside animal advocates' concerns that the wolf populations remain too fragile to sustain hunting.

Farmers in all three states have long complained about wolves wreaking havoc on their livestock. Wildlife officials estimate there are 850 in Wisconsin. About 3,000 roam Minnesota, the largest wolf population in the lower 48 states.

Both states will allow hunters to bait, shoot and trap wolves. Wisconsin also will allow night hunting and the use of dogs. Wildlife officials have kept the hunts small, though, as they feel their way along; Wisconsin set its quota at 116 animals and awarded only 1,160 permits through a lottery.

But whether the hunters ever see a wolf is anybody's guess. Montana, for example, sold nearly 18,700 licenses in the 2011 season but hunters took only 166 animals, a success rate of less than 1 percent.

Feds reject casino compact between Mass. and tribe

By Bob Salsberg
Associated Press

BOSTON ~ The federal government rejected a compact between Massachusetts and the Mashpee Wampanoags, dealing a major setback to the tribe's hopes for building a resort casino in Taunton.

In a letter to Gov. Deval Patrick explaining its decision, the U.S. Interior Department - which oversees the Bureau of Indian Affairs - said the compact called for the tribe to send too great a share of its gambling revenue back to the state.

The compact negotiated between the Mashpee and Patrick, and later approved by the Legislature, called for the tribe to return 21.5 percent of future gambling revenues to Massachusetts, the highest figure ever negotiated between a state and Native American tribe.

The bureau said the revenue allocation was too generous to the state and would undermine the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, which says gaming should primarily benefit tribes.

The bureau also said that the compact strayed too far into non-gaming issues, such as the tribe's hunting and fishing rights and land claims, and sought to give the state regulation over activities not directly related to gambling.

In separate statements Friday, Patrick and the tribe expressed disappointment with the ruling but vowed to reopen negotiations toward a revised compact.

The governor said the compact he negotiated with the tribe under the terms of the state's new gambling law was "extraordinarily fair" to both sides.

Patrick also defended the 21.5 percent revenue deal as reflecting market reality.

"It presents an enormous economic benefit to the Tribe and justifies the proposed revenue sharing obligations in our agreement," he said.

The casino law allows for up to three regional resort casinos in the state, but it gave exclusive rights in southeastern Massachusetts to a federally recognized Indian tribe if it agreed to a compact with the state by July 31, 2012.

Cedric Cromwell, tribal chairman of the Mashpee Wampanoag, said rejection of the compact was a possibility that had been anticipated. He said the tribe was prepared to reopen negotiations with the state immediately.

"We believe that these issues can be resolved quickly and cooperatively, and the Compact can be re-submitted ... for swift action," Cromwell said in his statement. "The Mashpee Wampanoag Tribe and the Commonwealth have negotiated respectfully and collaboratively to come to an initial agreement, and we will continue to negotiate in that same spirit."

Gov't to allow Indians to possess eagle feathers

Associated Press

WASHINGTON ~ The Justice Department said Friday it is going to allow members of federally recognized American-Indian tribes to possess eagle feathers, although that's a federal crime.

This is a significant religious and cultural issue for many tribes, who were consulted in advance about the policy the department announced.

The Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act and other federal wildlife laws criminalize the killing of eagles, which are listed as either endangered or threatened, and possession of feathers and bird parts, but the Constitution and federal laws also give tribes local sovereignty for self-government.

Under the new Justice Department policy, tribal members will not be prosecuted for wearing or carrying federally protected birds, bird feathers or parts. They also may pick up feathers found in the wild as long as they do not disturb federally protected birds or nests. Giving, lending or trading feathers or bird parts among tribe members, without any other compensation, also will be allowed.

While Justice did not previously have a written policy, the new directive is in line with long-standing practice by Justice prosecutors, U.S. attorneys and the Interior Department not to prosecute in such circumstances.

But the Justice Department will continue to prosecute tribe members and nonmembers alike for violating federal laws that prohibit killing eagles and other migratory birds or the buying or selling the feathers or other bird parts.

In addition, members of federally recognized tribes are covered by the new Justice Department policy regardless of whether they have a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service permit, Attorney General Eric Holder said in a memo to U.S. attorney offices around the country.

Holder said the new policy was issued to address concerns of tribal members who were unsure of how they might be affected by federal wildlife law enforcement efforts, particularly whether a permit would be required. The Fish and Wildlife Service issues a very limited number of permits for Indians to kill eagles in the wild or obtain feathers and carcasses of accidentally killed eagles from a federal repository.

Doug Craven, the natural resources director for the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians in Michigan, said tribal members there frequently encounter feathers from around 25 bald eagle nesting sites on their reservation. But it wasn't always clear to them whether they could keep the feathers for ceremonial use or if they'd have to send them off to a repository.

"They feel that's been gifted to them and they have a responsibility for that feather," said Craven, who was part of a group consulting with the Justice Department on the eagle feather policy. "This policy supports that."

While tradition and customs vary widely among the more than 500 federally recognized tribes, a high reverence for eagles is fairly consistent.

Holder said the new Justice Department policy strikes the right balance between enforcing wildlife laws that protect eagles and respecting the cultural and religious practices of federally recognized Indian tribes.

"From time immemorial, many Native Americans have viewed eagle feathers and other bird parts as sacred elements of their religious and cultural traditions," said Assistant Attorney General Ignacia Moreno, head of the department's environment and natural resources division. She called the new policy "a major step forward by establishing a consistent and transparent policy to guide federal enforcement of the nation's wildlife laws."

Currently, a federal depository near Denver holds the carcasses of eagles that are killed by contact with power lines or other causes. Indians may apply for a feather or a carcass. There is a wait to get the feathers.

The Fish and Wildlife Service has issued a few permits allowing tribes to kill eagles in the wild. The Hopi Tribe has killed golden eagles under a federal permit for years. The Northern Arapaho Tribe of Wyoming received a federal permit from the Fish and Wildlife Service earlier this year that would allow the tribe to take up to two bald eagles a year for use in the tribe's annual Sun Dance.

However, the Northern Arapaho are suing the Fish and Wildlife Service in federal court. The tribe argues the federal permit is meaningless because it would limit the tribe to killing bald eagles outside the Wind River Indian Reservation, but a Wyoming state law prohibits killing eagles outside the reservation.

The goal of the Oneida Pet Safety Program is to prevent animal bites and the spread of rabies in humans.

STARTING OCTOBER 1, 2012, tribal members can now take their dog to any accredited obedience class in Brown or Outagamie County and will be reimbursed with a $25.00 Oneida retail card upon completion of the course. You can bring your paperwork to either N7332 Water Circle Place, Little Bear Development Center, or at the Conservation Office, located at N8047 County Rd. U. Requirements for reimbursement include the following:

1. Documentation from the trainer program showing your dog has completed the course and attended every class.
2. Copy of your Oneida Tribal Identification Card.

Fall/Winter Safety Tips

As Fall is undoubtedly here, it is time to make sure your outside animals have all the necessities to handle the change in temperatures and to remain protected from the outside elements. It is vital for animals to be able to stay dry and out of the wind. The Pet Safety Program offers the following for sale*:

Dog Houses-$10.00

If your pet spends anytime outdoors, they need to have a safe and dry shelter. The shelters are available in a variety of sizes. Each dog house comes with plywood and insulation which is precut to fit each house. This provides additional protection for your pet.

Straw Bales-$1.00

Straw provides essential insulation. Do not use blankets. Blankets may become wet, and will do more harm than good in maintaining your dog's body temperature.

Water Pales-$1.00

Pets need fresh water daily.

- Dog houses, straw, and pail systems are available to tribal members only. You must provide your Tribal I.D Card to participate. All proceeds go back into the Pet Safety Program.

To purchase these items, contact Steve Linskens at slinsken@oneidanation.org or 920-869-4571.

Vaccination Reminder

The Green Bay Animal Hospital will continue to give vaccination discounts to tribal members on the first Wednesday of every month from 1-5 pm, walk-ins only. Do not call for an appointment.

Fiscal Catastrophe

I want to thank our tribal newspaper for all the information on our Tribe. I also want to thank all Tribal members who publish the truth such as BC Member Mr. Jordan and Mr. Willie Adams, III.

The Tribe as we know it is disappearing and soon will be gone unless all Tribal members stop the wasteful spending now. If we spend more than we take in – we will be broke. Right now we have over 400 employees that we cannot financially support. Gaming is our income. We should help and strengthen them as they bring in the money. Administration now spends the money, yet they try to impose more and more requirements on the wage earners. As things stand now we have a BC that's always looking for ways to grab more and more of our money.

Every BC member has their own personal secretary. $40,000 x 9 = $360,000 each year. Our constitution only provided for nine BC members. If the BC needs typing and it is too much for our Tribal Secretary, she should have a "pool" of secretaries to draw from. OR she could contact Man Power and hire one with no fringe benefits. The excess people could be reassigned to Gaming where they earn money. No layoffs.

If personnel costs continue to grow at this rate, and the overall budget intake remains flat inflation and personnel costs will consume our entire income.

Another area to look at is all our attorneys. Why do we need so many? When we face crisis we hire other consultants. Let our educated attorneys go.

We must choose between something that benefits us and not someone else. We must force choices that effectively challenge all Tribal members to choose what is best for the Tribe.

Another area is the Land Office. The BIA had around 6 employees and 20 Tribes to put land into Trust. We have over 25 people for our one tribe. We pay all the taxes until it goes into trust. Stop buying land! If we put 1,000 acres into trust THEN we could buy more land. We can't pay all the taxes for the reservation. The large amount of money needed to pay taxes for non-Indians is literally strangling our Gaming income and threatening our future as a tribe.

We are the GTC. We too are to blame. We have to make the tough decisions because the BC lacks the backbone to do it. This is our "wake up call" to the BC. They cannot ignore their responsibility to manage our tribal dollars. Tribal spending is out of control with fringe benefits and paying everyone's taxes.

As a tribal member you should be outraged to see your money wasted. The BC has literally spent our tribe to the brink of bankruptcy with giveaways. As a tribal member you hold the power to ensure the BC stops big spending, stop big government. This has put our tribe on a path to economic disaster.

Upgrades, improvements part of referendum for PCSD students

Should the Pulaski Community School District referendum pass on November 6, the district's students, including the 120 students that are also members of the Oneida Nation, will see major improvements, renovations and upgrades at their schools.

Hillcrest Elementary, where most of the PCSD Oneida Nation students attend elementary school, will see numerous upgrades designed to help accommodate the school's growing student body. For example, the school's current library will be converted into classrooms while a new library addition will be built.

"This new library will give our students space to collaborate, work together and check out materials such as books and computers," PCSD Superintendent Dr. Mel Lightner said. "Skills like teamwork and familiarity with technology are important parts of 21st century learning, and we look forward to providing our students with additional opportunities to gain these skills."

Besides the new library addition, Hillcrest students will also see repairs to the school's parking lots and the addition of a new secure entranceway that will require guests to check in at the office before entering areas occupied by students and staff.

The district's other schools, including Pulaski Community Middle School (PCMS), will also see a secure entranceway additions as part of the referendum proposal.

"In our modern world, school safety measures, like the ones proposed in our referendum, are a necessity," Lightner said.

The leaking roofs at PCMS will also be replaced, while aging brick will be repaired as well. The current community pool, located at PCMS, will be closed, and the space will be converted to offices for PACE (Pulaski Area Community Education) and the PCSD technology department.

New community athletic facilities, including a new multi-purpose stadium, soccer fields, a new track as well as baseball and softball diamonds will be built at Pulaski High School. A new community pool will also be constructed at PHS and a new community fitness center. These facilities will be open to all members of the PCSD, including members of the Oneida tribe, Lightner added.

For more information about the referendum, including the proposed improvements to Hillcrest as well as PCMS, and community athletic and pool facilities, visit www.pulaskischools.org/referendum.

District receives charter school grant

The Pulaski Community School District has been awarded a charter school grant from the state's Department of Public Instruction (DPI), despite having been denied funding in August.

According to Tom Krause, who led Pulaski's efforts to apply for the grant, after receiving the denial, the district asked for reconsideration from DPI representatives, who ultimately reversed their decision.

"We are very pleased that the DPI officials reversed their decision," PCSD Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mel Lightner said. "We are excited to open Explore: Pulaski's School of LIFE for our students, giving them new and exciting ways to learn."

According to Krause, the district will spend the remainder of the 2012-2013 school year making preparations for the charter school, although the school will not open its doors until August 2013.

"The students will all have their own personalized learning plan they develop and design with an advisor," Krause said. "They take their curiosity where it needs to go."

Students will still be responsible for meeting all of the state's educational standards, including the newly introduced common core standards, and will still be required to take state-wide assessments, Krause added.

When the school opens, it will serve roughly 70 students in grades seven through ten, before expanding to about 110 students in grades seven through 12 by 2016.

Students will be able to begin enrolling in the school in February. If more than 70 students apply for admission, they will be placed into a lottery. After the first 70 students are admitted, the remaining interested students will be placed on a waiting list.

Hector Miranda is in 11th grade. He attended Oneida Nation High School for two years. He was in Oneida's school system for five years. The only other school he went to was in Green Bay. He lives on the reservation in Site I. He said he lives with people related to him. Hector doesn't participate any activities, but his grades are good. He likes girls and football. His favorite color is red.

Hector eats any food put in front of him. Hector likes Pizza Hut pizza with pepperoni and sausage. The team he roots for is the Packers; he watches every game. He does not know which college he is going to attend yet.

Ms. Williams is a 17 year-old young lady that attends Oneida Nation High School (ONHS). She's attended ONHS since she was in 8th grade. The other schools she attended before ONHS were LDF Public School, Washington Middle School, MHLT, East Green Bay High School, West Green Bay High School, and Oconto High School.

After high school, Amanda plans to pursue a career in the medical field such as becoming a nurse. She doesn't participate in many sports outside of her gym classes, but loves watching people get into sports, especially supporting her Oneida Nation High School's football and basketball teams.

Musically, Amanda doesn't like all the excitement. She would rather sit back and listen to R&B or hip hop rather than metal or hard rap.

"I just don't like loud music!" she said.

Her role model is her older brother because even after very hard struggles he's getting his life together and doing well now. Her motto to live by is "What goes around comes around. I am a huge believer in Karma. I treat others the way they treat me."

Indigenous Peoples Day at ONHS

By Heather Stevens

Thunderhawk Times

In 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered what he thought was India. With his arrival, he declared the occupants of this island were to be called "Indians." He invaded the land and claimed it as his own. There was no one in particular who discovered America because the indigenous people already lived here and couldn't be "discovered."

The Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin declared October 8th, 2012 as the first official Indigenous Peoples Day on the Oneida reservation. This day was celebrated with a tobacco burning in front of the Oneida Nation High School. Oneida Nation Business Committee members, community members, and the ONHS students and staff attended the event.

At the tobacco burning, a Thanksgiving was given by Tracey Stevens (ONHS senior), followed by Sonny Hill (ONHS teacher) doing the tobacco burning. The reading of the Resolutions regarding the newly created Indigenous Peoples Day was given by Melinda Danforth, and Dennis Danforth, Jr., who was also the MC of the event, gave the closing remarks. Artley Skenandore, principal of ONHS, coordinated this event.

From this time forward, October 8th will be a special day for the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin to celebrate Indigenous People's customs, culture, and traditions.

ONHS Homecoming

By Diego Metoxen

Thunderhawk Times

Oneida Nation High School's Homecoming is October 15-19. We have five different days for students and teachers to dress up during homecoming.

Monday is Opposite Gender day where the boys dress as girls and the girls dress as boys. Tuesday is Nerd Day. Every student and teacher will dress in their nerdiest clothes. Wednesday is Twin Day where everyone must find a twin and come to school dressed the same as someone else. Thursday is School Colors Day. Purple, black, and white will be worn by the students and staff to support the T-Hawks in the homecoming game against Wisconsin School for the Deaf.

Friday is Color wars. All the classes (freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors) have a specific color that they should wear. The freshmen need to wear black, the sophomores should wear red, the juniors will need to wear blue, and the seniors will be wearing green.

The Playbook of Healthy Game Day Tailgating

By Kayla Halverson
UWGB Dietetic Intern

Football season has officially started. Fall weekends belong to football and the great outdoor eating experience of tailgating. Green Bay Packer fans look forward to tailgating on game days as much as they look forward to kickoff. What's the problem with this? Well, typical tailgate meals and snacks are usually higher in calories, fats, and carbohydrates. The good news is that you can still enjoy tailgating without blowing your diet by following these tips:

Game Day Tips

1. Play Defense: Eat a healthy snack before tailgating.
2. Support your Team: bring a healthy dish to pass.
3. Take Charge of your Portions: Use your hands (1 cup = a fist, ½ Cup = a cupped hand, 1 Tbsp. = a Thumb)
4. Be a Team Player: Stay active!
5. Stay in the Zone of hydration: sip on water to help curb your appetite.

Healthy Playbook

Hand washing - What's the big deal?

By Karen L. Beke, RN
Infection control team

Hand washing is a big deal! It goes a long way to protect you from disease by breaking the "chain of infection". According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) hand washing is the best way to help protect yourself and others around you from disease!

It is simple and anyone can do it. So what do you need to know?

When should you wash your hands…
- Before, during, and after preparing food or before eating food
- Before and after caring for someone who is sick
- Before and after treating a cut or wound
- After using the toilet or changing diapers/ cleaning up a child who has used the toilet
- After blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing
- After touching an animal or animal waste or handling pet food or pet treats
- After touching garbage

How should you wash your hands... (Here are a few additional CDC facts.)
- Wet your hands with clean, running water (warm or cold) and apply soap.
- Rub your hands together. Remember, LOTS of BUBBLES! Be sure to scrub the backs of your hands, wrists, between your fingers, and don't forget your fingernails!
- Remove jewelry like rings and watches to thoroughly clean your hands.
- Rub them together for at least 20 seconds. Singing "Happy Birthday" twice is just right.
- Rinse your hands well under running water.
- Dry your hands using a clean towel or air dry them.

In some cases, you may not be able to use soap and water to clean your hands. A good alternative is an alcohol based hand sanitizer. Here are a couple of important things to remember when using hand sanitizer.
- Don't use hand sanitizer if you can see dirt on your hands. (visibly soiled)
- Don't wave them in the air or wipe excess hand sanitizer on your clothes. The act of rubbing or friction helps the hand sanitizer work properly; rub until the sanitizer is gone.
- Just like washing your hands, make sure you rub the hand sanitizer over your palms, the back of your hands, fingers, wrists and fingernails.

Fresh Fruit and Vegetable program to impact 178 schools

MADISON — From apples to zucchini with plenty of variety in between, students in 178 Wisconsin schools will be eating more fresh fruits and vegetables during the school day thanks to a federal grant program.

Wisconsin's share of the $150 million available nationwide through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program is just over $3 million. The grant provides $50 per student for schools to offer at minimum three snacks per week outside of the School Breakfast and National School Lunch programs. Snacks are offered to all children in the school. Grants to schools are expected to reach 59,551 Wisconsin students.

"Offering children a nutritious snack that builds healthy eating habits is a double win for our schools and families," said State Superintendent Tony Evers. "Fewer children will hit the hunger slump that pulls their attention away from their school lessons, and more kids will sample foods they may not otherwise encounter, building a foundation for healthier food choices beyond this grant program."

During the 2011-12 Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program, participating Wisconsin schools averaged 100 snack days during the school year. Special activities included a farmer's market, build your own salad day, Wisconsin apple taste test, and health and wellness fairs. In previous years, schools have incorporated "nutrition fun facts" into morning announcements, displayed posters to promote healthy snacking, and integrated lessons on healthy eating and behavior into snack time.

Because children from low-income families tend to have fewer nutritional options and less exposure to fresh produce, the USDA developed the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program in 2002. The program's goal is to increase fruit and vegetable consumption among students in the nation's poorest elementary schools by providing free fresh fruits and vegetables to students. The poverty level in participating state schools and school districts is more than 56 percent based on free and reduced-price school meal data. Wisconsin has been part of the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program since 2006 when 25 schools participated.

Some of the schools receiving grants include:
- Oneida Nation Elementary School, $20,600
- Flambeau School District Flambeau Elementary, $15,750
- Menominee Indian School District Keshena Primary, $20,300
- Menominee Tribal School, Neopit, $9,700
- Indian Community School of Milwaukee, $14,300
- Lac du Flambeau School District Lac du

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility

The future at Osnuhsa Lake will include mechanical weed cutting, removal of aerator system, and handicap access fishing pier. Further, two dams will be removed at Pamperin Park.

The following seven land use plan elements goals have been met or are in progress:

1. Maintain a balance between the natural components of our land and the necessary economic developments of the past, present, and future. We will maintain our lands for the specific and intended uses within our goals and objectives, as a sovereign Nation, by keeping the Oneida Reservation successful in maintaining its rural character, while continuing to provide a solid economic foundation.
2. Preserve suitable land areas for agriculture and associated land uses.
3. Recognize commercial development as an essential land use, require quality, aesthetically pleasing developments and provide opportunities for an amount of development adequate to serve the needs of the community.
4. Recognize the importance that industry will have an economic impact on the utilization of this land, which also may provide a major return on investment.
5. Develop a "master plan" of each location, within which, institutional facilities are a part of the community.
6. Provide opportunities and locations for quality housing for Tribal members that will not encroach on prime agriculture lands, environmentally or culturally significant areas, but will complement existing residential sites and fully use all available services.
7. Build a community which protects and enhances the Reservation area's natural environment. Natural resources are to be used constructively and based on the premise that conservation and development need not be mutually exclusive.

The Community Design plan element includes four goals which were developed from community comments related to its' vision of an efficient and functional "community of well-being" for those that work, live and visit the Oneida Reservation. The first goal is to define and maintain "rural character" for all Oneida Reservation lands and neighborhoods. Goal two is to promote a healthy lifestyle: All major life activities that support a healthy life style are available and supported in community design, for all age groups. The third goal is to create "a positive send of place," which identifies ""An Oneida Community." The following elements shall be integrated throughout the community in such a way that a positive sense of place and sovereign identity are supported: art; aesthetics (building design, landscape, trees); signs; culture and history integration; trails for walking and biking which connect all adjacent areas such as roadways, green space, natural features, visual corridors, parks and others. Goal four is that there needs to be a "Central Oneida" designation, within which services, civic space, commerce, community events and a "central park" exist. The majority of these goals are being met in a series of catalyst projects and collaborative area development planning efforts created by cross-functional work teams of the organization.

"Economic Development and Agriculture"

The purpose of the community meeting is to present the progress of the Economic Development and Agriculture Comprehensive Plan Elements and to gather information from community members about visioning the future of economic development and agriculture for the Comprehensive Plan Re-write.

The Oneida Reservation Comprehensive Plan sets broad policies and guidelines for future growth and development. The plan will serve as the basis for both daily and long-range decisions that will influence the development of the physical, social, political, economic, aesthetic, and other related factors of the community.

Above (right) is a schedule for future Comprehensive Plan meetings. The schedule includes the date, time, place, presenters and comprehensive plan topic. Please mark your calendars and plan to attend these and future community meetings so you can voice your vision of the future of our community.

Community Facilities, Utilities and Transportation, topic of second Meeting

Submitted by the Oneida Planning Department

The fourth comprehensive plan community meeting was held at Little Bear Development Center on October 4, 2012. The plan elements on the agenda were Community Facilities, Utilities, and Transportation.

The transportation plan element encompasses a network of personal and public modes of transportation, as well as, roads, waterways, paths and trails and the repair and maintenance of them. The Oneida Tribe receives a pot of money from the Bureau of Indian Affairs and we administer a program called the Indian Reservation Road Program. Currently, 19 miles of reservation roads are maintained by the Tribe with estimates of 30 to 40 miles in the future. Plans are in the works for road improvements to site 1, site 2, the Mobile Home Park and Standing Stone. Cornelius Drive, Water Circle Place and the Language House Road have been 100% funded by our Reservation Road Program. Most recently, the Tribe partnered with the State of Wisconsin for the new Oneida Bridge and accompanying road construction. The new trail system on the reservation is meant to focus on getting out of our cars and start walking, bicycling and exercising.

Key transportation issues raised include bad condition of roads in Site 1 and driver safety. Road conditions are due to dispute with Hobart on ownership of the roads; therefore, road maintenance is not getting done. Another key issue from the user perspective is the variable charges for different uses of transit, including transit vouchers issued by the Oneida Community Health Center.

Community facilities are the buildings owned by the Tribe and are held in common for the benefit of the community. Examples include the Civic Center, Little Bear Development Center, Parish Hall, Norbert Hill Center, Oneida Police Station, Oneida Library, Oneida Community Health Center, Skenandoah Complex and in the near future the Anna John Residential-Centered Care Community. Since 1974 the Oneida Tribe has spent $208 million dollars on facilities and projects. Our waste water treatment facilities are under our own jurisdiction; therefore, we can offer affordable utility rates.

All water and wastewater management systems are maintained and operated by the Oneida Utilities Department. Solar, wind, cable, electric, gas and fiber optics are utilities that will be considered for the future.

Oneida Ecumenical Community hosts first community memorial

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Ecumenical Community will be hosting an inaugural Community Memorial Service on Thursday, November 1, 2012 at the Oneida Parish Hall.

The Oneida Ecumenical Community consists of six religious entities whose place of worship rests within the Oneida Reservation. The Oneida Assembly of God, Zion Lutheran Church, Oneida Apostolic Church, Holy Apostle Episcopal Church, Oneida Methodist Church, and Do Pray Ministries are all represented in this group.

"We wanted to make this a special event for the purpose of honoring the memory and sharing in the celebration of those who lost loved ones," said Loni Johnson,

Each individual church previously held a ceremony for the deceased in their own time and manner. However the idea for a unified event that would bring together the community came from the Ecumenical Community.

"We, at the Assembly of God, were holding a service between Thanksgiving and Christmas but it is such a rushed time of the year. So we began to think about a community memorial, helping those who lost loved ones over the past year. Try to be a help and comfort to them," Johnson added.

The result is the Community Memorial Service, where family and friends of those who passed away during the past year are invited to come and share memories and comfort one another.

"This is an event for the community. As a community we band together and we share one another's joys but also each of their sorrows. I hope that out of this we uplift one another and just be a joy to one another. When we are down we need to lift them up not push them further down," Johnson said.

The nature of the Oneida community, being intimate and familiar, lends itself to a healing service for those mourning a lost loved one.

"Oneida is a close-knit community and you might say family oriented. If you're not related to someone you think you are, or you know a relative," Johnson chuckled.

On Thursday, November 1, 2012 the service will begin with the Oneida Singers at 5:30pm, followed by the memorial service from 6:00pm – 7:00pm. There will be a time of fellowship and refreshments following the service.

Loretta Says... Are We at War?

Loretta Metoxen • *Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • *Providing a connection to the past

This is a good question to ask ourselves, or ask our Community or even ask our Tribe. I thought I would pose it because we seem to go about our daily lives and business nonchalantly without giving it any heedful regard. Occasionally, we see the Colors (United States flag and the Oneida Nation flag) flying at half mast. Do the young folks attending our schools fully understand the meaning and significance of that. Do they grasp the idea that over 6000 men and women have given their lives in the Middle East for safety and freedom for them at home on U. S. soil? Do they know that, in addition, over 30,000 young men and women have suffered the loss of limbs or severe brain damage? What about those whose wounds you cannot see because they are emotional and may never be healed in their life times?

Well, I wanted to ask the questions because it would give me an opportunity to tell everyone what we all did during WW II. I was 9 ½ years old when it started in December 1941 and I was 13 years old when it ended in August 1945. I clearly recall President Roosevelt's (FDR) speech when he said "This is a day that will live in infamy" when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. We listened to that speech in our farm kitchen on a battery powered radio since we did not have electricity then. From that moment on, everybody in the country (USA) was in high gear doing something, anything, for the War effort. Everyone, from the littlest to the oldest was involved.

Food, shoes, and gas were all rationed. The amount of sugar, meat and other foodstuffs that were consumed were regulated by ration stamps. The book of ration stamps was meted out to families according to the number of people in the household. We raised our own beef, pork and chickens so we often traded some of each to relatives or friends in town for sugar stamps, especially to use for canning. Coffee was scarce and rationed. Some people were making coffee substitutes from roasted chicory.

Farmers were allowed enough gas to run their farm machinery. Crops had to be maximized to feed the troops and the general population. We had a small tractor then and a big team of horses.

All people wore their clothes longer with many patches on them, if necessary. Hand me downs were common, from the older children to the younger, even to go to school. Everyone was allowed one pair of shoes for the year and there were stamps for that, too.

School children were released from their regular school day to pick ripe milkweed pods. The fluffy white part that carries the milkweed seeds in the wind was valuable. It is called kapok and was used for life jackets for the sailors.

Grease from cooking, if not used for meals, was collected to make nitroglycerin, an explosive. Tin cans were saved and collected, also. Every piece of scrap metal was put to use for smelting and manufacturing tanks, guns, jeeps, ships and airplanes.

There were blackouts. That meant that, at night time, all the family members would gather in one room with minimal light. All windows would be covered with heavy blankets or mattresses to shut out any bit of light from the room. A neighborhood man would be designated for Civil Defense and he would check all homes to see that they were complying with these procedures. This entire activity was to prevent us from getting bombed by enemy aircraft.

Many Oneida men and women immediately signed up for military duty. A number of them, including Robert W. Cornelius, lost their lives. The Veterans of Foreign Wars new facility is dedicated to him. Roy House was captured and was a victim of the Bataan Death March in the Philippines. He survived the ordeal. Joe (Diamond) Ninham, a Marine, was on a ship off of Saipan in the Pacific when it was hit. He was killed. There is a long list of other Tribal members who served on the front lines in all theaters to the very end.

Oneida women became what have come to be known as "Rosie, the Riveters." They went to work in the shipyards at Sturgeon Bay, Manitowoc and Sheboygan to build ships and landing crafts.

On the Home Front, there were posters everywhere with military slogans on them. One was of Uncle Sam pointing out saying "We want you", a recruiting poster. Another poster reminded us that "Loose Lips Sink Ships". All folks, whether you lived in the country or city, were expected to grow gardens. These were called Victory Gardens and a much effort was put into the publicity for this effort.

So, I ask again: Are we at war? For myself, I would rather go back to the 1940's in how we supported the troops and the total war effort. We won. All of us won because we all participated every day.

Member Spotlight: Kathy Fish

By: Brad Sosinsky

Mentally and physically Kathy was at the lowest point in her life. After having two major back surgeries in a one year span, she had very little energy left. It was a very sad time in her life because she didn't even have enough strength to hold her grandchildren. The medications kept coming in but Kathy was feeling more and more depressed. Finally, after a doctor's appointment, enough was enough and Kathy drove straight to Oneida Family Fitness Center and signed up. On September 28, 2012 marked the one year anniversary of Kathy being a member at the fitness center. In that years' time, Kathy has lost a total of 75lbs and has more energy than ever in her life!

Since Kathy's weight was so heavy and her body in so much pain, she started out swimming for her exercise. After a few swimming sessions she was already feeling better about herself. Kathy eventually started swimming every day and joined the 50 mile club twice. She knew this was a start to a happier and healthier lifestyle. She ended up losing 28lbs from swimming laps and she was ready for the next step in fitness.

Next, Kathy decided to join "The Weigh of Life" class at Oneida Family Fitness. Kathy got a rude awakening learning how eating so much food that she loved, can be so bad for her health. The best thing she learned in class was "treat food as fuel for the body." Kathy then started participating in the group exercise classes at the fitness center. She started out with the lower impact classes and worked her way up to the advanced classes. Kathy is a regular participant in all the classes, but she is most proud of being able to handle; spin class, boxing boot camp, and rock bottom!!

Kathy's long term goal was to lose 60lbs, but she has lost 75lbs already in a year's time. Now her next goal is to reach 90lbs of weight loss. Kathy continues to go to Oneida Family Fitness every day and she's never looking back. Kathy's advice to others is: "Get moving, no one is going to do it for you. You have to set your mind to do it and get motivated, once you do that who knows what life has more to offer you. Where there is life there is hope." Kathy wants to thank Oneida Family Fitness and all of the trainers that supported her through her journey towards a happier and healthier lifestyle. Keep in mind if Kathy can do it, anyone can do it! Keep It Moving!

Corn Bread Recipe

Corn Bread Flour
- 1 quart white corn
- 1 cup hard wood ashes sifted

Bring 2 quarts of water to boil, add white corn and wood ashes. Kernels will turn orange. Boil 20 minutes. Kernels will turn yellow in color. Check a kernel to see if hull comes off easily. If not boil another 5 minutes and recheck. When corn is ready, place in corn washing basket or wire strainer, rinse rubbing kernels against sides to get corn hulls off. Rub corn between hands to check if hull is off. Place corn in food dryer for 4 hours, or place on sheet on table with fan on until dry. If you dry on table, occasionally move the kernels to help dry it out.

Once the kernels are dry, grind with a hand or electric grinder. Sift and regrind corn that is left.

Corn Bread Recipe
- 2 cups white corn flour
- ½ cup cooked beans (kidney, red, or pinto)
- ¼ tsp salt (optional)
- 1¾ cups boiling water

Combine corn flour, beans, salt. Add boiling water. Mix thoroughly. Dip hands in cold water, dough will be very hot. Form dough into ball and flatten to 4" circle. Cook in a 4 quart kettle of water with a mild boil for 30 minutes.

Get Out the Vote rally raises political awareness

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Nation and Stockbridge Band of Mohican Indians teamed up to host a Get Out the Vote rally at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center on Tuesday, October 30, 2012. The event was intended to raise awareness amongst the Native American community that their vote does count in the upcoming presidential election.

By this time most people are sick of the commercials, the mail outs, the debates, and the phone calls. But the fact is that each political election has a major impact on the status of the United States.

Casting your vote is how you make your voice heard. Now more than ever there has been a movement to get Native Americans to the polls to exercise their right to vote.

"This voting awareness movement is stronger than anything we have seen before. Certainly stronger than my father remembers and stronger than my grandfather remembers. So we need to value voting, we need to cherish that ability because not everyone gets it," said celebrity guest Chaske Spencer, who portrays the leader of the wolf pack from the hit movie "Twilight".

Celebrity guest Mariah Watchman, who was the first Native American model to appear on "America's Next Top Model", noted the laid back nature of future generations.

Oneida renews Lambeau Field gate sponsorship

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Acknowledging their historic ties, the Oneida Nation and the Green Bay Packers announced the renewal of the tribe's sponsorship of the Oneida Nation Gate at a press conference held Monday, October 29.

According to Packers President Mark Murphy, the Oneida Nation Gate is the busiest entrance to Lambeau Field welcoming a third of the game day crowd.

"We've had a great relationship with Oneida over the years," said Murphy. The gate agreement was first entered into in 2001.

Paving operations starting on WIS 54 in Oneida

Motorists encouraged to find alternate routes

(Green Bay) The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) northeast region office in Green Bay is announcing final paving and pavement marking operations will begin Monday, November 5 and continue through Thursday, November 15 on WIS 54 in Brown and Outagamie counties from County U to WIS 172. This work will be taking place daily, Monday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Traffic impacts during this time will be significant.

During the work hours, traffic will be reduced to one lane and controlled by flaggers. Backups will most likely occur during this time. Additionally, traffic will be shifted onto various lanes of WIS 54. These lane shifts could also occur on a daily basis.

Outside of these hours, WIS 54 will have one lane open in each direction, although work will continue.

Motorists are urged to find alternate routes and use extreme caution when driving through this work zone.

This $8.7 million project began in April and includes the realignment of one mile of WIS 54 with a new bridge over Duck Creek and construction of a roundabout at the intersection of WIS 54 and Seminary Road. Work includes storm sewer, asphalt pavement, construction of a retaining wall, bridge rehabilitation, lighting, signing, landscaping and pavement marking. It is scheduled for completion in mid-November.

From 1A/Get Out the Vote

"It seems that our generation is quieter than previous generations. We don't speak up and be heard as much as those in the past. I think that needs to change, we need to vote and have a say about the future of the country. That is why elections are important," Watchman said.

Opinions on political candidates vary from person to person. But one thing that can be agreed upon is that the United States is in need of a strong leader to get through some these trying times.

"When deciding on a candidate we need someone who is going to help with jobs, economy, health care, and someone who will stand up for Indian rights and will continue to stand up for Indian rights," said Oneida Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado.

Not only does an event such as this raise awareness for those who are currently eligible to cast a vote, but it also lays a positive foundation for future generations of voters.

"I think an event like this helps spread the message that every vote counts and every vote means something. Even if it is just one person, when we combine our efforts it really does make an impact. I also think this helps the younger generations because it makes elections meaningful to them and helps create a sense of pride in our community and our native people," said Miss Oneida Rosa Francour.

The rally also featured Green Bay Packers' linebacker Brad Jones, who spoke about the importance of voting and signed autographs for those in attendance. The band "Rocker" concluded the event with an hour of music.

The Oneida Nation, Stockbridge Munsee Band of Mohican Nation, and the National Congress of American Indians, and the National Indian Gaming Association coordinated the rally.

From 1A/Oneida Nation Gate

Murphy summarized the 100 year history of professional football in Green Bay and the role several Oneida players took in its development.

"Members of the Oneida Nation were the first professional players in the area," he said.

While the financial details weren't released, the agreement will cover the next 10 years. Oneida Business Committee Chairman Ed Delgado stated he's pleased with the partnership.

"What's good for Oneida, and what's good for Green Bay, and what's good for Ashwaubenon is good for all of us," he said.

Along with having Oneida's name on the eastern gate, Oneida has signage in more than 35 locations inside the stadium.

Oneida artists showcase their work

The event was created to provide fellowship among artists, artist growth, professional exhibition, and sales for women in the arts. The event concluded with a fashion show, which showcased local artists' works in cultural fashion.

OBC kicks off planning work sessions with GTC, nixes giftcard

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) started planning work sessions with the General Tribal Council (GTC) at the Wednesday, October 24 OBC meeting.

Present: Vice-Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Councilmembers Paul Ninham, David Jordan, Melinda Danforth, Vince DelaRosa.

According to Councilman Paul Ninham, the goal of the tri-annual GTC work sessions is "to come up with some priorities that will be matching our vision and our mission statement," he said. "We kind of see it working in conjunction with the mandate we got from General Tribal Council last month to sit down and do some visioning sessions."

While there was support for holding the work sessions, there was concern from Chief Financial Officer Larry Baton over giving attendees a $50 gift card.

"I'm concerned that as if we have to a persistent basis induce people financially to come and be engaged, I'm concerned about that setting a president that now we've got another class of stipends to come to meetings. They should want to come to meetings," he said.

Vice-Chairman Greg Matson countered that the gift card enticement was necessary to overcome a failure of the OBC to engage the GTC in the past.

"We as a government need to correct some of the disengagement that has happened," he said. "We need to reengage the GTC."

The OBC voted to go ahead with planning the meetings which will be held the evenings of December 17-18, however, it was determined there isn't enough money in the OBC Special Projects budget for the anticipated turnout. The gift cards were repealed at an OBC emergency meeting Wednesday, October 31.

During the Internal Services Division report, Division Director Joanie Buckley discussed land near the airport that other municipalities are interested in developing. Treasurer Tina Danforth noted that Gaming was looking at developing that land as well. The item was requested to be brought before the Community Development and Planning Committee (CDPC).

During the Oneida Powwow Committee report given by Lloyd Powless, it was stated that the committee might cancel the 2013 Fourth of July parade in order to save money.

"It's not powwow related, but it's something nice that we do," said Powless.

Powless also explained that while the Three Sisters Powwow is usually more popular than a Veterans Powwow, it was decided to hold a Veterans Powwow this year on Sunday, November 11 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the War of 1812 in which the Oneidas were integrally involved.

Councilman Vince DelaRosa gave the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) report. He said SEOTS was interested in a new location on Electric Avenue that had been previously approved by the OBC.

Oneida Cemetery Fall Clean Up

As another fall season comes to a close, just a friendly reminder to families who have loved ones in our Oneida Cemetery, according to Section 75.7-2, Plants, it states to remove all burial pots and baskets (with the exception of artificial florals) before December 1st. After December 1st, if pots/baskets haven't been removed, the Oneida Enrollment Department or its designee will remove them.

For families who will be placing artificial winter floral arrangements out, those will need to be removed by April 1st of next year or when the arrangement has become unsightly due to the winter elements. Now is the time to insert any shepherd's pole for hanging your winter florals while the ground is not frozen. You may insert those poles directly behind the monument or within the plot dimensions.

In our attempts to maintain the beauty and tranquility of the cemetery we remind family members to remove any item(s) which becomes unsightly on your loved ones plot. Often times we see floral arrangements which have withered and faded in color, banners which have become tattered and torn due to the outside elements and trinket items and/or small memorabilia which have corroded over time. We understand all the items placed hold special sentimental value which connects your human loss to your loved one but as caretakers of the grounds we still have to abide by rules and regulations established.

We appreciate your cooperation in maintain the beauty of Oneida Tsiʔ Tyeyaʔ Tetalih.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Greenstruction, LLC makes mark with metal roofing

Oneida crew aims to make positive impact on environment

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Many local construction companies are currently piecing together the Anna John Oneida Resident Centered Care Community (AJORCCC), making it one of the major building projects in Oneida. The facility now boasts an eco-friendly metal roof thanks to the team at Greenstruction, LLC.

Greenstruction is an Oneida business currently owned and operated by former members of the Oneida Housing Authority training program.

"We learned to remodel homes from that experience. After our program ended it was kind of up to us to find a job or do something else. We saw an opportunity to do our own thing because what we do is unique," said Johnathan John.

John, Kamereon Matchopatow, James Huff, and Anthony Gutierrez decided to band together and begin their own business.

John had received education and training in "green" structures and figured it was a no brainer to start a construction business that specialized in environmentally friendly practices.

"The major thing we do is the metal roofing. We do what is called LP Smart Side, which is a green siding product. We do a lot of interior work also with tile and flooring, a lot of redoing bathrooms, which seems to be a trend right now," John said.

All the products used by Greenstruction are chosen for their environmentally friendly attributes. For example the metal roofing does away with common asphalt roofing shingles, which are very harmful to the environment, and replaces them with a longer lasting, more efficient roof resulting in a decrease in heating bills.

An example of Greenstruction's completed roof project using the metal shingles.

"We use a spray foam for insulation that comes from Chicago. It comes from the Energy Conservatory so it's relatively cheap but a high quality product," John said.

In fact all of the products used by the crew are acquired within a 500-mile radius of the area to decrease the processing and shipping required to send materials great distances.

"Everything we do is bought locally, as close as possible. We keep it within 500 miles as far as getting supplies. Taking into account the eco-friendly factor, if the product is recyclable, and observing eco-friendly practices," John added.

Greenstruction began working on projects on April of 2012 and so far business has had its highs and lows with their biggest project being the AJORCCC roof. For the crew, keeping the business in Oneida is an important thing.

"We are all Oneida and we wanted to keep that Oneida ownership. It makes sense that as a tribal company we should be green because it is true to the seven generations philosophy and it is good on the environment. To be a true Oneida contractor that needs to be a part of the business. But I think that's the way all businesses should be run," John said.

The business will now specialize in weatherizing homes as fall progresses and the winter season approaches.

If you are interested in contacting Greenstruction, LLC for a construction or weatherization project they can be reached at (920) 265-3243. The business currently offers free consultations and estimates on their website which can be found at http://www.greenstructionllc.com.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Tribal Treasurer

I would like to personally thank the GTC for approving the fiscal year 2013 Budget and for allowing me this opportunity as Treasurer. As we begin a new fiscal year it is important for each area to take inventory in both personnel and supplies to ensure we are appropriately staffed and do not have too many items in storage.

Effective and efficient use of Tribal resources is important. In the past, departments have been allowed to purchase whatever was deemed necessary for their areas and build a tremendous amount of inventory. With our recent budget deficits this practice was stopped and directors have been forced to exhaust what they have and justify their large purchases. There has been a lot of resistance to this and has caused some very interesting behavior. Directors are now complaining when other areas are allowed to make a large purchase.

I was elected by the GTC as Treasurer to watch over our money, to ask hard questions, to hold people accountable, and to ensure we are making the best financial decisions we can with the most accurate information. I was not elected to micromanage or to explain to certain employees why another area got more than them this year. This type of childish and irrational behavior needs to stop. If certain areas are in such desperate need, those requests need to come before the OBC during the budget cycle. We, the Finance Department, do not take pleasure in disapproving things but when the justification is flawed or nonexistent, we have no choice.

Some departments have bought excess inventory over the years to the point the items are now outdated and almost to the point of being inoperative. It is unfortunate to have an abundance of new inventory that is almost obsolete. To illustrate this issue, departments should be sought out to receive the unused equipment as a donation or a Tribal sale should be held. Unfortunately some areas want to keep all their inventory or "empires" as we call it and not attempt to benefit anyone other than their areas.

These types of behavior trends need to stop. We are a Tribe and we need to start being more resourceful. The selfish behavior needs to end and look to benefit all of us. Some areas have sent out mass emails listing their excess equipment and asking for other department that can use it to pick it up. This has shown to be very successful. Why all areas of the Tribe are not doing this, I wish I could answer. In addition, we need to start using some of the furniture, fixtures, and equipment we have in storage rather than buying new. Departments may need a gently used desk or chairs and are told no it is not available and belongs to whatever department and the items remain in storage. All of our resources ultimately belong to the Tribe. A specific department may have ordered it but if it's not being used, other areas should be allowed to take and use it.

I would like to see the same type of approach used for our buildings that need repair. Thornberry Golf Course for instance has an entire basement that needs grout, bathroom fixtures, and electrical wiring. We have electricians on staff, we have plumbers on staff, and we have maintenance people on staff, why can't a work order be submitted for this work to be done? I am told it is because Thornberry does not have the money to pay the department who will do the repair. Thornberry is a Tribal asset; our employees are Tribal assets, and one pocket paying the other really does not matter when there is only one main pocket. It is these types of situations I struggle with. Not only do we allow our assets to deteriorate, we are not utilizing our staff to their full potential. We should be taking these opportunities to train and cross train our staff to increase their skill set. I am continually told we have the staff, we have the knowledge, we just need to give them the tools to do their jobs better. If these things are true, why do we continually feel as though we are trying to catch up? We need to set the pace, leading by example and seek out new opportunities to learn. Instead, we are faced with the same question, whose budget is it coming from? It's all Tribal money and we need to do a better job to collaborate and make the best use of our resources.

I could continue on but the struggles we face each and every day need to be addressed. This is a season to be thankful and I wish everyone a safe and happy Thanksgiving holiday. I hope everyone is able to spend precious time with their family and friends and remember those dear to us that have passed on to the Creator's world.

Larsen Road Update

Progress is continuing on this project and if you have driven by recently you would have noticed the walls are up and the building is taking shape. Next week the asphalt will be laid and by November 30th this structure should be substantially completed. The opening of this facility is scheduled for Wednesday, December 19th.

Uniform Commercial Code (UCC)

In mid-September the US Small Business Administration, Indian Energy and Economic Development as well as the Federal Reserve System held a workshop to help Indian tribes better understand the legal infrastructure for many aspects of commerce. The UCC provides uniformity among state laws, enabling cross-border business to take place. In Indian Country, tribes are not subject to state law and are free to adopt their own commercial codes. Frequently tribal laws governing secured transactions are absent or weak, which can make outside parties reluctant to lend to tribal entities, entrepreneurs and even consumers. This workshop provided information on the benefits of adopting a secure transaction code, along with a model code developed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, as well as two western tribes who have adopted a new code and work hand in hand with the State of Montana.

Democratic National Convention

Last month I had the opportunity to attend the Democratic National Convention in Charlotte, NC. I attended the last three days of this convention and found it to be a very enlightening experience. During the day there were caucus meetings with other delegates and I had the opportunity to engage others in meaningful discussion about what lies ahead of us in the next four years.

During one of the morning sessions, I had the opportunity to have a breakfast meeting with Congresswoman Gwen Moore from the 14th District of Wisconsin. As a Congresswoman she is a member of the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee as well as holding several other seats on sub-committees in Congress. Our time together was both enjoyable and enlightening in some of the discussions we were having.

Also during this time, I and my fellow colleagues from Oneida did meet with members of the Menominee and Ho-Chunk tribes to talk about what is happening in Indian Country and how we are to gain more stature from the next administration. We need to know what track will be taken to improve life in general for the Indian Nation as a whole.

Poverty Matters 2012

Last week I attended the Poverty Matters Conference in Appleton. The topic this year was "Housing First: An Innovative Approach to Ending Homelessness." It is staggering to learn of the different sub-groups of homeless people. This group ranges from veterans to families, runaway youth to domestic violence survivors, as well as individuals with addictions and mental health problems.

Over 60% of families with dependent children are considered low income and cannot afford monthly rent. Some of the effects this has on them are psychological and emotional well-being; development and cognitive skills in children; diminished future earnings potential; and the increased risk of violence.

But what is the best way to approach these problems?

One theory is to focus on fixing the client. To do this we focus on services that could be provided to the household, such as transitional housing. This is normally over a two year period, but it does have its challenges and/or problems. There is not a "one size fits all" solution. In one study 60% of the clients left before the two years were up, stating they needed temporary housing, not 2 years of services. The cost is prohibitive, normally in the range of $45,000 per client and research has shown that many clients could be equally successful on much less. There is always room for improvement. Some of the main barriers to this type of housing are racial discrimination, large family size and poverty.

Some ideas behind a program called "Housing First" is to look at the situation and come to the realization that the main problem is the circumstance, not the person; the person is potentially capable when empowered; and the individual's primary problem is their immediate poverty crisis.

In 2009 part of the Federal stimulus funds were set aside for Homelessness Prevention and Rapid Re-Housing. Wisconsin was given $27 million from this fund. Over 29,000 individuals in 10,046 households were served in homeless prevention and 5,000 individuals in 2,809 households were served in homeless assistance.

Some of the results of this program: 91% of formerly homeless clients and 97% of those facing homelessness were placed in permanent housing.

There are still challenges and complications for a Housing First/Rapid Rehousing Approach. The main challenge is affordable housing is scarce. The program works with the individual in securing housing through housing searches, landlord-tenant contracts and mediation.

Everyone needs to remember that Housing First funds offer short term assistance. Individuals need to generate income streams through employment and other homeless specific services as well as looking into mainstream benefits such as Social Security Disability if it is warranted or other program that could help individuals continue to stay secure in their homes.

Voting

I know you have been bombarded with ad after ad leading up to this year's election on both radio and television, but in the spirit of exercising one of our main fundamental rights, I urge you to get out and vote.

There are many candidates to choose from ranging from local races to elect who will represent you in the State Legislature; electing a new Senator from Wisconsin; and also who will be the next President of the United States. This is your chance to make a difference. Whether you vote by early voting, absentee balloting, or going to the polling site on Tuesday, November 6th, please exercise your right and Get Out and Vote.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 920-869-4482 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

2. Post Limited-Term Employee (LTE) Records Technician position

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Motion by Patty Hoeft to approve to post, seconded by Vince DelaRosa. Motion carried with one opposition:

Opposed: Tina Danforth

For the record: Tina Danforth stated I am opposing for the record because I think we need to reflect true needs of the departments. If there is a true need for this, then they should be posting this position as such and planning for it. I guess my concern is the budget was just approved within the month, so you didn't know three months ago that you had 210 boxes? So I'm opposing because again it shows a lack of planning for the true department needs and that's what we're really trying to get to and that has been some of our reorg discussion. What do we truly need? Thank you.

3. Approve Microsoft non-disclosure agreement - DELETED

Chairman's Corner...

Chairman's Report

By Ed Delgado
Chairman

Veterans Day

October 30, our Tribal veterans carried in the flags for the Tribe's Get out the Vote rally. How fine they looked! How thankful we are for their service. I've seen pictures of many of those veterans when they were young and in uniform and fighting to protect us. The Oneida people are a fine looking people and how proud I am of them. On Veterans Day, November 11, let's remember the sacrifice of all veterans. Let's remember those who did not come home. In the packer stadium, there is a plaque, it says regarding those who have served, "we all gave some, some gave all." On Veterans Day, let's give a special prayer to the 68,000 men and women now fighting in Afghanistan. Let's pray that they all be protected by our Creator and that they all come home soon.

National Congress of American Indians

The National Congress of American Indians (NCAI), created in 1944, is an organization made up of hundreds of tribes for the purpose of protecting and promoting tribal sovereignty. A primary concern expressed was that Indian people need to VOTE their concerns and their interests. Those concerns and interests are:

- Indian Health Care and the protection of the Indian Health Care Reauthorization Act. Indian populations are being decimated by diabetes.
- The passage of the Violence Against Women Act whereby Indian women will be protected against domestic violence in Indian Country. Too often, violence against Indian women committed by non-Indian men goes unpunished. Which candidate has vowed to protect women, both Indian and non-Indian? On the other hand, which candidate has failed to condemn Rush Limbaugh for suggesting that women who use contraceptives are "whores" ?
- Water rights!
- Land rights and sovereignty! We have a right to our treaty lands.
- Tribal Law and Order Act which allows Tribal Courts to be better able to protect the lives of Indian people living on Indian Reservations.
- Housing. Which candidate vowed to eliminate Federal Housing agencies?

A Message to the Tribe...

This November 6, 2012, many Oneida people will vote in the U.S. Presidential election, and the Candidate that this Chair pays attention too is the one who supports the survival and prosperity of all Indian Tribes. A vote is powerful and each individual vote does matter just as your vote at the General Tribal Council is crucial to the governance of this Tribe. Now that the GTC has grown in attendance, the level of understanding of the agenda and our budget (the collective story of our resources, the resources of all the people) has grown and is reflected in the hard questions that are asked. The demand that the BC follow that directive is reinforced at each GTC meeting. The decision made by the GTC commands all the elected leaders and creates the priorities for our government. There was a time when the GTC attendance was a few numbers, and now the GTC is a great body of Tribal members who learn about their leaders and their government. November 19, 2012, there will be a General Tribal Council Meeting, and once again the people gather to become the supreme governing body. A meeting packet with the agenda has been mailed by the Secretary's office and agendas will be available at the meeting.

It is indeed, a great experience for this Chair to be in the room (crowded as it is) with all of you, and whether you are talking, motioning, or just listening, your presence alone and your vote are most valuable. You are the Tribe, and we together are the Tribe.

Thanks for reading.

Sincerely,

Ed Delgado,* Oneida Tribal Chairman

OBC Forum...

Greetings from Paul Ninham, Chairman - Quality of Life Standing Committee

At the September 17th GTC Budget meeting, discussion was centered around the need to have better planning, strategies, and priorities that drive fiscal spending. Councilwoman Melinda J. Danforth made a motion, which Councilman Vince DelaRosa seconded, that states: "In anticipation of the next fiscal year, GTC mandates the Business Committee (BC) as a whole develop a strong vision and clear priorities and bring back to the January 2013 GTC meeting for approval".

Core values and a mission are the starting points for an organization, giving definition to an organization's overall existence. The organization's vision paints a picture for the future that clarifies the direction of the organization and helps individuals to understand why and how they should support the organization.

Paul Ninham
Councilman

In an effort to fulfill the directive of GTC, a proposal was submitted to the Business Committee asking for the membership to be involved in setting the vision and priorities. Secretary Patty Hoeft motioned and Councilman Paul Ninham seconded to "Approve setting December 17 and 18 at the Radisson, as the work sessions for Tribal members to participate in a Tribal Nation visioning session and that they are compensated with a $50 Oneida Tribal gift card for their participation."

Visions change as organizations change, along with the leadership. The kick-off of these visioning sessions will set the foundation. It is expected every three years the vision of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin will be revisited. Revisions will occur at that time if GTC determines the Tribe's vision, direction and priorities need to be modified.

Many attempts have been made in the past to gather information from

Public Hearing Notices

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Adoption of the General Tribal Council Meetings Law

The General Tribal Council Meetings Law (Law) creates a schedule of General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting dates; sets a general agenda for those meetings; outlines the petition process; sets standards of conduct for meeting attendees; and outlines the duties of those who help prepare for and assist with GTC meetings. The Law requires that at least four GTC meetings be held each year (annual, semi-annual, and 2 special meetings). In addition to these four meetings, a budget meeting is also required to be held as necessary. Additional GTC meetings can be called in accordance with the Constitution – by the Tribal Chairman or through petition. The Law limits GTC meeting attendees to those individuals who are: (1) enrolled Tribal members who are eligible to vote or (2) non-enrolled individuals who have a business-related need to attend the meeting and are approved by GTC.

The Law outlines a general agenda for GTC meetings and also sets out how a petition is processed. The process includes analyses of the petition being conducted, deadlines for when a petition must be presented to the GTC and required communication between the petitioner and the Tribal Secretary's Office. A petition received at least sixty days before a GTC meeting will be placed on the upcoming GTC meeting agenda; the petition must be considered by GTC within six months after it is submitted. GTC meeting attendees are required to be respectful and of others, be free from the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs, and remain in compliance with Tribal law – anyone violating these provisions may be removed from a GTC meeting.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Adoption of the Public Use Land Law

The Public Use of Tribal Land Law (Law) was developed to prevent the improper access, use and trespass to Tribal lands. Under the Law, the Environmental Resource Board would be responsible for adopting a Land Access Map which will clearly define whether Tribal land is:

- open to all persons
- limited to those persons who have a lease or permit to use the land; or
- limited to Tribal members, their spouses and descendants; members of other federally recognized tribes; authorized employees of the Tribe; or individuals who are accompanied by a Tribal member, or the spouse or descendant of a Tribal member.

In addition, the Environmental Resource Board would hold public hearings before amending the Land Access Map. This public hearing process is similar to the process used by the Land Commission to rezone property or amend district boundary lines under the Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law. The Law also defines trespass by describing activities that are a violation of the Law. Violators of the Law will be subject to a fine and the Environmental Resource Board will conduct hearings for anyone who choose to contest a fine issued under the Law.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy is to regulate the hiring of persons to complete work in order to minimize the costs of independent contractors. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Authorizing, and identifying specific situations where a Tribal employee or a business owned by a Tribal employee may be utilized by the Tribe as an independent contractor.
- Clarifying that this Policy does not apply to elected or appointed Tribal officials or employees of Tribally-chartered corporations; it just applies to internal employees.
- Deleting an order of preference (i.e. Tribal members first, Tribal member spouses second, etc.) to be used in selecting independent contractors. Instead, the Policy requires the order of preference set out in the Tribe's Indian Preference Law to be applied.

-Deleting numerous procedural requirements that appear to be more appropriate as departmental Stand Operating Procedures or internal rules and guidelines.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Amendments General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy (Policy) is to fulfill the resolution passed by General Tribal Council (GTC) on November 21, 2011 which directed:

- General Tribal Council meetings be limited to members age 21 or over until a meeting facility that holds 2,500 or more people can be identified
- Tribal members who leave the ballroom area and related bathroom facilities during the General Tribal Council meeting are not eligible for a meeting stipend.

The proposed amendments would also update and streamline the Policy to allow flexibility in the processes of how eligibility for stipend payments is determined and how stipend payments are made.

Public Hearing Process
Testimony:

Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

Judge sends Ho-Chunk member to prison for bribery

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ A federal judge has sent a Ho-Chunk tribal member accused of bribing a tribal legislator to prison.

U.S. District Judge William Conley on Wednesday sentenced 61-year-old Timothy Whiteagle of Black River Falls to 10 years behind bars and three years of supervised release. Conley also ordered him to pay $162,854 to the Internal Revenue Service.

According to federal prosecutors, Whiteagle served as a consultant for businesses looking to provide check cashing and ATMs at the tribe's casinos and tribal mortgages.

They say he provided a number of lavish gifts to tribal legislator Clarence Pettibone, including a Pontiac Firebird, campaign contributions and vacations, in exchange for Pettibone's help steering contracts to Whiteagle's clients.

Whiteagle's attorney didn't immediately return a message.

Pettibone was sentenced to five years in prison in July.

Likelihood of hitting a deer increases

WAUSAU, Wis. (AP) ~ The odds of your vehicle colliding with a deer on Wisconsin roadways are on the rise.

An annual report from State Farm Insurance says the odds have increased to 1 in 79 this year, compared to 1 in 88 last year. Wisconsin ranks seventh among states for the second consecutive year. The rankings are based on the number of vehicle collisions and licensed drivers in each state. Deer are involved in an estimated 18,000 crashes each year in Wisconsin.

The Wausau Daily Herald reports the likelihood that a driver will hit a deer anywhere across the U.S. this year is 1 in 183. The State Farm analysis says that's about the same odds of a person getting audited by the Internal Revenue Service next tax season.

1st Native American saint stirs pride, skepticism

By Mary Esch
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) ~ Some traditional Mohawks are treating the naming of the nation's first Native American saint with skepticism and fear that the Roman Catholic Church is using it to shore up its image and marginalize traditional spiritual practices.

They see the story of Kateri Tekakwitha as yet another reminder of colonial atrocities and religious oppression.

"I was a recipient of these historical profanities and want to ensure this does not happen again," said Doug George-Kanentiio, a Mohawk writer who left Catholicism to follow traditional longhouse spiritual practices.

The daughter of a Mohawk chief and a Catholic Algonquin woman, Kateri was born in 1656 about 40 miles northwest of Albany and in the heart of the Iroquois Confederacy to which the Mohawks belong. She was orphaned at age 4 when smallpox wiped out her family and much of her village and left her blinded and disfigured.

A Catholic convert at 20, she settled in Kahnawake, a Mohawk settlement south of Montreal where Jesuits had a mission and where she and other women performed mortification rituals such as self-flogging as part of their faith. At her death at the age of 24, Kateri's smallpox scars reportedly vanished and later she was reported to appear before several people. She is buried at a shrine on Kahnawake.

Speaking in English and French at her canonization last Sunday, Pope Benedict XVI noted how unusual it was in Kateri's culture for her to choose to devote herself to her Catholic faith.

"She's seen very much as a bridge" between native culture and Christianity, said the Rev. Jim Martin, a Jesuit priest. He said the Jesuit missionaries "took great pains to learn the native languages and tried their best to present the Christian faith using words, phrases and ideas from the native cultures."

Traditional Mohawks recognize the reverence their Catholic relatives and friends have for Kateri, said Chaz Kader, a Mohawk journalist who was raised Catholic but follows ancient longhouse traditions now. But many remain troubled by how the church portrays her life.

The story of Kateri told in various church writings describes her as maintaining her faith despite torment by her people, suffering ostracism and persecution at the hands of her own tribe and eventually fleeing to Canada.

"I disagree with the characterizations of the 'other Mohawks' in the Jesuit accounts of Kateri," Kader said. "The contrast of good Mohawks and bad Mohawks still is affecting our people."

Traditional Mohawks have struggled to keep their spiritual traditions and ancient language alive despite pressure from non-Indians to adopt European religion, culture and language.

These traditionalists have established Mohawk language-immersion schools and follow a clan-based government separate from the elected tribal government recognized by the U.S., Canada and New York state. To outsiders, they are associated with an image of "bad Mohawks" who smuggle goods across the border and refuse to collect state taxes on cigarette sales, Kader said, and the "good Mohawks" are the ones who "went to Rome to celebrate Kateri," he added.

It's difficult to gauge just how widespread the feelings are given the factionalism that pervades the nation and the circumspection they favor when dealing with the media. But many Mohawks interviewed downplayed any controversy and joined Catholics who see Kateri as a uniting figure and hope her elevation to sainthood will help heal old wounds.

"It's so nice to see God showing all the flavors of the world," said Gene Caldwell, a Native American member of the Menominee reservation in Neopit, Wis., who attended Kateri's canonization with his wife, Linda. "The Native Americans are enthralled" to have Kateri attain sainthood, he said.

Russell Roundpoint, director of the Mohawk history and cultural center at Akwesasne, said her sainthood is "not a contentious issue by any stretch of the imagination.

"The Mohawk people are very proud of the fact that she has attained such a high level," he said.

Sister Jennifer Votraw is director of communications for the Ogdensburg Diocese in northern New York, where the Mohawk reservation is located. While the diocese doesn't provide direct pastoral care to the Mohawks, Votraw belongs to the order the Sisters of St. Joseph, nuns who regularly aid the priests who minister to the tribe. She said years of successful interactions between the church and the tribe demonstrate a mutual respect for each other.

Still, she knows there are traditional Mohawks who will never be swayed in their view of the church and may resent Kateri's canonization as a ploy to improve the church's image among Native Americans.

"They believe very firmly in their religion, which is Mohawk," she said. "You just have to respect that."

Orenda Boucher, a Mohawk humanities professor at Kiana Institution, a Native American college near Montreal, said there are "mixed feelings" and no easy answer to the question of what Kateri represents to Mohawks or the rest of the world.

"A lot of my friends who are traditionalists see Kateri as tied into the story of colonization that has deeply affected Kahnawake, and to the atrocities of the church," she said.

Boucher said to understand the complexities of Kateri's life, it's important for people to look beyond the biographies written by clergymen who focus on what they consider her Christian virtues.

George-Kanentiio said traditional Iroquois worry that Kateri's sainthood could be used as way to encourage Native Americans to eschew their ancestral values for Catholic dogma.

"It should never obscure the best elements of our aboriginal spirituality, nor should Kateri's personal behaviors, given their extremities, be endorsed as a model for women anywhere," he said, referring to her self-mutilation with whips, thorns and hot coals.

"Women in particular need not kneel in supplication to any man or any god but to rise to dance and sing in true joy," he said. "We can never accept any institution which actively suppresses women or qualifies their potential."

NY court rejects Onondaga Nation's land claim

By Larry Neumeister
Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) ~ A federal appeals court on Friday rejected claims by the Onondaga Nation that it is entitled to land stretching through Syracuse and down the middle of New York state, saying it would be disruptive to property owners who have extensively developed and populated the area over the last two centuries.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued a written order upholding a lower court judge's decision to toss out the case in 2010 even before evidence could be developed to support the Nation's claims in a 2005 lawsuit that it had protested development of its ancestral lands for 183 years.

U.S. District Judge Lawrence Kahn in Albany had ruled that the Nation's claims to land stretching from Canada to the Pennsylvania border would disrupt areas developed by generations of landowners.

A three-judge panel of the appeals court said Kahn was right because so much time had passed since the "historical injustice" and because the long-delayed claims would be disruptive to the "justifiable expectations" of people and entities far removed from the taking of the lands.

Human Trafficking in Wisconsin

The American Indian Task Force on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault held their Annual Dinner and Dialogue this month at Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services office. The room was packed with men and women to hear a Detective from the Milwaukee Police Department talk about Human Trafficking. Tribal Members were shocked to hear that Wisconsin is number three in the nation for Human Trafficking. Youth as young as 12 years old are being singled out by pimps, both men and women that recruit our youth and teens to work for them as prostitutes. "It was scary to hear that" said one member of the audience.

Our youth are being targeted by young and older recruiters in the Human Traffic trade. "It is a little –recognized crime that involves controlling or attempting to control a person by force, fraud, debt bondage or coercion for sexual exploitation." (WisconsinWatch.org)

According to the Detective that spoke, she said that Native American Women and female youth are exploited for sex in growing numbers. Her examples of enticement included a young man may talk nice to a young girl working or shopping at a mall. She becomes interested and likes him. He then takes her to lunch a few times, maybe a movie, and then one day he may ask her if she would like to ditch school sometime and go to Chicago for the day. At that point after he takes her to Chicago, he does not take her back home, she gets angry, resists, then he threatens her. Some women and youth are also lured by offers of a job, gifts, a meal, a place to stay and access to drugs or a relationship. The traffickers manipulate them until they feel trapped and will take them from state to state and keep them away from their families.

An Oneida tribal member learned that the pimp is very keen to watch teen girls and see their attitudes and the way they dress, and that a teen can come from a good home or be a straight A student and can get lured away. It does not matter to the pimp who you are or where you come from.

The Detective left us with were some tips as parents and what to watch for:

Be aware of your kids, friend's, be nosey, watch their Facebook, cell phones, notice items they have or wear, (you may have not given or purchased it) pay attention to who is talking and what they are saying.

Whatever it may take, it is worth it, because we love our kids.

Oneida commemorates the War of 1812

Loretta Says...

Loretta Metoxen • *Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • *Providing a connection to the past

Another war. What does this war have to do with the Oneidas, if anything? The answer is it has a lot to do with the Oneida Nation and particular members of the Oneida Nation.

This war was between the fledgling United States and Great Britain. Many Tribes (Indigenous People), east of the Mississippi, were drawn into the fray on both sides. The previous Revolutionary War was ended with the Treaty of Paris in 1783. That treaty called for the abandonment of Great Britain's forts on American soil. They had not abandoned them. Great Britain's Navy was capturing and impressing young American men to serve in its navy. Britain was blockading U. S. ports. And finally, Great Britain was inciting some Native people to join Britain's cause and fight against the new United States.

A Declaration of War by the United States occurred on June 18, 1812. The Hodenausaunee met several times early on in the war and attempted to stay neutral. The leaders were convinced that joining the war on either side would not help them in any way. Many warriors had already fallen in the previous war. Widows and children, victims of that conflict, were shown no compassion, nor did either country show respect to the tribes allied with them. The tribe's lands were already shrunken to small reserves and the two large contending countries possessed the majority of their original territories.

The Hodenausaunee arguments for going to war included: preference to live under the King rather than the Americans; must support the King if attacked; Americans have always been the enemy of the Aboriginal Nations; To remain neutral would be disgraceful to them, it would show they are deficient in courage; if the Great Spirit should favor their efforts, their Country might be preserved from desolation. (From a presentation developed by Reginald Doxtater.)

In May of 1814, the Oneidas were recruited, probably by a representative of the United States, by the name of General Porter. They were needed to help move necessary supplies and equipment from Oswego to the port of Big Sandy to outfit some newly built ships. One hundred twenty nine Oneida men responded after they conducted their ceremonies and asked all the questions of the ambassador so that they were satisfied of their role. Oneida women were also in this contingent. We know who participated because there is an existing payroll. Oneida men were given extra pay if they possessed their own rifles.

The outcome of the Battle of Big Sandy on May 29, 1814, was a win for the United States. The Oneidas were a major force. There was only one casualty: Jim Christjohn who was wounded in the leg. The British suffered many killed and wounded.

Every Oneida member today is a descendant of these volunteers who participated in the Battle of Big Sandy. A Graphic Novel (100 page Comic Book) about it is now in progress and should be completed soon. A plan is in place to also produce a full length feature film of this great story of the Oneida people.

The Oneida Veterans POW-WOW to be held on Saturday, November 10 this year is dedicated to the Oneida people who took part in the War of 1812.

McLester looks to pass on work ethic to future

Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Sitting down for her interview, Pearl McLester asked what the story was about. When told it was about her life she replied "Oh, man, that's 90 years, lady! That's a pretty long time!" she said with a laugh.

McLester was born in 1922 to James and Hattie (Moore) Schuyler during one of the biggest blizzards in Wisconsin history.

"My daddy had gone with the horses to try and get a doctor from Seymour, and the horses couldn't get through because the snow was so deep ... So when then they finally did get through and get the doctor there, I was born," she said.

The oldest of 10 siblings, McLester's earliest memories are of her father.

"I can remember my daddy coming down the path because he was cutting wood and him coming with something dangling on the side of his britches. I told my momma 'daddy's coming with something' and he was bringing rabbits," she said.

The family moved to Menasha when McLester was 4 years old and moved back when she was 12 when the family was given a home site in Oneida. McLester remembers walking three-and-a-half-miles to catch the bus to Seymour High School.

"You had to walk, and there weren't that many cars on the road that you could even hitchhike a ride to catch the bus," she said.

McLester was very involved with the Methodist Church and met her future husband Lee McLester at a community dance.

"The war broke out at that time, and my husband and I went to Detroit where he got work with the government," she said. The couple spent nearly eight years in Detroit when McLester's father persuaded the young family to return to Oneida.

"I didn't want to come back here because there was nothing here … I couldn't go to a movie here, I had go to an outside toilet here, I didn't have a bathroom here, didn't have electricity, but finally I did come back and we did finally get a piece of land. My husband and I where we're living today, but it was a struggle because there wasn't everything that was available that is today," she said. "That's why I keep saying people are so blessed today, because the people that stayed here on this reservation during all the troubles that were going on from the time that I can remember. Everybody was very poor; very few people had a second bedroom in the house, that's for sure. And nobody – maybe 10 people had electricity."

McLester was working in Green Bay doing housework when the opportunity arose to buy a house from Kaukauna and have it moved to her and her husband's land. She borrowed $200 from her employers.

"We moved this house with much help from the neighbors and the family and what have you. It had to be in two pieces," she said. "My husband and (sons) Ronny and Donny and Gordy all helped to put the house back together again with other people with the family and neighbors … My family put a lot of work to make it what it is today."

McLester has a three ring binder complied by a niece filled with spreadsheets listing siblings and their families along with her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

"I'm the oldest of the Moore family, the Schuyler Family and the McLester Family," she said.

Pride in family started with her father James Schuyler. He had been sent to Sacred Heart School, now the Norbert Hill Center, at the age of five and would be punished for speaking Oneida.

"He could speak it fluently, but he never taught us, he said 'I don't want you children to have broken English,'" she said. "He never had anything about us not to being Indians. All he ever told us was you're as good as anybody, but you're not better than everybody. You do better and do what you can, but don't think you're better than somebody else because we're all created equal."

McLester is active on the Holy Apostles Vestry. She converted to her husband's Episcopal faith after they were married.

"If I'm not in church on Sunday it's not right, and that's how I was raised, and that's how I raised my children," she said. "There's heartache and hardships and what have you, but there's always somebody greater than us that's looking after us."

McLester has been active on many Oneida boards and commissions such as the Personnel Commission, Anna John Nursing Home Board, and the now defunct Oneida Health Center Board. McLester stated she's served on the Oneida Nation Commission on Aging (ONCOA) "since the beginning of time."

"I've always been very much involved in what's going on in our community, and will be for as long as I can keep moving, and I need help with my little cane to get around," she said. A hip injury may have slowed her down a little, but not much.

"My boys keep saying 'Mom, why don't you write a book, write a book,' I said 'I'm too busy, I ain't got time. I can't keep my log every day,'" she said. "I'll get ones that will call me and say 'can I have an appointment with you?'"

For as much as things have changed since McLester was young, she still sees areas that need improvement in Oneida.

"We're outstanding according to other tribes as far as what we've done, but … there's so many things that can be done and we just need people to push a little harder to see to it these other things get done. There's always big things that are always going on, that are more important, more important, but there's little things out there that would make somebody's life so much happier," she said.

McLester hopes that young people will learn about the struggles of older generations.

"All these things come about through the people that stayed and struggled through those hard times to what it is today. I hope our younger people will realize and appreciate what they have and remember who was here to save this nation for us. These are the kind of things people should know, our young people should know," she said.

PCMS, PHS earn area's top report card scores

The Pulaski Community School District is pleased to announce that both Pulaski Community Middle School (PCMS) and Pulaski High School (PHS) earned "Exceeds Expectations" marks on the state's Department of Instruction report cards released today, earning both the highest middle school and high school scores in the area.

PCMS earned a score of 74.7 while PHS earned 79.5. At PCMS, students have scored at least eight percent above the state average in reading since 2007, and at least 15 percent above Wisconsin's average in math. PHS students have also performed very well during the past five years, scoring more than ten percent higher than the state average in reading, and about 20 percent higher than the state average in math.

"Our parents, students and staff work extremely hard to excel, and we are proud of our report card scores. We will continue the march toward excellence," PCSD Superintendent of Schools Dr. Mel Lightner said.

The district's elementary schools also performed received excellent scores on the report cards, with three of the district's five elementary schools receiving "meets expectations" scores while the remaining two received "exceeds expectation" scores.

"Our middle and high school report cards are top in the area, scoring higher than the DePere, Green Bay, Ashwaubenon, West DePere and Howard-Suamico school districts," PCSD Director of Learning Services Jenny Gracyalny said. "Our elementary schools are comparable to other district's elementary school as well, and we will strive to ensure that all of our children achieve at high levels."

Football Homecoming Game Won 2 Years in a Row

By Diego Metoxen
Thunderhawk Times

On Thursday, October 18, 2012 @ 4:00 pm the Oneida Nation Thunderhawks hosted the Wisconsin School for the Deaf Firebirds behind the Norbert Hill Center at the football field. The T-Hawks had 18 players that worked hard on the field. The Firebirds didn't have as many players as the T-Hawks, but they played hard just the same.

This game was a game the T-Hawks needed to win because it was the homecoming game. The T-Hawks have won their last twop homecoming games in a row.

Wisconsin School for the Deaf is a small school that is also in the 8 man league. It was a non-conference game between the two schools. The T-Hawks ran the ball majority of the time and passed the ball when they really needed to. At halftime, the score was 42-16. By the end of the game, the T-Hawks extended their lead and won the game by a score of 58-16.

The T-Hawks defense stepped up in the game by forcing turnovers for the Firebirds. On the offensive side of the ball, the T-Hawks were too much for the Firebirds to stop.

Is ONHS Haunted?

By Brandon Doxtator
Thunderhawk Times

The Ghosts' Venture Crew came to the Oneida Nation High School to investigate the paranormal activity that happens here at night. On one of the YouTube videos posted by the Venture Crew, a figure is apparent the office late at night, but the apparition may be dismissed as simply a reflection on the outside office window. In another video, orbs seemed to be dancing and flying around the meeting room on the third floor, which cannot be explained as easily.

Recently, there have been problem with some lights throughout the school flickering on and off unexpectedly, even after the bulbs have been changed.

One teacher at ONHS has had a personal paranormal experience with the ONHS ghouls. Gary Lancelle, ONHS Computer Teacher, remembers one specific occurrence.

"10 years ago, after a parent teacher conference, I heard children laughing in the hallway even though there was no one there. I walked down the hallway to see if there were kids hiding, but no one was around. I walked back to go to the bathroom, and just before I entered the room I heard it again: children laughing."

Lancelle continues, "Again I walked down the hallway and carefully looked for anyone hiding and didn't see a living soul. I walked back to the bathroom, and just as I entered I heard laughter once again. So I immediately closed my room's door and left as quickly as possible. It creeped me out!"

The History of the Halloween holiday

By Aleah Jimenez
Thunderhawk Times

In America, Halloween has been observed in America since 1921 and takes place every October 31. Before the word Halloween came to be, it was known as "All Hallows' Eve." On this day, children and adults celebrate by trick-or-treating, visiting haunted houses, and attending costume parties. Trick-or-treating is when children dress up in a scary or whimsical costume and go door to door asking for candy by saying "trick-or-treat."

The celebration of Halloween and trick-or-treating has evolved over the years making it a very popular holiday in the United States, the United Kingdom, and Canada. It has even made its way to national T.V shows. During the month of October, many shows can be seen on T.V that revolve around Halloween. They range from children shows on the Disney Channel to scary movies for adults on the Sci-Fi Network.

Another way people show their Halloween spirit is by carving pumpkins. Pumpkin carving originated from a myth about "Stingy Jack." Stingy jack was a townsman who played tricks on anyone who crossed his path and even played a trick on the devil. When Jack had passed away, he was not allowed into heaven due to his tricks and was not allowed into hell for the deal he made with the devil. Jack was sent back to earth. He was forced to travel a dark path to get back to earth so he begged the devil for some kind of light to see the path. The devil gave Jack a piece of burning coal which Jack placed into a turnip he carried. Since then, people have been carving scary faces into turnips to scare away "Stingy Jack." Today, however, it has become a tradition to carve pumpkins, no longer turnips, for fun.

The Origins of Halloween

By Eveyonna Ortega
Thunderhawk Times

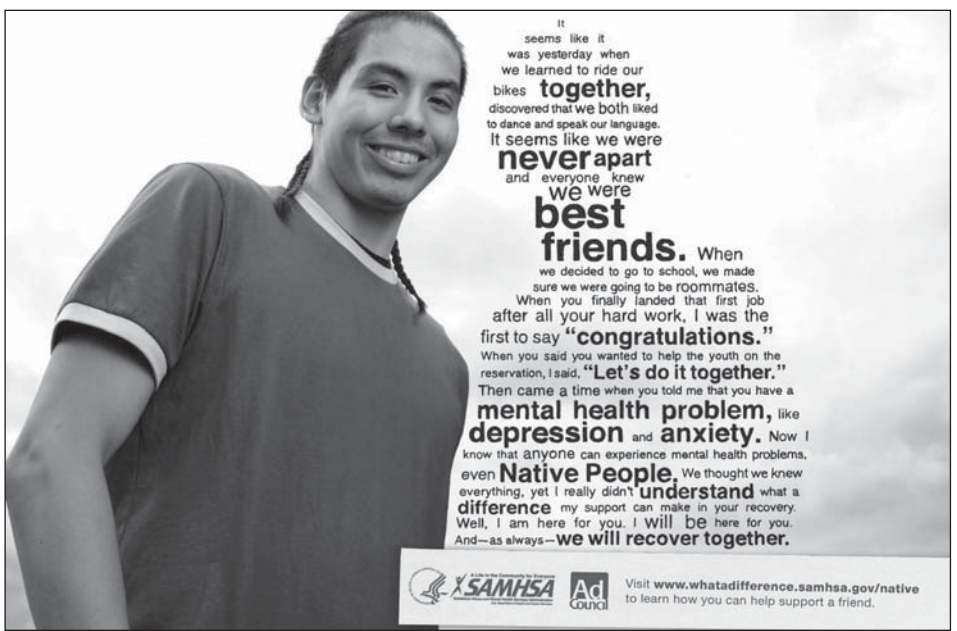
Halloween comes from the word "All Hallows Eve" which occurs on October 31st. The next day, November 1st,would be considered "All Hallows Day," or "All Saints Day." This makes Halloween the eve of All Saints Day.

The origins of Halloween can be traced back to ancient Ireland and Scotland. All Hallows Eve is when the Celts celebrated the end of the summer. It was perfect timing because that's when the animal herders would move their animals back into pens and barns and prepare to leave for the winter. The change of season and lifestyle was marked by a festival called Samhain. Translated, Samhain means "The End of Summer."



It seems like it was yesterday when we learned to ride our bikes together, discovered that we both liked to dance and speak our language. It seems like we were never apart and everyone knew we were best friends. When we decided to go to school, we made sure we were going to be roommates. When you finally landed that first job after all your hard work, I was the first to say "congratulations." When you said you wanted to help the youth on the reservation, I said, "Let's do it together." Then came a time when you told me that you have a mental health problem, like depression and anxiety. Now I know that anyone can experience mental health problems, even Native People. We thought we knew everything, yet I really didn't understand what a difference my support can make in your recovery. Well, I am here for you. I will be here for you. And—as always—we will recover together.

What You Can Do for Your Loved One with Diabetes

Submitted by Margaret VanDen Heuvel, RN, BSN

As part of National Diabetes Month

If your mother, father, husband, wife, grandfather, grandmother or another loved one has diabetes, there are things you can do to help. First, try to understand how it feels to have diabetes. Some people might feel:

- In denial
- A lack of control
- Overwhelmed
- Scared
- Depressed
- Angry

There are things a person can do to live a healthy life with diabetes. This is what your loved one might be doing every day:

- Testing blood sugar several times each day
- Changing their eating habits to eat foods with less sugar and fat
- Changing their eating habits to include more fruits, vegetables, whole grains and lean protein
- Being more active by walking, working out at a wellness center, splitting wood, etc.
- Resting when needed and trying not to get "stressed out"
- Going to medical appointments more often
- Taking diabetes pills every day or giving themselves insulin shots

You can help your loved one with diabetes. Here is what you can do:

- Keep up your usual relationship with them
- Ask them if there is anything you can do to support them with their diabetes (provide a ride to the clinic or be a support person at a doctor's appointment)
- Be positive when they are drinking water instead of pop or eating baked foods instead of deep-fried foods
- Try not to nag or judge them when they make a choice you think isn't healthy for them
- Join them in making healthy food choices
- Walk with them or invite them on a walk
- Let them rest and have stress-free time to take care of themselves

One of the best ways you can support your loved one with diabetes is to let them know they are inspiring you. You can become a champion in the fight against diabetes. You can prevent diabetes by being physically active every day and staying at a healthy weight.

Tell your loved one, "I want to help you stay healthy with diabetes, and I want to be healthy myself. Let me join you in making healthy lifestyle changes. You have inspired me to stay healthy and fight diabetes. Thank you."

ATTENTION

Controlled Substances WILL NOT be Covered at CVS Pharmacy

Prescription drug abuse has become the Nation's fastest growing drug problem. For those who abuse, we have taken action to prevent addiction and potentially, even death. In our Controlled Substance policy, we are striking a balance between reducing abuse of prescription drugs/controlled substances, and ensuring access for legitimate use.

The Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) does not prescribe or approve controlled substances after regular business hours.

1. No narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be (paid for) after-hours at CVS Pharmacy.
2. CVS is our "after-hours" approved pharmacy (located on Mason & Military in Green Bay).
3. The patient may choose to:
   a) Fill the prescription at any pharmacy and pay for the medication on their own.
   b) Fill a minimum quantity and pay for the medication on their own.
   c) Ask the Emergency Room Physician for a sample pack of the meds, because the prescription will not be paid for by OCHC.
   d) May choose to wait and fill the entire prescription at OCHC, during regular business hours, or
   e) Present their insurance card and pay the appropriate co-pay.
4. All reimbursement requests for narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be determined by CHS during regular business hours.

NOTE: The Registered Nurse On-Call does not make this determination.

On Wisconsin!

I have had the pleasure to live in quite a few American and foreign places and thus I feel Wisconsin is my favorite!

The first snowflakes are the precursor of a unique "winter wonderland" with its exquisite beauty, quietness, well groomed ski trails and joyful decorations. Nowhere does that cup of hot cacao or coffee or that rich cheese fondue taste better. If you don't believe me try them in one of our Southern States!

After the skis, snowshoes, snowmobiles and parkas find their storage places, fishing boats and gear become the center of our preoccupations.

Summer picnics and swimming trips to our lakes and bays become reality; the fire pits are celebrated with whatever cold beer has not yet been used to marinate the brats!

Even more people will flock to the county and state parks when the flaming fall colors make Wisconsin a favorite destination for the tourists. Fall weddings and family gatherings will of course be planned around deer hunting season!

But it is not just the climatic diversity and activities that makes Wisconsin GREAT: it is its people! The friendliness of the Wisconsinite is present everywhere.

The cleanliness of Wisconsinites sets the State apart: houses, yards, parks, all are so well maintained.

In many places where I have lived the supermarket parking lot is almost inaccessible because parking spaces are occupied by shopping carts where customers have left them; it is a joy to see Wisconsinites drop their carts in the designated spaces.

Obviously Wisconsinites like good food and quality as well and quantity are important to them. Belgian, German, Polish, Scandinavian backgrounds might well be responsible for their eating and drinking habits which makes a skinny Wisconsinite a rarity!

The impressive presence of many Native Americans such as the Oneidas add to the diversity and culture of the State. Their colorful Powwows, their most interesting and instructive museum, their constant efforts to preserve their Oneida language, culture, customs and medicine tremendously add to the cultural wealth of the State.

Wisconsinites are a fun people: whether at the local pub or at a University of Wisconsin band concert good old fun is omnipresent; and the polka festivals or the chicken dance contests! Laughter and good cheer resonate everywhere!

Wisconsinites can also be proud of their educational system. I am impressed with the great number of brilliant students our schools produce; the Wisconsin University system also is second to none! I am sure that the quality of Wisconsin's educational system also translates in the high work ethic and skills of the Wisconsin employees and leaders.

Not mentioning our beloved Green Bay Packers would probably trigger the ire of the most devoted fans in the nation!

I am certain that the day Wisconsin relinquishes its well earned reputation of being among the highest taxing states many more Wisconsinites will decide to remain in or to return for good to this Great State!

Oneida Pulaski students

Dear Editor,

I am extremely proud of the fact that the Pulaski Community School District (PCSD) has the honor and privilege of educating approximately 120 Oneida Nation children. I have deep respect for the Oneida people and culture.

Recently, the PCSD held its annual dinner for Native American families. There were many great ideas shared to improve the education for our Native American children.

This year, the district has increased the number of staff devoted to helping educate our Native American children. We will continue to work together to ensue that our Native American children receive the best education possible.

On Tuesday, November 6, 2012, the citizens of our school district, including many Oneida Nation citizens, will make an important decision about the future of the PCSD. This decision will very much impact the quality of education our children receive in the future as the referendum calls for facility upgrades and technology enhancements to help children learn.

Please take time to visit the district's website at www.pulaskischools.org/referendum to learn more about the decision we face on November 6th.

I hope that all of the eligible members of the Oneida Nation that live in the PCSD will vote in the referendum election. Your vote will help us determine the future of the Pulaski Community School District and will help us determine the future of Oneida children educated at our schools.

Thank you,
Dr. Mel Lightner
PCSD Superintendent

Important election almost here

Now is the time to know the background of our current President. Many people have told me that they made a big mistake by voting for him in the last election. His policies are taking American down a slippery slope that leads us far from the vision the Founding Fathers had for our great nation. Those of you who put him in office now have a chance to make things right!

I love my country – I want it back, since I willing surrendered 26 years of my life to keep it, as have many others. Will you help save it for us, the veterans? By doing so, you will save it for yourself and future generations!

Your Servant,
Benjamin L. Jahn

Oneida Nation Child Support Agency Changes to Child Support Laws

There have recently been changes to the Oneida Tribe's Child Support Law. The name of the agency has also been changed to Oneida Tribe Child Support Agency (OTCSA). Listed below are some highlighted changes that may affect you at some point. The entire law is available on the Tribe's website. We encourage everyone to become more familiar with tribal laws.

- Gross Income
  - o Gross income now includes overtime pay. This will be taken into account when calculating you income for child support.
- Onset date for past due child support
  - o The amount of past due child support will be calculated from the date of application, review or referral.
- Two year reviews are now automatic.
  - o Each case will be reviewed every two years to determine if there has been a substantial change in circumstances or not.
  - o A substantial change in circumstances is a resulting change in child support of either $50 per month, or 15%. If either of those qualifications are met, child support will be modified unless both parties agree keep the current order by a stipulation.
- Roll over of child support into an arrears payment
  - o Child support obligations will automatically roll over to an arrears payment if arrears exist on a case when the child turns 18 or graduates from high school.
- Personal Service
  - o Any service after the initial jurisdiction document will now be sent by first class mail to the recently verified last known address of the party.
  - o This means important documents, including notice of hearings, no longer need to be personally served to a party.
  - o This means keeping us updated with your current address is important to ensure you receive all documentation regarding your case.

Be Ready Wisconsin - Daylight Savings Time ends

Daylight Saving Time ends Sunday, November 4, 2012 as we "fall back" and set clocks back one hour. This is also a great time to check the things that keep us safe and ready for emergencies. ReadyWisconsin urges you to check these items:

Smoke Detectors- Check and replace batteries if needed and make sure the devices around your house are working properly. The U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission estimates that about 16 million homes in the country have smoke alarms that do not work. In most cases, the batteries are dead or missing. Nearly 2,700 people die and more than 15,000 are injured each year because of fires that started in their homes.

Carbon Monoxide Detectors- Make sure you have CO Detectors and they are working. According to the Centers for Disease Control, carbon monoxide is the leading cause of accidental poisoning deaths in the United States, with more than 20,000 people visiting the emergency room and nearly 500 killed each year from overexposure to the gas. All homes and duplexes in Wisconsin are required to have carbon monoxide detectors on every level including the basement, but not the attic or storage areas. Any dwelling that required a building permit on or after February 1, 2011 are required to have carbon monoxide detectors directly wired to the electrical service with a backup battery. Other existing buildings can use stand-alone battery-powered detector.

Emergency Kits- Everyone should have a basic emergency kit in their home with supplies such as food and water to last you and your family for at least three days. Other items like a battery powered or crank radio, flashlights, first aid kit should also be included. Daylight Savings Time is a perfect time to get a kit and if you already have a kit, check it to make sure food and other items are not near or past their expiration dates.

For more tips on how to prepare you and your family, please go to our website: http://readywisconsin.wi.gov. You'll find great information on how to get a kit and make a plan when disaster strikes.

Oneida Buffalo

With the recent reported deaths of Oneida Buffalo under the care of the Oneida Nation, I felt compelled to write this article on behalf of the spirits of the Buffalo that recently lost their lives due to the unacceptable care while under the responsibility of the nation. First and foremost I find it unacceptable that such a travesty could occur under the care of our nation. I write this article not to condemn those responsible, all though condemnation is warranted, but felt more importantly to educate our community to what the buffalo represent to us and the many Indian nations across the country.

The American buffalo has always held great meaning for American Indian people. To Indian people, buffalo represent their spirit and remind them of how their lives were once lived, free in harmony with nature. In the 1800's, the white man recognized the reliance Indian tribes had on buffalo. Thus began the systematic destruction of the buffalo to try to subjugate the western tribal nations. The slaughter of over 60 million buffalo left only a few thousand buffalo remaining.

Without the buffalo, the independent life of the Indian people could no longer be maintained. The Indian spirit, along with that of the buffalo, suffered an enormous loss. At that time, tribes began to sign treaties with the US. In fact our nation signed a historical treaty in 1838 named the Buffalo Creek Treaty; the treaty was named due to the buffalo that roamed in the territory of the Six Nations at that time. Indian tribes began to sign treaties with the U.S. Government in an attempt to protect the land and the buffalo for their future generations.

Thought about a meaningful thoughtful way to raise our consciousness and communicate to the various aspects of our community regarding this tragedy. Through our ancient teachings we understood our relationship to the natural world and how we relate to the natural world as human beings and where we fit in relation to the animal world. In our ways we follow the clans of our mothers, as Haudenosaunee people our clans are named after the animals the Bear, Wolf, and the Turtle to symbolize our connection to the natural world. As human beings we have duties and responsibilities to the animal world to acknowledge them, to care for them, and respect them and to give thanks to them for all that they do to sustain our existence.

The Nation acquired the buffalo back in 1995 through the Intertribal Buffalo Cooperative; Pat Cornelius was instrumental in making this happen. Wish to thank Pat and the many people who assisted in making this happen, don't know if the nation apologized to Pat or not, if they haven't they should, as its members like Pat that have dedicated many years of their life to the betterment of the nation and in particular for bringing the buffalo back to the nation. In 1997 the nation established a buffalo herd of 13 heifers and a bull that was moved from Wind Cave National Park in South Dakota.

Wish to thank those in the community for the many prayers that have been said in behalf of the buffalo spirits that lost their lives. Wish to thank Bob Brown and those that participated in the tobacco burning.

We must not forget that this was and is a great tragedy and in spite whose fault it is these buffalo spirits must be treated properly. Perhaps the nation should mandate cultural sensitivity training for those that work with the animals at the farm and what the animal and natural world represents to the Oneida Nation.

Wisconsin Politics

As you know, this has been an interesting year pertaining to Wisconsin's political and legislative landscape. The legislature adjourned for the session in March, but the politics in Wisconsin were far from over.

This summer, we had a couple of recall elections in the state and a primary election to determine which candidates will represent their parties on the November ballot. Our first recall elections were the primaries in May, which determined that Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett would challenge Governor Scott Walker in the first-in-state-history gubernatorial recall election that occurred on June 5.

As we all know, Walker won this challenge but not before both sides spent a mind-boggling $81 million. That's the most money ever spent on an election in our state's history. The previous record was $37.4 million spent between Walker and Barrett in their original 2010 match-up for the governorship.

Also in June, four Republican state Senators were targets of recalls. In the end, the Republicans ended up retaining three of the four seats. This one loss, however, resulted in a change of power in the state Senate. Prior to the June elections, the Republicans controlled that chamber 17-16 – afterward that balance of power shifted to 17-16 in favor of the Democrats. The shift in majority was virtually meaningless, as the legislature had already adjourned its session and as a result all legislation that had not been passed was dead for the session. The next session will not start until January of 2013, which will be after the November elections and very possibly result in another shift in power back to the Republicans.

There are many ways that you, as a citizen, can get involved in the political process. One way is to become a member of the Voices for Oneida conduit. For those who might not know, a conduit is a way that the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin can help its employees to put money aside for the purpose of donating to a campaign. Think of it as a savings account for the purpose of political donations. You control the money and you have the final word on to whom or if any donation is made. Conduit checks can be written to candidates at the state, federal and even local level.

The most important thing you can do in an election is vote. But a close second in the importance scale is to donate money to a candidate running for office. Elections are expensive – in fact when you consider the two rounds of state Senate recalls in addition to the governor's race, campaign spending for this cycle had already hit $137 million in Wisconsin as of August – and spending has ramped up even more as the fall general election nears.

Many of you might already make donations to candidates, and for that I thank you. But making it through the Voices for Oneida (VFO) conduit not only helps the candidate you support in their election, but it also helps the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin get some "credit" for the donation as well. By going through the VFO conduit, you are always able to give to the candidate of your choice – but with that donation being written on a VFO check, it allows the organization to further strengthen its own ties with that lawmaker as well.

I invite you to consider joining the Voices for Oneida conduit today. If you are already contributing to the conduit, we thank you for your support. VFO has already dispersed about $4,000 this year alone to state and federal candidates. And we will continue reaching out to conduit members in the future to help raise money for candidates who your government affairs team believes will be key policy makers next session and beyond.

If everyone contributes just a little bit towards the conduit, we can really end up having a great impact on a number of races throughout the state in the future. If anyone ever has any questions on a candidate or needs additional information on our conduit, always feel free to be in touch with me. Remember to vote on November 6!

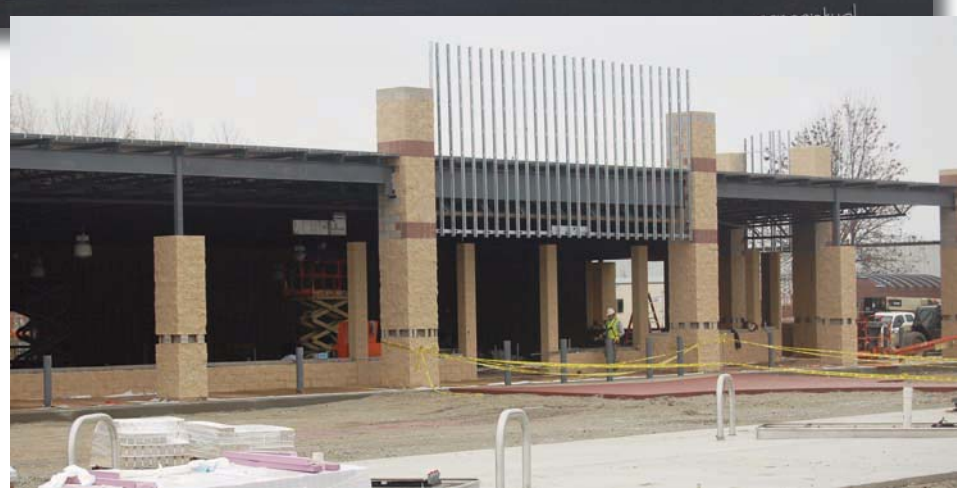
Future home of Oneida One Stop Mobil Fuel and Oneida Market

Artist Rendering



Oneida One-Stop Larsen is under construction and prepared to open in mid December. The newest One-Stop location will be located on the corner of Packerland and Larsen; 501 Packerland Dr. in Green Bay. The location will provide more jobs, more revenue and the Oneida Market. The Oneida Market will be the new location for Tsyunhehkw< Retail purchases, Oneida Farms offerings and Oneida Cannery products. Many of the items Tsyunhehkw< Retail offers will continue to be available; plus the store will offer an expanded coffee and tea bar, a relaxed environment for socializing, sampling of coffee/teas, and a good place to purchase corn meal, corn soup, white corn, black angus and a rich supply of other Native products.

This One Stop location is expected to divert some of the heavy congestion found at the Oneida One Stop-Westwind with the intention that both locations will be able to manage the traffic flows faster and at a great volume than just one location alone. The Oneida One Stop will boast 12 fuel stations/bays of Mobil fuel, Oneida Smoke Shop offerings, all the same products found at many Oneida One Stop, 10 new employee positions, and it will create greater revenues for Oneida Retail contributing to the general fund. The green space for this location will have high priority and the construction is following LEED principles to ensure the store will meets all necessary requirements to obtain the certification.

Watch for more updates on the location as the December 19th open date draws near.

Oneida Apple Orchard to close Dec. 1 to prepare for move to new location

Oneida Apple Orchard retail store located on Hwy 54 will be closing their doors after the apple season and when harvest is over. The main product sold through the Orchard, outside of Apple Season, is the Oneida Farms meat. This product will still be offered for purchase but it will be relocated to the Oneida Market at the corner of Larsen and Packerland, connected to the Oneida One Stop at 501 Packerland Dr. in Green Bay. There will be a small number of other items normally purchased at the Oneida Apple Orchard that will also move to the Oneida Market. Many customers of the Orchards customers use payroll deduction when making purchases so this option will be available at the Market. However; there will be some changes to payroll deduction that will enhance the process, improve the accounting and revenue streams for the organization while maintaining feasibility for the customer.

The Apple Orchard will continue to operate as usual with pick your own apples and providing already picked apples during the Apple Picking Season. This season they will be closing their doors on December 1, 2012. Be sure to plan your purchases prior to their closure. The Oneida Market is planned to open December 19th.

Tsyunhehkw^ Retail plan Nov. 21 closure for move to new building

Tsyunhehkw^ Retail located at 3759 W. Mason St. in the Ridgeview Plaza Suite 8 will be moving. It will be relocated inside the Oneida Market in Mid December at 501 Packerland Dr. in Green Bay. There will be some expected changes to the store in relation to product offerings, but much of the product from Tsyunhehkw^ Retail will continue to be offered inside the Oneida Market. Since Oneida Retail will need to do a complete inventory, prepare the store to move and physically move the location from Mason to Packerland; the location will close for approximately two-three weeks. They will be closing at their current location on November 21st. Their current holiday gift basket offerings will still be available for sale and conveniently located at the One Smoke Shop – Mason in the Festival Plaza.

The Oneida Market is expected to open December 19th but since all products from Tsyunhehkw^ Retail are not planned to be offered at the new site, be sure to stop in before the store closes to stock up on the items you use everyday. You may even find a sale or two on the products you love the most. Your purchase would be helping cut our inventory for the move. See you at the Oneida Market!

OSGC sues Green Bay over permit being revoked

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) has sued the city of Green Bay after its city council revoked a conditional use permit for OSGC's renewable energy plant last month.

The plant, to be located at 1230 Hurlbut Street, received the conditional use permit from the city in March of 2011. It is designed to take municipal solid waste that would otherwise be placed into a landfill, sort it, and put nonhazardous, non-recyclable materials through a gasification process. It will generate power, which will be sold to Wisconsin Public Service.

"OSGC filed a lawsuit against the city of Green Bay after the city council's October 16 vote to rescind our conditional use permit to build our waste-to-energy facility in the city of Green Bay. The objective of the legal action is to effectively reverse the council's action as a demonstrably arbitrary and unreasonable act," said OSGC CEO Kevin Cornelius.

The lawsuit claims the city council acted beyond its jurisdiction and asks for the conditional use permit to be restored, reimbursement of OSGC's statutory costs, attorney's fees, and expenses along with other relief the court deems just equitable. It will also look to hold the city liable for over $4 million in expenses related to the design, permitting, and construction process of the plant.

Oneida Veterans Memorial gets a cultural facelift

Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Veterans Memorial Wall is getting a needed facelift, one that will extend the life of the installation and serve as a gateway into the Oneida community. The wall, which rests on the west side of Highway 54, will feature images from Oneida culture.

Michelle Danforth, Oneida Tourism Director, recognized the site as a possible tourism attraction and took the idea to the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee.

"We first came up with a concept for the wall design

The annual Family Feast was held for the community on Thursday, November 1, 2012. The meal was held in the Norbert Hill Center cafeteria. Oneida Nation High School staff took the role of servers for the event. The meal served over 400 people.

because it seemed to be just an unfinished cement wall. The wall is in a position where it acts as a gateway to the community from Green Bay and could serve as a tourist site. But it seemed to be not fully realized," Danforth said.

A design was created that featured wampum belt inspired ribbon that contains 50 diamonds instead of the traditional six-diamond design. The 50 diamonds represent the 50 fires of the Haudenosaunee council. The Oneida Nation logo and "Oneida Veteran's Memorial" will be painted along side the ribbon.

"I originally brought the plan to ONVAC, who approved it, and at the time they were having an all-veterans meeting so I pitched it to them. At the time they were looking to do something to the wall they just didn't what exactly. There were a couple other plans out there, one was to have large brass medallions of the branches of the military, but the problem was that the medallions were very expensive. This current plan was a lot less expensive which made it manageable so this could actually happen," said Danforth.

The service medallions are still in the works for a more substantial display around the flagpoles to be built when the funds are available.

CemArt, a company that specializes in working safely with cement and large-scale projects, was hired to paint the design on the memorial.

"We looked for tribal businesses to do the work but there weren't any that specialized in painting concrete. Because it is a cement surface we have to be careful during the project because if the wrong stuff is used it could ruin the wall. So we went with CemArt for that reason," Danforth said.

Beside from the aesthetic reasons to spruce up the memorial wall was the fact that the original construction left the wall vulnerable to a high rate of weathering.

"The original design of the wall had these holes or pits in the concrete, by design, to represent the "imperfections of war". But what was happening was that water was getting into those areas, freezing and causing the wall to weather very quickly. So we sealed the entire wall and added one solid line to connect the plates displaying the different wars and bring out the timeline design a little more," Danforth explained.

The painting project is the first phase of the wall design, which will be completed sometime this fall. Phase two will be completed in the spring of 2013 and will feature an eagle statue that will be constructed on the far corner of the wall along with subtle purple flood lights that will bring out the design at night.

A sidewalk that runs the full length of the 175-foot wall is also being planned so that those who use wheelchairs, walkers, or have trouble walking on uneven ground can easily view the entire wall.

"So far from what I've seen the wall just has a finished, polished look and it serves as representation of who we are so that's why I think its important. For us it was either spend this money on signs, ads, or mail outs things like that or we could keep the money here in Oneida and build up our culture and community," Danforth said.

GTC petition denied at OBC meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Several veterans showed their support for former Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Director Dale Wheelock at the Oneida Business Committee meeting held Wednesday, November 14.

Discussion over a General Tribal Council (GTC) petition submitted by Wheelock was complicated by the fact that Wheelock could not attend the meeting due to a Brown County issued restraining order that prevents him from entering the Norbert Hill Center where the meetings are held or being in the presence of OBC Chairman Ed Delgado.

The petition called for a GTC meeting to be held to determine if Delgado and Human Resources Area Manager Geraldine Danforth violated Oneida's Code of Ethics when Wheelock was put on administrative leave. If found to be in violation, the possible result could mean the removal of Delgado as Chairman.

There was discussion on whether Wheelock's petition was valid as it could result in removal of an elected official. To call a GTC meeting, Oneida citizens need to gather at least 50 signatures, and Wheelock had 67. However, to remove an elected official, a citizen needs to gather 30 percent of the election turnout, or in this case 521 signatures. According to Chief Council Jo Anne House, calling for a GTC meeting was an attempt to circumvent the more onerous removal process.

"The petition calls for the removal ultimately of an elected official, therefore it's a removal petition," said House.

About seven people, most wearing veteran jackets, stood up throughout the discussion and spoke in support of Wheelock. Cletus Ninham requested that Wheelock be able to attend the meeting in order to explain his intentions.

"We're asking Dale to just come before this board for an explanation of what's going on," he said.

However, Delgado later expressed concern for his safety.

"I don't want to get shot," said Delgado.

The OBC voted to invalidate the petition. Later in the meeting, the OBC approved a limited waiver of sovereign immunity so that tribal employees could testify at an injunction hearing in Brown County on December 6 concerning the restraining order.

Retail Area Manager Michelle Doxtator reported to the OBC that they will be receiving buffalo on Friday, November 16 to replace those that died of dehydration over Labor Day weekend. Insurance covered the estimated $56,000 cost after the $2500 deductible. Retail also received approval to hire 24 employees for the new Oneida Market and One Stop on Larson Road which will open in December.

Under the Community Development Planning Committee, the OBC approved using $100,000 of excess funds from the Cora House Sewer Project and $270,000 from Community Events to go ahead with development of the Oneida Fishery Restoration. The project will convert a 14 acre sand pit into a tribal fisheries area.

The OBC approved the hiring of an intake coordinator for the Vocation Rehabilitation Program. The position would be 90 percent funded by a federal grant and would free up councilors to focus on their clients.

From 1A/OSGC sues Green Bay

The Oneida Business Committee supports the decision to move forward with the lawsuit. They are urging the city council to reconsider their position.

"The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and our area business supporters are very disappointed," said OBC Chairman Ed Delgado. "This project has been reviewed and approved by the U.S. Department of Energy, Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Wisconsin DNR, Green Bay Planning Committee twice, and last year's city council. All of those agencies determined this plant will work and not negatively impact the health and safety of anyone or the environment."

Some disagree. Project critics feel the technology is untested and bound for failure, which in turn would lead to it polluting the area and releasing toxins into the atmosphere. Others were disappointed in the perceived lack of input gathered from community members during the initial permit granting process.

According to Delgado, failed attempts to get city council members to reconsider their positions leaves no other options.

"We're at this point because we've tried to get the city to reconsider their decision. We believe the decision was arbitrary and unreasonable. If we can't get them to change their stance, our only course is litigation," he said.

The plant has moved multiple times after finding temporary homes in the Town of Oneida, Village of Hobart, and Village of Ashwaubenon. The Town of Oneida location was not selected due to costs associated with running power line to the Wisconsin Pubic Service substation. The Village of Hobart location was changed due to the village's demands that the parcel of property the project was set be on be removed from the trust application process and that the tribe waive its sovereign immunity in regards to the project. The village of Ashwaubenon location was moved after gathering community input and being approached by the City of Green Bay offered a location for the plant.

"Lets not politicize economic development in Green Bay. Lets fix this and move forward together," said Delgado.

Loretta Says... Chicken Coops and Chickens

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

Talking about chickens doesn't seem to be a very exciting subject—but it can be! When I was growing up on Second Ridge (now Seminary Road), every farmer, large or small, raised chickens for their own immediate use. Chickens lay eggs on a regular basis. Eggs are often a nourishing part of breakfast. They can be boiled in a few minutes and served in that manner for breakfast or they can be made into egg salad for tasty sandwiches. Boiled eggs are a major ingredient in potato salad. No cake is made without at least one egg. Angel food cake has twelve egg whites. Various pies, especially custard pies have several whole eggs. Meringues on lemon pies are made of egg whites.

A farmer wants to encourage the hens to lay all the eggs they can possibly lay, so he does everything to make the chickens comfortable and satisfied. That includes providing them with the correct grain mixture when the chickens are confined to their coop in the wintertime. That mixture is sometimes called scratch feed because it can be thrown upon the ground and the chickens will scratch about in the straw for it. Scratch feed is made up of cracked corn, oats, wheat and sunflower seeds. Dad would mix cod liver oil with oats in the twelve quart pail and fill the feeders with this at least once a day. He would also attach 20 penny spikes to heads of cabbage and suspend them off the floor with binder twine so the chickens would be supplied with green stuff in winter. Often, Dad would leave the coop lights on so the hens would feed longer.

We usually had 200 White Leghorns, so we could collect two pails of eggs a day. We could consume all the eggs we needed. The rest would be washed and placed in a 12-dozen size crate to be taken to Schroeder's General Merchandise store in Oneida for trade.

Roast chicken on Sundays was a special treat. Dad would butcher two or three on Saturday. Butchering meant chopping their heads off. All of us, children included, had to clean the hens. Enough water was brought to a boiling point to pour over the chickens in a 5-gallon bucket or to douse them a couple of times to loosen the feathers. After removing all feathers possible, the hairs on the bird were singed over the open flame on the stove. Next, evisceration (gutting) took place, separating out the heart, gizzard and liver. The gizzard required special attention. I became proficient, at an early age, in dressing chickens.

The best flavored chickens were at least a year old—two years old would be better. Homemade chicken soup was always produced from older birds. We feasted on chicken soup with potato dumplings and chicken in gravy with baking powder dumplings. For fried chicken, Mom would cook the chicken first and then fry it in butter or lard or a combination after flouring it.

When Dad bought the farm from the Widow Stuckart, a low log chicken coop was present. It was so low that I could not stand up straight in it and it had an accumulation of years of manure. Dad set out a plan to build a new coop. With the help of neighbors, forms were built for the footings. Then, everyone pitched in to mix the cement. Small field stones were dropped in the cement that was poured in the footings from the wheelbarrows. I don't know how the size was determined. It seems to me that it was about 50 feet long by about 25 feet wide. Dad accumulated used lumber to nail to the 2 X 4s over which was applied drop siding. I had to pound out nails from the used lumber and straighten them, so they could be used again, if possible. Uncle Carl and several of his boys helped finish the roofing job with cedar shingles. I remember the kegs of roofing nails. I helped lay all the shingles. Half of this building was the chicken coop. The other half was a black smith shop, horse barn or heifer barn depending on the need at the time. Doves liked to nest in the straw loft above the chickens.

Animals like chickens, too. Dogs may get in the habit of eating them. A farmer will shoot a dog that does this or robs the nests of eggs because once a dog gets this easy meal, it will not stop. Fox, weasels and mink are notorious for killing chickens in their coops at night. Occasionally, a pine snake would be curled up in a nest. Pine snakes eat eggs and baby chicks.

In 1967, I bought 200 day old chicks. When fed and watered well, they grow quickly into fryers in about 4 or 5 months. When big enough, I butchered 40 in a day, cleaned and dressed them, using two connected wash tubs. I had to pump the water from the spring for this operation. When finished, I prepared them all for freezing to be placed in a rented locker in Freedom because I did not have a freezer. These chickens were White Rocks, a meatier bird than Leghorns.

There are all kinds of chickens. The smaller bantams or bantys raise themselves. They will hide their nests and then come out with their brood in twenty one days. That's how long it takes to hatch chicken eggs. Rhode Island Reds, White and Barred Rocks all lay brown eggs. Leghorns lay white eggs. Some chickens called Aranaucas lay blue and green eggs. There is no difference in their nutritional value. A chicken can be set when she starts "clucking". About 15 to 20 eggs can be placed in her nest. She will regularly roll the eggs to keep them uniformly warm. Ducks will hatch in 24 days.

It is impossible to purchase a frying chicken or a roasting chicken at the super market today of the same quality that we had when we raised our own. Even those chickens that are advertised as being raised on Amish farms do not meet the mark of those we raised ourselves.

DID YOU KNOW?

- Starting in kindergarten, too many absences can cause children to fall behind in school.
- Missing 10 percent (or about 18 days) can make it harder to learn to read.
- Students can still fall behind if they miss just a day or two days every few weeks.
- Being late to school may lead to poor attendance.
- Absences can affect the whole classroom if the teacher has to slow down learning to help children catch up.

Attending school regularly helps children feel better about school—and themselves. Start building this habit in preschool so they learn right away that going to school on time, every day is important. Good attendance will help children do well in high school, college, and at work.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

- Set a regular bed time and morning routine.
- Lay out clothes and pack backpacks the night before.
- Find out what day school starts and make sure your child has the required shots.
- Introduce your child to her teachers and classmates before school starts to help her transition.
- Don't let your child stay home unless she is truly sick. Keep in mind complaints of a stomach ache or headache can be a sign of anxiety and not a reason to stay home.
- If your child seems anxious about going to school, talk to teachers, school counselors, or other parents for advice on how to make her feel comfortable and excited about learning.
- Develop back-up plans for getting to school if something comes up. Call on a family member, a neighbor, or another parent.
- Avoid medical appointments and extended trips when school is in session.

When Do Absences Become a Problem?

Thanksgiving Day Feast celebrates 13 years

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

A thirteen year tradition carries on Thursday, November 22 at the Oneida Thanksgiving Day Community Feast.

Two of the feast coordinators Brian Doxtator and Carol Liggins came up with the idea after talking about all the hours of work that goes into making a family meal.

"Why don't we just do something for the community in that same amount of time and have community come together, because it used to be that way at one time," said Doxtator.

The experience reminded him of stories from his grandmother who in her youth attended large Thanksgivings involving 10 to 12 families.

"During the food prep time the men would make speeches, and a lot of the speeches were about keeping our ways going … the importance of our language. It would all be done in the language," said Doxtator. "When she told me that 80 years later, I was like let's revive that, but we don't make people get up and make speeches anymore, it's more of people coming together in fellowship."

About 25 to 30 volunteers come together to cook turkeys donated by the Native American Indian Veterans Oneida Lodge and bring all the sides to feed about 200 people. The feast is open to anybody.

Brian Doxtator stirs a stew at the 2010 Oneida Thanksgiving Day Community Feast. The event is open to everybody.

One year the community dinner helped a family whose patriarch was suffering from a heart attack.

"The family on Thursday forgot that it was Thanksgiving. They were all in the hospital," said Doxtator. The family came to the Parish Hall and explained the situation and asked for to-go plates.

"We were like yeah, that's what it's about is providing the meal," he said.

Currently, organizes are looking for volunteers and donations for the feast taking place Thursday, November 22 at Parish Hall. Food preparations begin at 8:30 with the feast being served around 11:00am to 2:30pm.

"We're always so grateful the community is stepping up all the time to help. I'm always grateful for the amount of volunteers and assistance, it's really uplifting," said Doxtator.

WI Social Security offices to close early

Effective November 19, 2012, Wisconsin Social Security offices will be open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. – a reduction of 30 minutes each weekday. In addition, beginning January 2, 2013, offices will close to the public at noon every Wednesday.

While agency employees will continue to work their regular hours, this shorter public window will allow them to complete face-to-face interviews and process claims work without incurring the cost of overtime. The significantly reduced funding provided by Congress under the continuing resolution for the first six months of the fiscal year makes it impossible for the agency to provide the overtime needed to handle service to the public as it has done in the past.

In addition, on November 23, the day after Thanksgiving, all Social Security field offices will be closed to the public. As we did last year, employees working that day will focus on reducing backlogged workloads.

Most Social Security services do not require a visit to a local office. Many services, including applying for retirement, disability or Medicare benefits, signing up for direct deposit, replacing a Medicare card, obtaining a proof of income letter or informing us of a change of address or telephone number are conveniently available at www.socialsecurity.gov or by dialing our toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213. People who are deaf or hard of hearing may call our TTY number, 1-800-325-0778. Many of our online services also are available in Spanish at www.segurosocial.gov.

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

Greetings Peoples,

Money In The Bank….

Let's look at the rez as a bank then let's look at our resources as money. Now…think about it, we got "MONEY IN THE BANK". The problem is that we are not looking at it this way… we tend to look at it as if the only way we can raise money is through gaming or hotels. The way we need to look at it is by creating the opportunity for our resources to contribute to the effort of raising our financial resources. Let me give some examples...we train our youth and team them with our experienced skilled labor and we can not only save money but we begin to compete in the local market and create a venue…that's "MONEY IN THE BANK".

The Land

That's "MONEY IN THE BANK" let's say we look at our land differently. Let's lease the land with a stipulation…only lease to individuals that are growing what we need. I.e.; tomatoes, potatoes, beans, squash, corn, etc…we then create a market place for these products after we address our own needs with a reasonable profit instead of a questionably high price. We are then filling our needs without loss and we sell to the market that's "MONEY IN THE BANK" .

The Need

We need to educate our students based upon what we need…bus drivers, truck drivers, veterinarians, potato chip makers, natural soft drink manufacturers, natural medicine producers, and on and on. Anything we use, we should be producing…that's MONEY IN THE BANK.

Please…someone tell me why this doesn't make sense? Why can't we make sense to make cents? I keep hearing some of my fellow Council members making statements that reflect…the tribal membership has too much entitlement. They say we need to bring in outside help to address our needs in creating diversity to our economy. They seem to feel that we are no longer capable of addressing our own needs. I don't believe this to be true. I believe we can do anything as individuals or as a group if we put our minds together in a good way. I believe that there is a challenge out there for all of us to work together in a good way with a good mind…including members both over 21 and under 21 years old. A challenge exists for GTC to step-up… be part of visioning and let's create a community economy that we need and not allow a few people to make the decisions for you. They may only move forward what they what. Who can you blame then?

Wise Strategic Choices

We have challenges in the immediate opportunities before us all. We must choose wisely in these strategic decisions. Your voice thru a phone call, email, attendance AND participation at a meeting or petition from both those over 21 and under 21 years old remain key in our BC dialogue/communication as your BC to represent you and your needs and the future.

"The future is in all of our hands." We need to choose wisely and we welcome your intelligent voice in these matters.

OBC Forum...

Shekólih,

For this article I would like to share my perspective with you on two upcoming important meetings, the first is the General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting on Monday, November 19, 2012 and the second is two GTC work meetings, scheduled for December 17 & 18, 2012.

On Monday, November 19, you will be asked to make decisions on 6 different petition items: 1. to dismiss court costs assigned in the amount of $2,300; 2. Determine if GTC meetings should be held only within the reservation boundaries; 3. Review and decide on a higher GTC stipend with regularly scheduled meetings in lieu of per capita payments (except elderly and youth); 4. Direct the BC to implement a new complaint process for Childcare; 5. Reduce rent charged by the Oneida Housing authority by 33%; and 6. Return maintenance of poplar lane to the Town of Oneida. Each of these petitions will impact Oneida in various ways including: policy or law changes, financial impacts to operations and our right to exercise our sovereignty.

We know we are not all going to agree on every issue being brought before us, but I am asking that each of us to take the time to read the packet and ask your questions. For example, the petition sponsored by me (holding GTC meetings on reservation) is to ensure you, the GTC, are the ones who get to decide if holding GTC meetings off the reservation is what you want. As explained in the packet you received, when the decision was first made to hold a GTC meeting at Shopko Hall, many tribal members considered this option unacceptable and in about 4 hours, 85 signatures were collected to ensure you had a right to voice your opinion about this matter before the GTC and I agreed to be the sponsor of the petition so that your thoughts on this issue could be heard by everyone. Regarding the childcare petition, there was an investigation done by the Audit Committee on the concerns brought forward by the parents; however, a summary of the results of that investigation were not included in the packet so you do not have the information readily available to you for the GTC meeting. Thoroughly understanding the request before us is only one part of the equation; the second is ensuring your voice is heard in future plans as well.

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

On Dec. 17 & 18, we will all have the opportunity to participate in developing and/or affirming the tribe's vision for the future. The sessions will be held at the Radisson Hotel & Conference center from 4pm – 9pm each day. I encourage you all to participate, this will be a great opportunity to dialogue about how you see our reservation (physical environment), our services and economy for the next 5, 10, 15 + years. From this visioning session, the BC will be able to better understand your thoughts about where we are at now and where you would like us to go in the future so that as we develop the tribe's annual budget, our priorities in those budgets reflect what your thoughts are.

Finally, with the gun deer season starting this weekend, I want to wish all the hunters a safe, healthy and bountiful time. The deer hunting season is a time for member in our community to provide sustenance for our families and create memories that will last a lifetime – good luck everyone!

OBC Forum...

I hope this time of the year finds you in great health and good spirits. I have spent the last couple of weeks continuing my work on housing and economic development matters and the site selection of the SEOTS facility.

As the Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC) Chair, my office has worked on solidifying a contract with a consultant who will bring forth action plans for housing development initiatives for the Reservation. These initiatives will include bringing forth several recommendations on various types of housing projects which will not be solely reliant on any single funding source.

Over the last three months I have been working diligently to try and get the SEOTS building for the Milwaukee Oneidas completed. This is a project that started, according to many, some three years ago in the planning stages and yet the selection of the site location has yet to be finalized. Unfortunately, the dream of a new facility has been daunting rather than liberating. I have been proposing a campus style feel for SEOTS, one where we can bring in resources that are not only valuable to the Native American community but also generate rental revenue to help sustain the SEOTS programs.

At the November 8, 2012, CDPC meeting there was supposed to be a finalized discussion to get the ball rolling on the completion of the SEOTS building. We needed to forge a long-range vision over the next few weeks around a dynamic campus style setting for SEOTS and multiple interconnected opportunities (housing, jobs, etc.). There were many possibilities but none of that now seems within our grasp. Instead of final decisions at the CDPC meeting, there was criticism directed at those that were trying to get something done and more unnecessary delays. Delays were chosen over performance and viable solutions were ignored. The dots were not connected and as a result we avoided the straight path towards a solution. It is unfortunate that we are now back to square one. The delays have resulted in lost opportunity, wasted efforts, a higher cost to the Oneida people all while leaving a feeling of an overbearing sense of disservice to the Oneida people.

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

This project has been a stain on our leadership as we sit here talking in circles about a square building. While there are hundreds of other important issues to deal with here there now appears to be another endorsement to go in yet another series of concentric circles. Who could imagine entering the fourth year of discussion on building a new building that has already been supported?

Needless to say, the last couple of weeks have been extremely frustrating but as one of your leaders but I will continue to fight for what is right and look forward to your feedback on these matters.

Respectively,
Vince DelaRosa

Public Hearing Notices

11:30AM • Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Adoption of the General Tribal Council Meetings Law

The General Tribal Council Meetings Law (Law) creates a schedule of General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting dates; sets a general agenda for those meetings; outlines the petition process; sets standards of conduct for meeting attendees; and outlines the duties of those who help prepare for and assist with GTC meetings. The Law requires that at least four GTC meetings be held each year (annual, semi-annual, and 2 special meetings). In addition to these four meetings, a budget meeting is also required to be held as necessary. Additional GTC meetings can be called in accordance with the Constitution – by the Tribal Chairman or through petition. The Law limits GTC meeting attendees to those individuals who are: (1) enrolled Tribal members who are eligible to vote or (2) non-enrolled individuals who have a business-related need to attend the meeting and are approved by GTC.

The Law outlines a general agenda for GTC meetings and also sets out how a petition is processed. The process includes analyses of the petition being conducted, deadlines for when a petition must be presented to the GTC and required communication between the petitioner and the Tribal Secretary's Office. A petition received at least sixty days before a GTC meeting will be placed on the upcoming GTC meeting agenda; the petition must be considered by GTC within six months after it is submitted. GTC meeting attendees are required to be respectful and of others, be free from the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs, and remain in compliance with Tribal law – anyone violating these provisions may be removed from a GTC meeting.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Adoption of the Public Use Land Law

The Public Use of Tribal Land Law (Law) was developed to prevent the improper access, use and trespass to Tribal lands. Under the Law, the Environmental Resource Board would be responsible for adopting a Land Access Map which will clearly define whether Tribal land is:

- open to all persons
- limited to those persons who have a lease or permit to use the land; or
- limited to Tribal members, their spouses and descendants; members of other federally recognized tribes; authorized employees of the Tribe; or individuals who are accompanied by a Tribal member, or the spouse or descendant of a Tribal member.

In addition, the Environmental Resource Board would hold public hearings before amending the Land Access Map. This public hearing process is similar to the process used by the Land Commission to rezone property or amend district boundary lines under the Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law. The Law also defines trespass by describing activities that are a violation of the Law. Violators of the Law will be subject to a fine and the Environmental Resource Board will conduct hearings for anyone who choose to contest a fine issued under the Law.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy is to regulate the hiring of persons to complete work in order to minimize the costs of independent contractors. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Authorizing, and identifying specific situations where a Tribal employee or a business owned by a Tribal employee may be utilized by the Tribe as an independent contractor.
- Clarifying that this Policy does not apply to elected or appointed Tribal officials or employees of Tribally-chartered corporations; it just applies to internal employees.
- Deleting an order of preference (i.e. Tribal members first, Tribal member spouses second, etc.) to be used in selecting independent contractors. Instead, the Policy requires the order of preference set out in the Tribe's Indian Preference Law to be applied.

-Deleting numerous procedural requirements that appear to be more appropriate as departmental Stand Operating Procedures or internal rules and guidelines.

December 6, 2012

Purpose:
Amendments General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy (Policy) is to fulfill the resolution passed by General Tribal Council (GTC) on November 21, 2011 which directed:

- General Tribal Council meetings be limited to members age 21 or over until a meeting facility that holds 2,500 or more people can be identified
- Tribal members who leave the ballroom area and related bathroom facilities during the General Tribal Council meeting are not eligible for a meeting stipend.

The proposed amendments would also update and streamline the Policy to allow flexibility in the processes of how eligibility for stipend payments is determined and how stipend payments are made.

Public Hearing Process
Testimony:

Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

Tech Support Staff recognized

One dozen tech support employees were acknowledged during an appreciation luncheon at the Skenandoah Complex on October 18th. Julie Eckberg, Tech Support Specialist II, felt it was necessary to recognize the additional staff who came on board less than five years ago.

"Know that you are appreciated", said Eckberg as she pointed them out.

MIS has 55 employees between Gaming and Enterprise MIS. Following is a breakdown:

– 4 Customer Service Center
– 2 Administrators
– 8 Managers/Supervisors
– 13 Desktop Support
– 10 Networking
– 10 Programming
– 3 Telcom
– 2 Operations
– 3 BSA's

The most recent staff were asked to express what drew them to the MIS field. Their feedback was positive and is as follows:

Elvis Bartlett:
Desktop Support

I have always had an attraction to computers even as a kid I would scrap and rebuild old computer and electronic systems. I have been working in the MIS department for about 6 months. I decided to apply with the tribe because I felt indebted to the Tribe for paying for my education. My plan has always been to become an educated professional and bring my skill set back to the Oneida Tribe.

Jason W. Doxtator:
Supervisor of Networking

What drew me to MIS? – While working at the Brown County jail as a Corrections Officer, I saw a computer technician working on a computer and I thought, "Hey, that looks like fun." So I decided on a career change into the IT Field, specifically Computer Networking. So I went back to school to complete my Associates Degree in Computer Network Systems and my Bachelor's Degree in Information Systems Security.

Having worked for Oneida previously, I knew overall, it was a good place to work. I felt a sense of duty to Oneida. I felt that I owed it to Oneida to come back and work for them since they paid for my education.

I started out in the MIS Department as a Student Intern and in my time as an intern, I really enjoyed all of the different technologies we got to work with and all of my co-workers were very friendly and extremely helpful. Over the years, I have been able to work in some different areas of the MIS Department and have thoroughly enjoyed overcoming the challenges that have ben presented.

Josephine Skenandore:
MIS – Client Server Programmer

I started out working in the billing department in my twenties and had to learn the Billing software.

I caught on to it so well I ended up teaching others within our department. This was the beginning of my interest in software, now I work as a System Analyst for all types software and I enjoy what I do.

Jason Mielke
Oneida Nation Gaming MIS

I have always enjoyed working on PC's, from the very first part I switched out. I was then hooked on how computers worked ever since.

Jeremiah Pelky
MIS – Customer Service Center

I was interested in MIS because of my passion for computers, and my enjoyment in troubleshooting and solving problems. Now that I've been here for nearly a year, I don't want to leave. I love the pursuit of progression and the prevalence of teamwork throughout the department.

Forrest Pelky
MIS – Client Server Programmer

Per your article, technology has always been a part of my life. It's actually helped defined me as a person. Growing up I was always the tech, geek, or whatever, but everyone knew that a tech question should probably pass my ears. So naturally, when I wanted to give back to our community I knew that working for MIS was the way. I could repay all the opportunities that being a part of our tribe had given me with my expertise.

Elizabeth Holl
MIS Gaming Desktop Support Specialist-

I went into MIS for the challenge. Puzzles and solving problems were always interesting. Couple that with my love of technology and here I am.

Tony Doxtator
Systems Administrator

I am a graduate of ITT Technical College where I received an Associates Degree in Computer Networking Systems. I have been with MIS for 6 years and am currently pursuing certifications to further my career with Oneida. One of the things that makes my job interesting is trying to keep up with the latest and greatest technologies, it keeps the job challenging and exciting.

Mike Mousseau
Systems Administrator

I've had an interest in IT early on in high school and it continued after I graduated by attending NWTC and completing the Network Specialist program. The complexity of the technology is what's draws me to it, I enjoy solving puzzles and not having the same repetitive job duties day after day and working in IT is the perfect fit! Everyday there's something new, something different, always evolving and never stays the same for very long.

The Prize of Freedom

On November 11, we honor our veterans for their unwavering service and sacrifice. This Year of the Veteran we commemorate, acknowledge, and affirm the contributions made by our veterans to secure the liberties we continue to enjoy.

Veterans served with courage and honor. But why were they willing to fight? They served because they believe not that war is good, but that sometimes it is necessary. They served not for the glory of war, but for the prize of freedom.

Who were these men and women who fought for the prize of freedom?

I read with great appreciation just a few days ago of one such individual who, like so many, went to war not knowing if he would come back. He dared risk it all for the prize of freedom.

James Des Jardins, Green Bay, was a young fighter pilot whose plane was shot down in the German countryside in November 1944. He had been Missing in Action since. Just days ago, after all of these years, James Des Jardins was identified and his remains were returned to his family, a family that 68 years earlier had mourned and buried his older brother, also a pilot shot down during World War II. But this day, the day when James returned home, it was a day of celebration, not just for James' homecoming, but for everything he sacrificed to defend. His family celebrated the gift James left for them: freedom.

John A. Scocos

Einar Ingman, Kewaskum, was an Army corporal who served in Korea. When the leaders of the two leading squads of the assault platoon of his company were wounded during a mission, he assumed command and combined the squads. He then located and charged an enemy machine gun that was attacking his men and threw a grenade at it. He killed the remaining crew with his rifle. He charged a second enemy machine gun. He was hit by grenade fragments and gunfire and seriously wounded. Before falling unconscious, he killed the entire enemy guncrew, compelling the remaining hostile troops to retreat. For his valor and actions beyond the call of duty, Ingman received the highest military honor, the Medal of Honor. Next week the Department will celebrate the gift of freedom Corporal Ingman gave us as we unveil a monument at the Wisconsin Veterans Home at King to Wisconsin's 62 Medal of Honor recipients.

These are just two stories of selflessness and gallantry among thousands, stories of men and women who revered freedom. They defended our right to live in peace. And they deserve to be celebrated.

So this year, let's celebrate the nearly 400,000 veterans living in Wisconsin and those who are no longer with us. Let's celebrate the men and women who stood up for you and me. They have made our world safer, more democratic, more peaceful. They defeated the forces of fascism, imperialism, and terrorism. This is the prize of freedom.

Today, and every day, let us celebrate the Wisconsin men and women who have served our country, appreciate their sacrifices, and take a moment to honor the legacy of these heroes and especially those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

John A. Scocos is the Secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs. He is an Iraq War veteran.

Remembering a Friend

Shako.li,

It troubles me to read of a friend of mine that has passed on recently.

I wish to express my condolences to the family of Richard A. Baird or as I grew to know him "Charlie Brown".

I'll always remember him as a good friend who used to go roller skating with me and fixing our bicycles together as kids. May the Great Spirit carry you and welcome you. Rest in Peace, my friend. I'll miss you.

Love and Respect,

Oneida Housing Authority Audit

In the October 4, 2012 issue of the Kalihwisaks, Oneida Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado reported there are problems at OHA.

On October 15, 2012 Lou Ann Green and I went up to the third floor of the Norbert Hill center to read the audit. What we saw was shocking.

The audit reporter that 100 water heaters were ordered but 20 were missing. This represented a loss of $20,500. In another finding, 145 furnaces were ordered where only 111 units needed furnaces. An infra-red camera had been ordered to the tune of $7,675. It was missing. There was no accounting as to which homes the water heaters and furnaces went in to.

If you want to read the audit yourself, call the Norbert Hill Center and ask for the Internal Audit Department and set up a date and time. Write the Audit Chair Brandon Stevens and request to see the audit at that time and date. If you are shy about going by yourself, take a friend with you.

A big thank you to Chairman Ed Delgado for informing the people and not allowing a cover-up.

Madelyn Genskow

Kolitsch gained work experience at Packers internship

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

When Andrea Kolitsch returned to the University of Wisconsin-Lacrosse for her sophomore semester this fall, she had a unique experience to share thanks to her internship with the Packers during their spring training.

"I learned how big the Packers organization is and how many people are involved in it," said Kolitsch. "Watching the Packers play on TV, you wouldn't think about how many people are involved in making the Packers organization so successful."

Kolitsch received the internship through a program offered by the Packers to the Oneida Nation for the first time this year. Manager of Partnership Services Sara Webb saw the internship as a way to extend the two entities partnership.

"(The Oneida Nation is) a little different than some of our other partners. We thought it made sense and we thought it was a good opportunity for both parties," said Webb. "We look at it as an experience builder for typically college aged students or people who have just graduated. It gives them some experience in real life work situations."

Andrea Kolitsch

Kolitsch helped with setting up displays, giving tours to Packer sponsors, and helping to entertain the sponsors during spring training practices. She had an opportunity to get to know some of the fans.

"There was this one old man who he was a season ticket holder since like the beginning of the Packers, and it's really cool to talk to someone like that. Wow, you're like part of history," she said.

Kelly Poppele worked with the interns and said Kolitsch was a very easy going person to work with.

"She was always just willing to help wherever needed, always was offering to come and help on those special events. If we needed extra bodies, she was always willing to be here," she said.

Webb looks forward to extending the internship opportunity to Oneida next year.

"(Kolitsch) did a great job for us. She worked really hard and we're looking forward to working with Oneida in the future on other training camp interns," said Webb.

Pointer new career rushing record holder

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Records are made to be broken. The career rushing record at the Oneida Nation High School was the latest to fall.

Thunderhawk quarterback Devonte Pointer holds the new record after finishing his two-year career with 1,000 rushing yards. He also ran for 11 touchdowns and threw for seven this past season as his first year as the starting quarterback. He was named the teams Offensive Player of the Year.

"He's a hard nosed runner that doesn't go down after first contact," said Thunderhawks head coach Bryan Peterson. "He's so smart."

When you ask Pointer about some of his favorite plays from last season, you see that Peterson wasn't lying.

"One play I threw a guy and ran for 15 more yards, then I spun around a guy," Pointer said.

All conference teams have not yet been announced yet but expectations are high for the new record holder.

"I am pretty sure Devonte will finish first team all conference," Peterson said. "I can't see why not."

Pointer new the record was close and also had other lofty goals.

"I wanted to get 100 yards every game and set the rushing record coming into the season," said Pointer.

He did both, averaging a robust 142 yards a game and smashing the career rushing record by 169 yards. This was done with Pointer missing 2 1/2 games during the season.

"He probably would have destroyed the record if he didn't miss those games," Peterson said.

With the season over, Pointer is now able to look back at his accomplishment.

"It feels pretty good. People say they are going to break my record. I tell them to try their best," he said.

"No one is really close," he is quick to add.

Thunderhawks eye season with roster depth

Brandon Black Owl makes a layup during a full court drill as Head Coach Scott Murray looks on from the sideline.

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

As the month of November rolls in the cold weather the high school basketball season gets set to tipoff. This season the Oneida Thunderhawks will have something the basketball team hasn't had in quite some time; depth.

The T-hawks will suit up 14 players this season. Four returning players, three of which are seniors, in addition to ten new players will construct the 2012-2013 varsity team.

This newfound depth will provide some new challenges for Head Coach Scott Murray.

"We have four returning and ten new guys. It is the largest roster I've had during my time here and it's exciting. But the new players present a challenge. We changed the way we approach practice, we start out with a lot of fundamentals rather than getting right into actual game situations. We will start out with the development of the fundamentals and get them on track that way," Murray said.

But as the season approaches the returning seniors are prepared to do what it takes to get the team moving in the right direction.

"I am looking forward to working with new players that I haven't worked with before and that makes it a new experience because you don't know how other players play. As a senior leader I need to be more of a leader, help each other out and just work harder to get better," said senior guard Devonte Pointer.

As a team the top goal on the list for the upcoming season is to match the success of last year's squad.

"My main goal for my senior year is to win more games than we did last year and improve our chemistry," said senior Diego Metoxen.

"My goal is to make us better than last year. We had 17 wins last season and I think we can beat that, at least by one," added senior Mike Mills.

Having a large roster may come with new challenges, but depth is a good problem to have when it comes to basketball.

"The new depth does help the team because the one thing that makes you better is competition. In the past when you only have eight guys you cant even go five on five, now it's battle royale. I told the team, including the seniors, that it's open season. Everyone has to earn their spot. So now with the numbers it creates competition and that's a good thing," said Coach Murray.

The prospect of being a competitive basketball team has the Oneida players excited to get the season started. The boy's basketball season will begin on Tuesday, November 20 against Menominee.

Hunters: Remember Firewood Rules

MADISON – The Department reminds Wisconsin hunters heading out to deer camp to use firewood where they are camping or to purchase wood from a certified dealer. This is crucial so that hunters do not bring emerald ash borer (EAB) or gypsy moth into the woodland area through their firewood, which could destroy those woods or those nearby.

"EAB and gypsy moth are two of the most destructive forest pests in North America. Add in oak wilt and other diseases and you have a real risk of losing a lot of trees where you hunt," says Melody Walker, chief of the Pest Survey program at the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. "The deer that like to graze on acorns on your land might not be around if the trees that produced those acorns are dead and gone."

It is illegal to move firewood out of areas that are quarantined for either of those insect pests, because the wood could be harboring eggs or immature insects called larvae. Pests and diseases that kill trees can move from place to place on firewood. EAB and gypsy moth, as well as other pests, can easily survive Wisconsin winters.

Fifty-one counties in Wisconsin are quarantined for one or both pests. A map showing the quarantined counties is available online: http://datcpservices.wisconsin.gov/eab/articleassets/Firewood_Movement_in_Wisconsin.pdf. Although firewood can be moved within the quarantine area, it is best to buy it where you are camping or from certified dealers.

Remember:

- Gather or buy your firewood at your destination.
- Use all the firewood you obtain and don't take any home with you.
- Consider buying firewood from state-certified dealers. A list is available at (http://datcp.wi.gov/uploads/Plants/pdf/CertifiedFirewoodDealers.pdf)
- If camping on DNR-managed land, firewood cannot come from more than 25 miles away unless it is state-certified.

Additional information about EAB and gypsy moth can be found online at www.emeraldashborer.wi.gov or at www.gypsymoth.wi.gov

Review Online Coupons Carefully

MADISON – Consumers who sign up for emails from daily deal websites are offered products, services, meals and travel at heavily discounted rates. The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) advises consumers to do their research on the service provider prior to clicking the purchase button.

For example, Wisconsin consumers have complained about chimney cleaning services that were purchased through Groupon from a company called Fireplace Doctor. According to Groupon, more than 270 consumers in Milwaukee purchased the deal.

Despite being a Florida-based company, Fireplace Doctor advertised its services on the website under the names "The Fireplace Doctor of Madison" and "The Fireplace Doctor of Milwaukee." Many consumers confused Fireplace Doctor with a legitimate local business with a similar name. Among complaints received by consumers who purchased the deal are claims of homes left in a filthy state after a chimney cleaning and a consumer who paid $350 but received no services.

If you use daily deal websites, follow these tips:

Read the fine print. Make sure you read the terms of the deal and that you understand any redemption restrictions.

Look for reliable merchants. Research the company you intend to buy from. Call the Wisconsin Consumer Protection Hotline at 800-422-7128 to find out if we have received consumer complaints against the business.

Is it really a deal? Verify that the offer actually is a good value by comparing prices for similar services or merchandise on other websites or by calling around to competitors. Consider the cost of tips if the deal is for a service and shipping if you are purchasing a product.

Be aware that some companies have difficulties fulfilling their deals when demand is high, so know that you may have shipping delays or find yourself competing with other purchasers for available time slots for services and classes.

Know your daily deal site. These sites differ in how and when they charge consumers for their purchases and how they handle refunds and returns.

Keep your receipt and copies of any communications. If you have problems with a daily deal site or with the service provider, ask to speak with a manager about your problem. Document the interactions. If you are unable to come to a resolve and you choose to file a complaint with the Consumer Protection Bureau, this documentation will be important for your case.

For more information or to file a consumer complaint, visit datcp.wisconsin.gov, send an e-mail to datcphotline@wisconsin.gov or call the hotline toll-free at 1-800-422-7128.

The Medicare age is still 65

Distributed By Ken Hess
Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

If you're in your sixties, you probably know that the age to receive full retirement benefits has changed. But it's important to remember that the age to begin receiving Medicare has not — it is still 65. Even if you have decided to wait until after you are age 65 to apply for retirement benefits, most people should start getting Medicare coverage at age 65.

If you would like to begin your Medicare coverage when you first become eligible, we suggest that you apply within three months of reaching age 65. You can do it online in as little as 10 minutes at www.socialsecurity.gov/medicareonly.

At the website, you'll find more than just the online Medicare application. You'll also find information about Medicare, and have the opportunity to watch some short videos about applying for Medicare online. One is a family reunion for the cast of The Patty Duke Show. In another, Patty Duke and George Takei go boldly where you should be going — online.

Why go online to apply for Medicare? Because it's fast, easy, and secure. You don't need an appointment and you can avoid waiting in traffic or in line. As long as you have ten minutes to spare, you have time to complete and submit your online Medicare application.

People who started receiving Social Security retirement or disability benefits before age 65 do not need to apply; they will be automatically enrolled in Medicare.

There is no additional charge for Medicare hospital insurance (Part A) since you already paid for it by working and paying Medicare tax. However, there is a monthly premium for medical insurance (Part B). If you already have other health insurance when you become eligible for Medicare, you should consider whether you want to apply for the medical insurance. To learn more about Medicare and some options for choosing coverage, read the online publication, Medicare, at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10043.html or visit www.Medicare.gov.

To learn more about applying for Medicare only using the online application, please visit www.socialsecurity.gov/medicareonly.

Your Social Security statement is a gift to yourself

Distributed By Ken Hess
Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

It's very likely that during the holiday season you've been spending a bit of time and money getting gifts for everyone on your shopping list. Why not take a moment and give yourself a holiday gift? I have a suggestion, and while it won't cost you a penny, it could be one of the best (and easiest) financial steps you ever take for your future.

Give yourself the gift of your own Social Security Statement. You can get yours online at www.socialsecurity.gov/mystatement.

The online Social Security Statement is simple, easy to use, and provides estimates you can use to plan for your retirement. It also provides estimates for disability and survivors benefits, making the Statement an important financial planning tool.

Your Statement also allows you to determine whether your earnings are accurately posted to your Social Security records. This feature is important because Social Security benefits are based on average earnings over your lifetime.

To get a personalized online Statement, you must be age 18 or older and must be able to provide information about yourself that matches information already on file with Social Security. In addition, Social Security uses Experian, an external authentication service provider, for further verification. You must provide identifying information and answer security questions in order to pass this verification. Social Security will not share your Social Security number with Experian, but the identity check is an important part of this new, thorough verification process.

When your identity is verified, you can create a "My Social Security" account with a unique user name and password to access your online Statement. In addition, your online Statement includes links to information about other online Social Security services, such as applications for retirement, disability, and Medicare.

This holiday season, it's likely you'll be hearing some of your friends and family saying "you shouldn't have" as they receive their gifts from you. That's something to look forward to. But be sure that you don't find yourself saying "I should have" when it comes to planning your own financial future. Get your online Social Security Statement and look it over. Continue to look it over yearly. It may be the best gift you can give to yourself in the long run.

Your free gift is waiting at www.socialsecurity.gov/mystatement.

How "Ticket to Work" helped Terry Anderson build a better life

Distributed By Ken Hess
Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

The summer of 2007 felt like a bad dream for Terry Anderson. Reeling from a recent cancer diagnosis, she was downsized from the company where she'd worked for 11 years. "There was no severance. I had no insurance," she said. "I was terrified."

Terry began receiving Social Security disability benefits and took an extended period of time away from work. Later, Terry learned about 'one-stop career centers' that provide free employment-related support services through Social Security's Ticket to Work program to people receiving Social Security benefits. She decided to see what the Iowa Workforce Development Center, her local one-stop, had to offer. There are more than a thousand one-stop career centers across the nation.

The one-stop staff explained that the Ticket program is designed for people who receive Social Security disability benefits and are committed to achieving self-sufficiency through eventual full-time employment. Through the Ticket program, Iowa Workforce helped Terry coordinate her career preparation and job hunt. She updated her computer skills and built confidence in her prospects for long-term success. "They offered workshops on interview skills," she said. "I had my resume refurbished. I learned fresh strategies. At first, I was too proud to ask for help. I'm glad that I did."

While Terry was eager to move on, she was apprehensive about finding work and losing her benefits. Terry learned about special Social Security rules called "work incentives," that help people who receive disability benefits transition to the workforce and become financially self-sufficient.

For example, people receiving disability benefits can keep their Medicare coverage and their cash benefits while gaining work experience during the Trial Work Period. Terry was relieved to learn about another Work Incentive called 'expedited reinstatement,' allowing her Social Security cash benefits to restart without a new application if she has to stop work within five years because of her disability.

Another helpful Work Incentive, known as a Plan to Achieve Self-Support (PASS), allows Social Security disability recipients who meet the income rules for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) to set aside money to pay for items or services they need to reach a specific work goal. These can include educational expenses, training, job-related transportation, business startup costs, tools and equipment, child-care costs and even the cost of job interview clothes. By approving a PASS, Social Security agrees to exclude certain income that would normally lower an SSI payment amount. At the same time, the person agrees to go to work, with the goal of eventually leaving disability benefits behind and becoming financially self-sufficient.

In 2009, Terry found work as a Loan Servicing Specialist and a second job in retail where she trains cashiers and enjoys interacting with customers. Terry was grateful that Social Security helped her "get through the storm." She built a better life through work. She no longer receives Social Security disability benefits. "Now I'm healthy. I have two jobs. I love both of them. Life is good."

With support from Ticket to Work and Iowa Workforce Development Center, Terry found her path to self-sufficiency. To learn more about the Ticket to Work program, call the Ticket to Work help line at 1-866-968-7842 (TTY/TTD, 1-866-833-2967) or visit www.socialsecurity.gov/work.

Victoria's Secret apologizes for use of headdress

By Felicia Fonseca
Associated Press

FLAGSTAFF, AZ ~ Victoria's Secret has apologized for putting a Native American-style headdress on a model for its annual fashion show, after the outfit was criticized as a display of ignorance toward tribal culture and history.

The company responded to the complaints over the weekend by saying it was sorry to have upset anyone and that it wouldn't include the outfit in the show's television broadcast next month, or in any marketing materials.

"We sincerely apologize as we absolutely had no intention to offend anyone," the company said.

Historically, headdresses are a symbol of respect, worn by Native American war chiefs and warriors. For Great Plains tribes, for instance, each feather placed on a headdress has significance and had to be earned through an act of compassion or bravery. Some modern-day Native American leaders have received war bonnets in ceremonies accompanied by prayers and songs.

"When you see a Lakota chief wearing a full headdress, you know that he was a very honorable man. He was a leader. He did a lot of honorable things for his people," said Michelle Spotted Elk, a Santa Cruz, California, woman of mixed heritage whose husband is Lakota. "It also has religious significance. With them, there's not a division between spirituality and their leadership."

Victoria's Secret model Karlie Kloss walked onto the runway last week wearing the floor-length feathered headdress, leopard-print underwear and high heels. She also was adorned with fringes and turquoise jewelry during a segment meant to represent the 12 months of the year - fireworks in July, rain gear for April and a headdress for November.

Kloss herself posted on Twitter that she was "deeply sorry if what I wore during the VS Show offended anyone."

Thousands of people have commented about the outfit on the company's Facebook page. Some praised Kloss' attire as artistic and urged those offended by it to "get over it." Several expressed appreciation to Victoria's Secret for halting its marketing approach for the clothing, and others reached back in history to explain their feelings.

"We have gone through the atrocities to survive and ensure our way of life continues," Navajo Nation spokesman Erny Zah said in an interview Monday. "Any mockery, whether it's Halloween, Victoria's Secret - they are spitting on us. They are spitting on our culture, and it's upsetting."

The Victoria's Secret stir follows a string of similar incidents. Paul Frank Industries Inc. and the band No Doubt ran into criticism earlier this year for their use of headdresses in clothing and parties, and in a cowboys-and-Indians-themed video, respectively. They offered apologies as well.

Last year, Urban Outfitters Inc. set off a firestorm of criticism with its line of Navajo-branded clothing and accessories - particularly underwear and a liquor flask, which the tribe said was "derogatory and scandalous."

Abaki Beck was among a handful of Native American students who hosted a discussion last week at a private liberal arts college in St. Paul, Minnesota, on Native American culture in fashion and sports. She said companies first must learn from the mistake of ignoring Native American history and then make an effort to engage with Indian Country.

She wanted more than a short apology from Victoria's Secret instead of what she said sounded like an automated response.

"But perhaps that is an unrealistic hope," said the 19-year-old member of the Blackfeet Nation of Montana. "It is all about business, after all."

Jennie Luna, who is Chicana and Caxcan, said society largely is ignorant toward indigenous spirituality and doesn't understand what should not be marketed commercially. She and others say more education about Native American cultures is needed.

"We are people; we're not a fashion statement," Luna said. "We are people who are facing serious issues, and for them to further perpetuate the type of stereotypes and disregard for a community's way of life is unacceptable."

ReGina Zuni's advice to companies looking to market Native American culture is to hire Native Americans who have knowledge of tribal traditions, cultures and customs.

However, her reaction to hearing about the Victoria's Secret headdress wasn't outrage about the clothing itself, but about the lack of attention on health care, education, housing and other issues in Indian Country.

"To each his own," said Zuni, of Isleta Pueblo in New Mexico. "But seriously, if people want to grab media attention on Indian issues, this is not the issue to advance and place in the spotlight."

Metoxens witness extent of Native support at canonization

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Oneida Tribal members Kirby Metoxen, and his father Russell made the trip to Rome, Italy to witness the canonization of Kateri Tekakwitha, the first Native American saint. Before they left the United States they were unsure of what to expect or if the trip would even be worth taking. But what they experienced at the Vatican made the trip well worth the effort.

The trip went as smooth as could be for the father and son travelers. Along the way the duo was able to benefit from a few opportune encounters.

"At the airport in Chicago were ran into a Bishop from Africa who was also going to the Vatican but for another reason. We told him why we were going there and he knew all about it and he said 'When you get there go to the United States Bishops Administration building.' We had to go there and get tickets into St. Peters Square otherwise we wouldn't be able to get into the canonization. We didn't know this so it was a good thing we ran into him," said Kirby Metoxen.

The eight-hour flight from Chicago to Rome was a success; the airline even offered Russell a first class seat at a discounted price. Upon arrival in Rome the first thing they did was go to the United States Bishops Administration building and get their tickets for the canonization. It was there that they got tips on when to arrive for the ceremony and what to expect once they arrived.

"It was quite the spiritual experience. There was probably about 6,000 to 8,000 Natives, some in their traditional regalia. In talking with other Natives from the US and Canada they kind of adopted us into their groups. There were groups of 80 here, 20 here, and 8 here from different reservations and there was just two of us, as far as I knew. So they said to just go by them once we got inside the gate," Metoxen said.

The amount of Native Americans from all corners of Indian country that gathered at the Vatican stunned the Metoxens. The large turnout put their concerns to rest and let them know that making the trip was a great opportunity to represent the Oneida Tribe.

"I was just surprised by the Native presence at the Vatican because while we were here (in Oneida) I didn't here the hoopla. But when we got to Rome there were Natives all over talking about the canonization and that they were going to be in their traditional regalia, some brought their tribal flags. I hadn't even thought of that but I wish I would have brought my traditional regalia and the Oneida flag, but I was just so focused on getting my dad and myself there that I didn't think on it," Metoxen said. "At the service there were prayers said in the native language of all seven of those being canonized. For Saint Kateri a Mohawk woman read a prayer in the Mohawk language and it filled me with pride to hear an Iroquois language being spoken at the Vatican in Rome, Italy, " added Metoxen.

Photos submitted by Kirby Metoxen

Right: Pope Benedict XVI rides in a vehicle and passes close to where the Metoxens were seated.

When the service had concluded and thousands of people worked their way out of St. Peter's Square, Kirby and Russell met another father and son from a Canadian tribe. The father and son seemed to reflect what the Metoxens were feeling at that time; despite what they just witnessed being historically significant, the memorable part of the trip was experiencing it together.

"The highlight of the trip for me was to have traveled with my dad to that place for that historical event. The light I saw in him while being at that caliber of an event was well worth it," Metoxen said.

Oneida Conservation Officers undergo rigorous training

The fall season is upon us and the hunting activities are in full swing with the opening of the hunting seasons. Everything from small game and turkey season are under way, along with waterfowl and archery season for deer. During these seasons the Conservation Officers patrol the Oneida Tribe's lands and have numerous contacts with sportsmen participating in hunting activities. These contacts can result in dangerous situations that could include illegal weapons, drugs, or other contraband.

To help ensure the Conservation Officer's safety during a high risk contact, many training techniques are implemented to improve the Conservation Officer's skills and abilities. To dealing with high stress situations, one of the primary training regiments deals with the firearms assigned to the Conservation Officers. Each Conservation Officer is required to qualify with their duty weapons bi-annually, to ensure that each Conservation Officer is certified and proficient with their weapon.

In October of 2012 the Conservation Officers attended firearms qualification with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USF&WS) to complete their training. The Conservation Officers received certification with their sidearm, shotgun and AR-15 rifles. The Conservation Officers completed time trials with each of these weapons, along with critical scoring certification to ensure accuracy. During the certification trials the Conservation Officers were also monitored and trained on proper techniques to deal with weapon malfunctions, ammunition failures, as well as speed loading techniques and proper trigger manipulation. The Conservation Officers also had the opportunity to participate in low light shooting situations to provide a different perspective and experience less than ideal shooting situations.

The firearms qualification and certification are requirements that the Conservation Officers need to maintain bi-annually. This training also promotes efficiency with the equipment assigned to the Officers. One can hope that there never comes a time that the Conservation Officers need to utilize these weapons in the line of duty, however; in the circumstance that a weapon needs to be employed to handle a situation, the Conservation Officers want to ensure that they are properly trained in the best use practices.

Wis. DNR urges hunters to donate venison

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is urging hunters to donate venison to feed the hungry.

In the past 12 years, hunters have donated 80,000 deer that were processed into more than 3.6 million pounds of ground venison. It was distributed to food pantries across the state.

Brad Koele, the DNR's wildlife biologist coordinating the venison program, says the hunters, meat processors and volunteers have been incredibly generous but they need help again this year with donations.

The bow season started Sept. 15, the gun season starts Nov. 17 and the muzzleloader season starts Nov. 26.

A list of participating meat processors and instructors for donating are available on the DNR's website.

Oneida fall sports season kicks off

The fall season is upon us and that means Oneida Sportsmen take to the fields to harvest deer, turkeys, and other small game/waterfowl species. As of October 31, 2012 the Oneida Conservation Department (OCD) has issued a total of 617 Oneida Sportsman License. Oneida Sportsmen have registered a total of forty (40) deer during the archery season, twenty-three (23) bucks and seventeen (17) antlerless.

Jeremy Wheelock harvested an 8 point buck in September, 2012, with a dressed weight of 168 lbs.

Tim Skenandore harvested a 9 point buck in October, 2012, with a dressed weight of 170 lbs.

With all the Oneida Sportsmen gearing up for the fall hunt, questions arise about bag limits, hunting regulation changes, and open or closed seasons. One season has drawn a considerable amount of attention and concern, which is the Wisconsin Wolf season. As we look at the history of the relatively short period of protection to the wolf and the steps that lead to the proposed season, there is a definite need to evaluate the Oneida Tribe's role for additional protection.

After over 30 years of endangered species protection, the wolf was delisted from the Endangered Species list on January 27, 2012.The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USF&WS) made the announcement regarding the updated status of the wolf in the Great Lakes region. With the decision of the USF&WS, Wisconsin State Legislation passed Bill 411 into act 169, allowing for the harvest of wolves in the State of Wisconsin. Wisconsin Sportsman had been granted the opportunity to apply for a harvest permit to hunt and trap wolves throughout the state of Wisconsin.

The Oneida Tribe is committed to the continued protection, population growth, and development of suitable habitat for the wolf and all surrounding wildlife. As the efforts are made to improve our environment, there come changes to the views and interactions between people and the species of the natural world. The OCD would like to ensure the membership, that the wolf has been and will always be a sacred animal to the Oneida people. The OCD shall not establish a season for harvesting wolves within the exterior boundaries of the Oneida reservation at this time.

The OCD has received reports of wolves on the reservation and in an attempt to capture photos of the elusive animals, these other predators were captured on camera.

News from the Community Education Center

By Connie Danforth
Office Manager

The start of Fiscal Year 2013 has seen the Oneida Nation Community Education Center roll out a wide array of changes and improvements to its facility and services. Over 60 computers have been upgraded to the latest technology, which means visitors to the CEC now have access to brand new computers with the latest Windows 7 operating system and Microsoft Office 2010 software. Computer class offerings have also been upgraded to reflect the new computers. The Computer for Beginners class has been completely updated, and a new Windows 7 class has been added to the schedule. Other software, including QuickBooks 2012 Accounting software and Adobe Photoshop photo editing software, has also been upgraded, and classes redesigned accordingly. The updated QuickBooks 2012 class will be offered November 7, 8, 14, & 15, 2012, and updated Adobe Photoshop will be offered in December.

The CEC has gone wireless!

Wireless internet is now available to visitors who want to access the internet from their tablets, smartphones or laptops. After a CEC staff member logs in their device, a visitor can enjoy wireless internet access from anywhere in the building. The new wireless internet also enables the CEC to offer tablet and e-reader classes.

The new "Which Tablet is Best for You" workshop offers hands-on experience with an iPad, Nook Tablet, and Kindle Fire, along with expert advice to determine which tablet or e-reader best meets individual needs. More new classes on how to use these devices will be added in the near future.

Math and Spelling Refresher Workshop

Another new workshop, offered every other Monday, is the Math and Spelling Refresher Workshop. CEC staff worked closely with the Human Resources Department to develop this workshop, which gives anyone interested in applying for Tribal employment the opportunity to prepare for the pre-employment testing given by the Human Resources Department. The Refresher covers the skills needed to pass the written math and spelling tests, and offers practice tests for self-study and to determine readiness. The 10-key calculator portion of the workshop offers the opportunity to practice on the same 10-key calculator as used in the test, along with expert instruction on how to use it. Keyboard instruction and practice is also available on the computers via the Mavis Beacon Teaches Typing program. The dates of the next few upcoming Math and Spelling Refresher Workshops are November 5, November 19, December 3 and December 17, 2012. Workshops will be held from 1:00 pm until 3:00 pm each of these days, on a drop-in basis.

Customer Service class

Continuing the CEC's commitment to helping community members develop employability skills, and beginning a new partnership with Northeast Wisconsin Technical College, an NWTC Customer Service class is currently being offered at the CEC. The class runs Tuesdays through November 27, 2012, and will provide essential job skills to Tribal members and Tribal employees alike. Future classes offered in partnership with NWTC include Medical Terminology, Healthcare Delivery Systems, Introduction to Health Records, Health Data Management, and CPR/First Aid.

TrANS program

Another successful collaboration occurred recently between the Oneida Human Resources Department, the College of Menominee Nation and the Wisconsin Department of Transportation on a successful TrANS program. TrANS, (stands for Transportation Alliance for New Solutions) is a public-private model to prepare the underemployed with skills needed for skilled jobs in the construction industry. The TrANS program was held at the CEC, with teachers provided by the other partners. In May, 2012, the program graduated 10 people who immediately began work with the Oneida Housing Authority and who are all still employed. The CEC hopes to provide more opportunities of this kind to address the needs of Oneida Tribal members to prepare for skilled employment.

G.E.D.

The Community Education Center has helped many to earn their G.E.D. certificates, and will continue to assist with preparation for this high school equivalency test. But while the CEC's commitment to G.E.D. preparation has never wavered, the G.E.D. itself will soon be changing, and the CEC's services will be updated accordingly. The new test will include extended Math concepts, including Trigonometry. All tests will include short answer and sorting, instead of just multiple choice answers. The essay portion will remain, and the whole test will be computerized. The new format of the G.E.D. test is expected to take effect in January, 2014. For students who are still in High School, but need to make up credits in order to graduate on time, the CEC will also continue to offer PASS units for enrolled Oneida students at no charge.

CEC Bus Trip

Just for fun, November 10, 2012 marked the first CEC Bus Trip! A coach bus took thirty-six individuals to Chicago for the day – first to Navy Pier, then to Michigan Avenue for shopping, and finally returning to the CEC by midnight. The CEC is planning many other bus trips open to enrolled Tribal members, Tribal employees and their families. Bus trips to a Milwaukee Brewers baseball game, shopping at Mall of America, and a day at Great America are all being planned for 2013.

Parent Learning Lab closed

Although the CEC has always been an adult-oriented education center, it was with regret that on October 1, 2012, the CEC closed the Parent Learning Lab until future notice. The CEC can no longer accommodate children under the age of twelve, unless they are participating in a class or program for their age group. In spite of the inconvenience to some parents, this change is anticipated to improve the experience for most CEC visitors.

Early Intervention Program

By Carla Witkowski
Supervisor;
Ana Balbuena
Disability Coordinator

Oneida Early Intervention recognizes the early childhood years are the building blocks for a lifetime of learning. The program is committed to children with developmental delays and disabilities under age six and their families. We value the family's primary relationship with their child and work in partnership with those families and other Birth to Six providers to support knowledge, training, skills and advocacy that will nurture their child and empower families.

The Gathering

Our Birth to Six Program this month would like to introduce you to a great training and an upcoming Child Find opportunity for all community children.

"The Gathering," a child development day for all children birth to three was held November 9, 2012 at the Social Services Community Room. It was a great opportunity for parents to get their children screened for developmental progress and to learn about other services for children that the Oneida community has to offer. This is a collaborative event with Head Start/Early Head Start, Oneida Community Health Center, and Child Care Services.

Early identification of a delay is the key to being proactive in meeting the needs of children and future school success.

Lunch and Learn

This year Oneida Early Intervention started monthly Lunch and Learn trainings. These events are held every second Tuesday of the month from 12:10pm – 12:50pm. Box lunches are served and it is limited to 12 participants. Registration is required. We are pleased with the participation thus far and invite your input for further trainings. Topics will be announced monthly. Register by calling 920-490-3893.

High School College Fair

The 2012 High School College Fair was held on October 18, 2012 at the Radisson and it was a wonderful success! There were approximately 160 students that participated from area high schools and included 28 college representatives, Armed Forces and the Wisconsin College Access representative.

This year's co-sponsor was Lawrence University of Appleton. Their financial support was a great help in making this event possible. Other recognition includes the Oneida Planning Department staff for their personal involvement. They were instrumental in providing student raffle items and being visible to high school students. Other thanks go out to the Youth Education Service (Y.E.S.) staff and Oneida Transit and Casino Shuttle in coordinating the student's attendance. The High School College Fair is an annual event and this year's event was coordinated by Sherry King, Oneida Higher Education Advisor.

Future events include a spring "Adult College Fair" May 13, 2012 at the Radisson which will provide area colleges and universities that may be of interest to the working/adult population. The office will also be providing community Financial Aid Workshops this coming spring.

Anthony Cornelius: ONHS Graduate

By Diego Metoxen
THT Times

Anthony Allen Cornelius is an alumnus of Oneida Nation High School. He is currently attending Silver Lake College in Manitowoc, WI. Cornelius is studying to become an athletic trainer. He is an enrolled member of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

About being an enrolled Oneida tribal member, Cornelius said, "I don't know that much of the Oneida language. I can't even say I know the basics because the language and culture is so complex."

On the weekends, Anthony comes back to Oneida and works in landscaping. On weekdays, he resides in the dorms at Silver Lake College. Cornelius has a big family consisting of 7 sisters and 4 brothers.

As far as personal interests, Cornelius listens to rap and R&B. His favorite musical artists are Drake, Lil Wayne, and Frank Ocean.

"I just like their style of music," said Cornelius.

His favorite colors are read and purple. He likes red because he always just liked it. He likes the color purple because it's Oneida's colors. Cornelius' favorite food is chicken wings because they are delicious. His favorite TV shows are Pawn Stars and American Pickers because his brother got him hooked on them. His favorite movie is Dark Night Rises because he has always been a Batman fan. His dream vacation is to go to Florida and just spend money.

Anthony Cornelius

His favorite sports teams are the Green Bay Packers and the Miami Heat. Cornelius claims that he has always been a Packer fan, and he likes the Heat because of LeBron. Predictably, Cornelius' heroes happen to be Brett Favre and LeBron James.

"Those dudes are legends," he said.

Cornelius' plans for the future are to play four years of collegiate basketball and then play basketball overseas. His dream job is to be a professional basketball player.

Cornelius has some words of advice for ONHS students. "Focus on school now, pay attention, and make friends. It will take you a long way. The less resources you have, the less doors are open for you."

He added, "Do everything you do for a purpose. Don't let what you can't control stop you from doing what you do. Just be you."

ONHS Student Leader Choices

By Heather Stevens
THT Times

As the Senior Class President and Vice President of Oneida High School's Student Council, I have to help make decisions that not only affect our class but the entire school as well. All of the decisions regarding the homecoming week's events were made by the Student Council. It's hard to come to an equitable decision on activities and events when we all have different ideas of how the events should be handled.

While making these decisions, we continuously debated on whether everyone was going to enjoy themselves. Each student representative in Student Council was elected by his or her classmates. After the Student Council members from each class were chosen, the entire school elected the Student Council leaders.

It is a simple human fact that not every single person will enjoy every single planned activity or event. When this happens, eventually the unhappy students will criticize, belittle, and flat out complain about our choices. This makes it even harder for the Student Council to decide on which activities to plan for, promote, and organize. We brainstorm and discuss whether or not to have a homecoming dance, a Lock-In, a Pep-rally, or a bonfire.

Heather Stevens

Not only does the Student Council think of the student's enjoyment, but we also have to consider the budget we are given and the enjoyment of the community members that are also invited. In other words, we have to weigh which of the activities the students will enjoy, the community will enjoy, and which activities we can afford.

My goal is to make this one of the best school years Oneida High School has ever seen and the most successful one as well.

Student of the Month: Jessica House

By Heather Stevens
THT Times

Jessica House is a 17 year-old senior at Oneida Nation High School. She's been attending Oneida since her sophomore year. Before ONHS, she attended West DePere Middle School for 6th grade and was homeschooled for the rest of the years.

While she's still in high school, Jessica has set some realistic goals for herself.

"I want to learn to read better and earn A's in all of my classes," said House. "I'm an okay reader, but I want to get better. I will feel that I have accomplished something amazing if I can ace my classes and learn to read better at the same time."

"Reading is incorporated into all of our classes at the high school," said House, "and that's why I want to be a better reader. When I go to college, I know that the professors are going to make us read a lot and I want to be ready."

Her plans after graduation are to attend college and major in Elementary Education. Jessica hopes to come back and teach future students of the Oneida Nation School System.

"I love working with kids, and I want to be successful at something. Becoming a teacher would be great."

Jessica's current role model is her mother, Toni House. "My mom always knows what to say, grows from her mistakes, and is strong minded. She taught me to be the person that I want to be instead of who other people want me to be, and I try to follow her advice every day."

Thanksgiving information

By Hector Miranda
THT Times

Thanksgiving is observed on November 22 this year, and it is also a time to give thanks. The first Thanksgiving was celebrated in 1621. The Thanksgiving meal often includes turkey, stuffing, potatoes, cranberry sauce, gravy, pumpkin pie, and vegetables.

Thanksgiving is the day that Pilgrims met helpful Indians who gave them food, farming techniques, and other strategies to overcome the harsh New England cold. This day should not to be confused with Native American Day. Native American day is observed annually on the fourth Friday in September, not at the end of November.

The United American Indians of New England established Thanksgiving as its National Day of Mourning in 1970. Long before settlers came to the East Coast of the United States, the area was already inhabited by many Native American tribes.

What to do when the OCHC is closed

Have you ever wondered what the difference is when the On call nurse tells you to go to Urgent Care or sends you to the Emergency room? Many people have asked the same questions! We hope this short description may help you make a more informed, cost effective decision the next time you get sick and want to avoid going to the emergency room or are unable to get an appointment through the Oneida Community Health Center. If you are unsure whether you need to seek medical attention at any of the services, contact your primary provider or the On-call staff after hours.

There are two types of services available for after hour care located outside the Oneida Community Health Center that you may want to save and hang on your refrigerator or other convenient places in your home for quick reference:

Urgent Care
Mid-Range Cost
- Urgent care centers are more cost effective than emergency room visits.
- The waiting time is usually much shorter than an emergency room.
- The Oneida Community Health Center currently utilizes Prevea Urgent Care Centers.
- Urgent Care Centers handle conditions that require immediate attention and medical situations that may cause serious problems or discomforts if treatment is delayed.
- Some examples of conditions that require urgent care are:

1. Ear infections
2. Sprains
3. Vomiting
4. High fever

- You must receive prior approval from the on-call nurse before going to any urgent care center. The After Hours phone number (920) 869-2711.

Emergency Rooms
High Cost
- Emergency rooms are equipped to handle life-threatening injuries and illnesses and other serious medical conditions. An emergency is a condition that may cause loss of life or permanent or severe disability if not treated.
- You should call 911 or go directly to the nearest emergency room if you experience any of the following:

Chest pain
Seizures
Inability to swallow
Serious burns, cuts or infections
Uncontrolable bleeding
Shortness of breath
Broken Bones
Paralysis
Severe abdominal pain following an injury
Poisoning or suspected poisoning
Confusion or loss of consciousness - especially after a head injury.

ATTENTION

Controlled Substances WILL NOT be Covered at CVS Pharmacy

Prescription drug abuse has become the Nation's fastest growing drug problem. For those who abuse, we have taken action to prevent addiction and potentially, even death. In our Controlled Substance policy, we are striking a balance between reducing abuse of prescription drugs/controlled substances, and ensuring access for legitimate use.

The Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) does not prescribe or approve controlled substances after regular business hours.

1. No narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be (paid for) after-hours at CVS Pharmacy.
2. CVS is our "after-hours" approved pharmacy (located on Mason & Military in Green Bay).
3. The patient may choose to:
   a) Fill the prescription at any pharmacy and pay for the medication on their own.
   b) Fill a minimum quantity and pay for the medication on their own.
   c) Ask the Emergency Room Physician for a sample pack of the meds, because the prescription will not be paid for by OCHC.
   d) May choose to wait and fill the entire prescription at OCHC, during regular business hours, or
   e) Present their insurance card and pay the appropriate co-pay.
4. All reimbursement requests for narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be determined by CHS during regular business hours.

NOTE: The Registered Nurse On-Call does not make this determination.

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility

Did You Know?

Submitted by Michael Overman
Governmental Services Division

This week the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin and the United States of America recognized a very important and meaningful date. It is a national, state and tribally observed holiday…Veterans Day. This day falls on November 11 and was officially named "Veterans Day" June 1, 1954 as a way for the United States to honor all military veterans. Why does it fall on the 11th? In 1919 when Veterans Day was actually known as Armistice Day, Germany signed the armistice that slowed the hostiles of WWI in the 11th month (November), on the 11th day during the 11th hour.

The federal government has programs in place to help American Veterans cope with issues they may carry with them due to their experiences during past and present military conflicts. Currently there are around 24 million living veterans. The Governmental Services Division (GSD) also provides services to military veterans right here in our community. This help is provided by the Veterans Services department which falls under GSD. They are here to help any veteran in our community have the opportunity for a better life.

The mission of the Veterans Services Department is "To Provide Quality Services and Assistance in the Delivery of Entitlements and Benefits Due our Oneida Veterans". They provide assistance with obtaining information on Federal benefit programs, benefits for survivors and dependents and State programs. These include but are not limited to disability compensation, individual employability, non-service connected pensions, vocational rehab, burial benefits, headstones and markers. Other assistance is also provided when dealing with the WDVA (Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs).

Did U Know that right here in our community over 800 individual veterans in FY2012 were provided assistance and direction in obtaining or learning about the benefits they could receive at a federal, state or local level? These benefits and services addressed physical, mental and economic needs for the veteran and his/her family members where qualified.

If you or someone you know is a Veteran that needs information that will improve their Quality of Life, help is readily available by calling (920)490-3988 or stopping in at 1240 Packerland Dr. Cottage#2. Remember, if it were not for our veterans and active military personnel, all of our lives would be much different; and not necessarily for the better!

Did U Know that the personnel employed in the Veterans Services office here in Oneida are accredited by the National Association County Veterans Service Officers, Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs and the Military Order of the Purple Heart(MOPH) and they approve the contents of this article?

Meet the Candidates for the Outagamie County FSA Committee election

Appleton, WI, November 13, 2012 – The Farm Service Agency (FSA) office in Outagamie County is currently holding an election for a position on the local County Committee to represent producers in Outagamie, according to Vicki Wiese, director of the FSA office in Outagamie. The FSA county committee system, established in the 1930s, gives local farmers a say in how farm programs are administered at the grassroots level.

In early November, ballots were sent to all eligible voters (landowners and operators) in Center, Freedom, Kaukauna, Oneida, Osborne and Seymour townships to elect an active producer from Outagamie County to serve a three year term on the local FSA County Committee starting January 1, 2012.

"We have two active producers from the Local Administrative Area #2 area on the ballot - - Mike Van Asten (current member) and Pat Cornelius," Wiese said.

For more details on County Committee system or the election process, call the Outagamie FSA office at 920-733-1575.

Postal Service Offers Holiday Shipping Tips

Oneida, WI — With less than 60 shipping days left until Christmas, the Postal Service is offering shipping tips to help customers make sure their holiday gifts reach their destinations in time.

"The Postal Service expects to deliver close to 18 billion cards, letters and packages between Thanksgiving and News Year's Eve," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "That's a lot of mail and we want to help our customers by making their shipping easy during this holiday season."

The following tips will help customers when shipping packages:

- There are special conditions and restrictions when mailing toys and other electronic devices containing batteries. Please consult the local Post Office for more information about shipping batteries domestically or internationally.
- Place a card inside the package that contains both the delivery and return addresses. This ensures the safe return of an item that could not be delivered should the mailing label become damaged or fall off.
- Include both "to" and "from" information on packages – and only on one side.
- Always use a return address.
- Select a box that is strong enough to protect the contents, like one of the Postal Service Flat-Rate boxes in small, medium and large sizes.
- Avoid reusing mailing boxes as they can weaken during the shipping process.
- Stuff glass, fragile and hollow items with newspaper or packing material to avoid damage.
- When mailing framed photographs, take the glass out of the frame and wrap it separately.

To save time, customers can also order free boxes online by visiting the Postal Store at www.usps.com/shop by December 3rd and use Free Package Pickup.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

National Register Evaluation of CCC Buildings

The stone shelter (Two Fire Places) that is located in the Falling leaves subdivision (Site II) has been evaluated by the National Park Service for listing on the National Register of Historic Places. It has been determined that this shelter/building appear to meet eligibility requirements, as does this type of structure through other public places and it does resemble other public works era building construction. When it was examined individually it is related to a broader historic context that includes the development and use of the entire park. It has been determined that more information of the past use and future use of this shelter needs to be documented and submitted to the National Park Service.

I am asking for the community's help regarding the use of past and present, it is already determined that the use throughout the potential period of significance (circa 1940 to circa 1961) was to put people to work. However what our community needs to do is to document the intended purpose for use to our community and would it be appropriate place to include in our Parks and Recreation Master Plan for use?

I would like to interview anyone who would have any information on the past use and your ideas on the future use of this building. Please contact Corina Mrozinski at Cultural Heritage to set up interviews at 920 496-5386.

General Tribal Council meets to hear petitions

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Over 2000 General Tribal Council (GTC) members worked through a petition packed agenda during a special GTC meeting on Monday, November 19 at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center.

After receiving a brief update on a planned trip to meet with leaders of the New York Oneida to repair a strained relationship between the New York Oneida and Wisconsin Oneida the GTC moved towards six petitions.

Petition 1 – Dismiss Fines Levied by the Oneida Appeals Commission

Petitioner Yvonne Metivier asked the GTC to dismiss fines in the amount of $2,300 and reimburse $1,200 already garnished from her per capita by the Oneida Appeals Commission.

Metivier claims the Appeals Commission broke their own code of conduct by allowing a commissioner who had a conflict with Metivier to sit on her case within the Appeals Commission. By her claim the Appeals Commission ruling should be overturned.

The GTC disagreed by voting down her request.

Petition 2 – Off Reservation GTC Meeting Sites

During a February Oneida Business Committee (OBC) meeting action was taken to hold a GTC meeting outside of the tribe's reservation boundaries at Shopko Hall in Ashwaubenon. After a petition was filed looking to hold all future GTC meetings within the reservation the OBC rescinded their decision.

The GTC moved to hold all future meetings within the reservation boundaries and also directed the OBC to hold community meetings over the next 90 days to address GTC meeting overcrowding.

Petition 3 – Revised GTC Meeting Stipend Program

A plan that would eliminate per capita for some tribal members and pay larger amounts for GTC meeting attendance was voted down. The plan called for six bi-monthly meetings with GTC members 21 – 61 receiving $400 for each meeting attended. Elders and minors would still receive their annual per capita while elders would also receive the increased meeting stipend.

The petitioner claimed the tribe would save over $6 million by adopting his plan.

The GTC, citing fairness to all tribal members who are unable to attend GTC meetings, voted down the plan.

Petition 4 - Improve Effectiveness of Grievance Process at Childcare Centers

After an incident at the Oneida Childcare Center lead to an investigation by the OBC, GTC members asked to review, amend, and implement a new parent communications and grievance process for the Oneida Childcare Department.

The updated process will require responses in writing regarding incidents, the formation of the Oneida Childcare

After the death of 28 buffalo at the Oneida Nation Farm spirits were lifted by the arrival of 28 buffalo that joined the herd on November 16 and 17.

The buffalo died after the water supply to the herd was turned off over the Labor Day weekend and farm employees did not check on the animals.

According to the Retail Area Manager, Michele Doxtator, the animals were insured.

"We did not receive a specific amount for each, we received $59,690 for the total. The replacement cost was $62,190, there was a $2,500 deductible," she said.

The buffalo, which died of dehydration, were not salvageable.

"All of the buffalo that died over Labor Day weekend were cremated, the first 18 discovered were in different stages of decomposition and were not usable. The 10 that died over the next several days were not edible according to the vet and their hide was not usable because of the way they died," Doxtator said.

According to Doxtator, policies and procedures are in place that calls for frequent check ups on the animals but were loosely followed. Two staff at the farm received disciplinary actions.

"Today I am confident that the buffalo are checked on daily by the farm employees. We have also placed a lock on the water source and are looking at our options to secure the water in the spring," she added.

It is still not known if the water supply was turned off intentionally or on accident.

Doxtator felt many emotions as she watched the new buffalo join the herd.

"I felt mostly sad for the animals that died. At the same time the experience was pretty awesome to see the buffalo come out of the trailer and then run over to the others, like they were meant to be together," she said.

From 1A/Special GTC meeting

Parent Advisory Group, quarterly reporting of incidents to the Division Director, all unethical behavior documented immediately and reported to the parent, and the implementation of a level severity matrix to determine the best course for action towards childcare staff.

The GTC passed the request.

Petition 5 – Decrease rent for Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Tenants

A petition was brought forward to reduce rent for tenants of the OHA by reducing 30 percent rates to 20 percent and 20 percent to 13 percent.

The GTC voted down the request with a simple hand vote.

Petition 6 – Return Control of Poplar Lane to the Town of Oneida

Petitioner Nancy Dallas requested the control and maintenance of Poplar Lane in the Town of Oneida be returned to the town. Dallas started the complaint process in September of 2010.

"The road should be returned to the Township of Oneida because the tribe has demonstrated that it is not capable of maintaining this road and has place(d) the safety of elders and children at risk for the past few years," said Dallas in a letter to the GTC.

Chairman Ed Delgado disagreed with petitioner's request.

"This tribe has 65,000 acres. I would hope we never return one inch of it to a non-Oneida," said Chairman Ed Delgado

The GTC agreed with Delgado and rejected the petition.

Cuney-Farrell, Mary Pat
November 10, 1947 – November 14, 2012

Mary Pat Cuney-Farrell, 65, of Green Bay, passed away on November 14, 2012. She was born on November 10, 1947 in Rapid City, SD to the late Charles and Hazel (McGaa) Cuney. On March 19, 1994 she married Joe Farrell in Oneida, WI. Mary Pat spent her whole life in education working at UW-Stevens Point, UW-Oshkosh, and St. Norbert College. Her most fulfilling job was establishing the Oneida Career Center.

Survivors include her husband, Joe; son, Michael (special friend Stacy) Provost; four grandchildren, Marques, Tamarra, Elijah, and Jonathon.

She was preceded in death by her parents, and twin brother, William.

A private memorial service will be held at a later date.

The creator called one of her most precious children back into her arms. Mary Pat spent her whole life helping people realize their potential through fostering personal development mainly through education, but also by the care she showed for them. Even when in positions of leadership what motivated her was helping others grow and not any desire for power or acclaim. The world is a better place for her having been among us.

Special thank you to the nurses and aides of Green Bay Oncology and Unity Hospice, as well as Dr. Groteluschen and Dr. Leenstra.

Department of Land Management Report

Overview: In coordination with the goals and objectives of the "Seven Generations philosophy," it is the intent of the Division of Land Management to re-establish tribal jurisdiction of the lands within the 1838 Oneida Indian Reservation boundaries of Wisconsin and to preserve, maintain and distribute such land according to the needs of our General Tribal Council. The Division is designed to be self-supporting by generating revenues through leases, with any extra funds going directly to the Land Acquisition fund.

Land Management Department

The Property Management Department (PMD) oversees and provides services to over 693 Oneida Community families. PMD currently maintains 73 rental units, 599 residential leases which include cancellations, new leases, 2 NEW families into HBO sties, trailer court lots, standard assignments and 155 commercial and acquiring new and amending agriculture leases. Property Management staff members: Diane Wilson, Property Manager; Michelle Hill, Residential Leasing Specialist; and Sheila Huff, Commercial Leasing Specialist.

PMD works hard at keeping 95% occupancy at all times.

We are currently advertising vacant trailer court lots, HBO sites and taking rental applications. See our website for up to date information. http://www.oneidanation.org/land/ or send email requests to Land_Mgmt@oneidanation.org.

Maintenance Department:

The Maintenance Department maintains and provides a safe and healthy environment to 73 rentals on a daily basis. They also work diligently to address all work orders which arise concerning units and lands of the tribe, and works closely with other divisions of the tribe to coordinate information regarding demo sites and other projects concerning our lands.

We are proud to say that we have completed maintenance for the FY 2012, including 5 demolitions projects including: 5 DREAM homes, which were prepared for re-sale and processed over 400 daily work orders. They also received Builder's Opportunity Certification and lead based paint training. Maintenance Department Staff includes: Kurt Jordan, Maintenance Supervisor, David Danforth, Plumber (restricted), Alvin Summers and Marvin Jordan, Maintenance Tech's.

Land Title & Trust Department:

Land Title & Trust Department is devoted to promoting self-governance through documenting, recording and maintaining official transactions relating to land. This includes research, title reports, corrections, recordation, and submission of documents to the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

LT&T has met with over 52 tribal members this year. They assist with the following process: trust to trust transfers, Register of Deeds, preparing wills and filing them, Title Reports, recording documents in Brown and Outagamie County, verifying gas tax applications and utility addresses, entering data into AS/400 and rescanning and indexing information when needed. They also work consistently on requests and working with the BIA for accurate title status reports, and legal description and keep the Individual Trust spreadsheet and files updated manually and electronically. They also assist with probates and the process.

Land Title & Trust Department Staff Includes: Carla Clark, Land Title & Trust Manager, Tina Figueroa, LTT Specialist (Probates), Sandra Wondra, LTT Specialist (Title Examiner) and Faith Metoxen, LTT Specialist (Tribal Register of Deeds).

Several Land Management Department staff members were certified in TAAMS (Trust Asset and Accounting Management System) an electronic program this past year created by the BIA to assist with questions and concerns regarding trust title ownership, encumbrance, and other land record updates through a centralized bureau- wide system.

By the way, my name is Eleanora Smith, Land Management Area Manager. I have worked with the Oneida Tribe for quite some time. I find it a privilege to again be involved working with such a group of unique people that have special skills, abilities and knowledge. But most of all have the community and use of the land in their heart for future generations. The above information is the accomplishments for last year; let's make the next one even better.

Realty Specialist Coordinator (Fee to Trust):

The Realty Specialist Coordinator (fee to trust), is responsible for the submission and completion of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin's fee to trust applications. In the beginning of the Fee to Trust Consortium in 2005, there were 250 applications submitted to the Bureau of Indian Affairs in 2006. Since then, the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin has successfully completed 102 applications equaling more than 4,700 acres. Along the way there have been challenges in completing applications due to political concerns and changes to the Bureau's department manual. With those challenges our Tribe has found ways to continue to put land into trust to expand jurisdictional control within the original 1838 Reservation Boundaries.

Finance and Records Area Prepares and monitors monthly and yearly budgets and reviews the annual property tax statements and process payments. They also develop departmental goals and objectives and ensure compliance through-out the department. The Finance Accounts and Records Manager oversee and supervise Administrative Support, File Room and the Finance Departments. Part of their daily duties is to analyze financial data in operations, capital, property taxes, loans, and lease revenues. As well as, advise division personnel on current fiscal procedures.

The Finance area is happy to announce that Land Management has expanded our loan programs and lowered the fixed interest rate. As always, we take applications for our loan programs on a first come, first served basis, based on available funding. BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Titletown Flooring, LLC successful in first year

Titletown Flooring takes pride in being an all Native business

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Titletown Flooring, LLC, a new flooring business that has seen success in Green Bay, takes pride in being a Native-owned business. The flooring business also makes a conscious effort to employ a crew of local Native workers.

Business owner KJ Schreiber, who is from the Brothertown Tribe of Indians, has worked in the flooring business for 25 years.

"I am originally from Shawano and worked in flooring for 25 years. Eventually I made my way into Green Bay because this were the business was taking me. So after doing some work in the area I decided to open my own business," Schreiber said.

Having worked in the business for over two decades Schreiber had the expertise and experience but needed a crew to work for Titletown Flooring. For that he recruited a nearly all-Native team.

"What we are trying to do is employ as many Native workers as we can. Right now we have an almost all-Native crew working for us. There is only one guy working that isn't Native. There are three full-time guys from Oneida, another from Ho-Chunk, myself, and one other guy from Keshena," said Schreiber.

Operating the business with that exceptional crew has opened doors for Titletown to do work for not only Oneida, but also tribes all over Wisconsin.

"We work with a lot of tribes, from Potawatomi, up in Crandon, to Oneida Housing Authority. It is very rare to have an all-Native flooring crew that is able to sell you the product and make sure the whole job goes smooth from beginning to end," Schreiber said.

Titletown Flooring specializes in all sorts of flooring. Projects such as a commercial or residential area, a complex custom tile project or just installing a new carpet, Titletown can complete the task.

With their one-year anniversary coming up in January, Schreiber expressed his desire to give back to Native customers.

16th Annual World Wide candle lighting service

Submitted by Julie Denny
Oneida Chapter Leader-Compassionate Friends

Oneida Chapter #2338 of Compassionate Friends is once again participating in the World Wide Candle Lighting service on Sunday, December 9th at 5:15 pm at Oneida Parish Hall, located at 2937 Freedom Rd, Oneida WI (across from Holy Apostles Church).

The Compassionate Friends (TCF) is the nation's largest self-help bereavement organization for families whom have suffered the tragic loss of a child. TCF has more than 650 chapters in the United States, with sister organizations in at least 30 countries around the globe.

The mission of The Compassionate Friends is: When a child dies, at any age, the family suffers intense pain and may feel hopeless and isolated. The Compassionate Friends provides personal comfort, hope, and support to families experiencing the death of a son or a daughter and assists them, so they don't feel they need to travel this journey alone.

The Worldwide Candle Lighting is one way we try to bring light out of darkness during this difficult time of the year. Like a ring, this circle of light represents there is no beginning and no end for the love we carry for our children who have gone into Creator's land before us.

The Worldwide Candle Lighting is open to ALL who wish to participate, whether by attending a local public ceremony, joining in a small gathering, or lighting a candle in the quiet solitude of your own home or wherever you may be.

This year the Oneida Chapter has changed our ceremony time to begin at 5:15 pm. Please come out and support families who have suffered the loss of their beloved child(ren). It will be an evening of special music, poetry reading and inspiration to carry on. It concludes with the actual lighting of the candle being held outdoors, so please dress accordingly.

Families are welcome to bring one (1) photo of their child to place on our Remembrance Table. Also, refreshments will be served at the conclusion, feel free to bring a snack, cookies or finger food items to share. If you want your child's name read during the roll call please leave a voice message with Brenda Cornelius at 920-869-2415 or Jean Williquette at 920-469-4135. If your child's name was honored in the past, you still need to make contact and provide us with permission.

"We want to help out tribal members. For the most part tribal members don't have the extra income to spend on custom flooring. What we want to do is anyone who is a tribal member can get 10% off no matter when they visit the store."

For Schreiber providing such a discount for tribal members is the least that he could do after receiving help from Oneida and being placed on Oneida's Indian Preference list of vendors.

"Marge Stevens has been fantastic. She has helped us find work here in Oneida and we have three or four open P.O.'s currently. In Keshena they just got the okay to do an addition onto the casino, so we're going to be doing around 50,000 square feet of carpet tiles there. Oneida Land Management has been great to me as well," Schreiber said.

The most recent business development is an expansion into window treatments. The newly purchased Blind Shop was moved into the Titletown Flooring's building and has proven to be a lucrative addition to the flooring aspect of the business.

"We get a lot of business from The Blind Shop. A lot of people come in to have blinds repaired or cleaned, but we are the only business in Green Bay that will actually go to your house remove your blinds, clean them, and bring them back to your house and put them back up," Schreiber added.

Being a Native owned business, Schreiber feels it is important to utilize environmentally friendly practices and products wherever possible.

"We do as much environmentally friendly work as possible. We use mostly Shaw products because they use more green carpet products than anyone else in the world. We prefer carpet tiles because they can be removed and then Shaw will pick them up, strip the old carpet off and reuse the rubber bottoms," Schreiber explained.

Look for Titletown Flooring to become a part of the Oneida Housing Authority's training program. This will give Oneida youth the opportunity to acquire valuable training and work experience.

"Oneida has helped us a lot, but we are hiring their people and it makes a difference. So far business has been great," Schreiber said.

Titletown Flooring, LLC is located at 3350 Commodity Lane, Suite G, Green Bay, WI. They can also be contacted at (920) 347-2882 or on their website, www.titletownflooringllc.com.

Motion by Patty Hoeft to repeal the BC action to pay Tribal members a $50 Oneida gift card to participate in Tribal visioning sessions, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion carried with two opposed:
Opposed: Greg Matson, Paul Ninham
For the record: Brandon Stevens stated the committee is elected to represent GTC when they're not in session, so this is one of my beliefs is it's our duty to facilitate what the priorities are, and how we do that and present that to GTC, that's our job to bring that forward, the priorities to the GTC. The difficulty is we caught up with collecting community input, but do not put enough emphasis on what the public hearing or community input really has on our decisions. Could be a phone call late Friday afternoon, sometimes we change our minds. So I would like to get direction specifically from GTC on these matters and we present them in such a way that they can do that. So if we get 20 people who go to a meeting, we never put weight on those 20 people, we just say we got a meeting. I also think the budget, as Vice Chairman Matson stated, is kind of a cop out, because we did do a couple things outside the budget that were not defined within the budget, just this year already. So that's not a reason why I made the decision today, just making sure that we do it because we are supposed to do it. It's our civic duty as the people who represent the Tribe.
For the record: Tina Danforth stated my decision was based on cost versus initiative that I did not support an unbudgeted cost, but I do support the initiative of collecting information from community members.
Motion by Patty Hoeft to go into executive session at 10:15 a.m., seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion carried unanimously:
Motion by Patty Hoeft to recess at 12:06 p.m. until 1:30 p.m., seconded by Paul Ninham. Motion carried unanimously

Public Hearing Notices
11:30am • Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

December 6, 2012
Purpose:
Adoption of the General Tribal Council Meetings Law
The General Tribal Council Meetings Law (Law) creates a schedule of General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting dates; sets a general agenda for those meetings; outlines the petition process; sets standards of conduct for meeting attendees; and outlines the duties of those who help prepare for and assist with GTC meetings. The Law requires that at least four GTC meetings be held each year (annual, semi-annual, and 2 special meetings). In addition to these four meetings, a budget meeting is also required to be held as necessary. Additional GTC meetings can be called in accordance with the Constitution – by the Tribal Chairman or through petition. The Law limits GTC meeting attendees to those individuals who are: (1) enrolled Tribal members who are eligible to vote or (2) non-enrolled individuals who have a business-related need to attend the meeting and are approved by GTC.
The Law outlines a general agenda for GTC meetings and also sets out how a petition is processed. The process includes analyses of the petition being conducted, deadlines for when a petition must be presented to the GTC and required communication between the petitioner and the Tribal Secretary's Office. A petition received at least sixty days before a GTC meeting will be placed on the upcoming GTC meeting agenda; the petition must be considered by GTC within six months after it is submitted. GTC meeting attendees are required to be respectful and of others, be free from the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs, and remain in compliance with Tribal law – anyone violating these provisions may be removed from a GTC meeting.

December 6, 2012
Purpose:
Adoption of the Public Use Land Law
The Public Use of Tribal Land Law (Law) was developed to prevent the improper access, use and trespass to Tribal lands. Under the Law, the Environmental Resource Board would be responsible for adopting a Land Access Map which will clearly define whether Tribal land is:
- open to all persons
- limited to those persons who have a lease or permit to use the land; or
- limited to Tribal members, their spouses and descendants; members of other federally recognized tribes; authorized employees of the Tribe; or individuals who are accompanied by a Tribal member.

In addition, the Environmental Resource Board would hold public hearings before amending the Land Access Map. This public hearing process is similar to the process used by the Land Commission to rezone property or amend district boundary lines under the Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law. The Law also defines trespass by describing activities that are a violation of the Law. Violators of the Law will be subject to a fine and the Environmental Resource Board will conduct hearings for anyone who choose to contest a fine issued under the Law.

December 6, 2012
Purpose:
Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy
The purpose of the amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy is to regulate the hiring of persons to complete work in order to minimize the costs of independent contractors. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:
- Authorizing, and identifying specific situations where a Tribal employee or a business owned by a Tribal employee may be utilized by the Tribe as an independent contractor.
- Clarifying that this Policy does not apply to elected or appointed Tribal officials or employees of Tribally-chartered corporations; it just applies to internal employees.
- Deleting an order of preference (i.e. Tribal members first, Tribal member spouses second, etc.) to be used in selecting independent contractors. Instead, the Policy requires the order of preference set out in the Tribe's Indian Preference Law to be applied.

-Deleting numerous procedural requirements that appear to be more appropriate as departmental Stand Operating Procedures or internal rules and guidelines.

December 6, 2012
Purpose:
Amendments General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy
The purpose of the amendments to the General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy (Policy) is to fulfill the resolution passed by General Tribal Council (GTC) on November 21, 2011 which directed:
- General Tribal Council meetings be limited to members age 21 or over until a meeting facility that holds 2,500 or more people can be identified
- Tribal members who leave the ballroom area and related bathroom facilities during the General Tribal Council meeting are not eligible for a meeting stipend.

The proposed amendments would also update and streamline the Policy to allow flexibility in the processes of how eligibility for stipend payments is determined and how stipend payments are made.

Public Hearing Process
Testimony:
Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.
Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

Appellate Court Decisions

Lloyd Powless, Charlene Smith, Tonya Webster. Docket No. 12-AC-004, July 23, 2012. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Jennifer Webster, Linda Cornelius (Pro Tem) and Leanne Doxtater (Pro Tem) presiding. This was an appeal of an Oneida Tribal Judicial System, Trial Court decision which awarded, Respondent Connie Vandehei, $5000.00 as compensatory damages resulting from her termination in retaliation for reporting fraud and abuse in her workplace. Appellants requested the decision be overturned and dismissed for Respondent failed to produce evidence to award damages. Appellants alledged the Trial Court decision to be clearly erroneous and against the weight of the evidence. Respondent originally sought punitive damages. Respondent prevailed in her termination appeal before the Oneida Personnel Commission and upheld by the Appellate Court resulting in an award of back pay and benefits. Respondent failed to testify at the hearing before the Trial Court, thereby not presenting any evidence to support her allegations. The majority decision in this case: The Trial Court erred when awarding $5000.00 in compensatory damages when an original complaint of punitive damages was the relief sought. Respondents claims denied. The dissenting opinion of Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester and Pro Tem Judicial Officer Leanne Doxtater: A review of Oneida case law prohibits courts from overturning on original hearing body decision unless there is a finding that the Trial Court has made a clear error of judgment. Two standards of review is utilized when reviewing the record. The case file contained decision from the Personnel Commission and the Appellate Court that were sufficient enough for the Trial Court to agree with the Respondent that harm had been done. The Trial Court did not grant punitive damages found through hearings and record that Respondent deserved compensation for harm. Trial Court decision should have been affirmed.

Trial Court Decisions

Connie Vandehei vs. Lloyd Powless, Charlene Smith and Tonya Webster. Docket No. 08-TC-158, January 23, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Sandra Skenadore and James VanStippen, Pro Tem presiding. Delay for publication a result of appeal. Petitioner, Connie Vandehei, seeks punitive damages in the amount of $65,000 from the Respondents. Petitioner claims she reported the alleged misconduct, received employee protection, was terminated from her position and then reinstated. Ms. Vandehei now seeks accountability and money damages from Respondents. While the Court was sympathetic to Petitioner's claims, the evidence presented supports an award less than what she requested. The Court ruled in Petitioner's favor in the amount of $5,000.00.

Lillian M. Wheelock vs. Mari Kriescher, Behavioral Health Manager. Docket No. 11-TC-107, July 12, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Sandra L. Skenadore and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case involves allegations concerning the misapplication of the Oneida Preference Law and the Personnel Policies and Procedures within the hiring procedures involving the Psychotherapist position, in the Behavioral Health Department. The Court found that the applicable rules governing the selection process gave the Respondent enough latitude to justify her actions and the eventual result of Ms. Wheelock being denied the position.

Kahnyatahawise Cornelius vs. Dale Wheelock, Oneida Housing Authority. Docket No. 12-TC-112, July 31, 2012. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Mary Adams and Sandra L. Skenadore presiding. This was a housing eviction claim. This case involved a request for a Temporary Restraining Order from Petitioner, Kahnyatahawise Cornelius requesting a stay on eviction. July 8, 2012 Petitioner received an eviction notice. July 20, 2012 Petitioner filed a written appeal with the Oneida Housing Authority requesting the decision of the Resident Services be overturned. July 24, 2012 Respondent/OHA sent notice to the Petitioner to voluntarily move out by 4:30 p.m. for failure to appear at the hearing scheduled on July 24, 2012 at 11:30 a.m. at OHA. July 24, 2012 Petitioner filed a Temporary Restraining Order at the Oneida Tribal Judicial System requesting a stay on eviction. The court filed a Stay of Proceeding to Enforce Judgment and granted a stay on the voluntarily move out and stay of eviction. At the July 30, 2012 hearing Petitioner requested to have an opportunity to cure past due rent payment and utility payments. The court affirms the decision of the Respondent to uphold the eviction if Petitioner fails to cure past due rent by August 3, 2012 than Petitioner shall vacate the premises by August 3, 2012 by 12:00 noon. Petitioner was also order to pay the outstanding utility bill by August 17, 2012.

Five Nation Flooring vs. Oneida Indian Preference Department. Docket No. 12-TC-073, July 27, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Winnifred L. Thomas presiding. This is a complaint against Marjorie Stevens for denying Petitioner's application to be placed on the Indian Preference preferred vendor list. Petitioner claims he was denied twice for failure to meet the listed criteria in order to be certified as an Indian-owned business. The criteria is as follows: Proof of financial responsibility; Legitimate Indian-owned and controlled entity; Owns 51% of the assets and equipment; and Be directly involved in management. Petitioner claims his company meets the criteria necessary to be included in the Oneida Indian Preference and requests that he be immediately placed on the Indian Preference list as his right as an Indian-owned and operated business. Respondent argues Petitioner has failed to meet the criteria necessary to be included in the vendor's list and requests this case be dismissed. The matter was scheduled for a trial. Prior to the trial, the parties entered a Stipulation and Order to Dismiss. The Court granted the motion and dismissed the case.

Joseph Binard vs. Oneida Comprehensive Health Division, Debbie Danforth, Ravinder Vir. Docket No. 12-TC-002, July 27, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case involves a termination of an employment contract. This case was scheduled for a hearing. Prior to the Court issuing its decision the parties moved to dismiss due to settlement of case. The Court dismissed the case.

Crystal Cornelius vs. Oneida Hrd-Benefits and Crawford & Company. Docket No. 12-TC-003, August 13, 2012. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case involves a Worker's Compensation claim by Petitioner that her exposure to mold at her workplace caused her to be hospitalized in December, 2011 and that this injury entitles her to benefits under the Oneida Workers Compensation Ordinance. Ms. Cornelius' hospital visit was due to chest pains and resulted in an Angio-Seal surgery as the foremost reason for her stay combined with Ms. Cornelius' diabetes and other health concerns. The Court found no evidence connecting the mold at the workplace to her health issues in December, 2011 and dismissed Petitioner's claim.

Desmann Escalante vs. Oneida Housing Authority. Docket No. 12-TC-126, August 15, 2012. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Mary Adams and Janice L. McLester presiding. This is a housing eviction claim. Petitioner filed a Temporary Restraining Order to appeal the eviction. August 8, 2012 the court held a deliberation and granted the Petitioner's request and set a hearing for August 13, 2012. On August 13, 2012 Respondent requested the court to place a stay on the proceedings as the parties had reached a settlement agreement. The court grants the Respondent request providing the Petitioner abides by the settlement agreement terms. If Petitioner fails to abide by the terms of the settlement agreement and fails to pay the rent in full by October 3, 2012 this shall constitute a breach of the agreement and Petitioner shall vacate the premises by October 4, 2012 by 2:00 p.m. If tenant satisfies the terms of the settlement agreement, Respondent shall file a motion with the court to dismiss the pending case.

Oneida Tribe of WI/Accounting vs. Barbara Silva. Docket No. 12-TC-069, August 15, 2012. Judicial Officers Jean M. Webster, Mary Adams and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding.

Trial scheduled for August 12, 2012. August 2, 2012 Respondent filed a motion to dismiss. August 15, 2012 the Court granted the Respondent's motion to dismiss with prejudice and Respondent shall assume all responsibility for the outstanding plumbing bill in the amount of $210.00.

Oneida Public Transit System

Submitted by Michael Overman
Governmental Services Division

The Governmental Services Division (GSD) is all about helping the human condition; both mentally and physically. It's important to exercise and challenge both as a means of improving the whole person. An improved person can also lead to an improved family and home because of all the doors that can be opened.

Sometimes people in the Oneida community need assistance just getting to those various doors to take advantage of all the services and help that GSD has to offer. It's about access and information. Here in Oneida we have a system for providing that access to the community that we can be proud of and it keeps growing in terms of need and usage. It's called the Oneida Public Transit System and their desired outcome is to efficiently transport community members from point A to point B. In many cases they also transport them from point B back to point A. Sometimes, a point C also becomes involved!

The cost per trip varies depending on age and whether a person is travelling within Reservation boundaries of Off Reservation. Service hours are 6am-8pm Monday through Friday. Their dispatch hours are from 5am-9pm Monday through Friday and can be reached at (920)496-5770. Some occasions require prior Oneida Public Transit approval if you need service outside the listed guidelines.

A couple of things you should keep in mind; Oneida Public transit provides curb-to-curb service. This means they will pick you up at the curb of the location of your choice and will take you to the curb of the destination of your choice. There may be some rare occasions where a location is not accessible to transit vehicles. In those cases, it is important to work together to determine the safest and most convenient place to arrange to be picked up or dropped off. Your driver will appreciate your patience. It is also important to remember that Oneida Public Transit bus operators will not enter private homes for any reason. They may only assist passengers from the curb to the vehicle or from the vehicle or lift to the curb at drop-off

Any questions, concerns or opportunities can be made by phone at (920) 496-5770.

Did U Know that this past October was the busiest month Oneida Public transit has ever had? Over 6000 trips were made! Now that's keeping our community moving!

No permits issued yet for Chippewa night deer hunt

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Night deer hunting for Wisconsin's Chippewa tribes began Monday evening, but a spokeswoman for the commission overseeing it said no hunters had obtained permits to participate.

The Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission, which oversees the Chippewa's off-reservation treaty rights, authorized night hunting last week for tribal members who meet a number of safety requirements, including a marksmanship test. The decision drew sharp opposition from state officials, who said night deer hunting was too dangerous and have gone to court to stop it.

Commission spokeswoman Sue Erickson said 74 tribal members from five of Wisconsin's six Chippewa tribes met the marksmanship requirements, making them eligible for a permit. However, none had applied by Monday afternoon. If they had, they would have been able to head out 50 minutes after sunset, a day after the state's traditional firearms season ended.

The state Department of Natural Resources has asked a judge to halt the hunt and sent letters to tribal chairmen Friday asking them not to issue any hunting permits until the judge rules. DNR spokesman Bill Cosh said the agency hasn't received a response from any of them but officials were still pleased they hadn't issued any permits.

Erickson said the chairmen didn't decide to withhold permits because of the DNR's request but suggested hunters may be holding off on their own until the Chippewa file a response in court.

"They may be just waiting to see what happens in court and are just being cautious," said George Meyer, a former DNR secretary who now serves as executive director of the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation, an organization that represents hunters, anglers and trappers. "Relations (between the Chippewa and the state) are really strained."

Treaties the Chippewa signed in the 1800s with the federal government reserved the tribes' right to hunt and fish in the so-called ceded territory, 22,400 acres across northern Wisconsin the tribes handed over to the government. A series of federal court decisions in the 1970s confirmed the tribes can hunt or fish as they wish in the territory as long as they don't endanger conservation efforts or public safety.

The tribes have been running their own deer hunts alongside the state seasons in northern Wisconsin for years, but night hunting has been a sticking point between the two sides.

The DNR has outlawed night hunting, saying hunters can't identify their targets or see what lies beyond them in the dark. The Chippewa tried in 1989 to convince a federal judge to allow tribal members to hunt deer at night, arguing the DNR permits night hunts for fox and coyote. U.S. District Judge Barbara Crabb sided with the DNR, though, saying night deer hunting presents a safety risk and the state ban, therefore, applies to the Chippewa.

Tension between the tribes and the state boiled up again this year after legislators dallied with a bill loosening restrictions on mining and established Wisconsin's first organized wolf hunt.

The Bad River Band of Lake Superior Chippewa feared the mining bill would lead to a giant iron mine just south of the lake, devastating area water quality and harming their beloved rice beds. The Chippewa as a whole also were vehemently opposed to the wolf hunt; the tribes consider the animal a sacred brother.

This fall, the Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission authorized tribal hunters to kill an elk, a species the DNR has been struggling to reintroduce in Wisconsin since the mid-1990s. And then the commission authorized the night deer hunting, noting the state's wolf regulations allow night hunting for that animal beginning Monday.

DNR officials, though, maintain the commission ignored their arguments that night deer hunting is too dangerous.

They say Crabb's ruling two decades ago bars the practice, and they asked her to halt the hunt. The commission planned to file a response to that request arguing the state changed the rules when it allowed night wolf hunting. Erickson said that filing could come Tuesday morning.

Meyer, with the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation, noted the Chippewa's deer season began in September and many tribal hunters may have had enough of the woods. Regardless, the Chippewa should have gone to court to get judicial approval before starting the night deer hunt, he said. The move is sure to anger non-tribal hunters, he said.

"There will be those who no matter what's done will still be concerned about safety issues. (And) it's something tribal members can do that they can't do," Meyer said. "It's just extremely unfortunate it got to this stage."

Dinner Theater Comedy about Modern Indigenous Education scheduled

Prelude to CMN's 20th Anniversary Year Observance

KESHENA – The College of Menominee Nation (CMN) invites the public to the Menominee Casino-Resort to a dinner-theater production of Anishnawbe playwright Drew Hayden Taylor's "Education is Our Right". The play borrows from the familiar story of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol", but in this version the spirits of Education Past, Present and Future attempt to show the Canadian Minister of Indian Affairs the error of his ways. The play uses humor to discuss the cap on post-funding for indigenous students in Canada in the 1990s. Because of current discussion on education spending in the United States, the play transcends time and location.

Current and former CMN students involved in the play are Brian Lee, Kristin Waukau, Bradley Hixon, Valarie Self, Alan Waukau, Harold Bowman, Darian Isaac, Kylee Dodge, Kylene Denny, Nathaniel Madsen, and Marlow Dorner.

The play, directed by CMN faculty member Ryan Winn, will be presented on Wednesday, Dec. 5 and Thursday, Dec. 6, in the ballroom of the Menominee Casino-Resort Conference Center on State Highway 47/55 in Keshena. The dinner begins at 6:30 each evening. Tickets are $20 and may be purchased through the Menominee Casino-Resort box office, 715-799-3600.

Theater-goers have a dinner choice of Wild Rice Meatloaf, Herb Baked Chicken, or Bacon Wrapped Pork Loin, with all meals including dinner salad, mashed potatoes, vegetable, dessert, and beverage.

The student production is a prologue to CMN's year-long observance in 2013 of the opening of the College. The school, which began offering classes in Keshena in spring semester 1993, currently enrolls more than 650 students in baccalaureate, associate degree and technical diploma programs on campuses in Keshena and Green Bay. CMN is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and recognized as one of only three Land Grant institutions

$3.4B Indian lawsuit ends, disbursements to begin

By Matt Volz
Associated Press

HELENA, Montana (AP) ~ After nearly 17 years of courtroom arguments, congressional negotiations and Indian Country bickering, hundreds of thousands of Native Americans could see the first payments of a $3.4 billion U.S. government settlement by the end of the year, plaintiffs' attorneys said Monday.

The settlement between Native Americans across the United States and the government over more than a century's worth of squandered and mismanaged land trust royalties became final on Friday, when the appeal period expired.

One of the largest U.S. government settlements in history began with a lawsuit filed in 1996 by Elouise Cobell of Montana. The Blackfeet leader observed that those who leased Indian land made money from its natural resources, while the Indians themselves remained in poverty with no accounting of the royalties from that land that were held in trust for them by the government

Cobell herself led the fight against the government for more than 15 years before she died of cancer last year.

"We all are happy that this settlement can finally be implemented," lead attorney Dennis Gingold said in a statement Monday. "We deeply regret that Ms. Cobell did not live to see this day."

About 350,000 beneficiaries could start receiving $1,000 checks by Christmas as the first part of the settlement goes forward, plaintiffs' attorneys said.

Interior Secretary Ken Salazar released a statement that said the settlement marks a step forward in reconciliation and a new era in how the government administers its trusts.

"With the settlement now final, we can put years of discord behind us and start a new chapter in our nation-to-nation relationship," Salazar said.

The agreement will pay out $1.5 billion to two classes of beneficiaries. Each member of the first class would be paid $1,000. Each member of the second class would be paid $800 plus a share of the balance of the settlement funds as calculated by a formula based on the activity in their trust accounts.

Another $1.9 billion would be used by the government to purchase fractionated land allotments from willing individuals and turn those consolidated allotments over to the tribe. An education scholarship for young Indians also would be established under the agreement.

Congress approved the deal in December 2010 and U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan approved it after a June 2011 hearing. Hogan said that while the settlement may not be as much as some wished, the deal ended the legal deadlock and provided some certainty for the beneficiaries.

Cobell traveled across Indian Country to explain the deal, but there was opposition. One opponent took her objections to the Supreme Court, saying the settlement did not include an actual accounting for how much money the government lost and that the deal would overcompensate a select few beneficiaries.

The Supreme Court declined to take up her petition.

Tattoo exhibit seeks iroquois participants

The Iroquois Indian Museum (Howes Cave, NY) invites participation in IndianInk: Iroquois and the Art of Tattoos, to open May 4, 2013. Have some original flash or a special tattoo and want to get in on the show? Give us a shout and/or send your photos as high resolution jpgs with your contact info.

Inspired by Mohawk artist/curator Ryan Rice's Native Love exhibit and a presentation by Carla Hemlock of Kahnawake, IndianInk will showcase contemporary tattoo art, both the work of young Haudenosaunee designers such as Lyle Logan and Ike Hopper and skin art selected and commissioned by others. Once widespread among Indigenous peoples of the northeast, the patterns and practices of this extraordinary tradition of body modification had declined by the mid 1800's as a consequence of Christianity, assimilation, and relocation. Today, this ancient art is undergoing a spectacular resurgence in Native and non-Native communities. On display from May 4 through November 30, IndianInk will include contemporary expressions with political, cultural, philosophical, or personal significance and a look back at historical tattooing. Speakers, tattooing demonstrations, and a runway-style expo/contest will round out the event.

The Iroquois Museum was established in 1980 and is located in Howes Cave, NY, 40 miles west of Albany. The mission of the Museum is to present Iroquois culture and history using the arts as a window to understanding. Visit our website at www.iroquoismuseum.org For information on IndianInk, or to suggest ideas or artwork for inclusion, give us a call at 518-296-8949 or info@iroquoismuseum.org

Documentary on Jennifer Stevens avaliable for online viewing

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

What started as a documentary about singing lessons grew to incorporate all aspects of Jennifer Steven's artistic life in Owe.la': The Music Within Jennifer Stevens.

In the fall of 2008 Stevens, a lyric soprano, was seeking a singing teacher, and contacted Sondra Kelly of the Metropolitan Opera at the suggestion of her friend Eilleen Littig.

"I was scared to death because she's a Metropolitan Opera singer and that's the best in the world," said Stevens.

Stevens flew Kelly out from New York to Green Bay to work with her, and invited Littig to the lessons. The next spring Kelly returned to help Stevens prepare for a May concert. Littig returned for the classes, this time with a cameraman.

"She wanted to do a documentary and wanted to call it The Lesson at the time and it was going to be about how I met Sondra Kelly," said Stevens. "A pinnacle time in my life, it was the beginning of some major opportunities and experiences, growing experiences for me as a singer to work with someone of that caliber."

But just as Stevens, a professional potter and composer, doesn't limit her creativity to opera singing, the documentary grew from focusing on singing lessons to creating a concert that included Stevens and the Oneida community.

"I said if you want to do a documentary about my life, my community is part of my life, and my family," she said.

The concert Common Grounds held at the Meyer Theatre in Green Bay showcased western style opera and classical music with Native American music and dance.

"Our goal was to bring common grounds through the music and fuse it together and have classical music with Native American language or theme," she said. Stevens performed Italian arias as well as her own compositions which she writes in English and Oneida.

The concert featured Oneida Hymn Singers, children singing with Stevens, and Smoke Dancers.

"I cried when I saw our Oneida youth doing the smoke dancing, they were fantastic on stage, they were beautiful, their outfits, the way they presented themselves, the way they danced, sharing the music," she said. "That's how you break stereotypes, you extract the best in your community, you put it out there and say this is who we are."

Like the documentary, funding for the project started small with a grant from the Oneida Nation Arts Program. It then began to grow with grants from outside Oneida including the First Nations Composers Initiative, Wisconsin Public Television (WPT), Green Bay philanthropist Billie Kress and others.

"It's been a big project, and I was able to get the community involved," said Stevens.

The half-hour documentary can be viewed online on WPT's website: http://video.wpt2.org/video/2286124311/

Safety fund established at HPU in honor of Mariah Danforth-Moore

(HONOLULU) ~ The family of a Hawai'i Pacific University student who tragically died one year ago on in an accident on Kamehameha Highway has established a fund at the university to help defray the costs of making the pedestrian crossing where she was killed a safer place for all travelers.

Mariah Danforth-Moore was struck and killed as she crossed the road on November, 20011. Her parents, Lisa Moore and Steven Danforth, traveled to Honolulu to take part today in an awareness-raising safety event, sponsored by Farmers Insurance in conjunction with Honolulu Police Department, at HPU's Hawaii Loa Campus, where the accident took place.

Mariah's parents are donating $20,000 to help establish the fund – an amount being matched by both the university and the Hawai'i law firm of Leavitt, Yamane & Soldner, raising the initial amount of support for the Mariah Danforth-Moore Memorial Fund to $60,000.

"We are grateful, indeed, that even as the Moore-Danforth family continues to grieve the loss of Mariah, they are demonstrating such concern with the safety of other students and pedestrians at this intersection," said HPU President Geoffrey Bannister. "I'm truly humbled by their generosity. Through their donation and the others it will undoubtedly inspire, we will make a difference for safety on this highway."

Those interested in making a tax-deductible donation to the Mariah Danforth-Moore Memorial fund at HPU may do so online, via www.hpu.edu/SupportHPU (choose the "make a Gift Online" option and specify "Mariah Danforth-Moore Memorial Fund" in the "Other/Comments" field of the fiving form). # DOLM offers free real property law classes

What: Real Property Law Classes
Where: Division of Land Management Office, 470 Airport Drive Oneida, WI 54155.
When: Thursday Afternoons, beginning February 7, 2013
Cost: Free and Open to the Public – Test is available for non-DOLM employees for $50.00

The instructors are Attorney Rebecca Webster and Acquisition Manager Mary Jo Nash. The classes started in 1996 to train all of the Land Management staff on the basics of tribal law. After the first course, staff from other tribal programs and boards found the discussion and information helpful in their positions. Participants have attended from the community including Casino, Appeals, Commission, Compliance Division, Business Development Unit, Tribal School, Land Commission, GLIS, Environmental Department and Personnel Department. So far, 106 attendees have received a Land Commission Certificate for completing this annual course.

The class size is small in order to facilitate discussions. A limit of 12-15 participants is usually accepted. The discussions focus on various federal eras of Indian policy and law, and how the Oneida Tribe was specifically impacted. In addition to lectures, lively sharing of information is generally received from the participants as the class moves through the traditional early years of the government, the Allotment Era, Indian Reorganization Era, and the present Self-Determination Era.

The class focuses on tribal laws and authority of different branches of the Oneida government, with an emphasis on Oneida tribal land transactions. Invited speakers from tribal programs such as the Appeals Commission, Environmental Department, and Tribal History enhance the discussion of how the Tribe as a whole carries on its business.

A tour is given of selected reservation properties, and then continues with an in-depth discussion of how and why properties are purchased within the Oneida Reservation boundaries. The overlap between tribal law and state law is evident in the area of acquiring land. This area is also where there are frequent jurisdictional and political disputes between the Oneida Tribe and surrounding state governments.

We invite you to think about joining us on February 7, 2013, 1:15-4:15 pm at the Division of Land Management Conference Room for our first class. February is right around the corner! We reserve the right to reschedule if we do not have ten participants signed up.

Job Training Program

By Stephen West
Manager

Job Center Resource Room Reopens

The Job Center Resource Room in the Center for Self-Sufficiency (CFSS) at the Oneida Social Services facility has re-opened after the CFSS underwent substantial remodeling. The Resource Room features four computer kiosks, with internet connection to the Job Center of Wisconsin (JCW) web site, as well as a substantial library of job seeking materials, employer profiles and other workforce information. The Resource Room is open Monday through Friday from 8:00am to 4:30pm for use by any individual seeking employment. Support staff from the Job Training Program are available to assist users with resume' development, cover letter creation, job search, and online employment applications. No appointment is necessary, but staff encourage appointments for first time users and for resume' development. Call Rudy Reiter at 920-490-3854 to schedule an appointment.

Job Training Programs assist in preperations for employment

The Oneida Job Training Programs assist individuals to access employment opportunities and develop the skills needed to secure employment. While intensive services such as short-term work experience, on-the-job training and work supports, such as work tools and clothing, require consumers to meet federal eligibility guidelines, many other core (i.e. resume' development, job search assistance and world of work inventories) services are available to anyone who might be interested. The Oneida Nation Job Center, located in the Center for Self-Sufficiency at the Social Services Building on West Point Road, offers access to the Job Centers of Wisconsin web site through which prospective employees can view available employment opportunities. Staff of the Job Training Programs are available, on a daily basis, to assist job seekers with resume' development, cover letters and employment applications. The public is invited to stop by and learn more about the services available at the Job Center.

For low-income, unemployed and/or persons with a disability who meet the eligibility criteria, the Job Training Programs have available intensive services. Intensive services are designed to help these individuals overcome barriers which are the impediments to employment. Counselors sit down with consumers and develop an employment plan. The employment plan identifies the steps and services needed to move the consumer from where they are at in the present to where they want to be in the near future, including the identification of a specific employment outcome. Since the consumer is the "driver" in the development of the plan, they assume responsibility for the successful implementation of the services and the attainment of the employment outcome.

The Job Training Programs have a lot to offer, a little of something for anyone seeking employment. We don't have jobs, but we offer access to job opportunities. Come on in and talk to a staff member. See if our services can work for you.

Work Certified availble in Oneida

What is Work Certified?

Work Certified is a three-week training program (90 hours) designed to help job seekers and entry-level employees understand what they must do to be successful in the 21st century workplace. Work Certified training not only addresses basic and soft skills, but prepares individuals to understand and fulfill their role in an operating business structure. The training program includes behavioral modification, team building and business ethics components that advance job seekers' self-esteem and career focus enabling them to find a job, keep a job, and advance in a career.

Work Certified was developed by the Workforce Board of the Treasure Coast (WBTC) in Florida and is licensed in Northeast Wisconsin to the Bay Area Workforce Development Board. Over five years of research and development and working closely with employers and educators, WBCT identified "soft skills" and basic academic skills as the primary recruitment and retention problems for employers. As a result, Work Certified focuses on skill standards for work readiness. The overall training goal is to teach and verify skills and behaviors that ensure the success of entry-level employees in the workforce.

Why Work Certified?

The labor market is tight. Skills shortages have been a reality for several years, but it is increasingly more difficult for employers to find entry-level employees with the appropriate attitude toward work and personal discipline to meet their hiring needs. An important part of the solution to such a shortage is to develop that portion of the available workforce that employers found deficient by giving them the skills they need to succeed. Work Certified is one of the best products we have found to achieve that goal. The Bay Area Workforce Development, along with its partner, the Oneida Tribe, is looking for opportunities to utilize the Work Certified training to better equip individuals for success in the Workforce.

From 3B/Work Certified

Is Work Certified effective?

Work Certified has been implemented successfully in Florida, Michigan, Texas, Massachusetts, Illinois and Pennsylvania, and now Wisconsin as well. To date, over 2000 students have been trained and their progress tracked. Results include:

- 96% of students trained find employment within 30 days after certification;
- 89% still employed after six months;
- 32% of program graduates have been promoted.

The National Skills Standard Board has stated: "This is the best program of its type in the country." The success of Work Certified is measured by how well the trainees perform in their jobs.

What skills are taught?

There are nine modules in the Work Certified curriculum that cover 50 competencies:

- Reading Comprehension
- Business Tools (Computers Plus)
- Pre-Employment Skills
- Customer Service
- Business Writing
- Job Skills I (Work Maturity)
- Job Skills II (Employability)
- Business Math
- General Business Knowledge

Classes are set up to reflect a work environment with termination for more than two absences or three incidents of tardiness, as well as an emphasis on proper grooming, interpersonal skills, and professional behavior. Students must score 80% or higher on the certification exam to earn their certification.

How is Work Certified training delivered?

The Bay Area Workforce Development Board has trained a substantial number of Work Certified instructors in NE Wisconsin, several from the Oneida Tribe. Pilot programs have worked with specific employers who interviewed and approved the trainees at the beginning of the program and then had first option to hire them upon completion of the training. The pilot programs demonstrated that Work Certified training is a most successful tool for preparing job seekers. Upon successful completion of Work Certified training, job seekers are free to seek employment anywhere in the community.

Legislative Operating Committee Update

A Guide to Tribal Boards, Committees & Commissions

There are 20 Tribal boards, committees and commissions, made up of 165 elected and appointed positions, not including standing committees, subcommittees and special committees. Each of these boards, committees and commissions plays an important role in the functions of the Oneida Tribal government. No two entities are the same—for some of these bodies, the members must be elected by the Tribal membership, while for others, the members are appointed by the Oneida Business Committee. Some entities are purely advisory, while others have regulatory responsibilities. Some only meet once a month, while others are a full -time job. They may have as few as four members or as many as 15. For this LOC Update, the LOC is providing a look at all of the various Tribal entities and the role they play in our government.

Elected

Boards, Committees and Commissions

There are nine elected boards, committees and commissions with a total of 73 elected seats within the Tribal government. Some elected positions are full-time jobs (for example, the nine members elected to the Oneida Business Committee); but other elected positions require less of a time commitment (for example, some of the part-time Appeals Commissioners may only work on an as-needed basis.)

Many of the elected positions are three-year terms, and the positions are filled during the Tribal General Elections, which are held every three years. The next General Elections are scheduled for July 2014. However, some positions are for longer or shorter terms, and those are generally filled during a Special Election.

Elected officials serve one term at a time, and then must run for re-election at the end of every term. Otherwise, elected officials can only be removed from office in accordance with the Removal law, which requires a petition process, hearings, and ultimately, a vote by the GTC.

How to run for election. The entire process is outlined in the Election Law, but the main points are:

⇒ For all elected positions, a candidate must be an enrolled Tribal member and qualified voter.
⇒ The candidate must provide proof of physical residency.
⇒ Candidates must be nominated from the floor of a caucus and must accept the nomination, or else they must present an application and petition with ten signatures to the Tribal Secretary within five business days after the caucus.
⇒ Elected positions will be filled by the candidate who receives the most votes during the election.

Oneida Business Committee

When "elected" Tribal entities are mentioned, the one that probably comes to mind for most people is the OBC. Although the OBC is only one of the nine elected Tribal boards, committees, and commissions; it is the only one that is actually established by the Tribal Constitution.

The OBC is responsible for ensuring that all GTC directives are carried out.. The OBC serves as an extension of the GTC; making sure that Tribal operations run smoothly, planning for the future, and performing any and all responsibilities delegated by the GTC.

The OBC is also responsible for appointing officials to fill the seats on the "appointed" Tribal boards, committees and commissions.

Land Commission

This Commission has several duties identified in the Real Property Law, including:

- Overseeing acquisitions, leases, loan approvals, land use, probates, and other issues related to Tribal land
- Supervising the Director of Land Management.
- Granting licenses
- Investigating complaints.
- Monitoring and making decisions for the use of the Land Acquisition budget.
- Hearing/deciding contested cases.

Oneida School Board

The School Board sets the direction for the educational leadership for students attending Oneida schools. The Board oversees and plan for the academic and cultural growth of students and Tribal institutions. Responsibilities include:

- Monitoring and planning school operations and development.
- Ensuring that each school complies with Tribal initiatives and planning, community desires, and sound academic practice.
- Approving all curriculum
- Direct involvement in personnel matters
- Reviewing and endorsing all school-related contracts, grants, and proposals.
- Employee grievance hearings, hearing appeals of Board members facing removal, and appeals of actions taken against students.

Gaming Commission

This Commission has been delegated numerous responsibilities, which are set out in the Gaming Ordinance (ONGO). Among other things, the Gaming Commission is responsible for regulating gaming licenses—investigating and monitoring gaming-related activities and ensuring that Tribal gaming is in compliance with all relevant laws and other requirements.

The Commission is responsible for granting, denying, and all other actions related to gaming-related licenses, and is also delegated the authority, via ONGO, to be the original hearing body for licensing decisions.

Trust/Enrollment Committee

This Committee has many duties identified in the Per Capita Law and Membership Ordinance, including:

- Administering various trust funds, including the Elder Per Capita, Minors Per Capita, Higher Education Scholarship, Language Revitalization and General Welfare Trust funds.
- Monitoring the Tribal funds held in trust by the BIA.
- Investment and management of all Tribal endowment fund accounts.
- Maintaining the Official Membership Roll
- Approving new applications for enrollment.
- Supervising the Oneida Trust and Enrollment Departments.

Election Board

In accordance with the Election Law, the Board is in charge of all election procedures and recounts for Tribal elections; conducting secret ballots at GTC meetings, and certifying and issuing a final report on all election results.

The Board also hears appeals of candidate ineligibility decisions.

Oneida Appeals Commission

This is the Oneida Tribal Judicial System—known as the Tribal Court.

The GTC granted this Commission original authority over matters interpreting Tribal law where there is no original hearing body, and appellate authority over other matters interpreting Tribal laws and policies.

ONCOA

ONCOA oversees the operation of Elderly Services. The purpose of the Commission is "to be knowledgeable and supportive of all programs and services to meet the needs of the Elder members of the Oneida Nation."

Land Claims Commission

This Commission makes recommendations to the GTC on ways to facilitate and involve their participation in the decisionmaking process regarding the settlement of the Oneida land claims in New York State.

Regulatory vs. Advisory—What's the Difference?

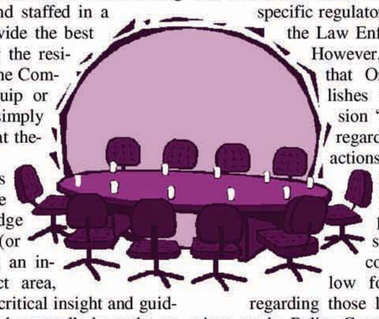
Every Tribal board, committee and commission is a "delegated body". The Tribal Administrative Procedures Act defines a delegated body as "A body elected or appointed to act in the stead of another, or a body that is transferred authority from a particular political/governmental unit to another."

All Tribal boards, committees, or commissions have been delegated some kind of authority; either by the Tribal Constitution, the GTC, or the OBC, to take over certain responsibilities that are generally a function of the government.

There are two main types of authority that can be delegated—advisory and regulatory.

Advisory bodies are generally responsible for overseeing the performance of another entity, such as a Tribal department. These advisory bodies usually offer recommendations or provide reports, but they do not have independent authority to impose or enforce requirements. Instead, advisory bodies serve to increase the level of community input received by the bodies they oversee, and they provide more of an objective perspective of how the entity is functioning. For example, the Anna John Nursing Home Commission is responsible for ensuring that the Anna John Nursing Home is equipped and staffed in a manner that will provide the best services and care for the residents in the home—the Commission does not equip or staff the Home, it simply oversees to ensure that these things are done.



Advisory entities are made up of people who have knowledge and experience (or sometimes, even just an interest) in the subject area, and they can provide critical insight and guidance for the persons who actually have the operational responsibilities.

Membership on an advisory board can be a good fit for persons who want to contribute and be involved, but without having full-time, day-to-day responsibilities on the "front lines."

Regulatory bodies are generally created by law to ensure that the requirements of that law are carried out. Regulatory entities have more authority to act or to direct that action be taken, and they generally have more operational responsibilities.

Some regulatory entities are also authorized to be the original hearing body for certain types of actions—for example, the School Board is the original hearing body for hearing appeals of certain actions taken by school principals, such as where a student is suspended or expelled, and the Gaming Commission is the original hearing body whenever a licensing decision is appealed, and the Police Commission is the original hearing body for police personnel disciplinary actions.

Both Advisory and Regulatory. Although most Tribal boards, committees and commissions generally fall into either the advisory or the regulatory category, these types of authority can sometimes overlap and the entity may have both types of authority. For example, the Police Commission appears to have two main purposes—first, it oversees the Chief of Police and the Oneida Police Department, with very specific regulatory authority set out in the Law Enforcement Ordinance. However, section 37.4-7 of that Ordinance also establishes the Police Commission "to provide oversight regarding the activities and actions of the law enforcement operations to provide the greatest possible professional services to the Oneida community and to allow for community input regarding those law enforcement services on the Police Commission." This provision shows an intent that the Police Commission would also serve in an advisory capacity, as well.

Standing and Special Committees and Subcommittees

In addition to the elected and appointed entities discussed in this LOC update, there are various subcommittees and special or standing committees that can be created. These sub-entities are usually delegated authority from the entire board/committee/commission in order to fulfill a narrowed purpose—i.e. to accomplish one specific goal, or to focus on one aspect of the elected or appointed entity's responsibilities.

For example, in order to best fulfill its responsibilities to the Tribe, the OBC has delegated specific OBC responsibilities to various standing committees—the Legislative Operating Committee, the Quality of Life and Community Development Planning Standing Committees, the Finance Committee and the Audit Committee. These standing committees allow a smaller group of people develop a specialized focus on the subject matter. Although these entities are generally made up of OBC members, sometimes other persons may also be appointed to serve on a standing committee.

OBC standing committees generally do not have authority to take independent action; rather they bring their work and recommendations back to the entire OBC to consider and take formal action.

Various other Tribal boards, committees and commissions also create standing, special, or sub-committees. The rules governing these are usually set out in the entities' bylaws. For example, the bylaws for both the Oneida Nation School Board and the Personnel Commission state that those entities may create special committees when necessary. The Library Board's bylaws authorize the Library Director to appoint special sub-committees "to carry out a special mission when deemed necessary by the Director or Board."

For more information about Tribal boards, committees and commissions, please visit the Tribal website at www.oneida-nsn.gov. Under the Government tab are links to all Tribal laws and policies, including the Election Law and the Comprehensive Policy Governing Boards, Committees and Commissions. The website also contains information about each individual board, committee and commission, including their bylaws.

Hard copies of all Tribal laws, policies, and bylaws are also available in the Legislative Reference Office, located on the second floor of the Norbert Hill Center, Oneida, WI.

The membership is always invited to come attend meetings of the Legislative Operating Committee—regular meetings are generally held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, starting at 9:00 a.m. in the OBC Conference Room, which is also located on the second floor of the Norbert Hill Center.

Appointed

Boards, Committees and Commissions

There are eleven appointed boards, committees and commissions with a total of 89 seats within the Tribal government. The Tribe's appointed boards, committees and commissions have varying responsibilities—some are advisory, others have the authority to conduct hearings, and others have specific responsibilities. All appointments are made by the OBC.

In order to be appointed to serve on any of these entities, a candidate must meet the requirements outlined in the Comprehensive Policy Governing Boards, Committees and Commissions. The candidate may also have to meet additional requirements for certain positions—those are usually identified in the entity's bylaws, and are generally included in any announcement whenever a vacancy is posted.

The length of each member's term is set out in the entity's bylaws, but the OBC also has the authority to terminate any person's appointment at any time—appointees serve at the OBC's discretion.

How to seek an appointment. The entire process is outlined in the Comprehensive Policy, but the main points are as follows:

⇒ Vacancies on any of the appointed boards, committees or commissions are usually announced in the Kalihwisaks and in the published OBC meeting minutes. Notice of the vacancy is also posted at various prominent locations around the Reservation, including in the Tribal Secretary's Office.
⇒ Any person interested in being appointed to fill a specific vacancy must complete and submit an application to the Tribal Secretary's Office by the posted deadline.
⇒ Generally, the board, committee or commission will consider the applicants and the Chair of that entity will make a recommendation to the OBC.
⇒ Once an applicant has been selected, the OBC will formally appoint that person to the entity.

ONVAC

The Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee serves as an advisory body to the Oneida Veterans Department in matters related to Oneida Nation's veteran's rights and benefits.

ONVAC also maintains a register and verifies the authenticity of groups or individuals who claim to represent Oneida Veterans.

Pardon & Forgiveness Screening Committee

The Committee is responsible for screening applications and investigating applicants, conducting hearings and providing a recommendation to the OBC as to whether a person should receive a Tribal pardon.

Police Commission

The Board also works with the Oneida Nation Arts Program director to evaluate that Program.

Personnel Commission

Anna John Nursing Home Board

Thunderhawk Times

Officer Eddie Metoxen is a police officer for the Oneida Police Department. He graduated from Oneida Nation High School in 2007, and afterwards he attended UW-Madison. While he attended UW-Madison, he majored in liberal studies, which is general studies. He decided to be a police officer because he was always interested in what it was like to be an officer. Unlike most people, he actually has his dream job.

Officer Metoxen is an enrolled member of the Oneida tribe of Indians and lives in Green Bay with his son and his girlfriend. He is currently renovating his house, focusing on updating the roof and other miscellaneous items.

When Eddie isn't serving and protecting Oneida, he enjoys travelling, listening to music, and watching his favorite shows on TV.

Out of all of the places that Eddie has visited, his favorite vacation was to Cancun because of the Mayan temples. When he listens to music, he likes hip-hop and his favorite artist is Drake.

When it comes to TV shows, Breaking Bad and Friday Night Lights are his favorites, but Sundays are reserved for watching the Packer game.

His advice towards others is to "be confident and try hard. There is no substitute for hard work."

ONHS Art Trip to Neville Museum

By Diego Metoxen
Thunderhawk Times

On October 25, 2012, the ONHS art classes took a field trip to the Neville Museum in Green Bay, WI, to be exposed to artists from around this area of Wisconsin.

Amy John, an artist at the Neville Museum, talked to ONHS students about the kind of art she does and how she became an artist. The students were able to see how a real artist works. Also, they were able to look around at the exhibits and view all the art that was in the museum. There were many different styles of paintings.

The students were able to go on the trip thanks to Rebecca Anderson, ONHS art teacher, who was able to set up the trip to the museum to the students could experience the great art and the artists. It was a great experience for the students, and would be a great experience for anyone that would like to learn more about paintings and the artists that create them.

Second Quarter at ONHS

By Heather Stevens
Thunderhawk Times

On October 31st, Oneida Nation High School began the second quarter of the 2012-2013 school year. This put more stress on the students and teachers. The reason for the stress is because it meant that the teachers have to fit in all the educational requirements by the end of the semester, which is only six weeks away.

Not only are the teachers fitting in more information, but students are working as hard as they can to get their grades up before semester grades are released. This may cause mood changes for both parties.

This is a stressful time for everyone in ONHS with teachers fitting in all requirements and students getting their grades up. The semester ends on January 15th, 2012. The pressure is on for everyone to get everything done well and in time.

The Lady T-Hawks in action

By Jessica House
Thunderhawk Times

On Tuesday, November 13, the Lady T-hawks started their first official day of practice. They have 13 players, which is better than what they had the past year with only 7 players. The Lady T-hawks team consists of 2 seniors, 7 juniors, 1 sophomore and 3 freshmen. Coaches Jamie Betters and Margret Ellis are working the girls very hard, especially because they only had a week of practice before their first game. The whole first couple days of practice were mainly about conditioning and getting back to the basics.

The hard work must have paid off. The Lady T-hawks Won their Season opener against Tri-County Penguins with the final score of 65-38.

Yasmine Denny, T-hawks co-captain, said "We went to Tri-county not knowing what to expect. The first courter started out a little rough, but we pulled through it and worked together as a team. I was proud of what we accomplished on our first game."

The Lady T-Hawks will be back in action on Saturday, December 1, at Milwaukee Vincent High School. The next home game is Thursday, December 6th, at 5:30pm Versus James Madison High School from Milwaukee. Come Out and support your Lady T-Hawks!

T-Hawks win Home Opener

By Diego Metoxen
Thunderhawk Times

On November 20, 2012, the Oneida Nation Thunderhawks opened the basketball season up with a big win on their home opener against the Menominee Eagles. The game was at the Turtle School. We played well in the home opener against our rivals. Since it was the first game of the season and the home opener for the Thunderhawks, we had to come out with the win.

It was a great feeling winning the home opener. I thought it was great that we had a lot of community members, staff and students from ONHS, and our families come and support us. We had are slow start in the first half, having only a 1 point lead against the Eagles.

Entering the second half, we came out and did what we had to do to finish the game off. We couldn't be able to keep the lead and get the win if we didn't play defense, and that's exactly what we did in the second half. We ended up getting the win with a score of 52-39.

Learning to love bison as the other red meat

By J.M. Hirsch
AP Food Editor

Once, bison were hunted to near extinction. But they've made a pretty good turnaround and these days are raised primarily for consumption. Bison meat can be incredibly tender and flavorful, with a sweet, rich beefy flavor.

It also happens to be amazingly lean, packing fewer calories and less fat than beef and even skinless chicken.

Like any lean meat, bison has a tendency to cook quickly, so quickly that it's easy to overcook it. You can use bison much as you would beef. The trick is to modify the cooking method to account for the leanness.

When cooking ground bison, it's best to work in some sort of liquid flavor to keep the meat moist. This might mean eggs or tomato paste for a meatloaf, or some sort of pan sauce or gravy if you are browning it in a skillet. That also makes it ideal for meatballs simmered in sauce or for using in chili.

For bison steaks, think fast and furious. Season them, then pop them under the broiler or on the grill for just a few minutes per side.

SEARED BISON WITH SAGE AND GNOCCHI
Start to finish: 15 minutes,
Servings: 6

1 pound package gnocchi pasta
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
Pinch red pepper flakes
1 1/2 pounds bison steak, thinly sliced across the grain
1/4 cup chopped fresh sage
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and ground black pepper

Bring a large saucepan of salted water to a boil. Add the gnocchi and cook according to package directions. Reserve 1/4 cup of the cooking water, then drain the gnocchi and set aside.

In a large skillet over medium-high, heat the oil. Add the garlic and red pepper flakes, then saute the garlic for 30 seconds.

Add the steak and sear on each side for about 1 minute. Don't crowd the pan or the steak with steam rather than sear. If needed, work in batches.

Once the steak is seared, add the sage and cooked gnocchi. Cook for 30 seconds, then add the Parmesan. Drizzle in just enough of the reserved cooking water to form a sauce with the melted cheese. Toss, then season with salt and pepper.

Notah Begay Foundation releases obesity report

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) ~ A foundation backed by professional golfer Notah Begay III has identified New Mexico as "ground zero" for finding better ways to address obesity and diabetes in Native American children.

In a report released Monday, Begay's foundation pointed to New Mexico's large Native American population and what it describes as dramatic health and educational disparities.

The foundation has spent the past year discussing with tribal leaders, health experts and others the challenges of dealing with obesity and diabetes. More than 250 stakeholders participated in the discussions.

The result is a set of recommendations that call for everything from awareness campaigns and more research to the strengthening of programs that promote language and traditional cultural values.

The foundation's work was funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and PNM Resources Inc.

Blood Quantum or Bust

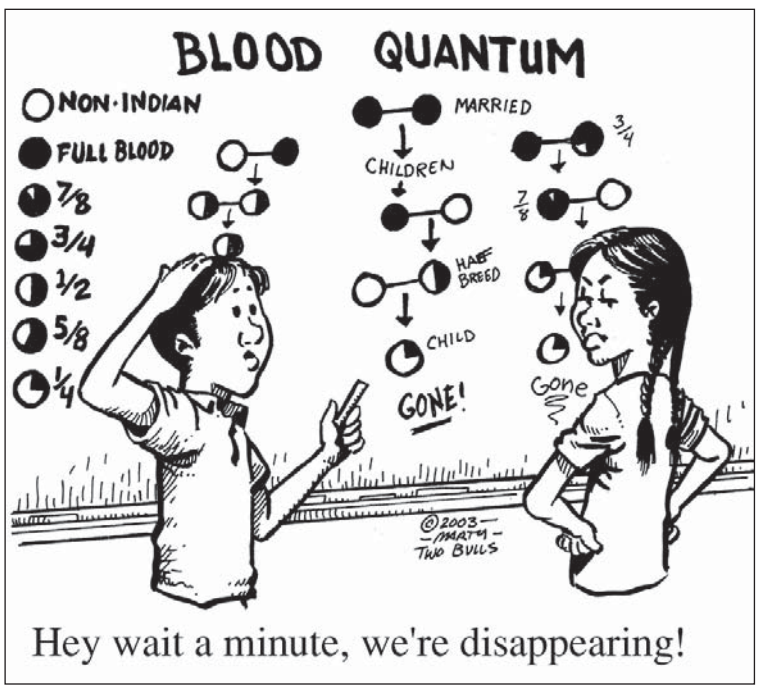
Not long after I received my college degree, I applied for a job. One of the interviewers asked me, "Why are you an Indian?" At first I was offended. I felt the question was out-of-bounds and responded, "It comes with the body." After the words were out of my mouth I realized my glib response jeopardized my chances for employment. I thought, nobody ever asks the question, "Why are you white?" Now that I have had time to reflect on that incident, I think it is a good question to ask ourselves. Indeed, what makes us, as Oneidas, unique?

The Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin requires one quarter blood quantum as the criterion for membership. Over time, this presents a math problem that eventually leads us to termination. This is a problem, not only for the Oneidas but for the majority of tribes throughout the nation. Nearly 80 percent of the new enrollees in the Oneida Tribe are ¼ blood degree Oneida. Census data shows Indians have the highest out-marriage rates for all races in the United States. There soon may come a time when Oneidas have more descendants than members. Theoretically, we could enroll ourselves out of existence.

Demographic models indicate the last Oneida will be born in 2075—three generations from today.

We need to think collectively in a new way for Oneida citizenship. In 1934, this blood quantum method was forced on us by the federal government. The full-bloods at the time were in the throes of the Great Depression and were pressured to agree to this method in regard to tribal membership. Some tribal members may have realized that this method could eventually create a problem … but then they married the Oneida girl next door anyway!



The problem -- using blood quantum to define who is and who is not Native American -- is ours and we need to confront this issue now. After WWII, mobility and educational opportunities expanded mate selection far from Oneida boundaries. The impact on Native American people came with a myriad of challenges.

Diluting the blood line to 1/8 or 1/16 does not solve the problem. It only delays the inevitable reality. The time to act on this critical issue is now. Essentially, a vote for blood quantum is a vote for self-termination later. We need to discuss and examine all citizenship and naturalization processes, both past and present. This will ensure the continued existence of our people. Most importantly, Oneida people will need time and patience to think about how we will come together as a Nation. We don't need knee jerk reactions to this situation. We need definitive resolution. Are we, as citizens of a Nation, responsible for caring for ourselves and others, or are we a membership club with benefits extended to 17,000+ members?

By its very nature, this issue is politically volatile. We are looking for consensus in our traditional way: not a vote of a majority of 50 percent so that this conversation could take another five to 10 years to arrive at an informed decision. We urgently need to start the civil dialogue with each other.

The following are but a few of the ideas proffered in recent gatherings:

- Make every one that is enrolled a full-blood and we could delay this problem for a few generations.
- Freeze the eggs of Oneida women. The technology is readily available.
- Include all Oneida blood from New York and Canada. This would be a temporary fix.
- Diluting the blood and increasing the membership may not be economically feasible.

The Trust and Enrollment Committee is looking into models and alternative ways to allow the tribal membership to have a conversation concerning this issue. This may be the most critical matter facing the Oneidas and other tribes this century. The Committee does not have solutions or recommendations. I do not believe one person alone is smart enough to solve this critical issue. The voice of collective wisdom of our Nation is needed to untangle this matter.

The bottom line is -- Why do YOU want to be Oneida? Who are WE? What are WE doing here? How do WE survive this millennium and beyond?

I would encourage all Oneidas to think, talk and write about this with your families, your neighbors, your clans and others. There is a mosaic here and each of us is a small piece in the overall design. Our existence depends on it.

Letters & Opinions...

Supporting President Obama

To The Editor:

I was surprised and disappointed that Kalihwisaks chose to print a letter in your November 1st edition, which was derogatory about our President, Barack Obama, without at the very least, printing a letter with an opposing point of view.

Generally, especially in matters of politics, newspapers print either both sides of an issue...or none at all. To rectify that in this instance, here is my response to the letter written by Mr. Benjamin L. Jahn.

Mr. Jahn claims that he is a "veteran"...who "surrendered 26 years" of his life for his country, and that to get it back, we must vote Obama out of office.

He claims that "Many people have told (him) that they made a big mistake by voting for (Obama) in the last election."

Well...I too, am a veteran (United States Air Force). Allow me to list just a very few of our president's many, many first term accomplishments:

- He passed health care reform which provided health care to some 38-million Americans who had none.
- He ended the war in Iraq.
- He began the drawdown of the war in Afghanistan.
- He eliminated Osama Bin Laden.
- He repealed "Don't Ask, Don't Tell".
- He increased support for veterans!
- He eliminated the catch-22 in pay equality laws (Lilly Ledbetter Act) which finally means equal pay for women.

Congratulations to our country for having had the foresight to re-elect this great president, who stands with the middle class, and works tirelessly for ALL of us.

Sincerely,

Oneida Tribal RAP

Unlike the common definition of RAP, this RAP is not improvised or made up of CULTURAL idioms, these are facts of Oneida Tribal political and Oneida Tribal social awareness that pertain to overall Oneida Tribal wellbeing.

In this case RAP stands for Revenue Allocation Plan as required in the Federal Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA) enacted to promote tribal economic development, tribal self- sufficiency, and strong tribal governments. Tribal Government (GTC & OBC) determines and is responsible for the appropriate use of net gaming revenues being consistent with IGRA's designated categories which include but not limited to; (1) education, (2) health care, (3) police and fire protection, (4) water and sewer services, (5) elderly and child care, (6) per capita payments may be made to all individual enrolled members, unless there is justification for limitations.

IGRA also requires Tribal Governments to provide for five (5) public purposes, which are; (1) To fund Tribal Government operations and programs, (2) To provide for the general welfare of the Tribe and their members, (3) To promote Tribal Economic Development, (4) To donate to charitable organizations, and (5) To help fund operations of local government agencies.

Permissible uses of Gaming Net Revenues allocated for the development of programs are to be: (1) created in response to a recognized need within the tribal community; (2) have eligibility criteria to determine which members qualify to participate; (3) not discriminate by including some members and excluding others without reasonable justification.

IMPERMISSABLE USES OF GAMING NET REVENUE stem from an overly broad interpretation of what constitutes the "general welfare of the Tribe" by the Tribal Government (GTC & OBC). It cannot be interpreted to be in the best interest or the "general welfare" of the of the Tribe when a governmental program gaming net revenues are distributed to a select segment or group of people in the form of cash, gifts, services outside an approved RAP (Revenue Allocation Plan) and the approved tribal service area plus Oneida Tribal Constitution which would render those payments as not only unconstitutional BUT unconscionable.

Generally speaking, when gaming net revenues are used in ways (such as payments to attend GTC meetings) in which the Tribe and Tribal members as a whole are not the beneficiary, it can be construed as per capita payments and are not exempted from IGRA's requirements as to an approved RAP (Just as a rose by any other name is still a rose, a per capita payment by any other name is still a per capita payment)

Now, shall we RAP, shall we dance, should we listen to the beat of the drum as our Tribal coffers RAP-idly dwindle. In 2007 the OBC made this statement, "Ultimately , our success will be judged not only how effectively we provide for today, but how well we have prepared for the future".

Let's RAP this all up " Money is no object, when you don't have any".

Respectfully submitted
Shirley Hill

Lady T-Hawks got the numbers to make a run

The Oneida Nation Lady Thunderhawks took on the Twin City Baptist Eagles in their first home game of the season on Tuesday, November 27, 2012. The Lady T-Hawks grabbed an early lead that they built on during the second half. Oneida ended the game with a 17-point victory. Final score: Oneida 52, Twin City Baptist 35. Lindsey Danforth led the team in scoring with 17 points; Jessica House added 16 points in the win.

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

You are your own harshest critic, or so the saying goes. If that is in fact true, then it goes double in the mind of an athlete.

Since Head Coach Jamie Betters took on the task of leading the Lady Thunderhawks two seasons ago the team has reached the regional playoffs each year. But that glimpse of postseason success has this year's team aiming for a deep playoff run.

"We want to get over that regional hump and go on to sectionals. That is a priority for us this season. I believe this is the squad that can get that done," said Betters.

With a roster consisting of 13 players Oneida finally has the depth to compete with large teams that typically play deep into the playoffs.

"It is a little different working with a roster this large because we are not used to having girls to sub in. But now we can rest girls and bring in fresh legs. I think that is going to help us when we start playing teams with 15 on their roster and they have five ready to go in every other minute," Betters said.

The addition of new players always poses the threat of on court chemistry hiccups, but so far that has not been an issue for the Lady T-Hawks.

"They come together like sisters so bringing in a few new girls has not been a problem at all. They are friends off the court and that shows in the chemistry on the court," Betters added.

Junior forward Yasmine Denny, who improved her post play over the off-season, feels that through two games team play has been on point.

"Everyone is really confident on the court, we feel comfortable on the court together."

Oneida guard Natasha Stevens

Senior guard Jessica House pointed out the variety of players Oneida can put on the floor at one time.

"As far as the team I want to keep the chemistry going. This year we have a good variety of players; we have three point shooters, we have tall girls who can play at the same time."

As the Lady Thunderhawks work to make their newfound depth a force to be reckoned with they can't help but eye that same postseason goal as their coach.

"I want to get passed regionals. We've gotten to the third regional then the second regional but I want to get to sectionals. Hopefully go a lot further than that, but at least get to sectionals," House said.

When asked what goals she had in mind this season Denny said it plain and simple, "Make it to sectionals."

Oneida opened the season with two wins, both by double-digits. Next they will travel south for a game against Milwaukee Vincent on December 1st.

A highlight of the season will be a game at the Bradley Center in Milwaukee on January 11, 2012 against Stockbridge.

"It is an exciting season. The opportunities are endless. I believe we have the best high school ladies Oneida has to offer right here on one squad and that doesn't happen very often," Betters said.

The Oneida Nation Thunderhawks played an intense game on Tuesday, November 27, 2012 against the Twin Cities Baptist Eagles. Down the stretch Oneida couldn't get a few close shots to fall, losing a competitive game. Final score: Oneida 46, Twin Cities Baptist 50. # Delgado attends fourth annual Tribal Consultation

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

President Barack Obama addressed the fourth annual White House Tribal Nations Conference, recalling the first meeting as the largest gathering of Native American leaders in history.

"Back then, an event like this was rare, now it's gotten routine," he joked with the over 500 representatives of Indian nations. "What I told you back then was that I was committed to more than a unique nation to nation relationship, I was committed to getting this relationship right so your nations could be full partners in our economy, and your children could have a fair shot at pursuing the American dream."

The event kicked off the morning of Wednesday, December 5 at the Department of the Interior. Onondaga Chief Tadadaho Sid Hill gave a condensed Opening Address for the invocation.

Oneida Business Committee Chairman Ed Delgado was at the conference and attended a breakout session concerning economic and community development.

"My issue was that until the tribes have the ability to tax non-Indians and their transactions on our lands, we're going to struggle," he said. "We can't tax anyone. Could add on to a state tax but makes us less competitive."

He stated the federal government offers grants, loans and bonds, but that makes tribes more dependent.

"I would like to work … with the state or work with the feds, but we need the ability to tax within our land source, because you can't run a nation strictly on business,"he said.

He also shared his concerns about the Department of Revenue preparing to tax Native Americans receiving medical and/or education benefits.

"Every time we got health service at the health center, there would be a tax consequence on that. Indian tribes are vehemently against that, and the Whitehouse is trying to find a remedy," he said.

Delgado and other tribal leaders expressed support for Congress to pass the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) which includes provisions for tribal police departments to be able to arrest and prosecute any person, Indian or non-Indian, involved in violence against women in Indian country.

An issue that came up in the breakout sessions was the need for law enforcement to fight organized crime in the drug trade and to prevent the growing of marijuana on tribal and public lands.

Another big issue that surfaced was the looming federal budget cuts and how they could affect funding for Indian Health Services (IHS).

"Tribes expressed overwhelming concern about sequestration and the devastating impact it could have on their communities, on their programs in health care, loss of jobs and potentially loss of services,"

Dr. Yvette Roubideaux, HIS Director.

President Obama closed the event, taking a

IHS, VA Reach Joint National Agreement

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans will soon have increased access to health care services closer to home following a recent Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and Indian Health Service (IHS) joint national agreement.

As a result of the national agreement, VA is now able to reimburse the IHS for direct care services provided to eligible American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans.

According to Kerry Metoxen, Oneida Veterans Service Director, veterans using the Oneida Community Health Center will see no change in the services they are receiving there. Changes will be happening behind the scenes in the billing area.

"Instead of IHS paying the VA will be getting billed," said Metoxen. "It will save us some money."

While the national agreement applies only to VA and IHS, it will inform agreements negotiated between the VA and tribal health programs. VA copayments do not apply to direct care services provided by IHS to eligible American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans under this agreement.

The agreement between IHS and VA will require some veterans to do more paperwork. Metoxen welcomes anyone who has questions and to help fill out required paperwork.

"VA is committed to expanding access to native Veterans with the full range of VA programs, as earned by their service to our Nation."

– Eric K. Shineski
Secretary of Veterans Affairs

"If you're getting compensation from 0 to 40-percent please stop in our office for paperwork," Metoxen said. "They have to be in the VA health care system."

"There is a long, distinguished tradition of military service among tribes," said Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinseki. "VA is committed to expanding access to native Veterans with the full range of VA programs, as earned by their service to our Nation."

"The President has called on all Cabinet Secretaries to find better ways to provide our military families with the support they deserve, and that is exactly what we are doing today," said Kathleen Sebelius, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. "American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans benefit from this agreement, which provides increased options for health care services."

"The VA and IHS, in consultation with the federally-recognized tribal governments, have worked long and hard to come to an equitable agreement that would ensure access to quality health care would be made available to our Nation's heroes living in tribal communities," said Dr. Robert Petzel, undersecretary for health, Veterans Health Administration. "This agreement will also strengthen VA, IHS and tribal health programs by increasing access to high-quality care for Native Veterans, particularly those in highly rural areas."

"This reimbursement agreement between the VA and the IHS will help improve health care services for American Indian and Alaska Native Veterans and further the IHS mission and federal responsibility of raising the health status of American Indians and Alaska Natives to the highest level possible," said Dr. Yvette Roubideaux, director of the Indian Health Service. "This IHS-VA agreement will allow our federal facilities to work with the VA more closely as we implement this critical provision in the recently reauthorized Indian Health Care Improvement Act, passed as part of the Affordable Care Act."

From 1A/Consultation

moment to remember Hartford "Sonny" Black Eagle Jr. of the Crow Indian Tribe who adopted Obama in 2008. Black Eagle died November 26.

"As he went from being a father to being a great-great-grandfather, as he taught his family the Crow language and his community the Crow customs, as he became a living symbol of the perseverance of the entire Crow nation, Sonny stayed true to those fundamental values; to cherish the earth and each other, to honor ancestors and preserve traditions."

Obama called for Congress to support the Carcieri Fix which will affirm the Interior Secretary's authority to take land into trust for all federally acknowledged Indian nations, and for support of Native American owned small businesses.

While he praised the leaders in attendance, he expressed hope for the future.

"You have a generation ready to build on what generations before them have built. They're out there, stirring with hope and restless for change and ready to take ownership of their future. So let's make sure our work here is worthy of their efforts," said Obama.

Delgado noted that there's been more land put into trust under Obama's administration that the previous administration, and he's made a point of hiring Native American staff members. He likened the Tribal Conference to the Governors' Conference where the President meets with state governors.

"He recognizes Indians as part of this nation, and provides a place for 500 tribes to participate and get an update and have their input," said Delgado.

Loretta Says... School Days

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

I liked school. It seemed, however, that the schools I attended were always at least two miles away from where I lived. There were no buses. We had one car and Dad took that to work, so I was left to walk the distance, summer and winter, rain or shine.

I did have a major advantage, though, because my mother, Grace Margaret Skenandore Kurowski taught me how to read before I went to first grade. See Dick. See Dick Run. Run Dick Run. I remember every page to this day. Miss Fogarty was my first grade teacher. I don't remember my second grade teacher, but I do remember that she showed us movies of Steamboat Willie. We also played games that children today do not play, such as Ring Around the Rosie, Pump, Pump, Pull-Away and many others where we had to choose up sides.

In third grade, I drew and painted pictures of Geisha Girls with cherry blossoms and scenes with palm trees. I won awards for my art work. I made a solar system diorama with clay balls suspended on string in a card board box. I learned Brahms Lullaby and danced the Minuet in a fancy costume sewed together by our neighbor lady.

Our class at Silvery Summit District School was the largest in the room of five grades, 4th through 8th. This class included Max Antepenko, Erwin Cottrell, Jr., Mervin Jordan and Hyson Powless. These four guys hung around together like the Four Musketeers. Then there was Thelma King, Noel "Fudge" Summers, her sister, Lavinia Summers, Marie Webster, sisters Jane and Ruth Skenandore, Marvel Schlegel and there may have been one more, for a total of 13. One class had only 3 members.

I was usually involved with decorating the back-of-the-room blackboard. One time, we put life size Crusaders atop horses across the entire blackboard. I didn't know what a Crusader did then, but I knew what they looked like. Another time, we tried to produce "the Christmas Carol". We wrote the whole play down in indelible pencil and then ran copies on the mimeograph gel. I was Marley, complete with chains.

In winter, the older boys needed to keep the furnace stoked with wood or coal. We didn't realize until a short while afterwards, when a distinct smell arose through the vents, that they also peed in the furnace. Well, they didn't have to go to the outside toilet, then. There was a girl's and a boy's toilet on the far edge of the playground.

Our family was transferred to St. Joseph's School in Oneida because it was learned that our farm was, after all, not in the Silvery Summit School District. That District said that Dad would have to pay tuition for us children to attend there. He kept us out of school until St. Joseph's said we could attend it. I believe that St. Joseph's received Johnson-O'Malley or some other payments through the state to allow us to attend. Happily, I finished the seventh and eighth grades there.

All during this time, I had to help milk the cows mornings before getting ready for school and again, in the evening before supper. No matter how we tied our hair up and covered it with a scarf, we smelled like the barn because we milked by hand and usually had to lean against the cow to get the job done. Now, that was okay if everybody else at school milked cows, also, because they would smell the same as we did. Of course we washed up after milking, but we did not have running water or bathroom facilities in the house. Baths were usually taken in the wash tub on weekends.

How it was decided that I would attend Nicolet High School in West De Pere is a mystery to me. It could've been because Zach and Lillie's children, especially Lorraine, attended that school. At times, I could catch the bus near their house. Wisconsin law, at that time, did not require students to attend school after the eighth grade. Many farm children stayed at home to help with the farming. I wanted to go to school. I wanted to go so badly, that I would cry if I had to stay home for any reason. Sometimes, my mother would be sick or Dad needed help with crops or animals.

I took all the classes I was allowed and I received the highest grades of any student for my freshman and sophomore years. An interesting side light was that soldiers returning from WW II returned to high school to finish their educations right along with the younger students.

I had to transfer to Seymour High School for my junior year. That is the year that I had to stay at home nearly the entire month of September to help fill the silo with our neighbors because Dad had fallen down the steps and broke his ribs. I took office practice, shorthand and typing largely because Mom said that would be the best choices to gain employment after graduation. I much preferred to be taking geometry, calculus and agriculture courses.

I graduated with 79 other students on May 30, 1950. The Korean Conflict (War) was heating up. I went to the recruiting office the day after my 18th birthday in June and volunteered for the Air Force. I received an education through all of my school years that qualified me as the only woman attending Airborne Radar School at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Mississippi for nine months in 1951.

OTIE Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises

Get to know OTIE

This article is the first in a series to inform the Oneida community about Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises, LLC, an engineering, science and construction management firm owned by the Oneida Tribe.

OTIE is one of several corporations owned by the Oneida Tribe, intended to diversify tribal revenue sources. The Tribe created OTIE in 2007, and in 2008 the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) certified OTIE as an 8(a) small disadvantaged business. This 8(a) certification lasts for nine years.

In late 2008, OTIE acquired a successful Milwaukee-based engineering and construction firm, TN & Associates, with over 20 years experience in the environmental services and civil engineering industry and approximately 170 employees. Through this acquisition, OTIE obtained a quality team of engineers, scientists and construction managers with the technical skills and experience to ensure the future growth and success of OTIE. As a technical services company, OTIE provides the following services to federal, state, municipal and tribal governmental clients and private commercial clients:

1) Environmental Remediation

– The services include investigation, planning, design and construction of environmental remediation. Projects have included landfill caps, groundwater remediation and thermal treatment of soil. OTIE is a leader in advanced biological treatment of groundwater contamination.

2) Environmental Services

– The services include wetland delineation and restoration design, biological assessments, human health and ecological assessment, regional vulnerability assessments, industrial hygiene and air quality monitoring. In the past, OTIE helped develop standard criteria for the design and retrofit of indoor firing ranges to control levels of lead dust exposure at the U.S. Customs House in Chicago.

3) Facility Design, Construction and Management

– The services include design and construction of facilities for governmental and commercial clients. Recently, OTIE completed a design/build project for runway repair at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida, and the renovation of the Westwind Oneida One Stop for the Oneida Tribe.

4) Transportation Engineering

– The services include design and construction management of highways, streets, bridges and related transportation engineering work. OTIE has performed engineering design for Interstate 94 and U.S. Highway 141, and is currently performing construction observation for Mason Street in Green Bay.

5) Infrastructure Engineering

– The technical services include planning, design and management of drinking water, wastewater, storm water, utilities and other related areas. OTIE performs storm water and water supply modeling, sewer and pump station design, and construction management. OTIE is currently designing water and sewer improvements for the U.S. Air Force at Misawa Air Field in Japan.

Today, OTIE has more than 220 employees in 16 offices throughout the United States and Japan. OTIE has 66 licensed engineers, of which two are Oneida members, 78 scientists, and 77 technical and administrative professionals. It is OTIE's ongoing priority to recruit, train and retain qualified Oneida members in the engineering and science fields.

Future articles will discuss the work that OTIE does by sharing past and current projects that illustrate OTIE's capabilities, and some of the different responsibilities of OTIE engineers and scientists and how they do their work.

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

Greetings,

BACK TO THE BASICS

A key issue I would like to focus on is the idea of getting back to the basics on many levels of issues we face. I'll start with me for I have found that whenever I am given a topic to discuss I have to think about it. Some may find that annoying because they are used to getting an answer quickly. I say if you give an answer it should be your best or you're just guessing and/or hoping and neither of those are options when you're trying to find the best solution. You have to take it back to the basics. I'll give some examples I have seen;

- Military - When our young people go into the military, they are taken back to the basics, not matter how smart, tough, fast, pretty, or not so pretty ... they go back to the basics. The reason I think this is done is so that they have a better chance to survive.
- Language -When we begin to learn our language, we start with the basics.
- Independence - When we move out on our own, we start out with the basics
- Vehicle Skills - Learning to drive a car, start with the basic's
- Birth - When we are given the gift of life, we start with the basic's.

This list goes on for a lifetime, and it seems to be accepted as a good practice. It seems to be the best way to ensure survival. Survival is the key, survival of the language, survival of the driver in the car, survival of the new child and yet when it comes to so many topics we shy away from the basic questions to be answered. The key question I hear needing to be answered is "what do you want?"

Our Judiciary System

What do you want from your judiciary system? Do you want it to be able to impose control on the membership and create a "win – lose" situation or do you want it to create a Peacemaking Path that creates a "win-win" situation for the community?

Our School System

What do we want from our school system? Should it be focused on the ability to participate in the outside world, or the needs of the Oneida Nation to survive as a people, or a balance of both. A key element to remember is that our Sovereignty relies on our language, land, and culture, not our numbers.

Per Capita

Then we get to the tough money questions like "what do you want from your per cap?" Do you want it to allow you the option to get more stuff like TV's, cars, pay rent and electric bills, etc. or do you want it to provide an avenue for you and your families' future to be enhanced? Let's consider looking at it this way, the current per capita payout is roughly $24 million. What if there was an option to invest 5% of that ($1.2 million ) on behalf of the membership. That would allow the members to become part of a $1.2 million dollar investment for $60 . The return would obviously be based upon the market entered but the idea is to simply start thinking about things differently. I would like to stress the need for the membership to take ownership in the investment. What I mean by that is that if we invest in peanuts, you better eat peanuts and if we invest in Brand A then don't buy Brand B. Simple, very simple, Back to the Basics.

GTC Meeting Costs

Another concern for me is the ability for the membership to impose a cost to the GTC in excess of 220 thousand dollars by having a petition brought forth without the ability for the entire voting membership to evaluate the justification. Now I am not trying to change the constitution I am simply disappointed in the lack of change in our process as we still have a GTC quorum of 75. After all, when the constitution was created there was not a stipend for GTC meetings. The stipend payment was a change to our systems. We need to take the time when the GTC comes together and really make it a productive meeting that is focused on changes that have a positive impact on the membership as a whole. It should not be an avenue of change that only affects those in attendance or does not have a seven generational outcome in mind. A lot of good discussion was voiced and some much needed changes were made at the last GTC. All I am saying is that I believe we have the resources, the professional staff, the need and the ability to make positive changes that will result in efficiencies of how we spend our time together as decision makers as well as how we spend our dollars to make future appropriate changes in our systems. Let me say it this way the meetings are a good investment for the GTC, however what are the returns on the investment? We need to remember the history and purpose of GTC meetings. It was to allow the GTC oversight of tribal systems and the organization. And also to allow the OBC the opportunity to bring the membership up to speed on subjects and then ask the membership what direction they wanted to go from there. Simply Back to The Basics.

Basics of Food

Another relationship I would like to address is the basic role of food to our wellness. It seems to me we have drifted away from providing ourselves with this element of our health and survival. I recently participated in this seasons deer hunt and was extremely disappointed in some of the things I saw. I heard of wounded deer that were not retrieved, garbage lying around in areas that were meant to be pristine, I heard shots ringing out that were obviously not taking aim, just shooting and hoping. But I guess the most alarming thing was when I came across a doe that had been shot and had nothing but the tenderloins removed from her back. Why take just the prime pieces of venison that are a true reward to many hunters and gatherers that spend hours and hours pursuing these elusive creatures? This is not the first time I have seen this but this is the first time I have written about it. My hope is that this message will change the behavior of those whom seem to have lost their values of sportsmanship and responsibility. Now I can't say if this was a tribal member or an any person just dumping the animal on tribal property, however I know this type of activity is just plain wrong. Someone reading this may know the parties involved and we can only ask the Creator to forgive them because apparently they just don't know that we should give thanks for what is provided to us from the natural world. They don't know that every time we take an animal's life we do all we can to use the entire animal for our food, clothing, song, dance and other needs.

The Harvest of Others

Another part to this discussion is a concern I and many others have is about why non-tribal members are allowed more freedoms to harvesting deer within our reservation boundaries than we are. Example: If you are a non-tribal land owner within the reservation boundaries you can purchase a state hunting tag and it comes with a bonus tag for shooting a doe in a defined management unit . If you fill that tag you can go back to the license counter and get another doe tag for $2. And it goes on and on. This is a concern to me because venison is a critical part to our diet and also our Conservation Warden staff have their hands tied due to state regulations. I am currently working on making the positive changes for all that reside and hunt on the Oneida Reservation. Another chance to fill a Back to Basics need with the key element that the reservation is Federally recognized.

Land Use

Another part of the food discussion should be about how do we better use our lands. I think we need a majority of the agriculture land we have to provide us with a better product than silage or soybeans, something that we can consume such as table crops like corn, beans, squash, strawberries, cucumbers, pears, plums, nuts, tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce, carrots, etc. I think a key point here is that it gives the opportunity to the membership as well as the non-tribal lease holders an option to contribute to the positive impact that good food has in our constant struggles with diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure and overall community general health. As we expand our marketplace from gaming and hospitality to other enterprise areas we may have an opportunity to keep up with the demand this will put on our ability to supply products. Real Back to Basics. I think if the local farmers have a place to sell their products they will grow whatever the market needs. The old supply and demand opportunities would apply to the Back to Basics discussion.

Education and Understanding

I know many times when I mention "our education gets in our way" or "don't try to out think your common sense". These thoughts get looked at as an attempt to downgrade the need for higher education. That is far, far away from my intent. I am simply trying to share my understanding that I have experienced. When we are born our parents and others raise us with Core Values. This continues for many years, hopefully a lifetime and our teachings continue to grow. However then comes the time when we all need to step out on our own and many times that requires us to get more education. Here's the key problem that I see happen so often. We don't filter our new education through our old core values and it becomes distorted. We end up having to compete against each other because there is not enough jobs or positions available within the organization , or we feel we need to use something we learned whether it fits into our core values or not. Many negative things can come from drifting away from the Core Values because they are a key part of our survival as a People.

We start up and end up Back to the Basics.

OBC Forum...

Greetings and Happy Holidays

The Business Committee will be hosting Tribal member visioning sessions on December 17th and 18th at the Radisson Inn. The purpose of these visioning sessions is to validate the Tribe's current vision and mission and to generate a clear understanding of the priorities for the Tribe. This is a new approach to membership involvement allowing interactive dialogue and valued participation in a safe environment. Research of past efforts to garner input from the people is preparing us for these sessions.

The Business Committee endorsed a group of facilitators to develop a process, validate the current Mission and Vision, and help identify priorities this administration should be focusing on. I would like to thank the facilitators for stepping up and taking on this challenge in a good way.

Paul Ninham
Councilman

The interactive dialogue process is a new approach to getting the voice of the community heard. After a general introduction, participants will break into small focus groups. These groups will discuss several identified priorities that relate to categories such as strengthening the government, community development, Oneida Citizen needs, and tribal economy. And then each of these general categories will cover specific subjects such as health, education, land, and so on. The participants will also focus on what is working for us and what do you envision for the Tribe in the next 25 years. The information garnered from these focus groups will then be compiled, assessed and prepared into a presentation for the General Tribal Council in January, 2013. I would like to encourage your participation and assistance through this process.

Don't miss your opportunity to give your input. You only need to attend one session-- registration starts at 4:00 p.m., and the program will run from 5:30-9 p.m. A light supper will be served and door prizes will be raffled off at the end of each evening, you must be present to win.

Reserve your seat today by calling 920-869-4352 or e-mail: mburkhar@oneidanation.org or register online: Oneidasn.gov/membersonly.aspx.

Purpose:
Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law Amendments

The intent of these amendments (the Amendments) is to permanently update the Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law for the 2013-2014 hunting season.

The Amendments are based on a joint request from the Oneida Conservation Department and the Environmental Resources Board and would:

Remove the requirement that firearms, including a muzzleloader, rifle, handgun, be encased while being transported in a vehicle.

Allow hunters to carry a concealed handgun while hunting if it is legal to hunt with the handgun.

Allow any individual to hunt with a crossbow, not just those individuals who have a special permit.

Decrease the number of persons lawfully allowed to participate in a deer hunting party from sixteen (16) to ten (10).

Remove the requirement that an individual wear a back tag while hunting.

Clarifies that Tribal members and non-members who receive an Oneida sportsman license or land use permit from the Tribe can be fined for violating the Law.

Give eligible Tribal members, their spouses, dependents and descendants Oneida sportsman licenses, as opposed to sportsman licenses; and eligible non-members would receive land use permits, instead of sportsman licenses.

Enable descendants of Tribal members, in addition to dependents, to obtain an Oneida sportsman license.

Limit Tribal members to one sustenance permit per household.

Clarify the requirements for a group to be eligible for a ceremonial/feast permit.

Allow Hunter Safety Course Graduates to receive a Hunter's Choice permit within 1 year after passing the Course.

Allow hunters to use dogs during the Fall turkey season.

Increase the turkey permit fees for non-elder adults.

Require individuals who have dog training permits to include the location where any birds will be released; currently only the manner in which the bird will be marked or identified is required.

Clarify that permission to hunt on land, in addition to an Oneida sportsman license or land use permit, is necessary to hunt without violating the Law.

Clarify the muzzleloader season runs for two weeks following gun deer season and closes on a Sunday.

Chapter 6 — Rules of Admission Effective January 1, 2013

The Oneida Tribal Judicial System (OTJS) has an interest in the quality of justice within the tribal system and the protection of parties' interests before the Oneida Tribal Judicial System trial and appellate courts.

In pursuit of this interest, it is to the benefit of parties that all advocates, whether attorney or lay-person, be reviewed and formally approved for admission to practice before the Oneida courts.

Accordingly, the OTJS adopts these requirements for any individual seeking to represent clients in the courts of the OTJS.

The purpose of these rules is to establish minimum requirements for the admission to practice before the Oneida Tribal Judicial System and to regulate those individuals admitted to practice.

- No person appearing on their own behalf need be admitted to practice, as any party has a right to represent themselves in an action before the OTJS.
- Interested persons may contact OTJS for a full copy of Chapter 6, and/or application materials containing:
  - General Requirements
  - Qualifications
  - Application Process

The Oneida Tribal General Council created the Oneida Tribal Judicial System also known as the Oneida Appeals Commission by Resolution No. 8-19-91-A along with the Tribe's Administrative Procedures Act. The mission statement of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System states..."to enhance and protect the self-government and sovereignty of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, whose jurisdiction extends over all persons and cases in law and equity arising within the boundaries of the Oneida Tribe, or cases that affect the Oneida Tribe under the protection of the Oneida Constitution."

The purpose of the enactment of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System includes providing a clear separation of powers, consistent procedures of law and rule-making, and due process for the membership. In addition, the Administrative Procedures Act requires the Oneida Tribe to provide a forum for appeals of administrative errors and contested issues that ensures fairness and notice to its membership. Under the Indian Civil Rights Act of 1968, U.S.C. (Sec 1301-1303) the federal government supports tribal members rights to 'petition for redress of grievance' for the membership, which is the responsibility of the Oneida Tribal Judiciary.

The following is a list of cases the Oneida Tribal Judicial System currently reviews:

- Employment disputes (appeals from original hearing bodies)
- Tribal enrollment disputes
- Hunting and Fishing disputes
- Foreclosures and Evictions
- Contracts
- Workers Compensation
- Garnishments (Child Support and Tribal Debts)
- Child Support (i.e. Paternity and Custody)
- Probate (inheritance)
- Tribal Elections
- Oneida Constitutional Issues
- Disputes between tribal entities
- Disputes between individuals

The Oneida Tribal Judicial System performs Marriages and Peacemaking. Guardian Ad Litem training is provided on an annual basis, and various judicial training to other original hearing bodies and other interested parties. If you would like the Judiciary to provide an informational session, contact our Administrator, Raeann Skenandore @ 496-5352 or rskenan2@oneidanation.org

Follow ACSM guidelines for fitness activities

By Ryan Waterstreet
Oneida Family Fitness Assistant Director

Oneida Family Fitness abides by the ACSM Guidelines for exercise and fitness. What does ACSM stand for? It stands for American College of Sports Medicine and this organization puts out a series of recommended guidelines for youth, adult, & elder to follow in order to reach exercise and fitness goals. As of 2011 ACSM released new exercise guidelines for everyone to follow. They are broken up into different categories, they are;

- Cardiorespiratory Exercise
- Resistance Exercise
- Flexibility Exercise
- Neuromotor Exercise

Here are the new ACSM recommendations for each Category and how you can obtain these recommendations even if you do not have.

Cardiorespiratory Exercise

Adults should get at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity exercise per week

o Can be 30-60 minutes of moderate intensity activity five days per week or can be 20-60 minutes of vigorous activity three days per week

o Can be one continuous session or multiple shorter sessions (of at least 10 minutes). Both are acceptable to accumulate desired amount of daily exercise.

o To reduce the risk of injury gradual time, frequency, and intensity is recommended.

Can I meet the cardiorespiratory exercise guidelines if I do not have access to Exercise equipment?

Yes, there are many different alternatives that you can do right from your home or at work. Examples of these exercises could include; walking or running at home, walking up-hill for a more vigorous workout, swimming, biking or hiking, possibly skiing (cross-country), and snow shoeing. All of these alternatives count toward the exercise guidelines.

Resistance Exercise

Adults should train each major muscle group two or three days each week using a variety of exercises and equipment.

o Very light or light intensity is best for older persons or previously sedentary adults.

o Two to four sets of each exercise will help adults improve strength and power.

o 8-12 repetitions to improve strength, 10-15 repetitions improve strength in middle-age and older persons, and 15-20 repetitions to improve muscular endurance.

o Adults should wait at least 48 hours between resistance training sessions.

Can I meet the Resistance exercise guidelines if I do not have access to Exercise equipment?

Yes, there are many different alternatives that you can do right from your home or at work. Examples of these exercises could include; push-ups, sit-ups, mountain climbers, at the grocery store carry plastic bags equally on both sides of the body, (if you want an extra workout with the bags arm curl them up and down) place top part of your foot on edge of any type of stairs at home or work, then lift body up and down to work the calf muscles, you can use cans of soup or heavier cans to do shoulder presses right at home (just place and equal can in each hand lift arms up over the head and back down to a 90 degree position, then repeat). Walk or run up and down stairs to build the quadriceps or the hamstring muscles (this would be the front and back of your legs). All of these alternatives count toward the exercise guidelines.

Flexibility Exercise

Flexibility exercises should be performed at least two or three days each week to improve range of motion.

o Each stretch should be held for 10-30 seconds to the point of slight discomfort.

o Repeat each stretch two to four times, accumulating 60 seconds per stretch.

o Static, dynamic, ballistic, and PNF stretches are all effective

o Stretch when the muscle is already warm. Exercise for 5-10 minutes then stretch out muscles.

Can I meet the Flexibility exercise guidelines if I do not have access to Exercise equipment?

Yes, the great thing about stretching is there is no need for exercise machines. There is one great stretch that you can do for your hamstrings while watching television. First, grab 5-6 pretty nice sized books, after you have the books find a spot in the living room where you can sit upright and up against either a couch or chair so that your back can remain supported. Slide a book or two under your heals until you feel a slight stretch in the hamstring muscle. Stack books higher and higher and feel how great that stretch is. You don't even have to leave the living room.

Neuromotor Exercise (Functional Fitness Training)

Recommended two or three days per week

o Exercises should include motor skills (balance, agility, coordination, and gait)

o Great for youth and older adults

o Exercises could include Tai Chi or Yoga classes.

o Exercises should last about 20-30 minutes per day

Can I meet the Neuromoter exercise guidelines if I do not have access to Exercise equipment?

Yes, there are many different ways to achieve motor skills without equipment. You can find an opening in the inside or the outside of your home or work where you can do side steps (while moving sideways bringing the inside of your feet together and then extending out, then repeating multiple times) you can practice walking heel to toe (which a lot of us feel we do already but just try it sometime, you would be amazed at how many of us don't do it) the proper step should look be heel to toe. For balance, practice standing on one foot holding onto something. (Rotate legs) To make this exercise harder stand on one foot without holding onto something and looking straight ahead of you. All of these alternatives count toward the exercise guidelines.

You do not need to be a member of a Fitness Center or have access to Exercise Equipment to meet all the guidelines for exercise. Everything can be done right from your home; it just takes a little creative thinking.

From our Family at the Fitness Center to your family we wish you a healthy, wonderful, and safe holiday season.

Letters & Opinions...

Oneida deer hunting rights vs. The Non-Oneida hunting rights 2012

I have been hunting deer on the Oneida Reservation since 1971. My very first deer I bagged was a small doe during the gun deer season.

The rules have substantially changed since that time. During that era I would beg the non-Oneida farmers to hunt on their land. Sometimes they would say yes and sometimes they would say no. Either way we ended up with enough venison for the winter to mix with our Oneida corn soup.

I noticed this week that the rules for the non-Oneidas are more beneficial than the rules for our Oneida Hunters. In unit 64M-Brown County the Non-Reservation Hunter can bag a buck or a doe from November 17 until December 5th using rifles, shotguns, muzzleloaders and handguns. We Oneida's can only use semi-automatic and pump shotguns from November 17th to November 25th. After that date we get only one shot with a muzzleloader. This is one bullet VS. Up to 7 shells in an extended chambered shotgun.

I was hunting east of Highway U in Brown County and I could hear shotgun slugs being fired like target practiced. I was dressed in Camouflage clothing. These clowns were shooting right toward me. I saw two Non-Oneidas dragging out two nice bucks. I explained to them that they must be violating. They said oh no, we can shoot what we want until December 5th. We can shoot does only from December 6-9th.

I thought how interesting. We as Oneida's originally agreed to follow the State of Wisconsin hunting rules in the 1990's. Now all of a sudden someone is asleep at the wheel (ERB Board). My family has hunted as an extended family for decades with bolt action shot guns and single shot hunting shotguns because that is all we could afford. The Non-Oneidas once again have the upper hand in "our" territory.

The Non-Oneida's are killing does and bucks in Brown County while we are not even giving out doe tags in a lottery drawing. If you are an elder in Oneida you get a doe tag. If you are non-Oneida in Brown County you get a doe and a buck tag.

Do I say I'm Oneida in the woods of Brown County? Or should I say I am lahslooni? Do I buy a "state tag" or an "Oneida Tag" when off the Reservation where I can shoot with a better gun with more bullets in the chamber? Maybe I should buy both tags! This weekend I am hunting in the Holland Wildlife Area. 1 Buck and 1 doe, with 536 contiguous acres of old growth timber.

OUR HUNTING RULES HAVE BECOME MORE STRINGENT THAN THAT OF THE NON-ONEIDA! SO MUCH FOR TRADITIONALISM!

Oneida Royalty says Yawʌ́kó for the opportunities

Miss Oneida Rosa Francour

Shekó·li swakwe·kú,

Hello and greetings to all of you! My name is Rosa R. Francour and I am honored to be this year's new 2012-2013 Miss Oneida! My Oneida name, Yekuhsi·yo, means she has a pretty face and I belong to the turtle clan. I am 23 years old and a 2nd year graduate student at the University of Minnesota Duluth studying for my Master's degree in Tribal Administration and Governance.

My mother is Margaret King and my grandparents are the late Martha King (Skenandore) and the late Peter "Buzzy" King Sr. My family includes Peter King Jr., Louise Cornelius, Kathy King, Joyce King, and Susan Reiter. I've been born and raised here in Oneida and attended Pulaski schools throughout my youth. I graduated in 2008 from Pulaski High School, and in 2011; I graduated from the University of Minnesota Twin Cities with my Bachelor's degree in American Indian Studies. This past summer, I worked as a student intern for the Oneida Business Committee with the office of Councilman Brandon Stevens. Currently, I am working as the new Title VII Native American Advocate at Pulaski Middle School and High School. I am very excited to start the journey of giving back my education to the community through my new position and through my new title as Miss Oneida.

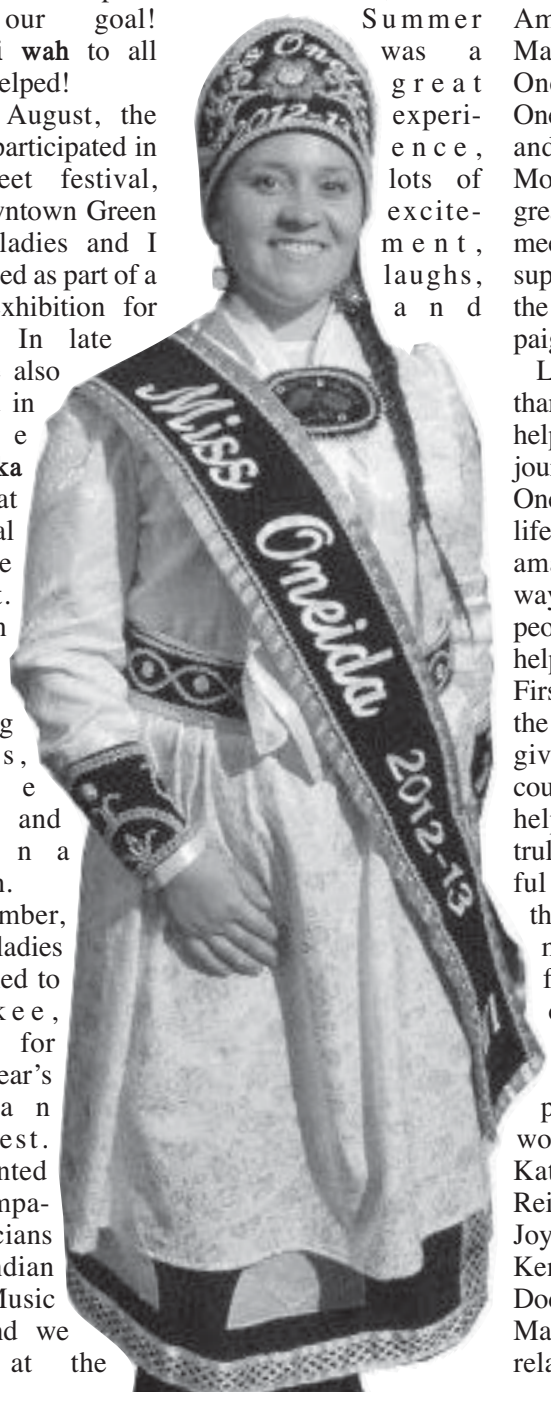
I want to thank everyone who came out to the 40th Annual Oneida Powwow in June and supported our community through song, dance, good food, and laughter. I also want to thank all the volunteers, the Powwow Committee, the dancers, the drum groups, and all other staff that helped make the Powwow a successful gathering this year. Lil' Miss, Jr. Miss, and I had an amazing time this year at the Powwow.

Throughout the past summer, the girls and I have done many events locally and throughout the state. In July, we traveled to Salamanca, New York to participate and represent at the Seneca Powwow. Later that month, we participated in the Relay for Life Event at the Norbert Hill Center. Our Team "Princess Power" raised money to help fight cancer for the American Cancer Society. Also in July, the girls and I helped with the ribbon cutting and re-opening of the Westwind Onestop Gas Station along with fellow Oneida Business Committee members.

Since our titles as Miss, Jr. Miss, and Lil' Miss Oneida began, our group has fundraised money to help fight juvenile diabetes. We fundraised at numerous locations and events throughout the summer. We worked the brat barn at Festival Foods, the food stand at the farmer's market and had a table at Hole 7 at the DIVOT Oneida Golf Event at Thornberry Creek. In all, we raised $1,000.00 dollars to donate to juvenile diabetes. We presented the check at the annual Diabetes Dinner held at the Radisson in August. Lil' Miss, Jr. Miss, and I worked tremendously to help raise money, along with our royalty group volunteers. We would like to thank all those that donated to help us achieve our goal! Yawʌ́ko ki wah to all those that helped!

Also in August, the girls and I participated in the Artstreet festival, held in downtown Green Bay. The ladies and I smoke danced as part of a powwow exhibition for spectators. In late August, we also participated in the Onʌ́yote?aka gathering at the Cultural heritage department. We had an amazing time presenting musicians, Wade Fernandez and Joanna Shenandoah.

In September, the royalty ladies and I traveled to Milwaukee, Wisconsin for this past year's Indian SummerFest. We presented and accompanied musicians at the Indian Summer Music Awards, and we appeared at the Indian Summer Powwow. We also had so much fun social dancing and smoke dancing at our Oneida village. At the end of the weekend, all the ladies battled in an Ironwoman's Smoke dance competition, and Jr. Miss, Natasha Stevens and I took 1st and 2nd place! We danced about 22 songs nonstop, with the help of singers Matt Myke, Johnson Jimerson, and Bradley Granquist.



Overall, Indian Summer was a great experience, lots of excitement, laughs, and fun!

Most recently, the ladies and I attended and danced during halftime at the Green Bay Packers versus Jacksonville Jaguars Game at Lambeau Feild to promote Breast Cancer Awareness, a national NFL campaign. We also took part in the "Get out the Vote" event at the Radisson that featured Packer player Brad Jones, Twilight Actor Chase Spencer, America's Top Model Mariah Watchmen, the Oneida Veterans, the Oneida Smoke Dancers, and the Oneida Flash Mob group. We had a great time greeting and meeting with people and supporting the "Get out the Vote" cause and campaign for the tribe.

Lastly, I wanted to thank everyone that has helped me thus far on my journey and path as Miss Oneida. Every day, my life is evolving in such an amazing and spiritual way, and I have so many people to thank that have helped me on my path. First on the list would be the creator, for helping to give me strength and courage and the voice to help my people. I am truly grateful and thankful Shukwaya?tisu for the path you have put me on. Also all of my family, friends, and community members that have helped guide me to be a proud Ukwehuwe woman: Margaret King, Kathy King, Susan Reiter, Louise Cornelius, Joyce King, Pete King II, Kenton King, Stephanie Dodge, Daisee, Hudson, Margo, all my cousins, relatives, and extended family, Michelle Yunuhsanunha Hill, David Lata Danforth, Tanya Arce, Faye Dodge, Rick Hill, Norbert Hill, Emily Johnson, Brandon Stevens and family, Rhiannon RC Metoxen, Melinda Danforth, Lisa Summers, Gail Danforth, Tsyoshaaht Delgado, Julia McLester, Betty McLester, Josephine Oudenhoven, Apache Danforth and family, Marjorie Stevens and family, Bobbi Webster, Mark and Shirley Powless, Rich Figueroa, Theresa Schuman, Laura Cornelius, Lakwaho McLester, Bradley Granquist, Matt Myke, Kanani Nunies and the smoke dance "get down" crew, Priscilla Graham, Ellie Doxtator, Dennis King, Joanne Thundercloud, royalty staff and volunteers, past and current royalty, and to many other community members, friends, and family that I may have missed. Thank you everyone, you have all impacted and helped me, and I greatly appreciate everyone, Yawʌ́ko ki wah!

I am honored to be representing the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin this year, and I want to thank everyone again who has supported me and helped me thus far. We have many more community events lined up this year, and I know the girls and I are excited to continue our journeys as Lil' Miss, Jr. Miss, and Miss Oneida!

Yawʌ́kó,
Rosa

Junior Miss Oneida Natasha Stevens

I, Natasha Stevens, was crowned Jr. Miss Oneida on June 6th, 2012.

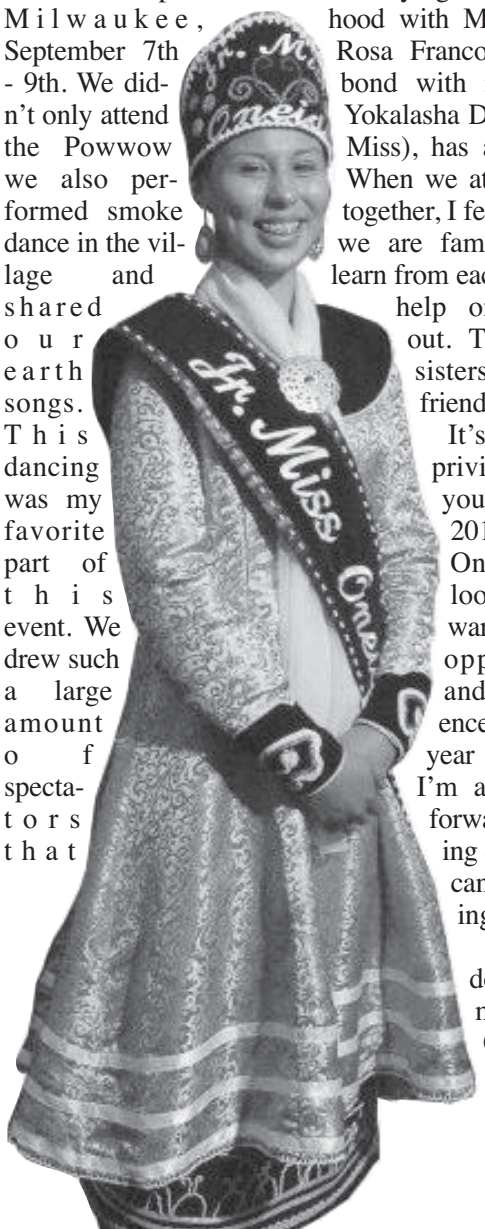
One of the things that I have learned being Jr. Miss Oneida is how big of an impact the Oneida Nation has on the outside communities. It's a great honor to be in a position where the community trusts you to represent our nation in a good way, to be an ambassador, and to be a role model for our future generations.

One thing I have really enjoyed is learning from all the events I have attended. One of the events, of the two that stood out the most to me, was the 40th Annual Oneida Nation Powwow, June 29th - July 1st. It was nice to see so much of our community as well as other communities in one place laughing, visiting, dancing, and singing together. My favorite part of powwow was selling the glow sticks to the kids.

Talking to the kids made me realize how much of an impact the older generation has on them. Being a role model is the best part in being Jr. Miss! Not only is being a role model the best part of being Jr. Miss Oneida, it's also the most important part. The younger generation one day will fill our spots as Lil' Miss, Jr. Miss, and Miss Oneida.

The way we present ourselves, as Royalty also influences the way the younger generation wants to represent the nation as kids, and most importantly, as adults. The kids are our future.

The other event that stood out to me was Indian Summer. This event took place in Milwaukee, September 7th - 9th. We didn't only attend the Powwow we also performed smoke dance in the village and shared our earth songs. This dancing was my favorite part of this event. We drew such a large amount of spectators that stopped and watched. They really seemed to enjoy the performances. It was a great outcome! I felt the impact our culture made on the spectators. Nothing makes me happier than sharing our songs and dances!



During my reign, I already grew a sisterhood with Miss Oneida, Rosa Francour and the bond with my cousin, Yokalasha Danforth (Lil Miss), has also grown. When we attend events together, I feel as though we are family. We all learn from each other and help one another out. They're like sisters and best friends to me!

It's a great privilege to be your 2012-2013 Jr. Miss Oneida. I'm looking forward to all the opportunities and experiences the rest of year has for me. I'm also looking forward to learning everything I can and passing it on.

I promise to do my best to make Oneida proud!

Yawʌ́ko

Lil' Miss Oneida Yokalasha Danforth

Sheku Swakwek,

I am Yokalasha Yostistokwa Irene Danforth. I am 8 years old. My clan is wolf clan. I go to Turtle School. My mom is Apache Danforth and my dad is Dewain Danforth. My Grandmothers are Marj Stevens, Maria Hinton and Linda Danforth. My grandparents also include Redmon and Maria Danforth and Fernando Rodriguez and Robert Zarth. I'm Lil Miss Oneida 2012-2013. I addition to being Lil Miss Oneida, I play basketball, and I am in my third year as a cheerleader at Green Bay Elite Cheer Co. I also love to smoke dance.

Since I have been Lil Miss Oneida I went to events like the Oneida Powwow and parade, the General Tribal Council Meeting, Living Leadership: American Indian Family Journeys leadership seminar in Milwaukee, and the Relay for Life. I had the privilege of representing Oneida at the Seneca Powwow in New York State. I have also represented my nation at Packer Family Fun Night and Indian Summer Festival in Milwaukee.

I want to thank my mom, dad, Tia, Mooni, Lola, Ulu, Jr. Miss Oneida Natasha, Miss Oneida Rosa Francour, Rich Figueroa and many other people who help me. I want to thank all the people who listened to me practice my introduction over and over again. I want to encourage the other girls who ran for Lil Miss to run again and don't give up. I want to thank my uncle, Oneida Nation Warrior, Army Veteran Dale Webster for writing my letter of recommendation.

I am very honored to be Lil Miss Oneida and can't wait to represent the Oneida Nation for the rest of the year.

Axing same-day registration in Wis. would cost $5M

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) _ Doing away with same-day voter registration in Wisconsin would cost nearly $5.2 million initially, and nearly $1 million every year after that, state elections officials said in a memo that comes as talk of changing the law heats up.

The report from the Government Accountability Board delivered to lawmakers on Friday came after two Republicans said they will introduce a proposal next year to repeal Wisconsin's law allowing voters to register at the polls. Such a move would make the whole process of voting more complex and costly, the GAB said. The state would have to make changes that include offering new ways for people to register to vote.

Republican Gov. Scott Walker said earlier this month he would sign such a bill, but it's not a priority for him and he won't be pushing the issue in the Legislature. His spokeswoman Jocelyn Webster said Tuesday that any issue like eliminating same-day voter registration that is outside of his five priorities is a "distraction."

Republican Senate President Mike Ellis stressed Tuesday that GOP senators haven't discussed the issue yet.

The legislative session begins Jan. 7.

Wisconsin, which has had same-day registration since 1976, is one of eight states allowing it. California and Connecticut have approved it, but the laws have not yet taken effect.

The law is often cited as one reason Wisconsin is a leader in voter turnout. About 70 percent of Wisconsin's voting-age population cast ballots in the November presidential election.

Republicans, including Walker, have long talked about doing away with it claiming that it's a burden on local election officials and increases the chances of voter fraud. Democrats and other supporters of same-day registration say it's a vital tool to help first-time voters and others unable to register in advance of the election to cast their ballots.

Between 10 percent and 15 percent of people who vote either update their information on election day or register at the polls, the GAB report said.

Wisconsin was not subject to a pair of major federal voter laws _ 1993's National Voter Registration Act and 2002's Help America Vote Act _ because it has same-day registration. Elimination of the state law would make Wisconsin immediately subject to both those federal laws, the GAB report said.

That would require the state to establish a system for offering voter registration services at Division of Motor Vehicle offices where people get their driver's licenses as well as at agencies that provide public assistance or administer programs that assist people with disabilities, the report said.

Even if the state law were overturned, federal law would still require poll workers on election day to update voters' registration information if they have moved within their jurisdiction, the report said. Poll workers would also be required to issue provisional ballots to anyone not registered but who declare they are registered, the report said.

The initial cost over two years would be nearly $5.2 million. That includes $1.9 million in voter list maintenance expenses, $1.2 million in information technology costs, $1.2 million in public outreach and education and $800,000 in training and staffing.

A more detailed report, including expenses for other state agencies that would be affected by the law change, was expected to be completed in weeks.

Incoming Republican Assembly Speaker Robin Vos, who has introduced a proposal to do away with same-day registration in the past, said earlier this month that he was open to eliminating same-day registration but hadn't spoken with Walker about it.

Republican Sen. Alberta Darling and Rep. Joel Kleefisch said last week they would propose doing away with the law. Kleefisch said he was talking with others about the bill, but echoed Walker's comments by saying it wasn't a priority. He said he hadn't reviewed the GAB report.

"Any time you talk about taxpayer dollars paying for anything and it's in the millions, it gives you pause," he said.

Darling's spokesman Bob Delaporte said she had not reviewed the GAB report and had no comment.

Sen. Chris Larson, the incoming Democratic Senate leader, said he didn't think Republicans pushing for a law change would be swayed by the report.

"A lot of what they're doing is ideological," Larson said. "They are fundamentally committed to making it harder for people to vote in our state. I don't think they care so much if it costs the state money. Their goal is to try and cut down the number of voters we have in the state of Wisconsin, period."

Harley-Davidson celebrates Native American Heritage Month

As we ended the month of November's Native American Awareness month at Harley-Davidson Motor Company; Jeff Jimenez and I, once again brought our culture to our co-workers.

This year we traveled to three of our facilities beginning with Powertrain Operations, Product Development Center and ended at Juneau Avenue.

The exhibits and displays allowed employees to learn the Native American heritage from the past to the present. The museum provided hands-on exhibits of the Three Sisters, recreated Oneida Longhouse, a Lacrosse display and traditional regalia, beadwork, rattles and drums.

To all guests that came to visit us; it was a unique cultural experience. This is the fourth year that we've brought this display to the workforce and each year we try to build on what we are displaying.

This year I contacted my son's school and spoke to the Principal, Amy Tromp and staff member Christina Jones about bringing the Eagle Singers to our event. The Eagle singers came to the Powertrain Operations plant and Juneau Avenue facility with their language teacher Mr. Van Zile. Their drum performances had our employees talking for days! They sang an Intertribal and saluted the Veterans with a special tribute. The singers had members of our Senior Leadership group dancing around the drum as they listened to the song. The students were excited to be here and showcase their drum and sing for everyone in attendance.

Jeff and I are so proud to once again have been able to share the experience with all of our co-workers at Harley-Davidson.

I could not have done it without the help of my friend and fellow tribal member Jeffery Jimenez, Powertrain Operations employee, Deb Ushakow, from the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services for allowing us to use some of the items that we displayed, the partnership that we built with the Indian Community School and finally our youth; the ICS Eagle Singers!

Wis. mining committee outlines bill provisions

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. ~ The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources would face a two-year-deadline to approve iron mining applications under a plan a Democratic state senator released Thursday.

Sen. Tim Cullen, D-Janesville, formed a committee this summer to research how best to streamline Wisconsin's mining regulations. He unveiled a list of ideas he wants to see in a bill during a hearing, including the deadline, allowing the public a chance to challenge regulators' decisions after the DNR issues a permit and requiring the state to collaborate with federal regulators and American Indian tribes.

Cullen told the committee he hopes to introduce a bill after the legislative session begins in January. Whatever proposals he ultimately produces probably won't go anywhere, though, at least not as a comprehensive bill. Republicans will control the Assembly and Senate and have their own designs on how to revise mining regulations.

The GOP has worked for more than a year to help Florida-based Gogebic Taconite open a huge iron mine just south of Lake Superior. Company officials have promised the mine would create 700 jobs in the economically depressed region but want legislators to ease the regulatory path. Environmentalists fear the project would devastate one of the last pristine areas in the state Assembly Republicans passed a bill in January that would have required the Department of Natural Resources to make a permit decision within a year and eliminated contested case hearings, quasi-judicial proceedings the public can use to challenge DNR decisions along the way to approval.

Republicans held only a one-vote edge in the Senate, though, and moderate Republican Dale Schultz of Richland Center refused to vote for the bill unless the hearings and environmental protections were restored. Republicans on the Legislature's budget committee offered him a compromise, setting the approval deadline at 480 days and allowing the hearings after a permit had been issued, but Schultz wouldn't budge.

Schultz, who sits on Cullen's committee, said Thursday he supports Cullen's plan to allow the hearings after permits are issued. He said his opposition to last spring's bill was based on an array of problems and Republicans were moving so fast he wasn't confident he understood the bill's ramifications.

Gogebic Taconite pulled out of the state after the measure failed, but Republican Gov. Scott Walker has said he's confident the company would return if lawmakers can quickly pass a bill easing its regulatory path.

Cullen decided to form his own committee to gather data on mining laws after Democrats briefly gained control of the Senate following this summer's recall elections. But Republicans surged back into control of the chamber in November's elections, gaining a three-vote edge that removes Schultz and Democrats from the equation.

Cullen said his efforts are still worthwhile.

"This is about educating everybody, regardless of their party," he said. "There's a lot in here they ought to take seriously."

Senate Majority Leader Scott Fitzgerald, R-Juneau, said in email that Senate Republicans are working on a bill and they hope Cullen joins them in voting for it.

Rep. Tom Tiffany, R-Hazelhurst, one of the Assembly bill's chief sponsors a year ago who won election to the Senate in November, said he hadn't seen Cullen's ideas but said he'd look at them to see if the GOP could use any of them.

"We're going to reach out to all members of the Senate and hope they support the legislation we bring forth," he said. "This is going to be one of the biggest economic development efforts in the state of Wisconsin."

Booze and Belts traffic safety mobilization strives to save lives

Law enforcement agencies will intensify enforcement December 7-16

To prevent serious traffic crashes during the upcoming holiday season, law enforcement agencies throughout Wisconsin will mobilize for the "Booze and Belts" campaign from December 7 to December 16.

Last December, there were more than 11,000 traffic crashes in Wisconsin, which caused 51 deaths and more than 3,500 injuries, according to the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT).

During Booze and Belts, law enforcement agencies will be cracking down on impaired and unbuckled motorists to make progress toward the goal of reducing the number of preventable traffic deaths to zero in Wisconsin.

Law enforcement officers also will be on the lookout for unbelted drivers and passengers during Booze and Belts. In 2011, there were nearly 85,000 convictions in Wisconsin for failure to fasten safety belts, which was the second most frequent traffic conviction.

"Although deaths and injuries from traffic crashes devastate individuals, families and entire communities throughout the year, they seem to be even more tragic during the holiday season," Major Huxtable says. "For all of us, the best gift we can give our loved ones is to ensure they come together to celebrate the holidays rather than mourn a needless injury or death."

SEOTS Mission…

Our mission is to strengthen our cultural connection and provide services and programs that enhance the well being of Onʌyote?a·ka in southeastern Wisconsin.

The SEOTS Year in Review

By Mark W. Powless

The fiscal year for the Oneida Tribe starts on October 1 and ends on September 30. 'Fiscal year' is an accounting term that defines the 12-month cycle an organization operates on and generates reports off of. At the end of the fiscal year, reports are provided that help to define the financial position or performance of an organization at that point in time.

Earlier this year, SEOTS invested in improvements to our database system. The improvements allow for a more detailed analysis of our data and thus help to provide a clearer picture of our overall performance. Data is primarily captured via sign-in sheets and staff log sheets.

The Mission of SEOTS is strengthening our cultural connection and providing services and programs to enhance the well-being of On^yote?a-ka living in southeastern Wisconsin. This statement guides the activities of the office and those viewing the data should see a tie to the Mission statement.

During the fiscal year, total client interactions totaled 11,557. Client interactions include visits to SEOTS or SEOTS activities (6,328) and calls handled by the SEOTS staff (5,229). SEOTS staff includes two part-time employees and two full-time employees. In addition, a Child Support Case Worker was recently placed in the SEOTS office by the Oneida Tribe. As of today, the Child Support case load has not transferred and thus the data does not reflect her presence in the office.

The most utilized service of SEOTS is medication distribution (3.579 visits). This service constitutes picking up prescription medications (upon patient request) from the Oneida Pharmacy and distributing at the SEOTS office. This results in a significant cost savings for participants and provides access to medications for those that otherwise may not be able to afford it. SEOTS distributes roughly 1,100 medications each month.

The second most utilized service is our Tuesday Elder Activities (784 visits). Each Tuesday, Elders meet at the SEOTS office to socialize, eat lunch, participate in presentations and activities, and play Bingo. Not captured in the number are the other activities that SEOTS coordinates for Elders, such as transportation to the Annual Elder Christmas party in Oneida.

The data also shows that our visits are predominantly from the south side Milwaukee. This data correlates to the fact that our membership primarily lives on the south side of Milwaukee. The zip code with the highest number of visits is 53215 (820 visits). Other communities showing high rates of participation include Greenfield, Cudahy, Oak Creek, and St. Francis.

Based on the review of the data, SEOTS will work to increase participation for non-medication distribution events and activities, monitor/enforce sign-ins for all events including room rental, upgrade the database to report participation by age, more accurately track and report volunteer activities, and due to the large number of Elders seeking services/programs, conduct an Elder survey to better understand the needs of this population, and ultimately better provide services.

Individuals wanting to view a detailed report of the data can request a copy from the SEOTS office.

Oneida citizen needs bone marrow donation

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Laura Doxtater of California gets a little teary when she talks about her husband Virgil Doxtater.

"We just had our 35th wedding anniversary," she said.

Virgil was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukemia in late October, and needs a bone marrow donation.

"The ideal donor or match for him would come from his ancestral lineage," said Laura.

Usually, a match would be made with a full sibling, but Virgil only has a half-brother. He and Laura have two sons, but they, too, are not close enough of a match.

"They can do something called a half match if they find a cousin or possibly even our sons, but that's kind of a last resort," said Laura.

Laura states there's a need for Native Americans to join the National Marrow Donor Program which keeps a data base of potential donors.

"I just wanted to get the word out if not for Virgil, other native folks could benefit," she said.

People between the ages of 18 to 44 interested in joining the registry can go to bethematch.org or call 1 (800) MARROW2 or 1-800-627-7692. The organization will send a DNA cheek swab kit that when mailed back will enter that person into the registry.

If a match is made, the donor would undergo an outpatient procedure to extract bone marrow for donation. There is no cost to the donor. There is also an option for new mothers to donate umbilical cord blood to the registry.

"Millions of people that have registered to donate bone marrow if they are called upon to do so," said Laura.

Virgil is currently in the data base, and the search is on for the retired auto mechanic.

"We would like to thank everybody for their consideration of the Doxtater family, their consideration, thoughts and prayers," said Laura.

Buying The Black Hills

By Kristi Eaton
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) ~ After months of high-profile fundraising that drew celebrities' attention and dollars, a group of Native American tribes has raised $9 million to buy a piece of land in South Dakota's Black Hills that they consider sacred, an official with an Indian land foundation said Friday.

The Indian Land Tenure Foundation president Cris Stainbrook told The Associated Press that the tribes raised enough money to purchase the land from its current owners. The foundation was one of several groups and organizations leading the effort to buy the land.

The deal was finalized Friday, which was the deadline for the tribes to raise the money.

The land, known as Pe' Sla, went up for sale after being privately owned. Members of the Great Sioux Nation have been allowed to gather there every year to perform rituals. The site plays a key role in the tribes' creation story, and members fear new owners would develop it.

Tribal leaders from three Sioux tribes - Rosebud Sioux President Cyril Scott, Shakopee Mdewakanton Sioux Chairman Charlie Vig and Crow Creek Chairman Brandon Sazue - released a joint statement Friday, saying they are happy to be able to reclaim one of their sacred sites.

Those three tribes were the only ones to contribute to the purchase, Scott said. Tribal leaders would not say how much each tribe contributed to the purchase.

The three leaders said they exercised their tribal sovereign authority.

"It's a great day for Indian Country," Scott said in a phone interview with The Associated Press. Scott also said that all Sioux tribal members are invited to the land and that tribal leaders plan to form a commission to preserve the land.

More than $900,000 was raised through online contributions, said Standing Rock Sioux tribal member Chase Iron Eyes. His company, Last Real Indians, led the online effort.

Earlier this year, landowners Leonard and Margaret Reynolds canceled a public auction of the property after tribal members expressed outrage. The Reynolds' then accepted the tribes' bid to purchase the land for $9 million.

The fundraising effort has been a monumental and controversial undertaking for the Sioux tribes. An 1868 treaty set aside the Black Hills and other land for the Sioux, but Congress passed a law in 1877 seizing the land following the discovery of gold in western South Dakota.

A 1980 U.S. Supreme Court ruling awarded more than $100 million to the Sioux tribes for the Black Hills, but the tribes have refused to accept the money, saying the land has never been for sale. There are Sioux tribes in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska and Canada.

Some members of the Sioux tribes didn't agree with trying to purchase the land. Bryan Brewer, president-elect of the Oglala Sioux Tribe, said his tribe did not allocate any money to the land purchase.

"I'm still against buying something we own, but I'm thrilled the tribes' are buying it. I'm very happy about it," he said.

De Jesus honored at Baylor game

In July 2012, Lenny and Delores De Jesus were preparing their family for a trip to Florida to visit grandparents and have some fun at the Disney theme park. Lenny De Jesus is in the military and is currently stationed at Fort Hood, Texas.

As the family prepared for what should have been a time of excitment and fun quickly turned into a nightmare.

The evening before the family was scheduled to leave for the Sunshine State, Dolores brought her son, Brett, into his doctor's office because he was having sinus pain.

Brett's doctor decided to have a CT scan performed. The test confirmed their worst fears.

Brett had a tumor on his brain.

Immediately Brett was transferred to a Texas Children's Hospital where he was diagnosed with Germinoma Cancer.

In the following weeks he endured several surgical procedures followed by a difficult recovery.

But there is light at the end of the tunnel.

Last week Brett completed chemotherapy treatments and will soon be starting radiation treatments.

His prognosis looks great.

The oncologist who treats Brett arranged for him to go to a Baylor University football game on Saturday, December 1, 2012.

During the pregame Brett was recognized by those in attendance.

After Baylor won the game Brett met the Baylor quarterback, Nick Florence, and wide receiver Terrance Williams; both who may be NFL bound.

The players took time to autograph a game ball for Brett.

Meeting this challenge head on, Brett looks forward to healing and a healthy future.

Around 80 people turned out to help make 106 tied fleece blankets at the third annual Oneida Christmas Blanket Making Event hosted by the Oneida Police Department on Saturday, December 1 at Parish Hall.

Community Officer Matt Ninham helped coordinate the event that helps area residents get to know the men and women in law enforcement.

"Police, we're intimidating, we've got this Batman belt on, all this equipment, we're like the blue knights in polyester walking around," said Ninham. "It gives the police officers, who are sworn to protect and serve their community, it gives them an opportunity to get to know some of the people that we're serving."

Several area police and emergency service personnel attended the event.

"I wanted to say thanks to all the local police departments and other agencies that were there, and especially to all the kids and community members and people that showed up on a Saturday," said Ninham. "I couldn't ask for a better event."

Oneida to produce local energy from crops

Oneida will be planting switchgrass at this Overland Road site.

By Michael Troge
Oneida Eco-Services Department

In spring 2012, switchgrass and other prairie grasses were planted in two separate fields. Both fields are located two miles south of Oneida. One field is on the east side of Overland Road, half-mile south of Florist Drive. The second field is on the east side of County Hwy U, half-mile south of Adam Drive. This crop will be used as an energy source. This project is in partnership between the Oneida Land Commission, Oneida Land Management, Oneida Farm, Environmental Health and Safety Division, the University of Wisconsin Green Bay, and the Department of Energy. It is a multi-year study to help determine our future production capability for this crop.

Trees have been an obvious source of heat energy for centuries. This is still the case in areas where forests are common. Here in Oneida however, we don't have a plentiful supply of trees available for significant energy production. The best source for trees is in northern Wisconsin. A rule of thumb that determines if a source is economical at a large scale is when the destination site using the energy is within 50 miles of the source. Transport costs can get very high. Oneida is right on the edge.

Oneida does have agriculture! Agriculture does support grass as a crop. Existing equipment used for food crops can be adapted to energy crops without extensive modification. Switchgrass and other grasses have been planted in various locations throughout the country as a way to promote local energy development. In New England, for example, many residents use oil for heat. Importing oil is very expensive. Many places are now using locally grown energy crops for heat. Their costs have gone down partly because they don't have to buy and ship the oil anymore. Here in Oneida, propane and oil are used by about 30% of community members.

Combined, the fields along County Hwy U and Overland Drive are 30 acres. We will be monitoring these crops every year to track growing characteristics. It will take about three to four years to get a good crop established. Once established, this grass can be harvested and processed on an annual basis. Our goal is to make pellets with the harvested grass. These pellets are very similar to those used in pellet stoves; the only difference is that our pellets are made with grass, not wood. Studies have shown that two acres of pelletized switchgrass is enough to heat a home for one heating season. In the years to come, locally grown switchgrass may be a primary source of heat for some community members.

DNR recommends scaling back park hunting rules

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources recommended this week that a hunting bill be scaled back after lawmakers and state agencies were inundated with nearly 2,000 angry emails and letters opposing its breadth.

The DNR proposed scaling back the Sporting Heritage Bill, which would open nearly all Wisconsin parks and trails to hunting, to exempt about one-third of that area, according to The Post-Crescent of Appleton. The agency on Friday also proposed additional safety measures, such as a gun ban at High Cliff State Park on Lake Winnebago.

The newspaper obtained the more than 2,500 emails and letters sent to lawmakers, the DNR and the Natural Resources Board. Of the 2,000 or so comments received by the Natural Resources Board, 96 percent were opposed to at least some aspects of the law.

"This is absolute insanity and you must reconsider!" said Joan Sample, of Madison. "Someone is going to get hurt or killed, and it will be on the DNR's and State's shoulders."

One resident wrote to state Rep. Jim Steineke, a Kaukauna Republican who helped pass the law.

"Are you planning on doing any camping in state parks once the gun fire starts?" asked Rosemary Salzman, of Wild Rose.

State DNR looking for more deer research volunteers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The state Department of Natural Resources is looking for volunteers to help researchers with a deer mortality study early next year.

The DNR is in the third year of a five-year research project examining causes of deer deaths. Each year the agency has relied on volunteers to help gather data in the field.

This time around the DNR is looking for anyone willing to spend a full day in the woods with biologists, checking traps, taking blood samples, performing ultrasounds on does and fitting deer with radio collars and ear tags before releasing them. Biologists plan to work around Winter and Shiocton in January, February and March.

Volunteers can sign up on the DNR's website or by calling project coordinator Mike Watt at 608-221-6376.

The Oneida Environmental, Health, and Safety Division will not be providing Pet Safety Services December 24. Services will resume on December 26.

Wisconsin board calls for increase in financial aid

Madison, WI (AP) – The University of Wisconsin System and other college associations have endorsed a commission finding that calls for an increase in college aid in the next state budget.

The state Higher Educational Aids Board released a report this week concluding that financial-aid resources were insufficient to meet students' needs. The commission said more than 76,200 college students who were eligible for need-based grants last year didn't receive them because state funding ran out, according to a Milwaukee Journal Sentinel report.

The commission's chief recommendation involved changing the law such that the amount available for certain financial aid goes up by the same percentage that tuition increases.

On Tuesday, the report received a joint endorsement from the UW System, the state association for independent colleges, the state technical college system and the College of Menominee Nation.

"As the report recommends, we must safeguard current aid programs while looking for responsible ways to serve more hardworking UW students," UW System President Kevin Reilly said in a statement.

The Higher Educational Aids Board is the state agency that manages and oversees the state's student financial aid system. It administers programs involving grants, scholarships and loans.

Its report said that spending more money on helping students go to college would benefit the state in terms of long-term economic growth. The board noted that Wisconsin ranks 26th in the percentage of its population with a college degree, and 26th in per capita income. Minnesota ranks 11th both in percentage of residents with a college degree and in per-capita income.

"The alignment ... could not be more dramatic," said Rolf Wegenke, president of the Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

He also noted that Minnesota spends more on financial aid than Wisconsin does. Minnesota ranks 13th in per-capita grant aid, while Wisconsin ranks 30th nationally, he said.

State funding for the largest need-based college grants was $108.2 million in fiscal 2010-2011, an increase of $10.2 million over the previous fiscal year.

Kathleen Cullen, an executive with the Wisconsin Technical College System, said state financial aid is especially important to her students because they're more likely to be paying for their own education.

And Verna Fowler, the president of the College of Menominee Nation, said the commission's recommendations would go a long way toward helping some of most challenged students.

"In almost every measure, the Wisconsin students attending tribal colleges are the most disadvantaged of the disadvantaged in our state," Fowler said. "... We continue to say that education is the best anti-poverty program there is."

*Tis the Season at ONHS

Christmas History

By Aleah Jimenez
Thunderhawk Times

Around the world, Christmas Day is celebrated each year on December 25. The word Christmas was first used in the year 1038 and originated from the phrase "Christ's mass." During the middle ages, Christmas celebrations consisted of a public festival including ivy, holly, and other evergreens, along with gift giving.

Today, Christmas is celebrated with parades, Christmas trees, the giving of cards and gifts, and the arrival of Santa Claus. Santa Claus is also known as Saint Nicholas and Father Christmas. The image of Santa as a man who is jolly, with a big belly, white beard, and red cheeks became popular in the United States and Canada because of the poem "A Visit From St. Nicholas."

This image of Santa has been kept up throughout the U.S. through songs, media images, and children's books.

The story of Santa expanded further due to a song in 1934 called "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town." This song talked about Santa putting kids into 'naughty or nice' categories and delivering presents and candy to well behaved children and coal to the naughty children on Christmas Eve. Since then, Santa Claus has had a huge part on the way people celebrate Christmas. People now put up stockings and Christmas trees so Santa can put candy in the stockings and the presents under the tree on Christmas Eve.

Contemporary Christmas

By Hector Miranda Jr.
Thunderhawk Times

Christmas is a holiday celebrated on December 25 to remember the birth of Jesus. It's a time when families get together, eat a meal, and exchange presents.

Many people in the United States decorate their homes and driveways in December to recognize Christmas, although some do this much earlier, starting just after Thanksgiving Day in late November.

The centerpiece of the decorations is often a Christmas tree decorated with lights, tinsel, angels, stars and other ornaments. On Christmas day, the kids open presents. It is common to organize a special meal, often consisting of turkey and a lot of other festive foods for family or friends, and exchange gifts. Children often get a plethora of gifts from their parents and other relatives.

Many Sunday schools, churches, and communities organize special events. Christmas Eve marks the start of the holiday season at the end of the year.

ONHS Winter Dance and Donations

By Heather Stevens
Thunderhawk Times

In the past, the Oneida Nation High School (ONHS) has offered various winter activities for the student body to experience such as movies in classrooms, sledding, and shoe shoeing. This year, the ONHS student council has organized a snow dance on January 12.

ONHS wasn't able to hold a Homecoming dance this year due to time management. So, the ONHS student council has planned a dance on January 12 to celebrate after the Thunderhawks play in Milwaukee at the Bradley Center on January 11.

Along with the dance, the ONHS student council has assisted with the Oneida community by organizing the donation of hats, gloves, and other winter apparel to needy families. This coming Christmas, ONHS plans to buy and donate gifts for children who aren't getting much this Christmas. They also plan to donate hygiene products to families in need. You don't have to be an ONHS student to donate – all donations are welcome. Please stop by the high school and drop off donations for your fellow tribal families in need, and have a safe enjoyable holiday season.

Students get art auction experience

By Heather Stevens
Thunderhawk Times

The Oneida Nation Museum is hosting an annual art auction. It started on November 26th, and will continue until December 13th. The auction contains art work created by the Oneida Nation High School (ONHS) students and one Seymour student. This auction is to give students the opportunity to practice making quality art work for an art show and gives them experience selling their art.

"Students don't get enough opportunities for how hard they work," said Mrs. Becky Anderson, ONHS art teacher.

Student artwork available for purchase in the auction is on display.

These pieces of art are hanging in the Oneida Museum and can be viewed before purchase. There are 21 pieces of work art waiting for biddings. One bidder sticks out from the rest: Suzan Shown Harjo. Susan Shown Harjo is a famous Cheyenne poet, writer, lecturer, curator, and policy advocate from Arizona. She has dedicated her life to indigenous people and is supporting our students with their art work.

Ms. Sara Summers-Luedtke is the woman to call to bid on items, otherwise the auction is posted on Facebook, and the Oneida Museub website for bidding.

Student of the Month: Noelle Metoxen

By Aleah Jimenez
Thunderhawk Times

Noelle J. Metoxen is a senior at Oneida Nation High School. She's been enrolled in the Oneida School System since 1st grade and has been here every year except for grades 6 and 7. During that time, Noelle attended school in Ashwaubenon.

Throughout her career as a high school student, she could be found participating in multiple sports such as volleyball, softball, and basketball. Noelle's worked hard to maintain her role as a sports player and a student. She's worked so hard that she is now a starter for her basketball team and is an 'A' student.

"I have to say that my grades are the bomb."

Noelle is a math whiz, but she says her favorite class to be in this year would be Fiber Arts. She enjoys that class because she gets to make a blanket.

Although Noelle is into Fiber Arts, that's nowhere close to what she intends on doing after high school. Her plans are to attend college in Chicago to study for a career in criminal psychology.

When Noelle has time outside of school and sports, she can be found hanging with friends, beading, watching a Packer game, or sleeping.

Along with her Packer games, she enjoys sweet tea, spicy Doritos, and Mountain Dew. Her favorite book to enjoy would be The Coldest Winter Ever because it is deep and shows real life sadness.

Noelle has two sisters, but finds her sister Brooke to be her role model because of how much they both are alike.

"Because my sister and I are so much alike it's easier for me to learn from my sister's mistakes."

Noelle's advice for upcoming freshman: "Don't be scared. Get out there and just be yourself, because if you don't you'll regret it in the end." Her motto to live by is, "everything happens for a reason," and her saying for her fellow seniors is, "graduate big or don't graduate at all."

Senior Fundraising

By Eveyonna Ortega
Thunderhawk Times

With less than five weeks left in the second quarter of the school year, the first semester is coming to an end quickly. This also means the high school journey is almost over for seniors.

Every year, the seniors plan a senior trip. That's where fundraisers come into the picture. Each class has to have money to do something, right? Usually the proper time to start fundraising for a senior trip is during freshmen year. The reason to start so early is to raise more money. The more money they have, the more they can spend on doing something extraordinary or going somewhere exotic.

As for our senior class, unfortunately we are taking our time. With only one fundraiser completed this year, we won't have enough money to go anywhere exotic. With the remainder of the year, we have to get on the ball. There are a few suggestions, such as bake sales at the bingo hall, raffles, selling different types of catalogs, and many more.

Eveyonna Ortega

Seniors, we need to get on a roll and go big for the senior trip!

Check holiday toys for safety

By Jennifer Jordan M.Ed., CHES, HHS
Injury Prevention Coordinator, Environmental Health and Safety Division

Since I brought my daughter home from the hospital two months ago, I have become more aware of the products that I give to her. From formula to bottles and diapers, I look out for things that could possibly cause her harm. One additional item I will be looking at this holiday season is toys. Toys are intended to be fun things to play and learn with, but as a parent it makes you think, "what parts make up this toy?" and "is it safe for my child to play with?"

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, an agency which test toys and other products for safety provided some safety tips that consumers should keep in mind this holiday season:

- Balloons – Children can choke or suffocate on deflated or broken balloons. Keep deflated balloons away from children younger than 8-years-old. Discard broken balloons immediately.
- Small balls and other toys with small parts – For children younger than age 3, avoid toys with small parts, which can cause choking. If you are not sure if the toy poses a choking hazard, you can do a simple toilet paper roll test. If the toy fits inside the toilet paper roll, then it poses a choking hazard.
- Scooters and other riding toys – Riding toys, skateboards, and in-line skates go fast, and falls could be deadly. Helmets and safety gear should be worn properly at all times, and they should be sized to fit.
- Magnets – High powered magnet sets are dangerous and should be kept away from children under 14. Building and play sets with small magnets should also be kept away from small children.

Once gifts are open:

- Immediately discard plastic wrapping or other toy packaging before they become dangerous play things.
- Keep toys appropriate for older children away from younger siblings.
- Battery charging should be supervised by adults. Chargers and adapters can pose thermal burn hazards to young children. Pay attention to instructions and warnings on battery chargers. Some chargers lack any mechanism to prevent overcharging.

Use a toilet paper roll to check if a small toy is a choking hazard like the toys above.

By following these simple safety measures, we can have an enjoyable and safe holiday season. If you have any questions about toy safety, please call Jennifer Jordan, Injury Prevention Coordinator at 920-869-4520.

To report a dangerous product or a product-related injury, go online to: SaferProducts.gov, call CPSC's Hotline at (800) 638-2772 or teletypewriter at (301) 595-7054 for the hearing and speech impaired. Consumers can obtain product safety information at www.cpsc.gov.

Health officials report increased flu cases

MADISON—With the number of influenza cases running significantly higher than last year at this time, state health officials today encouraged Wisconsin residents to get their flu shots and tell family members and friends that it's not too late to get protection against the flu. National Influenza Vaccination Week is next week, December 2-8.

"Wisconsin's influenza season started early this year and we're asking everyone to take the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) flu vaccination pledge by getting their flu shot and encouraging others to do the same," said Dr. Henry Anderson, State Health Officer.

State health officials have also reported an increase in flu cases this year. There have been 113 laboratory-confirmed influenza cases reported this season, compared with seven cases at this time last year. Twelve people have been hospitalized for influenza this season. There were no hospitalizations at this time last year.

The vaccine supply is ample, Anderson noted, and it is critical for older people and children to be protected. According to the CDC, everyone aged six months and older should be vaccinated.

Holiday travel and college students returning home can result in the illness spreading. Anderson suggested that college students seek vaccinations at their campus health services prior to leaving for the holiday break.

Other options for anyone, including college students, include getting vaccinated at health care providers, local public health departments or tribal health clinics. To find an influenza vaccination center near you, go to www.flu.gov.

ONEIDA DEER HUNT 2012

LATIHWYʌTYSAʔNIKÚ·LALEʔ ONEIDA ENVIRONMENTAL, HEALTH & SAFETY DIVISION THEY PROTECT THE EARTH

Congratulations to all the Oneida Sportsmen on a safe and successful deer hunt for the 2012 season. During the deer hunting seasons, the primary goal is harvesting a deer, as each Sportsman hopes to bag that trophy buck of a lifetime. As sportsman take to the field, the true success comes from carrying on the tradition of hunting and spending time with family and friends. It may involve taking a youth or new sportsman out for the first time or sharing the story of the successful hunt that resulted in the harvest of a deer for an Elder that wanted fresh venison for the winter. Building memories that will last a lifetime and sharing time afield with family and friends is the real trophy.

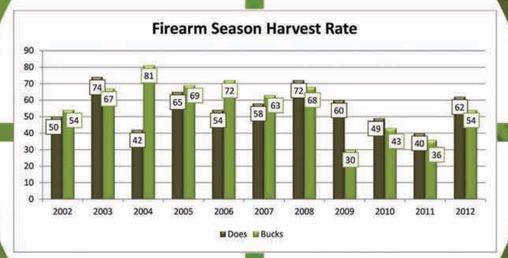
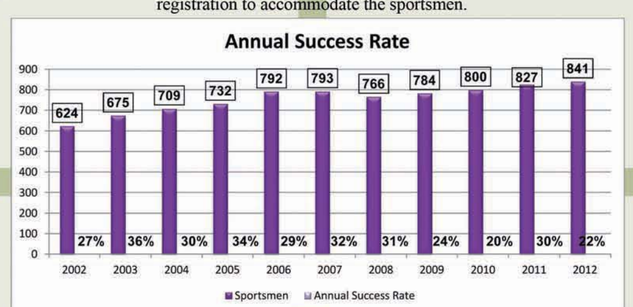
The Department had issued eight hundred and forty-one (841) Oneida Sportsman license this season, which is an increase of 1.69% from the 2011 season. The graph A-1 shows a steady increase of issued permits and a record total of license issued for the 2012 season. The record year is an increase of over two hundred license from just ten (10) years ago.



The weather played a key role in the overall success of the Sportsmen and the warm weather increased the difficulty of filling that tag. As the season opened, the landscape was cover with fog making deer sightings difficult and registration activities slow. Later in the morning the sun burned the fog off and made for a clear day and the registrations increased. Due to the warm weather of opening day, Department staff had extended the hours of registration to accommodate the sportsmen.



On opening weekend, the Department had registered a total of forty-three (43) deer. There were nineteen (19) legal bucks (four points or more) and twenty-four (24) antlerless deer. Of the twenty-four (24) antlerless deer harvested, three (3) were by first time hunters, eight (8) by Elders, and eight (8) by designated Hunters for specific Elders. The remaining five (5) antlerless deer were registered for feast and sustenance permits. The following graph shows the total harvest for the 2012 Firearm season compared to the past ten (10) years.

All photos submitted by the Oneida Conservation Department

Even with the warmer weather, Sportsmen had reported observing rutting (mating) activity by deer, with bucks still chasing does. As Sportsmen took to the field in hopes of filling their tag, some Sportsman experienced unique wildlife encounters in the area. The Department received reports of a black bear being sighted off of Fernando Dr. near County Highway U and also on the corner of Van Boxtel Rd. and Ranch Rd. Community members stated that the bear appeared to be young and small in size. There were Sportsmen hunting in the "Coyote Run" natural area and reported a bear that appeared large in size, with an estimated weight ranging from 250 to 300 lbs.

There were no hunting incidents/accidents reports to the Department during the Firearm season requiring medical assistance, however; the Conservation Officers responded to numerous complaints regarding possible violations. Conservation Officers investigated violations which included hunting/shooting to close to a home or residents, hunting in a refuge/preserve/protected area, trespassing, and the illegal harvest of game. The Conservation Officers had contacts inquiring about property boundaries and access to tribal lands. Overall the 2012 hunting season was successful with the harvest rate up for Oneida Sportsmen and the number of incidents or accidents resulting in an injury at zero. As the late archery and muzzleloader seasons continues into the holidays, Sportsmen can make the overall 2012-13 season a safe one, by wearing a fall restraint device when in a tree stand and placing blaze orange material on/around their hunting blinds. Following the rules of TAB-K,

- Treat every firearm as if it is loaded.
- Always control the muzzle
- Be sure of your target and its surroundings
- Keep your finger off the trigger until ready to shoot can also help ensure that everyone has a safe and enjoyable hunt when afield.

If you observe a possible violation or witness an unlawful act, please contact the Oneida Conservation Department at (920) 869-1450.

Singing Life back into the Tribal Community

Imagine an Oneida community where everyone can sing songs in the Oneida language and share those songs with their children and grandchildren. Imagine a place where Oneida people will know tribal traditions for much longer. This Oneida can be a reality and it is starting to take shape in the Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) through the Music from Our Culture (MOC) apprenticeship program.

Don't miss this rewarding opportunity to be a part of something fun, cultural, and educational. The MOC apprenticeship program meets every Tuesday from 5:00pm-7:00pm in the Oneida Arts Program, located at 1270B Packerland Drive, Green Bay, WI.

As a unique culture training program, the MOC apprenticeship gathers Oneida community members who want to learn traditional Oneida traditional music and dance, Oneida Hymns, and some Oneida language. It offers an exciting new way to rejuvenate the Oneida community with our own traditional music. This program has the potential to mend our cultural bridge and bring a diverse community together in a way only music can.

Once training is completed, ONAP offers a broad spectrum of opportunities from teaching certifications to potential paid performances, or just a personal interest in learning more about Oneida culture, songs, and dances.

ONAP collaborated with community members well versed in Iroquois social songs and the Oneida Hymns. Together, these seasoned singers offer a comprehensive apprenticeship program for adults and young adults, ages 16 and up, who are interested in learning music from the Oneida culture.

MOC is gladly accepting rolling admissions and will be teaching interested community members through March 2013. For more info, call Beth at 920-490-3833.

Wisconsin tops in library usage, interlibrary loan

MADISON — Wisconsin residents borrow more than 1 million library materials each week, ranking the state among the top 10 in the nation for library usage.

"The collaboration and cooperation among Wisconsin's public libraries and library systems is a testament to the value we place on libraries and the connections libraries form to serve their local communities," said State Superintendent Tony Evers. "During our recent economic struggles, libraries stepped up their employment resources. Librarians helped patrons search for jobs, write resumes, and submit employment applications online, many times in partnership with local job centers and employment organizations."

Wisconsin's 385 public libraries are part of a network of 17 public library systems that work together to fill requests, share materials, and provide services more economically than if each library worked alone. State funding for library systems was cut 10 percent each year of the 2011-13 budget, which amounts to $3.3 million over two years. Those cuts, and local and county funding decreases, have made it difficult for libraries to maintain their historic high service levels.

The $15 million in library system aid for 2013 operations will help libraries:

- Ensure that system residents have complete access to all public libraries within the system area. State residents made 34.4 million visits to public libraries and checked out 64.5 million items in 2011.
- Coordinate the sharing of library materials among participating libraries to meet user needs.

Meet & Greet Rosemary Rickard Hill

Monday • April 8, 2013 • 1:00 PM to 3:00 PM

The community is cordially invited to another Rosie Week, a bead artist workshop. Renowned and Internationally known bead artist Rosemary Hill is coming back to Oneida for a two-week bead workshop to be held at the Arts Program.

Betty Willems received an ONAP award for and is coordinating this event.

"Rosemary Rickard Hill grew up on the Tuscarora Nation, member of the Beaver Clan. Rosemary's mother, Margaret Rickard; grandmother, Hattie Williams, and great-aunt, Gertrude Chew were the first teachers. Rosemary remembers making, and playing with, beaded wirework jitterbugs, miniature chairs, cups and saucers.

"By twelve, Rosemary was sewing raised and flat beadwork on Victorian whimsies'.

Based on patterns handed down through the generations, these items were first sold to Victorian era tourists. Rosemary remembers accompanying her mother, grandmother and great-aunt to Prospect Park (Niagara Falls, NY) where the women sold their beadwork "at the brink of Niagara Falls."

"As Rosemary has continued to sew and learn, she has developed her Tuscarora technique of beading. Often inspired by turn-of-the century works, her pieces include only natural, glass, crystal, and gemstone beads. She has been teaching for about 11 years now, first doing workshops at home, then 8 years at the Niagara Historical Society and at the Tuscarora Indian School. She is also doing classes at an art gallery she is associated with. She is credited with bringing people from as far away as Germany and Canada as well as all over the United States."

Oneida Forward Yasmine Denny finishes a Thunderhawk fast break.

On Thursday, December 6, 2012 the Oneida Nation Lady Thunderhawks played a home basketball game against the Milwaukee James Madison Knights. Oneida used intense pressure defense from the opening tip to force turnovers and grab an early double-digit lead. The Lady T-Hawks continued to build upon their large lead throughout the remaining three quarters. Oneida improved their record to 4-0 with a 66-39 win over James Madison. Yasmine Denny lead all scorers with 19 points and Lindsey Danforth added 15 points in the blowout win.

On Tuesday, December 11, the Lady Thunderhawks added another victory to improve their record to 5-0 on the season. Oneida defeated Goodman/Pembine by a final score of 49-36.

Powless a success on the basketball court and soccer field

John Powless IV was part of something no other boy's soccer team has ever accomplished at Seymour High School, win a Bay Conference title.

The junior forward scored 12 goals on the season and was named All-Conference Honorable Mention team.

"My parents told me to try my hardest and leave it all on the court because I can't take it back when the game's done," Powless said.

With the soccer season over Powless is now concentrating on basketball.

"I've been playing soccer and basketball as long as I can remember," he said. I like meeting new people and making friends. (Sports) offer a different taste of what there is out there."

Powless comes off the bench for the talented and deep Seymour Thunder, but still has set lofty goals.

"We want to win the Bay Conference and I want to score about 10 points per game," he added.

Seymour Thunder guard John Powless floats a layup over a Green Bay Southwest defender.

Powless tries to model his game after his favorite player, point guard for the Sacramento Kings Jimmer Fredette. Fredette is a sharp shooter and Powless feels his shooting ability is his strength.

"I work on the Jimmer jab step and my jumping ability. I'm really not that tall so I have to shoot over opponents," he said.

So far the Thunder are on their way. They are 4-1 with a 2-0 conference record. Powless scores nearly eight points per game.

Oneida Retail Division opens new One-Stop, Market

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The newest Oneida One-Stop location opened their doors for business on Tuesday, December 18.

The store, located at the corner of Packerland Drive and Larsen Road, is home to the first ever Oneida Market. The market will feature Oneida grown eggs, white corn, bison, grass fed beef, and apples.

Wayne Skenandore, Retail's Marketing Director, explains why the Oneida Market was placed inside the new location after being located on Highway 54.

"With the transfer of the Oneida Market to the Oneida Retail group the intent is to upgrade performance by broadening the target market and implementing a business model designed for profitability and growth. The goal is to accomplish financial solvency through a sound business approach while continuing to provide a retail store for Oneida Products and Oneida Traditional remedies," said Skenandore.

The store provides a dedicated entrance along with parking area for the Oneida Market customers.

"Traffic through the facility will provide a convenient opportunity to attract customers to the Oneida Market. Converting impulse buyers into repeat loyal customers will depend on matching Oneida Market products and services with customer needs. Initial interest in the new

Visioning Sessions benefit from GTC input

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Over the years the Oneida Tribe has asked for input from its members as to what the priorities and direction of the Tribe should be. During a Special General Tribal Council (GTC) Meeting held on September 17, 2012 an amendment was passed which required the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) to develop a strong vision and clear priorities for the Tribe.

In response to that amendment the OBC organized the Visioning Sessions, which were meetings held at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center on December 17th and 18th and were designed to acquire input from the GTC.

A discussion group shares their thoughts while a note-taker records them.

"We looked through all sorts of data that we already collected through the years," said Melanie Burkhart. "We reviewed data from prior GTC actions, Quality of Life surveys from 2008 and 2010, Native Nations Institute of Oneida Market has been very positive," added Skenandore.

The new location will be open 5:00 a.m. to midnight. The Oneida Market will serve customers Monday through Friday, 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. There are now 11 retail stores including One –Stops, Smoke Shops, and the Oneida Market.

With successful return on investments for recent Oneida Retail operations expansion is always being examined.

"There are draft concepts for new stores but no approved business plans for any new Oneida Retail Enterprise stores. Due to the rapid growth of Oneida Retail Enterprise Sales and Profits in the last five years there is a directive to develop a five-year plan for growth," said Skenandore. "Based on the success and profitability of the Oneida Retail Enterprise there will likely be a few new stores in the next few years."

Along with expansion facelifts are in the works for some of the older One-Stop locations.

"Oneida Retail will maintain the existing stores to remain competitive, meet regulations, and address health, safety and environmental issues. The Hwy 54 store is overdue for a complete remodel and will likely happen in the next few years," Skenandore said.

The up and running Oneida Retail enterprises continue to generate a profit during a down economy and tight budget.

"Oneida Retail is committed to profitability and growth to support the Oneida General Fund and Oneida Community Services," Skenandore said. "Oneida Retail is a triple success story generating profits for the general fund, jobs for Tribal members, and reservation land use that generates a high return-on-investment."

Singing in support of First Nations

Approximately 200 community members gathered at a Flash Round Dance held at the Bay Park Square Mall in Ashwaubenon on Friday, December 21 in support of First Nation communities in Canada. First Nations have been protesting the passage of a federal omnibus budget Bill C-45 which has provisions that remove environmental protections of waterways and makes it easier to sell reserve lands to private corporations. Protests have been held across Canada organized mostly through social media. Attawapiskat First Nations Chief Theresa Spence has been on a hunger strike since mid-December and will continue until she's granted a meeting with Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

School safety updates requested after Connecticut shooting

OBC passes resolutions addressing school safety during special meeting

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) passed a pair of resolutions addressing safety at the Oneida schools and buildings after discussion with safety administration and department heads at a special OBC meeting held Tuesday, December 18. The topic was added to a meeting agenda in reaction to the school shooting in Connecticut December 14 where 26 people were killed, 20 of which were elementary school children.

The first resolution requests that Director of Emergency Management Marty Antone complete a report on updated security measures by January 9. The second action was to forward a Violence in the Workplace policy to the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) for their next meeting agenda.

The resolutions came after discussion various heads of departments charged with keeping Oneida safe as well as the Oneida School Board, Oneida Nation School System Superintendent Sharon Mousseau, and other department directors.

OPD Police Chief Rich VanBoxtel assured the OBC that his department is prepared for an emergency situation.

"We've practiced several times over the last couple of years trying to get ahead of this," said VanBoxtel. "Are we prepared for this, absolutely, have we been training for this, absolutely, will we continue do that, absolutely."

Gaming Director of Security Owen Somers suggested some improvements that could be made to make entry to the schools more difficult such as stronger glass doors, and video cameras.

"Let's focus now on the physical security of these buildings," said Somers.

Both Somers and Oneida School Board Chair Susan White suggested that the high school be moved out of the Norbert Hill Center and put in a separate building for greater security.

"The reason why the school board is asking for a new school, we're really moving towards our own building for the high school, safety is the main reason for that," said White.

The meeting followed a tobacco burning that was held at the Oneida Nation Elementary School with students from kindergarten to high school in attendance. The ceremony was held to offer encouragement to the community of Sandy Hook Elementary in dealing with their tragedy.

From 1A/Visioning Sessions

Governance and Analysis of Nation Building Sessions in 2007 and 2012, data from Comprehensive Planning in 2008, Balanced Scorecard Initiatives, and the Residential Plan for 2006-2030."

Using that plethora of data priorities were identified and divided into five categories to allow for better discussion. The priorities identified and discussed at the meeting consisted of community development, revitalization of language and culture, strengthen governmental sovereignty and jurisdiction, citizen needs such as health, education, and employment, economy, finance, and economic development.

For discussion participants were split into small groups with an assigned facilitator, notetaker, and OBC member where they were encouraged to share ideas, suggestions, and goals.

"When you look at GTC meetings with over 1,000 people some are timid to speak in front of big groups. So by design we had people pair up and share, then those pairs shared with their larger group of 15 people or so," Burkhart said.

By creating smaller groups all participants have the opportunity to have their voice heard in the room allowing for much more data to be collected.

Despite the meeting setup being ideal for maximum input there were some who felt the true outcome of the meeting is yet to be seen.

"I'm not really sure I like this sort of meeting. My fear is that the council members are going to pick out subjects and ideas that they want to hear or that they will benefit from by pursuing. That upsets me a little bit," said Lynn Bowman.

For some in attendance the meeting seemed to have a familiar feel.

"I don't mind this type of meeting, but for me it depends on what comes out of it. We've had meetings similar to this in the past and nothing ever came out of it. But whatever type of meeting can get those positive changes then I'm all for it," said Wes Martin.

While direct results of the Visioning Sessions have yet to be realized there is a benefit to having community members discuss the future of the Oneida Tribe.

"I like this. I think it is good for communities to hold this sort of meeting. But what is going to come of it? That is up to us. It is up to us to hold our leaders accountable and say we discussed these things we made our voices heard," added Bernie Stevens.

This type of interaction between the GTC and the OBC is something that will occur continuously. There are hopes that these meetings will take place annually or tri-annually.

I hear the many CHRISTMAS SONGS that people hold so dear

the CHRISTMAS CHOIR up here.

I have no words to tell you of the JOY

I know HOW MUCH YOU MISS ME,

De Braska, James Clifford
March 28, 1950 – November 10, 2012

James Clifford De Braska was born March 28, 1950. His grandmother was Rose Vera Silas.

He served in the US Army from September 9, 1969 to August 3, 1971 which included a tour of Vietnam as a combat medic, drill sergeant for a platoon of WACS and command of a medical clinic.

James attended St. Phillips College 1978-1980 and Southwest Texas State University 1979-1988.

His first teaching position was at Edgewood where he taught auto body and small engine repair. For six years in a row his students took top honors in vocational state competitions, and some of the projects went on to win national honors.

His last two teaching assignments were for East Central High School where he taught GED readiness, and for the Bexar County Learning Center, a facility for juveniles convicted of crimes.

He loved teaching not only in the classroom setting but every conversation or activity was an opportunity to teach. He taught our kids and any other kids hanging around about construction while working on the house and out buildings and auto body repair. He also learned from everyone. He would show interest and ask questions.

Sharing the life of Jim De Braska was an adventure, you never knew what he was going to do or say. He was a fixer of all kinds of things, he was a prayer leader, he was a good father to our kids and all the kids who came around the house. He was a teller of corny jokes. He was kind, sincere and generous. He was admired, for regardless of his challenges, he never gave up.

James was survived by wife Grace De Braska; Daughter Bonnie De Braska-Carr (Michael Dane); Grandson Edward Leonard Carr; Son Leonard James (Marsha Marie); Granddaughter Kaylee Marie, Lilly Paige De Braska; Mother Joyce Novak; Uncle Dickie Jones; Sisters Lee Mundt, Arlett Hanson; Brothers Buddy De Braska and Bradly De Braska and sister Lori De Braska.

Per his wishes Jim will be cremated and the ashes set to rest at Bayview Harbor Yacht Club, Milwaukee, his childhood fishing inspiration.

Guest Editorial - The Passing of Sen. Daniel K. Inouye

Ernest L. Stevens Jr. NIGA Chairman & Kevin Leecy NIGA Vice-Chairman

We mourn the loss of our friend, leader and elder statesman, Senator Daniel K. Inouye. Dan Inouye was one of the giants of our time, serving in the Senate for 50 years and in the House before that. Senator Inouye's tenure in Congress reaches back to Hawaii's statehood and the election of President John F. Kennedy. His tenure reaches forward to the election of President Barack Obama, whom he served as a mentor and councilor.

Senator Inouye was a warrior for our Nation and a warrior for civil rights. After surviving Pearl Harbor, when the United States interned his Japanese American people as foreign enemies, Dan Inouye left his job as a Sunday school teacher to volunteer for the Army. He fought in some of the most fierce battles in the Allied liberation of Italy, leading his men through danger. He lost his arm and earned the Congressional Medal of Honor, leading his men in the capture of a fiercely fortified German redoubt. Later, he secured an American apology to the Japanese American people for their wrongful internment.

He was a champion who stood strong and firm in his beliefs, which were instilled on to him as a young boy by his mother to do whatever he could to help his people and he truly cared for our Native people.

In 1986, Senator Inouye was appointed as the Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs, which he later used his influence in the Senate to establish as a full Committee. As Chairman, Senator Inouye moved some of the most important Indian legislation of our time through the Senate, including:

- The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act
- Established the National Museum of the American Indian
- The Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act
- The Tribal Self-Governance Act
- The American Indian Trust Fund Management Act
- The Indian Financing Act
- The Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act
- The Native American Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Act

Senator Inouye recognized the difficult history between the United States and Native Americans. Addressing the United States Apology to Native Americans, Senator Inouye said:

"In our early days as a nation, we entered into treaties with Native Americans pursuant to the provisions of the U.S. Constitution that recognize them as sovereigns. But later, we abandoned the path of an honorable course of dealings, and turned to war.... The treaties could have signaled a return to a course of honorable dealings ... had the United States not proceeded to break provisions in every single one of the treaties...."

When Indian country faced difficult times and outside interest groups attacked Indian rights, Indian Country could completely rely on Senator Inouye's support for American Indian rights. For example, in the 109th Congress, when Indian gaming was under attack, Senator Inouye worked to provide fairness and to protect the integrity of the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act.

Senator Ben Nighthorse Campbell said of his longtime friend and colleague, "I was saddened to learn of the passing of my dear friend, Danny Inouye. Senator Inouye was both a mentor and a brother to me. He was a great American who served his country as a war hero and as a great statesman."

"When I was chairman of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, he was my vice chair, and when he was chairman, I was his vice chair. There was never any partisanship on our committee, we always shared the gavel. There would not even have been a full committee on Indian Affairs in the senate, if not for Senator Inouye. Senator Inouye was a champion of Indian sovereignty and a man of enormous compassion. He was the go-to guy for Indian Country."

"There will never be another Dan Inouye. I am happy to have been a part of his life." Statement of Ben Nighthorse Campbell, Northern Cheyenne, U.S. Senator (CO-Retired).

Senator Inouye was a champion for Indian sovereignty, and while he was not a supporter of gaming, he respected the right of Indian nations as sovereigns to choose gaming to provide for their communities, and would often tell us "Never give up your sovereignty. It is the foundation for your survival."

Senator Inouye was like a father to us. He was Indian Country's Champion. To us, he is a true Chief, vested with dignity, love for the American people and our Nation, and a deep sense of the Nation's honor.

Senator Inouye had a special place in his heart for Native peoples, and we embrace the legacy that he left to tribal governments. His work is embedded in the growing presence Indian country asserts in Washington, D.C. today. He is our foundation.

We honor and thank Senator Inouye for all of his work, his friendship, and support. On behalf of Indian country, we wish him well on the journey to the Spirit World."

Almost $1 Million Donated to 30 Children's Charities in Southeast Wisconsin

Thirty children's charities from southeastern Wisconsin are celebrating tonight after Potawatomi Bingo Casino announced they raised $981,273 during the 2012 Miracle on Canal Street program. Each charity will receive $32,709.

"With the holiday season around the corner, we are all getting ready for the festivities," NIGA Chairman Ernie Stevens said at the event. "This year's Miracle on Canal Street really puts us in the right spirit. They are bringing together team members, guests, business partners and the community for one common goal—to help improve the lives of children in southeastern Wisconsin."

Miracle on Canal Street is the Casino's signature charitable program. Its mission is to improve the quality of life for children in southeastern Wisconsin. Money for the program is raised primarily through special Miracle bingo games and the generosity of Potawatomi Bingo Casino guests. The funds have been accumulating throughout the year and the 2012 total was revealed during an event tonight in the Casino's Nest of Life Bingo Hall.

"Every holiday season I am humbled to be a part of the Miracle on Canal Street program," said Melanie Martin, Bingo Director at Potawatomi Bingo Casino. "It warms my heart to see these charitable organizations provide critical services and hope to younger generations."

Twenty of those 30 benefiting charities were randomly selected immediately after the fundraising total was announced.

The organizations benefiting from tonight's contributions will use Miracle on Canal Street funds to improve young lives in our community by making sure children have a place to sleep, eat and play – from educational services to emergency shelter, from adoptive services to extracurricular activities. Penfield Children's Center will use the funds to provide medical monitoring and specialized services for infants and toddlers in their Special Care Nursery.

"The children we serve face incredible challenges with health and education issues, as well as economic hardships," said Christine Holmes, President and CEO of Penfield Children's Center. "The funds we receive from Miracle on Canal Street will go a long way toward improving their quality of life and chances for future success."

For the first time this year, funds were also raised through ticket sales in the Northern Lights Theater and its popular Tribute to the King competition, as well by guests who ordered special menu items in the Casino's restaurants.

Gaming management needs to change

I have a question for the gaming management: have you ever watched Undercover Boss? It's a program about executives leaving their corner office to examine the inner workings of their companies. While working alongside their employees, they see the effects that their decisions have on others, where the problems lie within their organizations and get an up-close look at both the good and bad while discovering the unsung heroes who make their companies run. I highly suggest this for all gaming management from supervisors all the way up to Gaming General Manager Louise Cornelius.

At a January 2, 2012 General Tribal Council meeting we had Louise and Assistant Gaming General Manager of Finance Chad Fuss give an overview of what's going on in gaming. I heard Louise mention there will be more training for the employees for customer service. My question is why is it always for the front line employees? Why don't you take a look at management as they say the company is only failing if there is no good leadership?

Good managers realize that to get and keep great people, they have to move past the dollars-and-cents transactions and let people own their jobs. Good leaders give people latitude and let them know that their contributions have value. Lousy managers, on the other hand, love to remind employees that it's all about the transaction. "You work for me." They never fail to remind team members that someone else would take the job if you ever get sick of it or let the lousy manager down in some way.

Here's a joke I found:

An Indian walks into a café with a shotgun in one hand and a bucket of buffalo manure in the other. He says to the waiter, "Me want coffee."

The waiter says, "Sure, chief, coming right up." He gets the Indian a mug of coffee, and the Indian drinks it down, picks up the bucket of manure, throws it into the air, blasts it with the shotgun, then just walks out.

The next morning the Indian returns. He has his shotgun in one hand and a bucket of manure in the other. He walks up to the counter and says to the waiter, "Me want coffee." The waiter says, "Whoa, Tanto, we're still cleaning up your mess from the last time you were here. What the heck was that all about, anyway?"

The Indian smiles and proudly says, "Me in training for upper management. Come in, drink coffee, shoot the crap, and disappear for the rest of the day."

This is how I feel about our supervisors/managers/executives at the Oneida Bingo and Casino. We need more training for these individuals so that our main source of revenue will continue and not disappear, as we all know gaming is important to our people. Gaming executives/managers need to stop pointing the blame on the front line employees and take a good look at what they do themselves.

Happy holidays,
Gladys Dallas

OPD activity

Did anyone notice the picture in the Lifestyles of the 13th issue where the Police Chief was making blankets. Is this where the tax money goes or be it grant money this sort of stuff has to stop now. He can go down southwest and do this all day. This government has been talking about gang activity all year long and I assume your cars are running at the same time. It's time for a Native Police Chief to handle such a big duty.

Thank you,
Russell Skenandore II

What does Hoyan mean to you?

By Portia Kayanthos Skenandore-Wheelock

Oyá·n, which translates to "another one" in English and is commonly spelled Hoyan, (pronounced ho-yawn) has been an Oneida celebration on New Year's Day for as long as anyone in the community can remember. It's a time for visiting family and friends and, of course, eating lots of donuts! Elders remember getting bundled up and walking or taking a sleigh pulled by horses door-to-door shouting "Hoyan!" and receiving sweets, breads, and apples from those that answered. They would bring pillow cases along to fill with all their goodies, often compared to trick or treating on Halloween. It was a day that Oneida children looked forward to all year long. Today, Oneidas use Hoyan as a New Year's greeting and many still make donuts and go visiting with people they know. Some families still go door-to-door and this is the part of the holiday that elders who have shared their stories of Hoyan with us would like to see more Oneidas doing. If you would like to read some Hoyan stories and memories gathered from elders we have a growing collection at Oneida Cultural Heritage and there are several books at the Oneida Library that contain more Hoyan pieces. Tribal Historian Loretta Metoxen will be making Hoyan donuts at Cultural Heritage on New Year's Eve morning for anyone that would like to come visit and share Hoyan stories and recipes. If you are out of town and would like to share your Hoyan story or recipe with the History Program you can email them to pwheeloc@oneidanation.org or write to the Oneida History Program, P.O. ## They gather the Names

By Julie Denny
Estate Claims Assistant
Enrollment Department

She koli Swakwe Ku (Greetings to All)

I'm hoping everyone had a joyous holiday season and can begin this New Year with even greater goals and achievements. As your Estate Claims Assistant, one of my goals for 2013 is to get more members to complete and submit their Beneficiary Designation forms in regards to the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP).

Currently we have over 6000 members (47%) who have not submitted their "Beneficiary Designation" forms into the Enrollment office. I strongly encourage those members to take the time and submit this important form.

General Information on OLIPP

General Tribal Council approved OLIPP back in October 2009. This action replaced the prior $5000 Burial Fund. The Burial Fund no longer exists, what we currently have is a $15,000 Term Life Insurance policy. It's a free benefit afforded to all enrolled tribal members and the Oneida Tribe pays your monthly premium.

Julie Denny

Intent of OLIPP

The intent of the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP) is to provide life insurance to all tribal members to help cover the cost of their final expenses. While you are living, you can control who will be the recipient of the benefit by completing the Beneficiary Designation Form.

What you should consider when selecting a Primary Beneficiary

Selecting a primary beneficiary is a very personal choice only you can make. You can list any person (s) of your choosing or it can be an entity such as a church, organization or charity. You can make beneficiary changes at any time. Also consider submitting a new beneficiary form when you have a life changing event such as a marriage, divorce, birth, adoption, or death of a beneficiary.

When listing a beneficiary(ies) you must list a percentage (Example: if you list a son and daughter—do you want it to be 50% going to each or maybe 60% & 40%.) DO NOT list dollar amounts. The total amongst the beneficiaries must equal 100%.

What is the Beneficiary's Role?

The beneficiary is the person who will be responsible for you final expenses which can include but not be limited to your funeral arrangements (funeral homes may require these individuals to sign agreements for your funeral arrangements). The beneficiary(ies) selected is someone you trust to carry out your final wishes. It's very important you communicate your final wishes with your beneficiary.

What if I don't trust that my Beneficiary will pay my final expenses?

In these cases, on the Beneficiary Designation form, it is recommended that you place an "x" in Section B-Designated Primary Beneficiary box. This states you have selected the Oneida Enrollment Department as your primary beneficiary. Therefore, your funeral expenses will be paid first and whoever you designated as your primary beneficiary in Section C-Primary Beneficiaries--will get any remaining balance.

If you're married and selected box "B", your spouse must sign the spousal waiver in Section E. Also, if you don't list your spouse as a primary beneficiary, he/she must still sign the spousal waiver.

What if an adult member passes away and doesn't have a Beneficiary Form on file?

When an adult member passes away, EPIC will research and pay the first individual(s) using the following naming sequence:

- Surviving Widow or widower, if none, then
- Surviving Children (natural, or legally adopted), if none, then
- Surviving Grandchild or grandchildren, if none, then
- Surviving Parent(s), if none, then
- Surviving Brother(s) or Sister(s), if none, then
- Members Estate

When a member passes away and doesn't have a beneficiary designation form on file, it can become an added stress to families of how funeral invoice and final expenses get paid. Remember, whoever signs the funeral home invoice is responsible for payment.

What if minor children pass away?

Members under the age of 18 are not able to designate a beneficiary. Therefore, the following naming sequence will be followed in the event of a Minor Child's death:

- Surviving Widow or Widower, if none, then
- Surviving Children (natural, legally adopted, or unborn), if none, then
- Surviving Parent(s) if none, then
- Surviving Grandparent(s), if none, then
- Members Estate

In the event of a minor child's death, be prepared to provide one (1) original State Certified Birth Certificate and parental or legal guardian information including: Full legal name, current mailing address, social security number, court ordered Guardianship paperwork, if applies.

Case senarios when Beneficiary Forms are not submitted:

In cases with no beneficiary form on file and naming sequence falls to the living children, here is an example of a situation that occurred.

- Member had several children, not all the children wanted to help pay for the funeral expenses, some children received the whole portion of their share while others only received a small portion or no portion of their share.
- Member had several children that required the funeral home to contact as many of the children as possible to try to get them to contribute a portion of their share to cover the funeral expenses. This took several months & delayed payment of the benefit.

Minor children as Beneficiaries

If you only list minor children (under age of 18) as your primary beneficiary, and you pass away, there will be no monies available for your funeral/final expenses. According to the Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, the monies will be paid to the custodian or legal guardian on behalf of the minor child(ren). Those monies must be spent on the minor child(ren) and cannot be turned over to pay your funeral costs.

We've had cases where a single parent unexpectedly died, the member had no beneficiary on file, during the naming sequence the first living person available was the minor child(ren). Therefore all the monies went to the custodian or legal guardian(s) of those children. The surviving member's family had to absorb the entire funeral cost and pay out of their own pockets.

To avoid placing such burden on your family member, we recommend checking the box in Section B, designating Oneida Enrollment Department as a primary beneficiary. If you still want to list minor child(ren), they would get any remaining balance after funeral invoice is paid.

Or you can establish a trust account in your child's name. Call us for more details.

What do I do when a member passes away?

When family member passes away, please contact the Enrollment Department to notify us of their death. We will need 2 original death certificates submitted to our office to file a claim with the insurance company. EPIC Life Insurance will process the claim, on average it takes about 2-4 weeks to receive the benefit. Processing time may take longer when the information on the Beneficiary Designation Form is outdated, no beneficiary form is on file, or if getting the death certificates are delayed. Please keep your Beneficiary form updated with any changes in names, address changes and phone contacts. Families or beneficiaries have 365 days from the date of death to file a claim.

OLIPP can work for you

Given the above scenarios which have happened and were undoubtedly stressful situations for families, OLIPP is a great benefit which can provide the membership peace of mind knowing funeral and final expenses can be taken care. BUT that can't happen UNLESS you submit your Beneficiary Designation form. Take control today by designating a beneficiary.

Other Important Information

In the event a child between the age of 0-5 (and who is eligible for enrollment, but not enrolled) passes away or a child age 6 who has an enrollment application pending, we offer the "Children's Burial Fund". If a child is deemed eligible for enrollment, this benefit will fund up to $3500 for funeral expenses. These expenses are paid directly to the funeral homes, cemeteries, churches, monument companies, or other related vendors.

If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to contact me at 920-869-6212, toll-free at 1-800-571-9902 or email me at jdenny@oneidanation.org and I can walk you thru the process. Yawako!

Red Lake school shooting survivors head to Newtown

By Steve Karnowskil
Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS ~ Survivors of the 2005 school shootings on the Red Lake Indian Reservation in Minnesota left for Connecticut on Wednesday to help comfort those grieving the killings at Sandy Hook Elementary School and repay the support Red Lake received from Columbine survivors.

Most members of the contingent belonged to the Red Lake High School Class of 2008. Now in their 20s, they were teens when a 16-year-old classmate killed his grandfather and grandfather's girlfriend and then drove to the school, where he killed five students, a teacher and a security guard before killing himself. Five others were wounded in the shooting spree.

Soon after, two survivors of the 1999 shootings at Columbine High School in Colorado traveled to the Ojibwe reservation in northern Minnesota with a kind of sympathy few others could demonstrate. They presented a plaque to Red Lake students that the delegation now plans to pass on to the students and teachers in Newtown with an added inscription for Sandy Hook.

"They understand. They've walked through this before," said Stephanie Hope Smith, who worked with other Rotary Club members to organize the trip.

Justin Jourdain, a 2008 graduate of Red Lake High School, was in the school during the March 21, 2005, shooting. He came up with the idea of going to Connecticut and said the visit from the Columbine survivors was helpful.

"It helped a lot, just knowing there are other people out there who understood what we were going through," Jourdain told The Pioneer of Bemidji Tuesday night before the group left.

Thirteen people set out from Minnesota in three cars Wednesday, Smith said, while several other Red Lake Nation members including a youth honor drum group planned to fly.

The group planned to meet with school staff in Newtown on Thursday and attend students' holiday musical on Friday.

They're going as "a ministry of presence, just about being there and supporting," Smith said. Like the Columbine survivors who visited Red Lake, they plan to offer whatever support they can in hopes of bringing "a step of closure" to Newtown, with a message "that healing can come and will come," she said.

Exactly how they'll help hasn't been determined, Smith said, but they might be able to work behind the scenes to relieve the burden on school staff or community volunteers, perhaps giving them a chance to step away from the phones and catch their breath. "They're very sensitive to the idea of not creating a burden," Smith said.

Young to remain chair of House subcommittee

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) ~ Alaska Rep. Don Young will continue to serve as chairman of a U.S. House subcommittee on Indian and Alaska Native Affairs.

Young, in a statement, said the panel intends to conduct "vigorous oversight" of the U.S. Interior Department, as well as promote natural resource development by tribes.

The subcommittee falls within the House Natural Resources Committee, on which Young will also continue to serve during the next Congress.

Young's spokesman says the Republican also will remain on the House Transportation Committee.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Tribal Treasurer

With a New Year right around the corner I hope everyone can look back at the past year and be pleased with their accomplishments as well as have learned from their struggles. Personally, I enjoy this time of year, snow and all, because I am able to review our audited financial reports as well as reflect on how my staff and the Tribe has performed over the past year. I cannot say enough good things about the Finance Department and how much they alone have helped the Tribe in being frugal with our money.

Being tight with our purse strings is never a popular subject. Some departments of the Tribe believe we have a money tree growing behind the Norbert Hill Center and when we need cash, we simply go pick some. Obviously this is untrue and it has been nothing short of difficult to hold people accountable to work within the budgets they created; while others understand our financial situation and strive to do whatever they can to lower their costs. I would like to personally thank those areas for their dedication to the Tribe and their efforts to preserve our money.

Part of being able to cut costs is having the ability to look ahead. This is an initiative Chairman Delgado is trying to relay to the Community with the Visioning Sessions that were recently held at the Radisson. During the session I attended, many good ideas were given. I was surprised at just how in tune our young people are with our current struggles and how willing they were to jump in and help us develop solutions. Thank you to everyone who was a part of this community session.

One topic that I enjoy reporting on is the progress of the Anna John Resident Centered Care Community. Recently I took a walk through the building and was very pleased at how beautiful the facility is. Each resident room is large with a tiny kitchenette, bathroom, bedroom, and living area. Each room has a large beautiful window to allow natural sunlight. I am very happy with this facility but was dismayed when I found out it will not be Veteran Certified at opening. What that means is, if residents have long term care private insurance or can pay out of pocket, they will be welcomed at the AJRCCC as long as their specific needs can be addressed by the staff. A Veteran however, that relies on Veteran's Benefits for medical and long term care will not admitted unless they can pay for their stay out of their own pocket. This is unfortunate and something I am told is being addressed, yet this is something that should have been included in the original project plan. Even though I did not have any part in the development of the AJRCCC project plan, to our Oneida Veterans and their families, I apologize for this critical mistake. I know that does nothing for our Oneida Veterans who are in need of long term care now but hope you will assist me in holding the parties responsible to their word that the AJRCCC will become Veteran Certified within the next year.

I would like to wish everyone a safe, happy, and healthy 2013. Hoyan!

OBC Forum...

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

I hope that all of you are enjoying a wonderful holiday season filled with family and friends. As I reflect on the year I am frustrated with the roadblocks and bureaucracy that have continued to get in the way of progress. Yet I am hopeful this New Year that we can make positive changes and progress towards achieving economic diversification and stability.

Turning the Corner – Restructuring and Economic Diversification

On the restructuring front, I have prepared a memo for release outlining my thoughts on restructuring and bring forth some suggestions and ideas for actions that should be considered by the OBC.

Economic Suggestions

I. The Immediate Urgency

Well over $600 million dollars has been spent since 1982 trying to engage in economic growth and diversification for the Oneida Tribe and the results have been abysmal. Positive business relations with the broader outside business community have to be forged in order to see results. In particular, there are four areas that need to be pursued in conjunction with a broader development community:

1) Jobs

– Jobs need to be created and not necessarily tribal jobs. There is a viable work force in the Oneida community along with three empty business parks. Joint partnerships, public and private partnerships and other job creation ideas should be pursued aggressively to bring jobs to this community and to build a viable small business environment.

2) Economic Diversification

– The economy of this tribe needs to be diversified in order to confront the successive years of projected budget deficits. Without economic diversification, layoffs of tribal employees may unfortunately result. Clearly, the preferred path is to avoid layoffs by pursuing diversification. A part of succeeding in diversification will be to retool the Oneida Economic Development Authority (OEDA) so that it can be up and running on all cylinders immediately.

3) Enterprises

– Creating and fostering an environment for the funding and creation of Native American enterprises and Tribal enterprises. This includes moving immediately to examine existing Tribal enterprises to see how the performance of all tribal enterprises can be maximized and to see what improvements can be made to increase revenue generation.

4) Economic Corridors

– Throughout the Oneida Reservation there are roads leading in and out of the reservation, economic opportunities abound at all of these key corridors. Plans, which emphasis business development along these corridors, should include partnering with development partner(s) which can let the development community at large weigh-in on these matters.

II. Personnel Related

1) Voluntary 32 Hour Week

– An option for employees to choose voluntarily to work 32 hours a week while still remaining categorized as a full-time employees should be allowed.

2) Hiring –

Management and the OBC should continue to carefully scrutinize the number of full-time positions being filled. There are important questions that should be fully vetted before a position is approved to be filled, whether it is a new position or to fill a vacancy.

3) Job Sharing

– Along the same line as the prior two points, we need to take a serious look at allowing employees to work part-time in more than one tribal business unit for up to 40 hours. This would allow an employee to possibly continue at full-time status while working in two or more areas of the Tribe. This would promote effective use of our personnel resources. Ultimately, positions should be reevaluated for their full-time status on a regular basis so we can offer additional opportunities to our employees who may be in a position which does not have a 40 hour a week workload.

4) Contracted Full-Time Employees - A review of the number of contracted full-time employees should be re-examined. I would recommend a report be completed which indicates the current number of full-time contracted employees. A more thorough breakdown should help us more thoroughly analyze our contracts.

5) Transfers and Job Reassignments

– The transfer and job reassignment process should be reviewed and updated so the Tribe can fill needed positions and move staff around more efficiently, fairly and timely. The overall personnel policies and procedures are being worked on, but I feel there are some possible options that could be pursued now to bring the transfer and job reassignments more in-line with our immediate needs.

III. Enterprises Related

1) Credit Card Transaction Fees

– I am sure as everyone is aware, there is a cost to a business each time a credit card is used. Tribal businesses which are incurring credit cards transaction fees should be closely analyzed for cost savings opportunities that could occur if customers were to pay by cash due to a rewards or incentive plan. If an analysis reveals a potential for cost savings, I would ultimately like to see an incentive package put together to reduce costs.

2) Department of Commerce

– We need to create a viable Department of Commerce that concentrates on making money, OEDA would be the vehicle. Under this scenario is the ability for the tribe to exercise tribal sovereignty which is among the most sacred of all tribal possessions.

The economic vitality of our tribe is dependent upon us exercising our sovereign rights and authority through the establishment and implementation of a Department of Commerce (OEDA). A Department of Commerce should be structured by way of Business Code development and strong economic planning.

I have seen for some twenty plus years, viable economic opportunities come and go. We need a Department of Commerce to harness these opportunities now.

IV. Cost Saving Potential

1) Analysis

– I am requesting that the OBC revisit and have an analysis completed on the matrix sent by the former General Manager which offered up suggestions on possible cost saving areas. Although not all suggestions are feasible or advisable at this point in the restructuring process, I believe there are some points which are worth taking a second look at with the hopes that dialogue will prompt a solution that can be pursued on a more immediate basis. Ultimately, if a division can be combined and realigned with like services the number of divisions could be reduced resulting in few upper management positions and a more logical alignment of like services and departments.

2) Boards, Committees, and Commissions

– Overall, the number of boards, committees, and commissions need to be reviewed to ensure they are all still needed and are pursuing worthy goals in line with the Tribe's goals.

3) Outsourcing

– In general, I would like to see our upper level management continually assess and review their operations for opportunities to outsource when in the best interest of the tribe. I believe there are some areas in the organization where it is fiscally more logical to outsource activities to maximize cost savings.

Chairman's Report

By Ed Delgado
Chairman

Trip to New York Indian Nation

On November 29th, Tribal Secretary Patty Hoeft, Councilman Bandon Stevens, Senior Policy Advisor Diane House and I met with the New York Oneida governing council. Several issues were brought up in our discussions that will need further discussions with the rest of the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and Oneida General Tribal Council(GTC):

(1) Lands in New York. We, the Oneida Tribe, own seven properties in New York. Most were purchased for specific purposes that may no longer be valid. For example, beginning in 1996, the GTC directed the Business Committee to purchase land over which we would assert our jurisdiction (GTC Resolution 9-1696-A). The intent of that purchase was also for leverage purposes aimed at bringing the New York Oneidas and New York State to the negotiating table during litigation of our Land Claims. The property was also further to be designated the site of the New York Development Office (which has been defunct for many years). Then around 2003-2005, the OBC directed the acquisition of several more properties, again with the intent of establishing a presence in New York and with the hopes of asserting our rights to lands in New York. One of these purchases is adjacent to the New York Oneida Nation's golf course. Can you imagine our outrage if another Indian Tribe purchased land adjacent to our golf course with the intent to establish governance over that land? Another of the purchases made around that time is a farm that is an eye-sore and an embarrassment (broken and boarded up windows and trees growing where doorways once stood). Needless to say, there are problems in our relations with the New York Oneidas.

(2) Governance in New York – Back in 1990, the OBC passed Resolution 9-28-90-B, which in summary states that we have historically adopted the position of not interfering with the internal matters of the New York Oneidas and that we have no intentions of establishing a government in New York. After several years of maintaining this position, circumstances and direction changed in our pursuit of the settling of Land Claims to where GTC took a reversal of this action 1996 (stated above) and directed the purchase of lands specifically for governance purposes. That pursuit of governance in New York has not happened and most likely, would not be allowed under Federal law. But our Tribe continues to expend valuable and diminishing Tribal financial resources in the pursuit of governance on those lands. It is questionable as to whether we can sustain that kind of spending.

(3) Establishing Better Relation with the New York Oneidas – The purpose of the meeting with the New York Oneidas was to begin reestablishing a better relationship after several decades of disagreement over land claims issues such as governance and rights in New York. They have also maintained the same position over the last twenty years with regard to wanting us to stay out of their internal affairs. In the past, for whatever reasons, we have interfered with their internal matters. This was bought up again in our meeting with New York Oneidas, a continuing point of contention between our governments. In our discussions, their leadership has indicated that if we really mean what we say as to noninterference, they would be willing to try and establish a better relationship with us to the point that they recognize that New York is our homelands, and that.

A Message to the Tribe...

A Time to Reflect and Give Thanks – This holiday season, in the midst of a nation of people of all colors and backgrounds mourning the senseless and horrible tragedy of Newtown, Connecticut, maybe it's time to give a special thanks to our Creator for the blessings bestowed upon us, that being our families, and especially our babies who are so precious to us all. And then let's pray for a world where good-will-towards-each-other is on the lips and in the hearts of all people.

From 2B/Chairman's Corner

with us to the point that they recognize that New York is our homelands, and that someday, our people would be welcomed in their territory, however not as citizens of their Nation.

With regard to seeking a potential legislative remedy, it has been recommended by our legal counsel that having the New York Oneidas jointly support this pursuit would have a greater effect on those from whom we are seeking a remedy. Seeking a legislative remedy was briefly mentioned in our meeting with the New York Oneidas, a direction that they indicated that they could potentially consider supporting.

Conclusion

There is a limited number of Oneidas on this place we call our Mother. It is my hope that the 3 Oneida nations get along better, that we love each other as Oneidas and as citizens of our nations, whether they live in Canada, New York or Wisconsin. This can only be possible if we choose to move forward with the good minds provided to us by our Creator.

Public Hearing Notices

11:30am • Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

January 10, 2013

Purpose:
Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law Amendments

The intent of these amendments (the Amendments) is to permanently update the Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law for the 2013-2014 hunting season.

The Amendments are based on a joint request from the Oneida Conservation Department and the Environmental Resources Board and would:

Remove the requirement that firearms, including a muzzleloader, rifle, handgun, be encased while being transported in a vehicle.

Allow hunters to carry a concealed handgun while hunting if it is legal to hunt with the handgun.

Allow any individual to hunt with a crossbow, not just those individuals who have a special permit.

Decrease the number of persons lawfully allowed to participate in a deer hunting party from sixteen (16) to ten (10).

Remove the requirement that an individual wear a back tag while hunting.

Clarifies that Tribal members and non-members who receive an Oneida sportsman license or land use permit from the Tribe can be fined for violating the Law.

Give eligible Tribal members, their spouses, dependents and descendants Oneida sportsman licenses, as opposed to sportsman licenses; and eligible non-members would receive land use permits, instead of sportsman licenses.

Enable descendants of Tribal members, in addition to dependents, to obtain an Oneida sportsman license.

Limit Tribal members to one sustenance permit per household.

Clarify the requirements for a group to be eligible for a ceremonial/feast permit.

Allow Hunter Safety Course Graduates to receive a Hunter's Choice permit within 1 year after passing the Course.

Allow hunters to use dogs during the Fall turkey season.

Increase the turkey permit fees for non-elder adults.

Require individuals who have dog training permits to include the location where any birds will be released; currently only the manner in which the bird will be marked or identified is required.

Clarify that permission to hunt on land, in addition to an Oneida sportsman license or land use permit, is necessary to hunt without violating the Law.

Clarify the muzzleloader season runs for two weeks following gun deer season and closes on a Sunday.

The Oneida Tribal General Council created the Oneida Tribal Judicial System also known as the Oneida Appeals Commission by Resolution No. 8-19-91-A along with the Tribe's Administrative Procedures Act. The mission statement of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System states: "to enhance and protect the self-government and sovereignty of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, whose jurisdiction extends over all persons and cases in law and equity arising within the boundaries of the Oneida Tribe, or cases that affect the Oneida Tribe under the protection of the Oneida Constitution."

The purpose of the enactment of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System includes providing a clear separation of powers, consistent procedures of law and rule-making, and due process for the membership. In addition, the Administrative Procedures Act requires the Oneida Tribe to provide a forum for appeals of administrative errors and contested issues that ensures fairness and notice to its membership. Under the Indian Civil Rights Act of 1968, U.S.C. (Sec 1301-1303) the federal government supports tribal members rights to 'petition for redress of grievance' for the membership, which is the responsibility of the Oneida Tribal Judiciary.

The following is a list of cases the Oneida Tribal Judicial System currently reviews;
- Employment disputes (appeals from original hearing bodies)
- Tribal enrollment disputes
- Hunting and Fishing disputes
- Foreclosures and Evictions
- Contracts
- Workers Compensation
- Garnishments (Child Support and Tribal Debts)
- Child Support (i.e. Paternity and Custody)
- Probate (inheritance)
- Tribal Elections
- Oneida Constitutional Issues
- Disputes between tribal entities
- Disputes between individuals

The Oneida Tribal Judicial System performs Marriages and Peacemaking. Guardian Ad Litem training is provided on an annual basis, and various judicial training to other original hearing bodies and other interested parties. If you would like the Judiciary to provide an informational session, contact our Administrator, Raeann Skenandore at 920-496-5352 or rskenan2@oneidanation.org

Giving Tree brightens Christmas for Oneida families

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

By this time of the holiday season you may be sick of hearing that Salvation Army bell ringing at your local retail chain or those classic Christmas jingles in all of their unwavering cheeriness. But one aspect of the season that never gets old is people helping people.

Michelle Rutues, Intake Worker for Oneida Child Support Services, has been the caretaker of the Oneida Giving Tree. This event allows community members to unanimously choose a child's name off of the "giving tree" and purchase a Christmas present for the chosen child.

"I've been coordinating this for 15 years. It originally started as a program or a service for Indian Child Welfare families. After a few years they wanted to shut the program down, but I said I would like to oversee it and keep it going. From then it sort expanded from there to include a majority of the families in Social Services that can be Domestic Violence, Center for Self Sufficiency, Head Start, and Child Support Agency. These programs can refer families to the program," Rutues said.

In recent years participants are not required to be a client of Social Services to be on the giving tree.

"I have parents on the list that don't receive services or don't require services but they still need help. They may be single parents or parents that just don't make a great deal of money. Just because they don't get assistance doesn't mean they don't need help. We do the best we can to get them some help at Christmas," said Rutues.

For many of the 15 years Rutues coordinated the Giving Tree the number of participants hovered around the 400 mark. Then the nation went into a financial recession. The economic downfall has caused the number of participants to nearly double in number over the past few years, putting a strain on the program.

This year Rutues has to secure gifts for over 750 children, the highest number she has ever seen.

"It is getting more difficult. As of last Wednesday I had 346 names that did not get picked," Rutues said.

But this is where Oneida Tribal entities lend a helping hand to ensure the remaining names are able to open a gift on Christmas. Tribal departments or businesses will do fundraising or share a child to shop for.

"That is where the Bingo Hall comes in, this year they really saved me. They do an amazing toy drive that covers the younger children from around three to nine. The Radisson always does an amazing job helping out. They buy things for teenagers because that's a struggle area. This year they did fundraising and donated $1300 dollars to the tree. So that covered most of the 70 teenagers I had left. Early Child Intervention donated 200 books and 200 stuffed animals," Rutues added.

The bulk of the gifts come from generous community members who select a child's name off the tree provide a gift every year.

Once all the work is done over 200 families will come to pickup presents for their children.

Next year the Giving Tree program will undergo some changes concerning the application process and deadline dates. The sooner names are received the sooner they can be placed on the tree to picked. Eligibility will also be considered for revision to ensure that those who have the greatest need get that help.

"It's a lot of work, but it's worth it. The families are so grateful for the help they receive. We get parents who just cry when they see they gifts and that makes it all worth it, it never gets old. That's what the season is all about," Rutues beamed.

Conservation takes aggressive approach to pheasant restock

By Shad Webster
Natural Resources Director

The Oneida Conservation Department has been searching for ways to "Invite Our People Back to the Land" and one activity that promotes land use, is the sport of pheasant hunting.

This year the department took an aggressive approach to continue the efforts of the pheasant stocking plan. The plan plan calls for the release of over 1000 pheasants during the 2012-13 hunting season. In the plan, the department staff determined suitable release locations throughout the reservation that: provide quality habitat for shelter and cover, provide a viable food source for the pheasants, and serve as prime areas for harvest opportunity for Oneida Sportsmen. The release locations also have to have a large surrounding of tribal land base to help ensure that Oneida Sportsmen would have prime chances to harvest a rooster.

In the implementation of the plan, the department secured a vendor with a high quality and extremely hearty pheasants for the overall cost. The first phase of the stocking plan called for the release of 400 pheasants at three different sites in November. The released pheasants consisted of a straight run of roosters.

As the season progressed and the pheasants are hunted, additional releases have been conducted to allow for continued harvest and observation opportunities. In phase II, the department planned for an additional release of another 500 birds in December. This release contained a mixed run of half roosters and half hens. The pheasants have been released at adjoining properties to the previous release sites or again at the original sites. The intent of the mixed run release is to provide continued harvest/observation opportunities for sportsmen, as well as help promote possible brood hatches in the spring. Another release is planned for the month of January to allow for continued harvest opportunities throughout the remainder of the season, which closes on February 28, 2013.

The final phase of the stocking plan will be conducted after the close of the season in March. This phase of the stocking plan, the department will release primarily hens in order to promote natural breeding and nesting activity on the reservation. The overall goal is to assist in establishing a native population of pheasants for the Oneida Sportsmen to harvest, as well as observation opportunities by the membership.

If you have any questions/concerns regarding the stocking program, please contact the Oneida Conservation Department office at (920) 869-1450.

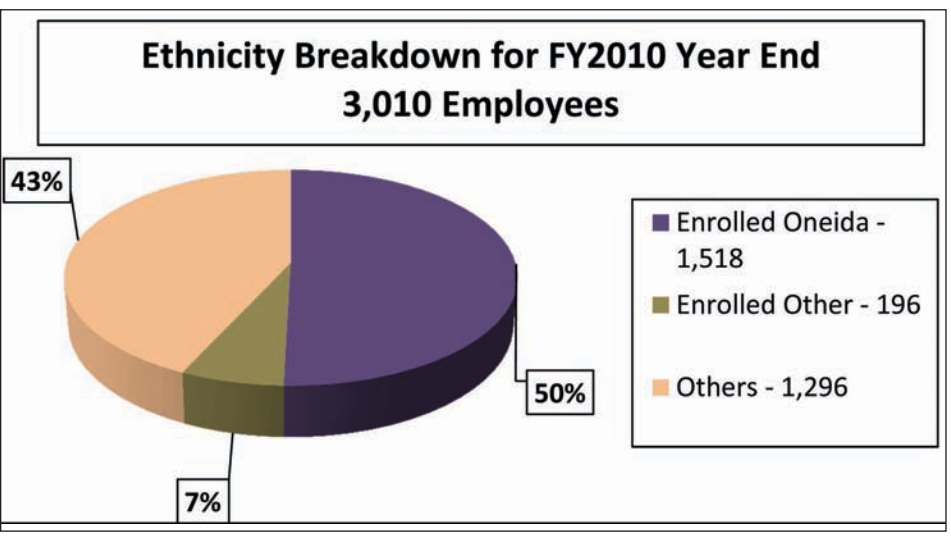
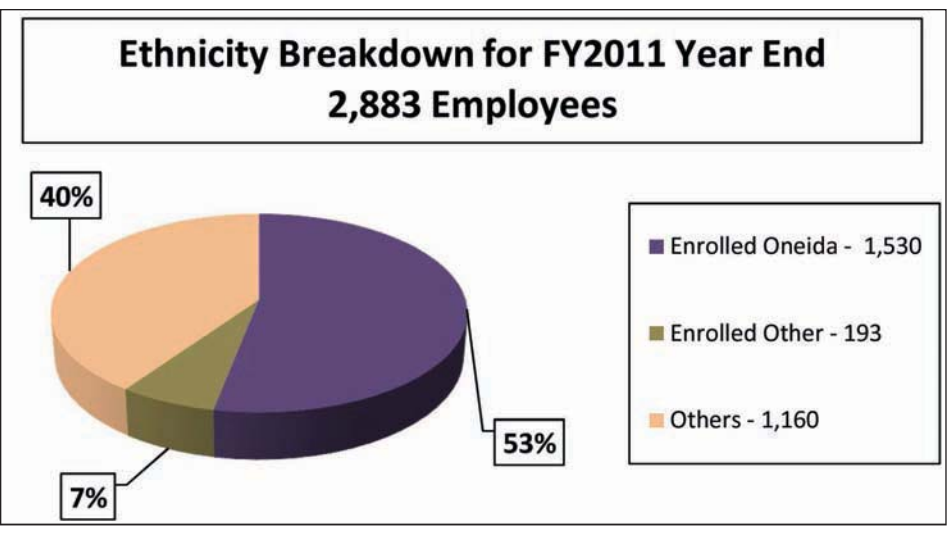
Hiring of Oneida Tribal Member Levels Continue to Increase





The workforce levels of the Oneida Tribe have increased the number of Enrolled Oneida Tribal Members who work for the Tribe by 5% in the past two (2) years. This is due to the emergency rule resolution on Oneida and Indian Preference by the Oneida Business Committee in 2010 and approval by General Tribal Council in the Personnel Policies and Procedures Section III on permanent changes to Oneida and Indian Preference in May of 2011.

The workforce levels have decreased the number of employees by 135 over the past two (2) years. The Human Resources Department continues to post the first job posting of all positions with the requirement of "Must be an enrolled member of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin," unless the position is grant funded and the stipulations of the grant prohibit posting with this requirement.

Listed are the ethnicity reports for FY2010 through FY2012 (October – September). Note: The Oneida Tribe's fiscal year starts in October of each year.

The Human Resource Department is working in collaboration with the Community Education Center to offer programs to community members interested in gaining the skills and knowledge for positions within the Oneida Tribe. These programs can assist the applicant in improving their remedial math skills, gaining knowledge of the screening and hiring process (interview skills training) and also the Job Readiness Program. If you are interested in learning about trainings, please contact Victrietta Hensley, Workforce Development Coordinator at 920-496-7900 ext. 3637.

A future training which is being worked on for 2013 is the Work Certified Program. Information on this training will be communicated in future Kalihwisaks issues.

Oneida Tribe Forges Charter with NWTC

The purpose of a relationship between the Northeast Wisconsin Technical College and the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin is to develop and maintain a strategic collaboration that strengthens tribal nation building; inspires tribal members to successfully complete post-secondary technical education credentials; and, through the provision of robust technical education, transform and sustain the economic and social vitality of the nation and its members.

The Oneida community's increased satisfaction with NWTC fosters an enhanced quality of life for the Oneida community. It is hoped Oneida Tribal members shall perceive NWTC as an employer of choice and enjoy the same opportunity for employment as all other qualified candidates. In return, NWTC will experience increased employment/placement of tribal members.

A mutually agreed upon set of metrics will be used to annually evaluate the extent to which the predicted results are achieved. At minimum, three formal meetings will be held each year with on-going dialogue toward mutually beneficial education opportunities. Recommendations and actions must remain cognizant of the fiscal and human capital resources of each with team leadership rotating annually between the two partnering organizations.

Job training programs

Meet Rudy

By Rudy Reiter
Job Training Specialist

Greetings! My name is Rudolph (Rudy) Reiter, and I work for the Oneida Job Training Programs on the staff of the WIA Program. We are located in the Oneida Nation Job Center in the Social Services building. I have a Bachelor's Degree in Community Services with an emphasis in Education. My job title is Job Training Specialist. While the job center was established to serve the employment needs of our program consumers, the general public is welcome, and encouraged, to come and utilize the job center services. The Job Center has been in operation for 15 years and is equipped with four computer kiosks for our customers to utilize in their Job Search. The Oneida Job Center resource room has moved to an area near the Center for Self-Sufficiency reception area to make access easier for job seekers and our consumers.

Our mission, as the Oneida Job Training Programs, is to do all manner of things necessary to deliver employment outcome directed services to eligible Native Americans living in the Oneida Nation service area, thus empowering them to become, to the maximum extent possible, independent, self-supporting members of the community.

At the Oneida Job Center we offer the following services: assistance with creating a job resume', creating cover letters, creating a viable e-mail account, and thank you letters. We will also assist with preparing for an Interview, show you how to use networking to your benefit, assist with online job applications and how to use the computer to facilitate job searches. We can also help persons who are unemployed with registering for unemployment with the Wisconsin Job Service. We also help with using various job webs such as: Job Center of Wisconsin, Indeed.com, Monster, Fox 11 Job finder, and the Oneida Employment home page, etc.

The Oneida Job Center also receives referrals from other programs throughout the reservation, and walk-ins are always welcome. The Oneida Job Center is dedicated to the development and maintenance of a long-term relationship with our customers. We consistently strive to provide our consumers with superior services and quality employment enhancements to assist them in gaining full-time, permanent employment.

Meet Mallory

By Mallory Patton
Job Training Programs
Administrative Assistant

Hello! My name is Mallory Patton and I am the Administrative Assistant for the Oneida Nation Job Training Programs. I am a recent addition to the Job Training department; "the new kid on the block" as it were, and do enjoy the duties I perform and especially the team of individuals I work with. This past year I received my Bachelors in Applied Studies with an emphasis in Human Development from the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and before this, I was awarded an Associate's Degree from NWTC in Business Management. While both degrees can be viewed as being vastly different in nature, both have nicely complimented the work I do exceptionally well.

So, you might ask, what is it that I do for the Job Training Programs? In simple terms, I perform a variety of administrative support duties for the two departments that are under the Job Training Programs: the Oneida Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) Project and the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) Project. No day is ever the same as the day before. I enjoy that kind of variation, because not only does it keep the work interesting, it also enables me to utilize creative and critical thinking skills, should an issue arise. In other words, should I encounter a problem, I prefer to have my thinking cap up and ready and on! The work that I do can be fast-paced, very rewarding, and at the same time very enjoyable.

Waewaenen…Yaw^ko…Thank You!

The spirit of giving is more prominent during the Christmas season. It's when hardships arise for people, on any given level, that friends and family ban together to make a difference. Unbeknownst to me, it is in that spirit of giving this season, which I found myself on the receiving end.

There's this core group of co-workers that I'm truly blessed and honored to be able to also call my friends. They conspired and succeeded in their quest to have an Indian taco sale on December 19th (I didn't have a clue as I was out of the area taking care of personal affairs) to raise funds for me to offset the cost of airfare so I can travel to Wyoming by my younger brother, Gordy, who just completed chemo and radiation treatments last Friday (December 2st).

Since learning of his health issues, my brother Dale and I have both expressed the desire to be by our little brother for support, love and to help him in any way we possibly could. So, it began with our children and my sister in law Glenda. Our families surprised us both during the Thanksgiving holiday with an early Christmas gift, as they all contributed monetarily so we could make plans to spend time with our brother.

We are patiently waiting to find out the outcome of post-treatment test results to gauge when we would be able to make the trip to Wyoming by him during his time of need. He is currently in recovery mode and is due for another scan in late January to determine if surgery is inevitable. If that is the case, we plan to be by his side – before, during and after his surgery to support him.

I'm so very humbled by your generosity and deeply appreciative to have a circle of friends who would give so selflessly of their time and money, and, to have such strong support and love from our families.

I didn't have all the details of who all was involved with the taco sale in my initial posting on facebook last week, so I want to acknowledge everyone's role at this time.

Thank you to the following: Staff in the Grants, Tourism and Kalihwisaks Departments; the organizers, Cheryl Stevens, Marsha Danforth, and Doreen Perrote. Both Cheryl and Marsha made the meat and beans; Doreen (secret Cornelius fry bread recipe) and Marsha cooked the bread; Schuyler Doxtator donated 8 bags of flour; John Breuninger donated the plates, napkins, to go containers, forks, and knives; Priscilla Dessart, Sayokla Kindness-Williams, and Dawn Walschinski also helped in the kitchen and put orders together; Rich Figueroa, Scott Elm were on delivery patrol; Kirby Metoxen and Rich were also a part of the clean up crew; Mike Metoxen, Michelle Danforth, Laura Cornelius also contributed monetarily to the sale along with the aforementioned individuals. And, last but certainly not least, the Oneida community for supporting a cause that benefits others in their time of need.

Thank You ALL from the bottom of my heart ♥ and blessings for excellent heath and prosperity in the coming New Year!

Oneida Museum looking for display items

The Oneida Nation Museum needs your help!

The Oneida Nation Museum would like to display corn husk items made by Enrolled Oneida members for a new exhibit in 2013. We are creating an exhibit about corn husk items, with the main focus on the conservation work done on a life-size figure made out of braided corn husk. We will be supplementing the exhibit with a wide variety of objects made from corn husks.

We are also creating an exhibit that explores the various modes of transportation used by the Haudenosaunee (Iroquois). We will be focusing on runners, the use of snowshoes, draught animals such as horses and oxen, and more recent advances. We are looking for objects that we can use for interpretation. Examples are saddles, crops, oxen yokes, wooden snowshoes, photographs, stories, wagon wheels, etc. Our space is subject to size limitations; therefore, please contact me if you have a larger item.

All lent items will be needed from late January 2013 – January 2014. Items will be kept in secure cases and credited to the lender.

For more information, please contact the museum Assistant Director, Sara Summers-Luedtke, at (920) 869-6531 or ssumme2@oneidanation.org by January 18, 2013. Yaw^ko (Thank you).

Financial Resolutions for the New Year

January is right around the corner, which means many people are making their New Year's resolutions now. Losing weight and quitting smoking are the two most popular resolutions, but many consumers also set financial goals this time of year. Here are a few tips to help you make a financial resolution that you can actually keep!

Get organized

To set a realistic financial goal, you need to have your finances in order (this might even be a mini-goal within your overall resolution). Organize all financial documents by year, including bank statements, tax returns, insurance papers, receipts and loan agreements, and then store them in a safe place. Be sure to keep tax records and supporting documentation for seven years in case you're ever audited.

Assess your situation

Now that you have the documentation you need to see an accurate picture of your current financial situation, determine the amount of debt you carry. As you're adding it up, look at credit cards, student loans, car payments, your mortgage and any other recurring debt payments. Check the interest rates. Consolidate loans or switch to a different credit card if you can get a better rate. Always focus on paying down the debt with the highest interest rate first.

Examine your spending

Take a long look at your spending habits. Keep a "spending diary" for a month or two to show you exactly where your money goes. Keep track of cash, check and credit purchases. Decide which purchases you can eliminate without making a drastic lifestyle change. You're more likely to stick to your resolution if it doesn't require a major overhaul of your life. For example, you can stick to a resolution that requires you to make a bag lunch everyday more easily than one which would require you to get rid of cable and your cell phone plan.

Be specific

Now it's time to make your resolution. Make sure this goal is both realistic and specific. You've done the work of organizing and analyzing your finances, so you know how much you can afford to realistically put away each month towards your goal. Rather than say you're going to "save money" this year, choose a specific dollar amount to save. You may even want to open a separate account at the bank to put the money in automatically each month.

Finally, stay committed. Even saving $25 a month will net you $300 at the end of the year. Good luck!

Oneida Housing Authority

A Current Tenant's Story

Oneida Housing Authority's (OHA) rental and homebuyers programs are financed by the Federal government, under Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act (NAHASDA). Both programs are to help meet the needs of low income households.

The Housing Authority plans to spotlight a family from time to time, tell their story, and how this program has benefited them. Our story is about Jeanne and Wayne Mc Reynolds.

Jeanne and Wayne are sister and brother and were born and raised in California. Both no longer were able to work. Jeanne called and spoke to somebody in Oneida in 2005 and explained their situation. She was told that there was plenty of housing here and to just come out. They arrived on the Greyhound Bus with two suitcases and a wheelchair, only to find out that there was no available housing. They were directed to New Community Shelter.

They had no income or other resources. Initially, they were ineligible for housing because they had no income. Elder Services assisted Jeanne in applying for Social Security, as she was of retirement age. The Housing Coordinator assisted in getting them signed up for housing in a reasonable short period.

In 2005, our Waitlist was much shorter so they were able to get into an Elder unit at Three Sisters after only 4 months. Various programs were able to assist them with household furniture and other necessities to put their household together. They lived there for approximately three years and then transferred to a unit in Site I.

Jeanne stated that she really appreciated having this housing available, as it has given them a safe and quiet place to live. She appreciates, "not being bothered by the office," as she only has to come in once a year to renew her lease. She appreciates being able to call somebody to take care of the minor repairs and enjoys her neighbors. They rely on Oneida Transit for transportation to medical appointments and for shopping.

Our Wait List is now at least a year, so we definitely do not recommend moving to Oneida without a plan. You can apply for housing from where you live as long as you have income that transfer with you. The agencies that assisted this family at the time were, OHA, Center for Self Sufficiency, Elder Services, NEW Community Shelter and the United Amerindian Center. Jeanne appreciates how all the agencies cooperated with each other to help her and her brother solve their housing issue.

For More Information about Housing, please contact David Webster at 920-869-2227.

OTIE Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises

Internship program

This article is the second in a series to inform the Oneida community about Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises, LLC, an engineering, science and construction management firm owned by the Oneida Tribe.

By Francine Skenandore
Assistant to OTIE President

This is the second article in a series about Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE), an engineering, science and construction services company owned by the Oneida Tribe that serves governmental and commercial customers nationwide. A key factor in OTIE's success is the dedication of professional engineers, scientists and other professional supporting staff who are committed to customer-focused project delivery.

The technical expertise and highly functional structure of OTIE is the key to the company's long term success in the tough engineering industry. OTIE maintains a competitive advantage with our staff of highly qualified professionals who can successfully face challenges and lead OTIE on a path of steady growth. Over 20 years of exceptional performance has earned OTIE an outstanding reputation with our customers. We will continue this successful pace by adding more qualified professionals.

As a company owned by the Oneida Tribe, OTIE is committed to providing employment opportunities by making it an ongoing priority to recruit, train and retain qualified Oneida members. One of these methods is the OTIE Internship Program that provides the opportunity for qualified Oneida tribal members to learn about engineering, science, construction services, information technology and marketing/proposals at the OTIE engineering firm.

The OTIE Internship Program is designed to recruit and train Oneida member college students enrolled in engineering, science, construction management degree programs, or any other related or supporting fields such as IT computer support and marketing/proposal support. For these Oneida college students, the OTIE Internship Program can help prepare them for a career as an engineer, scientist, construction technical staff, IT computer staff, or marketing/proposal staff.

The Oneida Internship Program is also designed to provide the same opportunity for those Oneida members who are not in college but possess the basic qualifications, and have a strong interest in OTIE's work and would like to learn more about the engineering, science, construction management, information technology and marketing/proposal areas.

Currently OTIE has the following Internship Program positions available for Oneida members to apply for in the following categories:

1) Professional Engineer or Scientist – This internship position allows students to apply their classroom knowledge in the field and gain real-world knowledge alongside experienced OTIE engineers and scientists on current projects at various locations. It also allows the college student to learn important teamwork skills that are the key to successful project performance.

2) Construction Technical Staff – This internship position allows college students in the construction management or related program to apply their classroom knowledge in the field and gain real experience when they work side by side with OTIE staff.

3) IT Support – This internship position will allow students to apply IT knowledge learned from the classroom to gain the real-work experience by working with OTIE's IT staff.

4) Marketing/ Proposal Support – Any college students who are interested in and possess strong writing skills, especially technical writing, will have the opportunity to work with OTIE's marketing/proposal team to gain real marketing and proposal writing experience.

The overall goal of the OTIE Internship Program is to help develop Oneida professional engineers, scientists and any other related field for a career in a competitive industry that is challenging and rewarding, and to consider their professional career with OTIE as the company continues to grow. Please look for OTIE internship opportunities in the Kalihwisaks and the Oneida Higher Education Newsletter.

OTIE Internship Programs are available on a full-time or part-time basis, for a period of six (6) months with the possibility for an extension. All internships are paid, are offered year-round, and include the possibility of occasional travel to various work sites as part of the intern experience.

If you or someone you know is interested in pursuing an internship opportunity with OTIE and would like more information about the internship program and what internships are available, please contact Francine Skenandore at fskenandore@otie.com or by telephone at 414-607-6746.

Please Clear Snow and Ice

Keep Letter Carriers safe as they deliver mail for the holidays

ONEIDA, WI — With major snowstorms expected to blanket the region, one seasonal tool is expected to make its return at homes and businesses – the shovel.

To help letter carriers deliver mail, the Postal Service is asking customers to clear snow and ice from sidewalks, stairs and mailboxes.

"Snow and ice make delivery dangerous and slow," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "Maintaining a clear path to the mail box – including steps, porches, walkways and street approach – will help letter carriers maintain consistent delivery service and help them get those letters and packages delivered."

Customers receiving door delivery should make sure their sidewalks, steps and porches are clear. Customers receiving curbside delivery should remove snow piles left by snow plows to keep access to their mailboxes clear for letter carriers.

Delivery service may be delayed or curtailed whenever streets or walkways are hazardous.

Let Go of the Low Carb Lifestyle

By Brianna Wolfe
UWGB Dietetic Intern

Myths surrounding carbohydrates foods, like bread and pasta, are all too common: they make us fat, they cause diabetes, and can make children hyper. For these reasons, low-carb lifestyle advocates state that a drastic reduction in carbohydrate intake is the secret to weight loss and better overall health. The truth is that carbohydrates are the body's preferred source of fuel, and that each person needs them for energy.

Also, eating the rights kinds of carbohydrates can actually help with weight maintenance and weight loss. Complex carbohydrates, like those found in whole grains, are healthy carbohydrate sources because they are digested and absorbed slowly, due to their fiber content. Simple carbohydrate foods include candy and juice, and are digested and absorbed quickly by the body, and are generally less healthy than complex carbohydrates.

Why we need them

During digestion, carbohydrates are converted to glucose in the body. Each cell, tissue, and organ in the body prefers to use glucose as fuel to carry out their necessary functions each day. In addition, glucose is virtually the only fuel source used by the brain. The brain does not have stored energy like the rest of the body so it needs a continuous supply of glucose. This explains why not eating enough carbohydrate can leave one feeling mentally and physically sluggish.

The good carbs

Despite the rumors, carbohydrates can be healthy foods if you choose complex carbohydrate sources like vegetables, whole fruits, legumes, and whole grains. Most people do not eat enough of these healthy carbohydrate sources. In fact, only 11% of the grains consumed by Americans are whole grains.

Whole grains are ones which contain all the original parts of the grain kernel, which means that they retain all the naturally-occurring nutrients of the grain as well. Whole grains include brown rice, whole wheat pasta, whole grain bread, and products made with whole wheat flour. These foods are high in B vitamins, minerals, and fiber. Fiber is one of the ways in which whole grains promote a healthy weight because it slows digestion, increasing feelings of fullness after eating. Even though dairy products do not contain fiber, low-fat milk and yogurt are also acceptable sources of carbohydrate in your diet.

The not-so-good carbs

Simple carbohydrates are found in refined grains and products containing refined flour, such as white flour. When grains are refined, important parts of the grain kernel are stripped away, which removes nutrients and fiber as well. For this reason, refined grain products are nutritionally inferior to whole grains. Refined grains include white rice, regular pasta, white bread, and flour tortillas.

High amounts of carbohydrates are also found in sugar-containing foods and snacks food containing white flour, such as baked goods, candy, potato chips, and regular soda. Foods like these are part of the reason that carbohydrates get a bad rap. Since these foods are typically high in calories, it is best to limit them to maintain a healthy weight.

Healthy carb consumption tips:

- Start the day right: Have some oatmeal (a whole grain) with apples and cinnamon for a fiber-filled breakfast
- Make a simple swap: Switch out a refined grain product, like white bread or white rice, for a whole grain one, like wheat bread, brown rice or quinoa, a whole grain pronounced "KEEN-wah"
- Serve a whole grain snack: Try whole wheat crackers, whole grain cereal, or popcorn (it's a whole grain!)
- Make an easy addition: Pump up the nutrition of soups and casseroles by adding more veggies, barley, brown rice, or whole wheat pasta
- Be a smart shopper: Check food package labels for fiber content; a good source of fiber has 3 to 5 grams per serving
- Be a brave baker: To start, substitute half the white flour called for in the recipe for a healthier flour like whole wheat, rye, or barley flour for new flavor and better nutrition in baked goods

Youth get to Shop with a Cop

A dozen Oneida community children got to go shopping with area law enforcement officers as part of the Shop With a Cop event. DARE Officer Jack Mahojah has participated in organizing the event for the 12 years.

"It's just a fun thing, just watching the kids, the smiles on their faces," said Mahojah.

The children in second to fifth grade are selected due to economic need and good behavior in school. The little ones are paired with a police officer and treated to breakfast at McDonalds. The officers then take the youths to Shopko to buy gifts for the people in their households.

The boy shopping with Mahojah easily picked out gifts for his siblings, but hesitated in getting a gift for his father.

"'My dad, he just worries about us, he just makes sure we have everything, and he doesn't want anything.' And I said 'This is the time for you, you're able to buy your dad something,'" Mahojah related. The young boy agreed and bought his father two shirts.

Help Your Child Succeed in School: Build the Habit of Good Attendance Early

School success goes hand in hand with good attendance!

DID YOU KNOW?

- Starting in kindergarten, too many absences can cause children to fall behind in school.
- Missing 10 percent (or about 18 days) can make it harder to learn to read.
- Students can still fall behind if they miss just a day or two days every few weeks.
- Being late to school may lead to poor attendance.
- Absences can affect the whole classroom if the teacher has to slow down learning to help children catch up.

Attending school regularly helps children feel better about school—and themselves. Start building this habit in preschool so they learn right away that going to school on time, every day is important. Good attendance will help children do well in high school, college, and at work.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

- Set a regular bed time and morning routine.
- Lay out clothes and pack backpacks the night before.
- Find out what day school starts and make sure your child has the required shots.
- Introduce your child to her teachers and classmates before school starts to help her transition.
- Don't let your child stay home unless she is truly sick. Keep in mind complaints of a stomach ache or headache can be a sign of anxiety and not a reason to stay home.
- If your child seems anxious about going to school, talk to teachers, school counselors, or other parents for advice on how to make her feel comfortable and excited about learning.
- Develop back-up plans for getting to school if something comes up. Call on a family member, a neighbor, or another parent.
- Avoid medical appointments and extended trips when school is in session.

When Do Absences Become a Problem?

CHRONIC ABSENCE
18 or more days

WARNING SIGNS
10 to 17 days

GOOD ATTENDANCE
9 or fewer absences

Note: These numbers assume a 180-day school year.
